However, almost a greater work has been done by the society in the collection of relics of historical events, natural history and geological specimens. These, and many collections loaned by citizens have been placed on exhibition in the museum in Inverlea Park. This museum is one of the points of interest visited every year by large numbers of tourists and it amply repays a visit. In the library there are many books and manuscripts of antiquarian interest, photographs of the city of Peterborough, when it was far from being a city, and collections of weapons showing the gradual development of the modern rifle. The room is set apart for the display of geological specimens and fossils discovered in the building of the Trent Valley Canal; another room is filled with natural history specimens, and another is the Florida room, which is filled with representatives of the fauna and flora of that southern state. Historical relics such as a Boer flag, weapons picked up on the field of Waterloo, the headlight of the first locomotive used in Ontario, and many other objects of interest are to be found in the halls. Some of our leading citizens who have lately visited the museums of other cities of about the size of Peterborough, state that one room in the museum in Inverlea Park contains more than most of the museums they visited. The Victoria Museum is open every afternoon during the summer months until Oct. 15th, and in winter the caretaker will open the doors for any who wish to visit it.

Though in maintaining the Victoria Museum the society has been doing a good work, its members consider that there is other work which it should do. Therefore a series of meetings has been arranged at which addresses will be given by prominent men and discussion will be invited. These meetings are not held for revenue as they are free to the members of the society and to the public. On February 11th it is expected that Mr. Barlow Cumberland of Toronto, president of the Ontario Historical Society, who has been so active in the agitation for the restoration of the Old Fort, will deliver an address on "The Attack on Fort York, April 27th, 1813."

The meetings are to be held in the Collegiate Institute and are arranged as follows:—

Feb 11—"Attack on Fort York, 1813"—Mr. Barlow Cumberland, Ph.D.

March 23—"The British House of Commons"—Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.A.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success I leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

...The... Plow Woman

on her removal he had dared to stop at her tent flap with a string of pike, Afraid-of-a-Fawn swooped down upon him, her long tushes clicking and frothing, snatched the wall eyes from his hold and belabored him with them. He had not gone back. But in secret he grieved over Brown Mink's suffering, and often he petitioned in her behalf and lifted his worshiping vine toward the Milky Way.

In his sorrow his shoulders were bent lower than ever, his oboe eyes were more dogiike, yet he still dreamed of reinstatement, for he saw, though he could not understand it, that the warriors were again counting on escape.

They were unkempt no longer, but were their hair neatly braided and well greased. They ate sparingly and only twice a day. They almost forswore water. And by covert exercise they trained away their flesh. Standing Buffalo and his haughty comrades did not waddle now under a weight of fat. As on the day of their capture, they were lank and stately.

Rejoicing in their hopes, he, too, had not been without preparation. A rusty knife found in a rubbish heap by the river had been polished by thrusting it repeatedly into the dirt. In spare moments he made himself a sinew backed bow and practiced many hours with it. He spent no time in the lean-to. His guard there had ceased. The necessity for food did not take him to the shack. His arrows brought down game, which he cooked. At any time with a sharp stick he could root up his fill of wild turnips. He knew where ripe berries loaded the bushes and where the plums reddened in the thickets. And how could he chance staying out of the stockade after midnight when any dawn might find his brothers free?

Thoughts of Brown Mink alone took his mind from his dream. He yearned to see her again, to mark how far disease had ravaged, to show her that, though all others were indifferent, he was not. And he had determined to tell her farewell, to tell her that he would win back his lost rank. For this he would even break his vow of silence.

The end that he might gain her side hinged upon two things—his reaching her wickiup unseen and the absence of the crone. These he hoped for now as he peered from his corner.

Despite the smudge he could see whatever went on in the stockade, for the sky was clear and the stars hung low. Before long his patience was rewarded by a gradual quieting about the grouped wigwams. As the smoke thinned for lack of fuel the mosquitoes drove the braves to their beds. The squaws dispersed to attend them. The children, tired with play, straggled after. The lengthening night brought a welcome coolness with it. So a sentry soon roared a command from the board walk. Then the only hostage that was left arose slowly, stretched himself and disappeared.

The dwindling pack were the last to tie down. Some wolves were challenging saucily from the coulee mouth. The dogs answered them in long drawn wails. Finally the wolves took off up the river, and the dogs scratched about to find a moist spot and settled down. There was silence now except when a cur, dreaming of the chase, yapped in his troubled sleep.

Squaw Charley crawled from under the roof and along the high wall, being careful to mark the whereabouts of the brave that was always on the watch. Above him paced the sentries, but these did not see him because he kept in the shadow. Foot by foot he went, making toward Brown Mink's tent.

At last he was so near to it that, reaching out his arm, he could touch the base of a supporting pole. He drew back then and squatted, his eyes on the entrance. Thus upward of an hour went by. The time passed quickly, for it was good to be near the beloved!

Crouched within the shelter of the skins was another who waited—the hag. She was looking down the stockade through a narrow slit. When she judged that the sentries were growing less vigilant she stood up. The subtest heard the crack of her old joints. A moment and she stepped out stealthily and scanned the rim of the pen. Against the sky the figure of each sentry was plainly outlined. None was near. Softly she padded for the lodge of Standing Buffalo.

The pariah leaped up now and took a swift step. But as his fingers closed upon the edge of the tent flap a whispered summons made him pause and glance around. There was a whispered reply, followed by steps as swift as his own. He sank, rolling himself into a ball. He was not a second too quick. Afraid-of-a-Fawn returned, with the chief at her heel.

Again the outcast waited, and jealously. Those within also waited, for a sentry was passing just above. Presently he was gone, and Charley leaned forward and put his ear against the tent, when he heard the scratch of a match.

It did not light, and there was a teasing laugh. The outcast sat up like a startled gopher, one hand to his breast, one out before him. Again a scratch. A tiny flame flickered. Too amazed for fear, Charley put his eye to the slit.

Both bands came up to drive back a cry. At the rear of the wickiup the skins were pulled aside to reveal the stockade wall. Of this two logs showed—hollowed out so completely at the base that they were mere shells!

Before these logs, all kneeling, were the hag, Standing Buffalo and Brown Mink. The chief held the match, the old woman a knife; the girl was empty handed. But she was not ill, not wasted, not dying! She was full figured. Her face was round. Her cheeks and lips were as bright as the dab of paint at the part in her hair, as crimson with health as a gorgeous cactus flower.

The match went out. Squaw Charley dropped back to the wall's shadow. His heart was pounding madly with a twofold joy. The hacked logs assured freedom for his brothers, for himself, fighting and rank. And she was still to be won!

"The work is ever," said a man's voice.

"And when comes the call of a dove?" asked a maid'a.

"Perhaps when the moon dies."

"Who can tell?" It was the growl of the crone. "The Double Tongue has run to hole like a fox."

Once more there was silence. A sentry as he neared was humming an unconscious warning. When he was gone again there was more talk. But it was low toned, and Charley could not hear. He did not wait longer. Slipping away a rod, he dropped on all fours.

When Standing Buffalo emerged and looked to see if he might safely return

A Good Proposition

The Maple Leaf Mines One of the Very Best

The Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., with a capital of $150,000 is offering treasury stock at par 10c. This would seem a most reasonable proposition, and compared to other flotations is most favorable to the investor. Compared to the Pan Silver which has 120 acres of no better lands, and a capital of $3,000,000, the Maple Leaf with 200 acres and only $150,000 capital, would appear to give the investor a splendid show for his money. The certainty of finding shipping ore is equal, but the profit results would be much greater in the Maple Leaf.

It is an accepted fact that companies with a low capitalization, provided of course that their proposition is a good one, always raise sufficient funds to develop their properties. This is so because the investor buys the stock readily, thus saving the company large expense in advertising, etc. Companies of very large capital find it difficult to sell off hand the amount of treasury stock necessary and the result is that not sufficient funds are raised to carry out the proposed development.

Syndicates who purchase claims to exploit, usually fail because of internal dissensions, or the inability to raise development monies after purchase price has been paid. A lessening of interest in mining for a time leaves the syndicate shareholders high and dry. There is also in syndicates usually a lack of knowledge of real mining and soon the members become tired of their deal and if they cannot sell their interest, why they charge it up to profit and loss. It would seem better for the investors who as a rule have no idea of mining, to select some one of the good development companies, for their venture and to trust to their practical work to make him a profit.

The Maple Leaf Mines Ltd., certainly have good lands and with the class of men heading it should make a decided success.

In another column of this paper appears the advertisement of the Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd. The company have 40 acres in the now famous Coleman district and quite close to the Temiskaming and Gifford Mines. They claim to have surface showings that are far superior to the usual indications, and the officers of the company feel that slight development will prove these claims to be of great value.

These claims will be tested by diamond drill, and it would seem that this means would prove up the property very cheaply and in no uncertain manner. It is a fact that there are several veins that show on the surface, that at some depth should prove very rich. At Gowganda they have 65 acres, and these are situated well within the rich area. Little work has been done on these claims, yet sufficient evidence has been found to prove them very rich, at least on the surface. Work will be started on these claims at once, to fulfil the requirements and it would not be surprising if some additional big finds would be made. Already on one claim they have an 8-inch vein of black muck showing silver and when a pit is sunk on this it is expected that very high grade ore will be found.

This company will have the benefit of Mr. Chas. Gifford's experience in the Cobalt district, as he will in the interests of the shareholders, advise in all field work.

With the large and excellent acreage held by this company, its low capitalization should appeal to investors.

Cosgrave's Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer could wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

THE TIMES' FINANCIAL PAGE---OF INTEREST TO THE CANADIAN INVESTOR

Maple Leaf Mines, Limited

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided Into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia, Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice-Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont, Sec-Treas; Charles Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C. Ritchie. Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 868, containing 40 acres, situated about 80 obains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 15th December, 1906, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. LeVesconte, 20 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties, in consideration of 140,250 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 20,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $600; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 5000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 15th of December, 1906.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

United States Army withdrawn from Cuba

Havana, January 28,— On January 28th, at noon, the Cuban people will come into their own for the second time at the hands of the American Government. It was on May 20th, 1902, that the American flag, hoisted after the war with Spain, was hauled down in favor of the blue-striped single-starred ensign of Cuba. This republic, for which the Cubans vainly fought Spain so many years, lasted little more than the period between presidential elections in the United States. In September, 1906, a company of marines landed and halted a victorious army on the outskirts of Havana, and American intervention was once more a reality, this time to set things aright among the Cubans themselves.

In the Cuban Congress it had become impossible to secure the attendance of a quorum, which necessitated government by presidential decree, and this was quickly followed by the cry that President Palma was usurping the power.

With the Amatuer Boxers

New York, Jan. 9. — Immediately before the recent Johnson-Burns contest in Australia, the question of the former's gameness was dwelt upon at great length by a number of the scribes in making their forecasts as to the probable outcome of the battle. Some predicted defeat for Johnson and based their convictions on the belief that he would not stand the gaff if it were sunk in deep enough. There were no good grounds on which to base this opinion. During a career of almost ten busy years in the ring, he has never been known to hoist the milk-white flag, and it does not look as though a a man would quit in that time, if it were his natural inclination to do so. That dogma of cynicism so popular with ye olden time storekeeper that it is a good policy to believe every man dishonest until he proves himself otherwise is just about as kindly and logical as would be the tenet that every fighter is a quitter until he has proven himself game. The person who makes the prognostication or bets that any high-class fighter of to-day will be defeated because he isn't game makes a sad mistake. It isn't once in a hundred times that a boxer of the top-flight will "stop" in a battle until forced to do so. This statement doesn't go, in so far as the obscure boxer or the novice is concerned, but for the man who is battling for a championship. We cannot recall, off-hand, a single instance where a champion boxer was a "quitter". Shades of John L. Sullivan, Jack Dempsey, Terry McGovern, George Lavigne, Jim Jeffries, George Dixon, Pack McAuliffe, Battling Nelson, Stanley Ketchell, Bob Fitzsimmons, perish the thought.

When a man is champion or even fights for the title, it is a hundred to one bet that he is "game"; if not morally, he surely is physically. If he weren't he wouldn't go up so high on the pugilistic ladder. He would be found out long before he had attained such a degree of prominence. This statement is made with the full realization that there are exceptions to most rules. Once in a great while a capable fighter may show a streak of orange, but, just to satisfy yourself, try to pick out the really able boxers—champions or near-champions, who have "quit", to use the ring term, for cowardice. In the first place it takes a pretty game man to take up the ring as a profession. If he imagines it is a path of roses, he will find out his error long before he has graduated from the amateur ranks. Fooling around the gymnasium, boxing with all who come along, will show him that he is sure to receive some pretty hard knocks every time he puts on the gloves with a fairly capable man. He now is learning to box. When he is able to handle himself a bit, he joins out with some registered club. Next he takes part in a tournament or some kind of a competition with the amateurs. It is nothing unusual for a boy to fight three or four times in one night in his mad desire to capture a medal. And how they do fight. No flirting or stalling, but the real, old McCoy. A black eye or a swollen nose is an ornament—not a mark of disgrace. He is happy when he can say to his chumsmates: "I know I got my maulings all righto, but, you should see the other fellow," and then he proudly shows his medal, which may have cost as much as eleven dollars. Some have been known to cost that much. He is satisfied. The club feels exalted. His father will say: "I don't want Steve to box, but gee, he did trim up those other boys." And so Steve gets his first flash of the noise, the glamor, the adulation so dear to the heart of the winner. He has the fight bug, proper.

Finally the amateur turns pro. He does it on the quiet because his "Governor" might object. It isn't that he needs the money so much, because he can get all he needs from his father. But from his love for the sport and the excitement that goes with it. The best he now can get is a preliminary bout and this he wins, receiving, perhaps, as much as ten or twenty dollars. It might be remembered that Bob Fitzsimmons, after cleaning up half a dozen men in Jem Mace's tournament at Timaru, New Zealand, back in '88, received a princely gift in the form of a picture. It was a photo of Mace. History does not tell us whether or not the donor's name was inscribed on the back, but it is presumed that it was and it may have read: "Presented to Bobby Fitzsimmons, a good boy and some boxer, from his patriarchal and benevolent friend, J. Mace." But that didn't keep the grizzled old warrior from developing into a pretty fair sort of scrapper and going through the ranks of the middle and heavy-weights like pilsner through a faucet.

After winning a dozen or so curtain-raisers, preliminaries, and semi windups, the ex-amateur begins to attract a lot of attention and some wise manager takes him under his wing. He boosts him along, he gets him imported matches and in a year or two has him up near the top of the heap. He is no longer a wanter. He has outgrown that, skipped the middle divisions and now is a full-fledged heavyweight of considerable prominence, with a bright future, plenty of science and a fairly good punch. He has had his troubles in getting there, though. It wasn't like taking a chop from a sick spaniel. He received many a nasty wallop en route; put in many a hard day in the gym. and tedious hours on the road; suffered for want of water when he was baked and cooked-out trying to make weight and oftentimes was short of money not only for forfeits, but for actual living expenses. It looked easy enough for him now because his name was made; the papers were filled with his pictures and accounts of his exploits and the matchmakers wanted him. Then he is matched to fight for the championship; the eyes of the entire sporting world are focussed on him; his friends and relatives have become reconciled; his admirers have bet on him to win, and the championship is within his grasp. Ask yourself the question, Is it likely that he will "quit" under these conditions, when one more successful battle will land him on the ground for which he has been striving with all his strength and might? Not so one would notice it. He will battle so long as he has a leg to stand on. Something will keep him there—pride, vanity, self-respect or perhaps, the humility and disgrace that he knows are sure to be heaped upon the shoulders of the shrinking, cringing coward. No, gentle reader, it is pretty safe to prophesy and a good thing to wager on, that once a man works his way to the top over a long, rough road, he is game until it is absolutely proven to the contrary.

It mightn't be such a bad idea to keep tabs on this little Welshman, Jem Driscall, who is now in this country. We saw him box Matty Baldwin and he is there a thousand ways. He is fast as lubricated lightning, tricky as a lemur and knows the fighting game backwards. He has been boxing in this country about eight weeks, his first appearance being on Nov. 13, and in that time he has fought and won five bouts, two with Baldwin, two with Grover Hayes, and one with Charlie Griffin. He is not a youngster by any means, having turned twenty-eight, and he is in his prime right now. If there is any boy around of his weight, 126 pounds, who can beat him, he is keeping in the background with a vengeance. The best around here was Baldwin and he couldn't check the little foreigner's winning streak. Looks like the only boy who classes with him is Abe Attell. It may be that they will get together, but the weight question will have to be settled first. Attell is a legitimate featherweight, as feathers go in this country—122 pounds. Driscoll fights under the English scale, nine stone, or 126 pounds. He couldn't make 122, and be at his best, and his manager, Jimmy Johnson, says it will have to be at 126 or nothing. Just a prediction—if ever they clash at that figure, Attell will have his hands full, both of them. Johnson dropped in the other day and talked for publication. "Kindly say for me," quoth James, "that Driscoll is ready to box Attell, but, on certain terms only, 126 pounds, ringside if necessary. I know Attell is a wonderful boxer, and I am not underrating him. Driscoll can not do twenty-two and be strong, and he would have to be at his best to cope with Attell. Jem has won the South African and Australian featherweight titles. In England he defeated Johnny Summers and Joey Bowker. In this country he bested the fastest boys they could trot out. He has never been whipped. With Attell, the only stumbling block may be the weight. I will not deviate—126 or nothing.—That is final. The other questions would be easy. We will bet as much as $5,000, if it is demanded. Any city, any club where the inducements are right. Jim Jeffries, Jack Sheehan, Tim Hurst, Billy Roche, Jack Welsh, Jack McGuiggan or any other reliable referee will suit. If Abe will agree to the weight, the match is made so far as we are concerned. It is up to him." Talk about your fights—that would be some battle.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys surely point to weak kidney nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guard and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a nerve-tone specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone is foolish. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Brights or other disorders, or if you have not yet diseases, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month. See what it will do. Send for what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell it.

"The Crown a Mere Figurehead"

It is a common matter for Canadians to claim, in conversation with their friends in the United States, that the British system of Government is more responsive to the popular will than that which obtains under the constitution of the Republic; but it is not often that a leading United States newspaper makes the same admission. That has been the case, however, with the Detroit News, which, animated possibly by the recent illustrations of Presidential petulence given by Mr. Roosevelt, argues that the time is rapidly coming to the Republic when the people will have to appreciate "the superiority of the parliamentary to the presidential system." The News says:—

"In Great Britain no constitutional or even legislative change was needed to bring about this change from the absolutism of the Tudors to the present system under which the Crown is a mere figurehead; and the ministry are momentarily subject to the will of the Commons. The Parliament simply refused to give the Government any money until the latter became responsible to it. It was not all done in a day, but little by little the demands of Parliament were enforced upon the Crown by a refusal of supplies until the whole revolution was effected. In France the constitution expressly provides for responsibility of the ministers to the Chamber. In Germany the ministers are, through the Chancellor, responsible to the Sovereign, but recent events show how this is in the way of being completely reversed by making the Chancellor responsible to the Reichstag. Had the latter refused the explanations of Prince Buelow, he would have resigned, and he would have also resigned had not the Emperor accepted and approved those explanations and complied with the Chancellor's conditions. The Reichstag will never recede from the point it gained in this instance, and will and point after point until the Hohenzollern house in Germany will do as the Hanoverian house did in England—concede the substantial choice of ministers and the control of their policy to the Parliament. That is all that responsible government means.

"In the United States the change could come about in the same ways or even without such a struggle between the Executive and the Legislature. If we should some time elect a President who could appreciate the superiority of the parliamentary to the presidential system. Such a President could, for instance, keep his secretaries as permanent under secretaries are kept in England, but at the same time recognize the chairmen of the great committees of the Senate and House as the real heads of the departments, take council with them jointly on all policies of the Government, and hold them responsible for a permanent majority to carry out the policies which they would themselves initiate and formulate.

"There is nothing in the constitution to forbid such a method of conducting the Government, as the President may take council and follow the advice of whomsoever he pleases, and, indeed, all Presidents have been compelled to keep in touch with the leaders of the two Houses and to frequently call them for advice. To enlarge this custom and formulate it into a regular practice would need no legislation, and it would be almost precisely the way that the British Government drifted, so to speak, from absolute despotism under the Plantagenets and Tudors, and became the first example in the world of genuine responsible and popular government.

"If it has not done in this or some other way by the initiative of a wise President, it will have to come by a fierce and prolonged struggle between the Executive and the Congress, possibly stained with the blood of the people, as it was in Chili, where only by a civil war could congress succeed in finally overcoming Balmaceda, who attempted to make himself an 'absolute despot.'

Such a movement in the United States, is, indeed, most significant, and is bound in course of time to bring about some modification of the present system under which the President has powers more despotic than those of a Czar of Russia or a Sultan of Turkey. Canadians, who themselves possess the boon of free constitutional government, will watch the progress of the movement with considerable interest and with curiosity as to how the change can be effected.

President at War with the Senate

The pugnacity of President Roosevelt is leading him into dire trouble in the closing months of his term. He is at war with both the Senate and the House of Representatives, in the latter case going so far as to accuse it of curtailing the secret service fund with the intent of preventing the investigation of wrongdoing by its own members. Both houses have resented his attacks as discourteous or insulting to two co-ordinate branches of the Government.

The Port Huron, Mich., Times, a well conducted and moderate Republican journal of many years' standing, has this to say of the embroglio:—

"It will be a matter for general regret among the people of the United States, that President, after one of the most brilliant and forceful administrations in the history of the nation, is likely to go out of office under Congressional censure. Upon nearly all points of public policy President Roosevelt has been right in the estimation of the majority of voters; but all will acknowledge that some of his public utterances have been injudicious and even intemperate in their language, although right as to fact and principle.

"Washington despatches say that the Senate as well as the House is likely to put the stamp of disapproval upon the President's treatment of Congress, even to the extent of holding up or rejecting some important Executive appointments. In some cases rejections will be on the ground that the men nominated are unfit to hold offices for which they have been designated by the President.

"The Senate will also join with the House in a thorough investigation of the secret service and the methods that have been employed in carrying on its work during the Roosevelt administration.

Rightly or wrongly, it is evident that Congress is up in arms against the President. The feeling that exists among Congressmen has been growing for years, and is little appreciate doutside of Washington. It is most likely, however, that in the end public opinion will be largely with the President, for the reason that, whatever mistakes he may have made in his dealings with Congress and members of Congress individually, he has been right upon the important issues presented, and more than any other President has promoted measures in the interest of the common people, of morality and of good government."

BEST TREATMENT FOR CROUP

SUDDEN, SEVERE ATTACKS ARE OF FREQUENT OCCURRENCE.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Certain Cure---Has Never Been Known to Fail.

If your child has ever had croup, you need no description of the symptoms, but to the inexperienced, the peculiar ringing cough is often unnoticed until the disease is well under way. A child may go to bed at night in his usual health, except perhaps a cold, only to awaken a few hours later with a well developed attack of croup and the remainder of the night is spent by the anxious parents in trying to relieve his suffering, which is usually more or less experimental. It is usually difficult to secure the services of a physician in the middle of the night, and he should never be depended upon as the case must be treated at once. A bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house will save anxiety, expense and perhaps the life of the child. When this medicine is given at the first indication of croup, the attack may be avoided, and even after the croupy cough has appeared, it will prevent the attack. We have never known it to fail to effect a cure in any case of croup, and it is, we believe, in more general use in the United States for that disease than any other remedy.

Overcome by Gas

Robert Weatherhead, an employe of the gas company, was overcome by the fumes yesterday morning when working at a pipe on Charlotte street, near the White House, which had been bared in order to find a leak. The odor of gas had been noticeable for several days and the work of searching for the leak was begun Wednesday morning. After receiving assistance from those who were with him and others who were near, he was able to stand on his feet with the aid of one of the other men. He was assisted around the corner to the City Hotel, where, after resting an hour or so, he was able to leave the place practically recovered from the poisonous fumes.

Chatham, Jan. 20.—A report has been received here to the effect that Miss Ethel Gillies has been left a fortune of $200,000 by a patient whom she nursed through a fatal illness. It is stated that the young lady was pursuing her calling in one of the large American hospitals when a man thought to be suffering with a fatal sickness was brought to the hospital. Through the weeks in which the man hovered on the verge of death, the young lady did all that was possible to alleviate his sufferings. The end finally came, and then it was found that the man had been possessed of considerable means. He had no close relations, the story goes, and left the greater part of his fortune of $200,00 to the young lady who had been kind to him.

A Reception and Dance by Foresters

A successful and most enjoyable reception and dance in connection with the installation of officers was given by the Catholic Order of Foresters at their hall, Hunter street, Wednesday night. Progressive euchre was a feature of the evening's entertainment. Mrs. Jas. Clancy winning the ladies' prize and Mr. Maurice Mead the gentleman's. Mr. James Clancy obtained the booby prize.

After the euchre competition a dance was held and this concluded the evening of pleasure which lasted until about two o'clock. Over fifty couples were in attendance and altogether the affair was probably the most pleasing yet given under the auspices of the Foresters. Faultless music was supplied by an orchestra consisting of Messrs. Frank Kearney, P. Kane, Wilfrid Dwyer and Napoleon Trombley. In the interval between the cards and dancing the guests sat down to a tempting and ample spread prepared by the wives of the members of the order.

The committee in charge are to be congratulated on the success of the function.

Catarrh

THE MOTHER OF CONSUMPTION.

How this dread disease may be prevented and cured—the opinions of people who have been cured by

CATARRHOZONE.

Catarrh is very often spoken of as the mother of consumption, because when unchecked it extends from its place of beginning to the bronchial tubes then deeper and deeper, till finally the disease becomes consumption of the lungs.

The safest and best remedy for any form of Catarrh is Catarrhozone. It is inhaled to all parts of the breathing organs, kills the disease, and drives it completely out of the system.

Mrs. Mary J. Whitney, of Clay street, Topeka, Kansas, was cured of Nasal Catarrh after twenty years' suffering by Catarrhozone. She says; "I owe to Catarrhozone an immense debt of gratitude. It cured me of Catarrh of the most disagreeable kind after doctors without number had pronounced my case incurable. My breath is pure and my respiration regular, and I do not cough any more since using Catarrhozone. It has cured me perfectly."

Another case of Chronic Catarrh that was cured quickly by Catarrhozone is that of Mr. G. I. Luce, of 1,709 Navasota street, Austin, Texas. Mr. Luce says;

"I tried for four years to get rid of Nasal Catarrh, used salt douches, atomizers, tablets, stomach medicines, etc., but they didn't do much good.

"Then I tried Catarrhozone, and received relief in a few hours. It cured in a week, so that I never had a recurrence of my former trouble."

Miss Winer, who resides on May street in Hartford, Conn., was cured of throat trouble by Catarrhozone, and speaks of her recovery in the following words;—

"Repeated colds finally resulted in a Catarrhal condition from which I suffered more or less every spring and fall. Catarrhozone was the only remedy that relieved and cured me. I recommended it."

No treatment is so good for Catarrhal affections and Bronchitis as Catarrhozone. Its success is quite unequalled in the history of medicine. It will cure you quickly and surely, and is well worth a trial. Two months' treatment guaranteed to cure, price $1.00; small size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy it today.

U.S. TREATY READY.

I have much pleasure in announcing that a treaty relating to the great lakes and other international waterways has been agreed upon between His Majesty and the Government of the United States of America, and is now awaiting ratification. Both countries are to be congratulated on having arrived at an amicable settlement, which I trust will remove during the lifetime of the treaty many vexed questions from the field of controversy. The treaty and papers relating thereto will be laid before you in due time.

ASSISTANCE TO SICILY.

The appalling calamity which has befallen Sicily and Southern Italy, and caused a total destruction of life and property absolutely unprecendented and unequalled in the long series of historic disasters, has induced my Government to offer assistance.

DEPRESSION CALLS FOR CAUTION

A little more than a year ago, the whole civilized world entered into a period of commercial, industrial, and financial depression, which may not yet have completely spent its force; signs there are, however, that it is gradually passing away. While it is hardly disputable that owing to the abundance and elasticity of her resources Canada has suffered less than other nations, this depression has seriously affected our trade, producing an appreciable shrinkage in the public revenue, and calling for exceptional caution in the administration of our national affairs.

PART OF G.T.P. WORKING.

The rapid settlement of the new Provinces calls for new lines of transportation. The construction of the trans-continental railway has been vigorously pressed forward during the last year. The line was open for the carrying of the crops from Winnipeg to the Battle River, a distance of 675 miles.

Exploratory surveys for a railway from the Western wheat fields to Hudson's Bay are being pushed energetically. Four parties have been at work since August last. Upon the report it will be possible to reach a decision as to both the route to be followed and the approximate cost.

COVERS COST OF H.B. LINE.

The provision of the Dominion Lands Act of last session for the sale of pre-emptions and purchased homesteads has created a new source of revenue that will be sufficient to bear the cost of the railway to to Hudson's Bay without burdening the ordinary revenue.

FEEDERS FOR I.C.R.

In pursuance of an announcement made during the concluding session of last Parliament, a commission was appointed to examine various lines of railway connected with the Intercolonial Railway, and which might be more valuable feeders thereto. The report of this commission has been received and will be placed before you.

The commissioner appointed for investigating the conduct of officials in the Department of Marine and Fisheries has concluded his labor, but has not yet reported. His report, however, is expected at an early date, and when received will be placed in your hands.

A measure will be submitted to you, based upon similar legislation enacted in 1906 by the Parliament of the United Kingdom, aiming at the repression of the payment of secret commissions and gratuities both in ppublic and private business.

You will be asked to consider measures relative to insurance, the civil service, immigration, naturalization, and other subjects.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WASTED
IN EXPERIMENTS

These Millions Have Been and Are Being Wasted in Experiments With Mills and Other Treating Plants

Ours is no experiment. Our new smelting process has Been tested in every detail. We KNOW wha it will do and we know that it will do what we claim for it.

You kn w what a cheap smelting process will mean to the mining industry all over the world. Miners as well as investors in mining stock must pay their share in unreasonable charges to some smelter under the present system. Why not interest yourself in a company which will help you—which will help the miner as well as the investor in mining stock—to

SAVE MORE THAN HALF YOUR PRESENT SMELTER CHARGES

We will erect a smelter of fifty tons right near your mine. Oursmelter thus erected will save 85% in treatment, freight charges and hauling the ore to the railway. This is the crying need of the mining industry to-day.

Think what this means in the treatment of the ores from your mine. Think what this means in the treatment of the ore at present upon the dump. No matter how low grade the dump ore, so long as we have some high grade in every charge, we can get you the values from the ore now lying worthless upon the dump.

We have the practical smelter of the new era. It is not an experiment; it is now in practical working order. We are now ready to erect smelters everywhere. We will build the smelters right at your mines, and thereby overcome all the obstructions which may be placed in our way by the railroads and trust smelters.

Why lament the fact of the present smelter overcharges, when her you have the chance to get a smelter right at your mine, which will treat the ore at $2 per ton, without difference for grades?

We are offering only 100,000 shares of stock in the Kuenzel's Process Smelter Company at 75 cents a share. The proceeds from the sale of this stock will be used towards erecting several of our smelters near producing mines, when we will begin at once to make money for ourselves and for the mine owner.

We have a large plant, a completely equipped machine shop, capable of building at least two 50-ton smelters every month. The preliminary, development stage of our enterprise has passed. We are ready to make money. Why not join us as a stockholder?

The money which you in this company is represented in full value in property and other assets. You are investing in a reality when you buy these shares.

Buy stock in this company now and you will help to realize upon the low grade ores in your dumps which otherwise must remain in waste and valueless. Let us tell you all about this new era smelter, the practical operation of which actually means the revolution of the mining industry. Write for full particulars. We will convince you that this is, indeed, the best gilt-edge investment on the market, from every point of view.

Father of Twenty-Five Has Income of $8 a Week

London, Jan. 23.—Richard Humphreys of West Ham is a proud man today, and his merry laught when he receives the condolences of friends on the recent additions to the number of his offspring is a contagious one.

For his wife has just given him a fine and healthy pair of twins, bringing the combined number of his, her and their children to twenty-five.

Mr. Humphreys is fifth-eight years old, and he was married in 1874. "When my first wife died," he said, "I was left with nine children—seven boys and two girls—and when I married again my second wife had four boys, so that I started my second household with an unlucky thirteen.

"This was soon altered, though. Twelve months afterwards came the fourteenth, and since then the cry has been, 'Still they come.'

"On Saturday my wife had twins—two bonnie little girls.

"How many are still at home? Well, they want a bit of counting up." Then he gave a list of the young people who still live with him. They are;

The twins, Emily, Lizzie, Harry, Albert, Fred, Louie, Elsie, Nellie, Herbert, Frank.

"The eldest at home," he said, "is eighteen. He is a porter at the Liverpool street station, and he and three other lads bring in a little each week to help support the household."

Mr Humphries, who lives at Mowit street, West Ham, is a wagon builder employed by the Great Eastern Railway, and his standing wages are $8 a week, out of which he pays $3 as rent.

Increased Accomodation for Murray St. Baptists

The annual meeting of the Murray Street Baptist church was held Thursday night in the basement of the church. This meeting was very largely attended by the heads of the different societies.

After devotional exercises, the minutes of the last meeting, which was held a year ago Thursday night, were read. The pastor read his letter to the people and after that the reports of the different societies were listened to. The first one read was that of the clerk of the church; in his report was shown that the total membership of the church was 414. The second was that of the secretary which showed the receipts and expenditures of the past year. The receipts being $5,200 from all sources.

The report of the finance committee was next read and it was voted that this report be sent back to be revised. The fourth report was that of the Sunday School. This report made mention in grateful terms of the following teachers and officers. Mr. Dunlop, Mr. Elcome, Miss Louden and Miss Mary Garbutt, who had been present 51 Sundays during the past year. Nine scholars were also mentioned, Wilmot Browett, Helen Blade, Alice Hardwicke, Charlie Hardwicke, Amy Rathbone, Willie Hardwicke, Bena Hardwicke, who had attended 52 Sundays. Norman Browett, Morgan Cottingham, Walter Garbutt, Mildred Martin, May Stabler, Stanley Rathbone, Ethel Hardwicke and Bessie Elcome had attended 51 Sundays, and Doris Rathbone and Victor Bullied had attended 50 Sundays.

Special mention was made of Chas. Hardwicke, who has been present every Sunday for eight years and Willie Hardwicke for five years.

The Mission Circle report for the past year showed an expenditure of account of missions of $256 10.

The report of the secretary of the Ladies' Aid Society was very encouraging, the treasurer's report showing an expenditure of $89 25 and receipts $167.73, leaving a balance of $79 48 to carry on the good work during the present year.

The report of the Willing Workers evidenced what an amount of good work was being done by this band of young ladies. The receipts of the Mission Band were $40 85 and the expenditures the same, also the report of the Baby Band was read; it was very short and was as follows;

Number on roll	32
Membership fees	4.50
Foreign Missions	1.50
Home Missions	1.50

The reports of the Boys' Club, the Young People's Union, Music Committee, the Improvement Fund and the Fellowship Fund were read and adopted. After that the election of officers for the church took place

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of those experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow and feed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.

It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the organs of digestion and nutrition are impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands healed by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients printed on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

GERMANY PLACES BLAME FOR THE TROUBLE ON JOHN BULL

Anti-Teutonic Coalition, with England as Its Center, Admitted to be in Existence—Servia and Montenegro Stirred Up

BALKAN SITUATION MAY CAUSE WAR

London, Jan. 23.—Tired of England's constant denunciations of the Fatherland as the world's premier mischief maker in all international affairs, Germans are today trying to prove Great Britain really the prime mover in all the troubles for which the islanders try to fix responsibility upon the Kaiser.

The campaign has begun briskly in all the Teutonic newspapers, the government press agency is doing its best to get the foreign press to come to German aid in the fight, and, if necessary, it is said, the Berlin foreign office is ppreparred to help matters along, in due season, with a series of formal statements which no up-to-date daily can afford to ignore.

The German contention, as already outlined in the home papers, is along these lines.

The likeliest cause of a war in Europe at present is the Balkan situation. If there is war it will be a tremendous struggle in which many nations will be involved. If there is war, it will be England's fault—not Germany's. To understand why it will be England's fault and why, if there is war at all, it will be a big one. It must be remembered that England considers Germany its only dangerous European rival.

For years Great Britain has been trying to ring the Fatherland round with foes. It has had a considerable measure of success but not quite enough, as yet at least, so that Germany is sure King Edward is ready to precipitate a conflict. France and Russia hesitate. The British want to be sure they will act promptly when the right time comes.

What England has done and means to do are clear enough. It has stirred Servia and Montenegro up to a pitch of frenzy which would render it an easy matter to induce them to attack Austria. If they do so Austria will certainly crush them.

At this Russia's and Italy's national instincts will crop out violently. Germany could not permit its ally, Austria, to be overwhelmed by Russia and Italy.

The minute Germany lends a hand to Austria "rifles will go off by themselves in France," as Bismarck said. England will demolish—or try to demolish—the Germany navy, the German coast will be blockaded by British ships and England will have accomplished what it has been working toward for so long, an unequal fight in which it wants Teutonic power and prestige destroyed forever.

England is plainly accused of responsibility for Turkey's anti-Austrian boycott, for arming Servia and Montenegro, for convincing Italy that the Austrians have cheated the Rome government in the Balkan shake-up, for encouraging the pan-Slav and anti-German movement in Russia and for impressing it upon France that Germany is endeavoring to steal northern Africa from the republic and to humiliate it wantonly at every opportunity.

India figures in the German calculations. If the English make up their minds that the dependency is going to rise against them soon they will prefer to postpone the European war until the Hindoos are beaten into subjection. If it looks as if the colonial rising will be delayed—Germany is sure there will be one sooner or later—the British will want to get the Balkan fight started and done with at once that they may have their hands free to attend to the Orient when the time comes.

The Germans admits the existence of a great anti-Teutonic coalition with England at its center. It is attributed solely by Prof. Hans Delbruck, one of the best known of the anti-English writers, to "the entrance and successful appearance of the German people on the stage of the world's politics and in the world's markets."

Accuse Trapper of Murder and Cannibalism

Montreal, Jan. 22.—The Attorney General of Quebec Province has been notified of the capture of a Belgian trapper named Grasset, accused of murder and cannibalism, and his dention at Fort Albany, Hudson Bay Company post on St. James Bay. Orders have been forwarded to detain the prisoner until spring, when he will be brought up for trial.

Grasset and a French companion named Bernard left for the Chibbagamoo country a year and a half ago to trap game. They took with them a guide named Lemieux's body was discovered by a party of hunters and investigation revealed that the man had been killed and parts of his body used for food. Several months later the body of Bernard was also discovered and it showed evidence of the same usage. What remained of the body was brought to Roberval, Bernard's home, and a thorough investigation made. Since then the provincial police have been tracking Grasset with the result noted. He denies his guilt.

Mrs. Hubbard Admits "Black Hand" Letters

Whitby, Jan. 22.—With tears flowing freely, Mrs. Rachel Hubbard, of Uno Park, New Ontario, admitted to Police Magistrate Harper this morning the writing of threatening letters to John Wakeland of Canningon, and David J. Adams, banker, of Port Perry, in this county. This was in reply to the magistrate's question if she had anything to say before he committed her for trial.

SENT A DECOY LETTER.

Wakeland and his wife had just told how they had received a letter September 20 h last, and on advising with the authorities sent a decoy letter in reply, by which means "Au irchial" as the first one was signed, was identified as Mrs Hubbard. The prisoner stated that the first letter she sent herself, but that three which followed were at the instance of her husband.

The evidence showed that there had been a land deal over forty years ago between the Hubbard woman's husband, before she married him, and Wakeland. She had heard it talked about, and in the dire straits of their present circumstances, in a wild country fifty miles north of Cobalt, had thought thus to get easy money.

THREATENED TO BLOW HIM UP

A letter to Adams threatened that unless $500 was forthcoming within a month his house and family would be blown up with a bomb and that they were being watched nigh, and day. Mrs Hubbard told the magistrate she had nothing personally against any of those to whom the letters were sent.

Touring Canadians Lost First Match

Glasgow, Jan. 22.—The Canadian curling team played the first game in the Old Country this morning here with the Scottish Ice Rink Club of Crosscyloof.

The match was for three hours, at the end of which time the visitors had scored 170 points to the home team's 179.

Farmer Drowned in Vain Attempt at Rescue

THE DROWNED.

Trenton, Jan. 22.—A double drowning accident happened here last evening, when David Frederick, 60 years old, and Gilbert Brooks, 21 years old, lost their lives in the cold waters of the Bay of Quinte.

The two men, with Brook's wife and her sister, Mrs Joseph Standing, spent yesterday here. About 8 o'clock at night they started to drive to their home on the Prince Edward shore.

For some time past the waters of the bay have been frozen over, and many people made a short cut across the ice from shore to shore.

The night was not cold, but in the inky darkness they lost the path. The horse was given its head, and before they could do anything to save themselves the four people with the horse, rig, and all, were precipitated into the bay through a hole in the ice made by the ice cutters.

DIVED FOR FREDERICK.

The sudden plunge into the frigid water was too much for the older man, and he quickly sank Brroks, being young and vigorous, managed to rescue his wife and her sister. He then began to dive for the body of Mr. Brooks, but his strength had been sapped too much. He dived once and did not come up again.

WOMEN AROUSE TOWN.

In a frenzy of terror the two half-frozen women made their way back to Trenton and aroused the town. The scene of the accident was soon surrounded by a crowd of men anxious to do what was possible. The horse and rig were located by midnight, but it was two o'clock this morning before the bodies of the two men were recovered.

Both were farmers and well known in the locality. Frederick leaves a wife and several children.

Brooks had been married less than a year.

Both women are very much unstrung today as a result of the accident, but no serious results are expected.

HOLE WAS UNPROTECTED

The ice cutting has been done within fifty feet of the path across the bay and there was no light to indicate where the open space was.

Toronto, Jan. 22.—Just a few minutes before the bells of the city clock sounded four o'clock this morning Jacob A Diebel, one of the best-known business men of Windsor, Ontario, fell or jumped from the window of his room on the fifth storey of the King Edward Hotel, and struck the roadway just a little west of the main entrance in King street. Although picked up almost immediately and rushed in an ambulance to St. Michael's Hospital, Mr. Diebel died in the conveyance. The body was removed to the morgue.

SAW BODY FALL.

The crash of the body striking the asphalt pavement resounded through silent and deserted streets, and it remained for an unknown passer-by to notify the hotel officials of the tragedy which had been enacted almost at the door of the hotel. The citizen said that he caught a glimpse of a white, fluttering something falling from the window. An instant later he heard the heavy body strike the roadway, and he then ran into the hotel and informed the clerk on duty.

Policeman Reilly (254) patrolled the beat between Yonge and West Market streets, and he was approaching the hotel just as Mr. Diebel's body struck the pavement. He promptly telephoned to Court street station, only a few yards away, and Driver John Egan responded within a very short time with an ambulance. The almost lifeless body was placed within it, and the horse was whipped into a gallop on the way to the hospital. When the doors were opened at the entrance to the institution, Mr. Diebel was dead.

The ambulance was then turned towards the morgue, and the broken and battered body laid in a compartment.

A FALL OF SIXTY FEET.

From the window ledge of Mr. Diebel's room on the fifth storey to the pavement below is a distance of sixty feet. Mr. Diebel struck on his right side; the right shoulder, the right arm, and the side were shattered and broken. A remarkable feature of the fall was the fact that the face and head escaped injury, but both were covered with mud and streaked with water from the roadway.

To Spend Over Six Millions on Railways in the West

The C.P.R. to Construct Two Hundred and Fifty Miles This Year ---New Line to Open Up Northern Alberta

Montreal, Jan. 21.—The C.P.R. has decided to spend upwards of $6,000,000 this year in the construction of new lines west of Fort William. This was the announcement made by Mr. Wm. Whyte, second vice-president, as the result of the conferences that have been in progress during the past week between President Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and himself with regard to the program of construction policy. The new lines, including those initiated last year, which will be proceeded with, will amount to between 250 and 300 miles of railway in the prairies regions.

The most important piece of work will be the building of a new line north through Alberta from Lethbridge parallel to the Crow's Nest line and traversing a country at present without railway facilities. This section is among the best wheat growing land of the province, and the new line will thus be able to secure abundance of freight.

About 130 miles of the line from Saskatoon to Wetaskiwin, which still remains to be built, will be completed, thus affording an alternative route to Edmonton running through a very rich country.

In the same district continuation of the line between Moosejaw and Lacombe will also be undertaken. This line is at present constructed southwards from Lacombe to a point near Stettler and northwards from Moosejaw to a point near Tugaske. Construction will be continued southwards from Stettler in a direction practically parallel to the Saskatoon-Wetaskiwin line.

Lord Northcote will Succeed Earl Grey

London, Jan. 22.—The Canadian Associated Press is informed that Lord Northcote will succeed Earl Grey as Governor-General of Canada. He has just returned from Australia, where Lord Dudley has taken his place as the representative of royalty.

Earl Grey has been in office four years last December. He is the ninth Canadian Governor-General. He will probably stay till next December.

Peterborough Curlers Lost in the Finals

Peterborough's curlers yesterday returned from the Tankard competition in Group No 5, in Toronto, having been defeated in the final by the Scarboro Maple Leafs. A despatch says;—

Though the temperature was several degrees above the frost line yesterday, the curlers engaged in the Ontario Tankard primaries in groups 1 and 5 decided to go as far as they could, even with soft ice. Consequently, the final in group 5 was played at the Granite Rink, and the Scarboro Maple Leafs will come to town as the group representatives when the tankard finals are played next month. The Leafs got their stones on the ice, which was easier to say than do, and both rinks were always in the lead against Peterborough.

The score;

Scarboro.	Peterborough.
H. Thompson	Dr. Wightman
A. Doherty	W. J. Thompson
A. Patterson	D. Davidson
W. G. Rennie—23.	J. H. Connal—14
C. Mason	R. Carton.
W. Walton	G. L. Hay
G. Chester	S. T. Medd
H. Thompson—23.	S. Ray—6

Majority for Scarboro Maple Leafs, 28 shots.

A Spark Ignited the Leaking Gas

What might have been a very serious thing happened yesterday morning on Charlotte street. The gas works pipe has a large leak in it, and the men have been working for the past two days in uncovering it. Yesterday morning they were lucky, of unlucky, as find it, for in prying out one of the rocks with a steel bar a spark ignited the gas, sending a flame quite a distance out of the hole. They immediately set to work to smother out the flames with water and fine dirt. This, however, was not accomplished until the hole was about half full again. After the flame was put out they had to set to work and dig it all out.

Croup positively stopped in 20 minutes, with Dr. Shoop's Croup Remedy. One test alone will surely prove this truth. No vomiting, no distress. A safe and pleasing syrup—25c. Sold by all dealers.

The Agricultural Society Has Handsome Surplus

Annual Meeting of the Society Held Yesterday Afternoon---Had a Surplus of Over Six Hundred Dollars

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Agricultural Society was held in the council chambers yesterday afternoon. A large number of the directors and members were present and all are well pleased with the result of the show last fall. Well they might be for there was a surplus of over $600. a thing which has not been known here for many years. What it means to the directors those outside the society have little idea. There was all kinds of work for many weeks before the big event and a lot afterward. The president and directors deserve great credit and no doubt will receive a much more liberal support next year from the citizens.

The chair yesterday was occupied by President Leary, and in opening the meeting he referred to the success of the show last year, and at the same time pointed out the necessity of the society furnishing larger and more suitable buildings for the accommodation of the exhibits and for the convenience of the exhibitors. He had hoped and even yet has slight hopes of the city coming to the assistance of the society and securing permanent grounds upon which new and larger buildings could be erected. The show demands more room and now that it has been put upon a good financial basis it should not be allowed to go down. He expressed his appreciation of the work done by the directors and members the past year.

Canada Cuba Land & Fruit Company

Stop raising $50 crops on $100 lands. Raise $500 crops on $40 lands. (LIMITED)

We Will Gladly Tell You How

WHY MEN GET RICH IN CUBA: Conditions count; that is why they get rich there; the ideal conditions prevailing insure wealth to the thrifty northerner who grasps the opportunities presented, and goes in for the things which count.

TEN ACRES planted in an orange orchard means an income, when the grove comes into full bearing, of from $2,700 to $5,000 per annum for life,

IF YOU SOW WHEAT, and the crop is good, and you get 70 bushels to the acre, your crop would be a farm topic of conversation. Now, say you get $1.00 per bushel for the wheat, and that is a pretty strong price, isn't it?. Well, your one acre has earned $70.00, and it is safe to say that there was a lot of hard work about it; besides a new crop must be sown next year with chances of failure. The land is worth little, if any, more than the previous year.

NOW AN ORANGE ORCHARD IS DIFFERENT. Ten acres of the best land in Cuba will not cost you as much as in the Northwest, and on every acre you can plant 100 orange trees at a cost of 30c each; in four years' time this growth will bear profitably. In the meantime you can raise pineapples, bananas and other fruits and vegetables between the rows of orange trees that will net three times the profit that northern crops will.

ORANGE GROVES AT 8 TO 10 YEARS OF AGE ARE WORTH $1,000 to $1,500 PER ACRE, and these trees live, after the planter is dead and forgotten, bearing the same luscious fruit, more and more every year. Don't you think it will pay you to investigate? We believe it will, and that your children and your children's children will thank you for so doing. This investment insures you and them an absolute and sure income for life.

OUR COLONY is no venture, but a practical success, producing fruit of a most luscious quality. The groves planted on our estate have more than come up to our expectations.

NO INVESTMENT, with so small an outlay, will produce the same income as will such a grove of oranges, grape-fruit and pineapples. There is a ready market for all that can be produced, with shipping facilities direct from the Company's dock and excellent railway accommodation.

ITALY'S KING A BELOVED RULER

King Victor Emmanuel's reputation not only as a solicitous, sympathetic ruler, but as a capable man of affairs, has increased as a result of the horror at Messina. He was on the scene almost as soon as the first party of rescuers arrived, and it was he who planned on the spot for the care of the injured and the disposal of the bodies of the dead, which threatened to add to an already frightful situation the scourge of a pestilence. On the occasion of his first visit to England in 1891, Queen Victoria is reported to have said of Victor Emmanuel, "He is the most intelligent prince in Europe." The Queen was a fine judge of character, and her estimate of the Italian sovereign was accurate. He is regarded with affection by all his subjects, and the outside world holds him in high esteem.

The personality of the King is chiefly accountable for the competition that is going on at present among several of the great powers in reference to the vacancy caused by the death of Nicholas Mouravieff, the Russian ambassador. This diplomat was particularly active and successful in promoting friendship between Russia and Italy; and it has been hinted that his death was due to the offence he gave to certain powerful interests which are opposed to a Russo-Italian entente. Who will succeed Mouravieff at the Quirnal is a matter of some importance to Great Britain, Germany and France, to say nothing of Russia herself. It is the matter of the Triple Alliance that this appointment touches, for it is generally felt that the time is approaching when this famous agreement must be abandoned, or else strengthened and improved.

The report that Count Witte is to succeed Mouravieff gives much satisfaction in Germany, for, according to "Ex-Attache," Witte is a German-ophile, and is rather averse to Great Britain and France. The latter powers are using all the influence they can bear to secure the appointment of an ambassador who will work in harmony with Sir Rennell Rood and Camille Barrere at the Quirinal. It is supposedly the object of Great Britain, France and Russia to detach Italy from Germany and Austria. It is the attitude of Russia that is uncertain. The douma would naturally prefer the democracies of Britain and France to the German autocracy, and this very fact impels other influences in Russia to work for an opposite end. The announced visit of King Edward to Rome in March will probably have some bearing on Italy's attitude.

Competition for Italy's friendship, in view of the unpreparedness of her army and navy, the fact that her geographical position is not of strategical importance, and the general supposition that the friends of the Quirinal are not the friends of the Vatican, is explained by the unusual ability of Italy's King. In nine years Victor Emmanuel has won the backing of all sections of his countrymen, including Royalists, Republicans, Clericals, and even Socialists. The affection of his countrymen he has won not by any feats of diplomacy or conquest, but by the simplicity and earnestness of his character which has gradually been revealed. No European king knows his country better than the King of Italy. He spends a large part of the year in traveling about by automobile or train, and rarely crosses the borders of Italy.

Not long after coming to the throne he delivered one of his few public addresses, in which he said;—"In Italy no man does his duty. From the highest to the lowest the laisser faire and laxity are complete. Now it is to the accomplishment of their several duties that all, without distinction, must be called. I begin with myself, and am trying to do my duty, conscientiously and with love. This must serve as an example and as a spur to others. My ministers must help me in everything, and they must promise nothing that they cannot perform. They must not create illusions." Though the King of Italy is strictly limited in function by the constitution, Victor Emmanuel has come, by constitutional means, to be the master of the country. Who can tell offhand the name of the Premier of Italy? Very few, indeed. It is the King who catches the eye and holds the attention.

Victor Emmanuel has been something of a reformer. He has driven out of the army several officers who have rendered themselves guilty of unsavory financial practices. Upon the adventures of titled heiress-hunters he is especially severe, and and enthusiastic company promoters and their "dummy directors" find a stern censor in the King.

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided Into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia, Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont, Sec-Treas; Charles Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C. Ritchie, Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses on the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 868, containing 40 acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and in an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 18th December, 1908, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. Levecconte, 20 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties, in consideration of 400,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 20,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $500; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 2000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 18th of December, 1908.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

The "American" Language

In view of the local effort to improve the English language by cutting out some of the silent letters in a long list of words, it is worth noting that in the United States a number of patriotic fanatics are trying to rechristen the language. They want it called the American language, instead of the English language. The agitation reminds Prof. Brander Matthews of a humorous incident that occurred while the Revolutionary War was in progress. One staunch Yankee moved that the revolting colonies should renounce the English speech of the British oppressors, and learn a new tongue for themselves. There might be objections, he admitted, to the adoption of the language of any other country, but he thought that free born Americans were capable of inventing a new language of their own. Then Roger Sherman, of Connecticut, arose to move in amendment that the American colonies should retain the English language, and force the hated Englisn to learn another.

THE AMERICAN LANGUAGE.

The bitterness of a hundred and thirty years ago is some excuse for the preposterous motion of the anonymous American patriot; but it is difficult to consider with patience the activity of the American Language League. It is issuing circulars to the American people, urging them to "unite in calling the mother tongue by the name of the children who speak it." It is not intended to seriously change the language, although the incorporation of the host of "Americanisms" in colloquial use is no doubt contemplated when the next patriotic American dictionary is issued. We have often come across such a phrase as "Talk plain United States", but it has been uttered with humorous intention. There is nothing but earnestness, even solemnity, in the propaganda of the American Language League.

A DUTY FOR AMERICANS.

The circular, as quoted in Munsey's Magazine, by Prof. Matthews, appeals in the following words:—

"Does not America's preponderance carry with it the privilege and the duty of renaming its own language and calling it the American language? The language itself has done no more for Americans than French or German would have done, were either of those our national language; on the other hand, the Americans have done for the language this—they have practically made it the international language. Neither the language nor any name is necessary for our glory, but our nation-name, and exclusively ours, has become necessary for the language if it is to be designated by the full defining term, the term which recognizes the teachings of the past and the sweep of present events.

"How much longer must the relative population, wealth and power of the United States and Canada increase before it dawns upon us that the American language is the logically defining, the solely appropriate, the historically inevitable designation?—and that to call the giant language by a nomenclatural inadequacy is like cloaking the shoulders of a Hercules with the garments of a dwarf?"

CANADA LUGGED IN.

You will notice that Canada is dragged into it, although Mexico is excluded. Mexico has as good right to be considered American as has the United States. As a matter of fact, the Mexicans were here before the Americans or Canadians. The matter is also placed before us on the plane of duty. No doubt the appeal will have its effect, and we may expect to see a bill introduced in Congress embodying the change. It may be followed by another bill, moving to change the name "Christianity" to "Americanity", or some other insanity, for the same reasons advanced against the use of the word English. Congress suppressed the President's effort to have the words, "In God We Trust" struck off the coinage of the United States; and there is hope that it will kill off these similar bills when they make their inevitable appearance.

THE TWO LITERATURES.

Prof. Matthews thinks that the differences between British and American usage of speech are superficial and insignificant. He suggests that his countrymen continue to use the English language, and to speak of it as such; but he recommends that we recognize the term "American literature" as a distinct sub-division of English literature. As a matter of fact, this suggestion has been followed for many years past. We speak of English novels, and American novels, English and American writers, and even, in hushed tones, of Canadian literature. We also gravely debate the question;—Resolved that we have a Canadian literature. The noted American critic concludes as follows:—

"English literature as a whole has now, in the beginning of the twentieth century, two main sub-divisions—British literature and American literature. They are both written in the English language, in the use of which they vary very little. In the nineteenth century British literature was adorned by many more glorious names than American literature, important as this is to us Americans. In the twenty-first century probably the balance will incline the other way. The language of this literature is the English language, but it is not exclusively the 'King's English' any longer. As Mark Twain is reported to have said once, the language has been taken over by a company, and we Americans hold a majority of the stock."

NEXT CENTURY.

If the professors prophecy turns out to be correct, and the twenty-first century is adorned by many more glorious names in American than in English literature, there will be no effort on the part of the owners of those glorious names to distinguish themselves from the great English masters of the past. Their proudest boast will be that they are producing English literature; and in that day they may deserve to have the term "American literature" abolished and forgotten.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Great Britain Must Control India

Current dispatches from India give dramatic emphasis to the necessity of British sovereignty in that country. The hostility of ages between Brahmin and Moslem has again for the thousandth time become exacerbated into open and deadly violence. There are riots and bloodshed and loss of life, and British troops have had to intervene between the contending factions to prevent a holy war which might involve the empire. Mobs of natives are impotent against trained troops, but against each other they would be capable of vast mischief, and absence of imperial control would unquestionably permit occurrences which would shock humanity and make imperative the demand for reintervention.

Such an occurrence as the present would be significant at any time. It is doubly significant, since it follows directly upon or, indeed, is simultaneous with widespread manifestations of disaffection toward British rule and threats and fears of a general insurrection. Agitators have pretended that British rule was odious to all Indians, who desire above all else to get rid of the hated Feringhee and to rule themselves according to their own benevolent will. Yet at the very first sight of the passion for freedom from the British yoke is forgotten in a surpassing zeal to renew the ancient feud of Brahmin against Moslem—and incidentally, if unintentionally, to demonstrate again to the world in conclusive fashion the unfitness of that seething congeries of conflicting creeds and races for self-government.

Mohammed Yar
Prodding Siva's sacred bull down the Bow Bazar,

The fact is, as "The Spectator", of London, recently remarked, that there is only one thing which links together the diverse parts of India, Peshawur to Mandalay, Cashmere to Madras, Bombay to Sikkim. It is not British bayonets, which are an evidence of power rather than the power itself, but it is the ethos of British rule. The precise components of that may not easily be determined with exact accuracy. Doubtless the potency of physical force is one. Another is the sentiment of racial superiority and prestige. A third, probably the most efficient of all, is the appreciation of the general impartiality and justice of British rule and the realization that, though at may seem arbitrary and oppressive, it is in fact, on the whole, righteous and beneficent and is the one thing which saves India from becoming a welter of universal woe.

The Industrial Future of the Dominion

At the 14th annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, Mr. Byron E. Walker, president of the Bank of Commerce, delivered an address upon the industrial future of Canada. He began by explaining why in the matter of population and industrial development the United States is so far ahead of this country. Though the first colonies in both countries were established about the same time, the War of Independence united the thirteen States into one nation almost a hundred years before Confederation made a Dominion out of the different Canadian provinces. Not till 1885, when the Canadian Pacific Railway was completed, could Canada be said to be one country. It was not till 1870 that ownership of the great prairies of the West passed from the control of the Hudson's Bay Company; and whereas the tide of immigration has been flowing into the United States from Europe since 1830, it was not until almost sixty years later that Canada was ready for her settlers.

He proceeded to give a few figures to indicate the growth of Canada's trade, with a view of giving emphasis to the real point of his address, which was to be made later on. In 1880 our imports were $140,340,000, and our exports about a million more, our total foreign trade being just less than $300,000,000. Nine years later our imports alone were nearly $42,000,000 greater than our total foreign trade in 1880; our exports were $373,000,000, and our total foreign trade nearly $615,000,000, a growth of more than 100 per cent. in nine years. Only one feature of Canada's present position with regard to foreign trade is unsatisfactory. That is the preponderance of imports over exports. Now, as Mr. Walker remarked, the good old idea used to be that while nations settle their accounts with bills of exchange and other forms of money, in reality they only exchange goods with each other; and also that if one nation bought from another very largely in excess of its power to pay in goods, it must look to the nation it was buying of so largely to buy the securities which must be sold to pay the balance. This principle of international exchange is not honored in the case of Canada and her foreign buyers and sellers. In the last ten years we have bought from Great Britain to the extent of about $600,000,000; from the United States we have bought $1,450,-852,000, and from other countries we have bought $371,486,000. We have sold to Great Britain $1,174,286,000, to the United States $747,396,000, and to other countries $236,545,000. Great Britain therefore takes our products far beyond our purchases from her, and she takes most of our securities as well. The United States sells us 60 per cent. of what we buy abroad, but she buys only 35 per cent. of what we have to sell, and she very rarely buys a Canadian security. This is all the more regrettable, since the United States can understand better than European countries that we cannot build railways and in a general way put a country in condition for settlement without mortgaging our future. These securities are the mortgages, but the United States for the most part refuses to look at them. Of late our purchases from Great Britain have been improving, and there has been a better tendency with regard to our bonds in the United States.

"But", said Mr. Walker, "I ask you whether you consider it likely that trading relations so one-sided can continue for ever? Beyond a peradventure, if you do not open your doors a little more liberally to us, so that we can more nearly pay you in goods, instead of always drawing on London for the purchase price of what she has bought from us, in order to pay you, you will leave us no alternative but to keep up our tariff walls until we can create at home almost every manufactured thing on the one hand, while on the other we seek trade preferably with any nation which takes pay in goods, so as to lessen our payment of actual money to you. Believe me, my dear friends, that I am bold enough to say these things because some one should say them, and because you of all bodies in the United States are the one to which they should be said."

After this plain speaking Mr. Walker went on to show why he and all other Canadians have faith in the future of their country. As to the amount of wheat we should raise in the West he made no predictions. Clearly it would be enormous, for every year we are finding out that wheat will grow farther north than we had thought twelve months earlier. Our timber, although it is not inexhaustible at the present rate of cutting, can be made sufficient for all time if we are willing to learn the lessons in forestry that our universities are desirous of teaching. We have more fishing waters than any other nation in the world, although they have been shamefully abused and neglected by Governments. We have iron, nickel, copper and coal enough to rank with the greatest nations in this respect, and if we are only eighth among the nations of the world in the production of gold, we are likely very shortly to take high rank in silver, when the Cobalt camp is shipping $1,000,000 of ore every month.

After mentioning our great industries of dairying and stock raising, our wonderful waterways and water powers, our climate and our growing manufactures, Mr. Walker concluded: "Finally, we are a contented people, with a fine birth rate and hardly any illiteracy, loving law and order and insisting on it in every mining camp and on the rudest frontier line. We hope to build up a nation as free as any in the world with our own peculiar institutions, with a share of some kind in the British Empire, and with relations with your great country, which should through the coming ages be of benefit to both nations, materially, intellectually and ethically."

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn back growths back to flesh again. That is impossible but I can now surely kill the pains and purge of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Barmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it will surely cure all curable cases of this horrible, much dreaded disease. Those acid-like granular crystals, found in Rheumatic blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as if by magic—then added to pure water and these crystals, with disease poisonous waste finally pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer with sad back. We will, and in confidence recommend

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY

GIVES UNIVERSAL SATISFACTION.

Best Remedy in the Market For Colds, Croup and Whooping Cough---It Always Cures And Is Pleasant and Safe to Take.

"I never had a medicine in my store that gave such universal satisfaction as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says Mr. P. M. Shore, of Rochester, Ind. "It is the best remedy to-day on the market for coughs, colds and whooping cough. One of my lady customers told me recently that she could not keep house without it, that since they have been using it they have had no need of a doctor." In case of a severe attack of croup a physician will usually call twice, and perhaps half a dozen times in a severe and long protracted case of whooping cough, while in pneumonia it is often necessary that he calls once or twice a day for a week or two. All of this trouble and expense may be saved by the judicious use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, for it is a certain cure for croup, and when given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears it will prevent the attack. Pneumonia can also be prevented. This fact has been fully proven, as during the almost forty years in which this remedy has been in general use, no case of a cold or attack of the grip has ever resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, so far as we have been able to learn. It will be seen that a little forethought and by doing the right thing at the right time, all danger and expense may be avoided. Bear in mind that every bottle of this remedy is warranted and if not as stated it will not cost you a cent.

MY FREE-TRIAL TREATMENT MAY CURE YOU

Dear Mrs. Curran: I feel so very much better after using the ten days' treatment of Orange Lily you were kind enough to send, that I will not require any more. In fact, I feel entirely well, and it is now a month since I stopped using the treatment. (Miss) F. T. W.

Similar letters to the above are not infrequent though, of course, such cases are not of long standing. Most women who have suffered for any length of time will require to use Orange Lily longer than the Free Trial Treatment in order to effect a complete cure, but in every case they will be benefited. Further, the benefit will be permanent whether they continue to use Orange Lily or not. It is not taken internally, and does not contain any alcohol or other stimulant. It is an applied treatment, and acts directly on the suffering organs. In all cases of women's disorders, these organs are congested to a greater or less extent, and Orange Lily will relieve and remove this congestion just as positively and certainly as the action of ammonia or soap on soiled linen. It is a simple chemical problem, and the result is always the same, a step towards better health and complete cure.

In order that every suffering woman may prove its good qualities, without cost, I will send enough of Orange Lily for 10 days' treatment absolutely free, to each lady who will send me her address. Mrs. E. F. Curran, Windsor, Ont.

CLEAN Up INSIDE

Blood and System Cleansing in the Spring Makes Good Health all Summer.

In spite of all your careful habits safe to say that in the spring you feel poorly—have a throbbing sensation in the head—skin is pale or yellow, with dark rings under the eyes. If not absolutely bilious the system is so full of bile that you feel heavy and tired all day long.

Clean up, work off the winter's accumulation of waste, purify your blood. Do this and you'll feel fresh as a prize-fighter. "For ten years," says W. H. Sangster, of Concord, "I suffered greatly from impure blood, which made me feel debilitated and unfit for work. I had no appetite, suffered from indigestion and gas, had some pains in the back, caused by poor kidney action. Spring was the hardest time of all, and many a time I felt despondent and languid enough to throw up the sponge. I was impressed by the marvellous work done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills and tried them. They suited me exactly. In one week I felt like new. I was braced up, got rid of blood weakness, gained in flesh, got back my old time appearance and spirits. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will clean all the sickness out of a man in short order and I urge young and old to use this grand tonic medicine."

More Work Wanted

Somebody asked the other day what the Board of Trade was doing in Peterborough. No one could say just exactly outside of passing resolutions. Beginning the new year the Board of Trade has an opportunity to do much work for the city. A committee of the council has decided upon starting a campaign for increasing the city's population and increasing the number of industries. The Board of Trade suggested this to the aldermen and they should now follow it up and work with the council.

Asthma Cured

Mrs. Farndel, of Clementsport, N.S., suffered all her life from asthma, but was permanently cured by Catarrhozone after all other means failed.

Mrs. Farndel's recovery affords overwhelming proof of what Catarrhozone will do. Nothing except Catarrhozone was of the slightest benefit, but when given a fair trial it cured.

Now perhaps you need something for your cold, or bronchitis or Asthma? Why not try Catarrhozone? Thousands have been cured by inhaling it a few minutes now and again, and certainly it wouldn't do you any harm to profit by their experience.

Mrs. Farndel gives the following statement of her case for the benefit of others who are suffering from asthma, and hopes that many will follow her example and use Catarrhozone.

"I am now in my eightieth year, and cannot recall the time when I was free from the Asthma. I had always a choking cough, feverishness, spasms, difficulty in breathing, headache and nausea. My druggist advised Catarrhozone one day, and I bought a large outfit. It gave relief in five minutes and helped me very much in one day.

"I inhaled Catarrhozone ten minutes every hour, and by the time two bottles were used, I was completely cured. I am as free now from Asthma as if I never had it. My perfect recovery is due entirely to Catarrhozone. I prize my Catarrhozone Inhaler next to life itself."

This is a proof positive that Catarrhozone is a sure and speedy cure for the worst kind of Asthma. It is guaranteed to give satisfactory results, and your money will be refunded if it fails. All you need is a trial of this grand preparation to be quite satisfied and convinced that it is the best. Your druggist recommends and sells it. Price $1.00, small size 50 cents. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ontario.

After this the question of the choir wearing gowns was carried and the procuring of mortar board hats was left in the hands of the music committee.

It was also mentioned that the pastor's salary was increased from $1200 to $1500 per year.

The meeting then adjourned.

OLD AT TWENTY

Return of Youth with Proper Age

Many persons who eat plenty never seem to be properly nourished. That's because the food is not digested and absorbed. Much that is eaten is never taken up by the system as real food, and so the issues simply starve and the individual may, as in a recent case, look and feel old in what should be the bloom of life, youth.

"At twenty I was prematurely old. All the health and vigor and brightness of youth had been, as it seemed, stolen from me. I went to work in the morning with slow steps and a dull head.

"My work through the day was unsatisfactory for my breakfast lay in my stomach like a hard lump. I was peevish and the gas in my stomach was very annoying. After supper I usually went to bed to toss half the night from sheer nervousness.

"This was all from indigestion — wrong eating.

"Finally I tried Grape-Nuts and I cannot describe the full benefits received from the food. It gave me back my health. It has completely restored good digestion and relieved me of my ailments. I steadily improved and am now strong and in perfect health."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

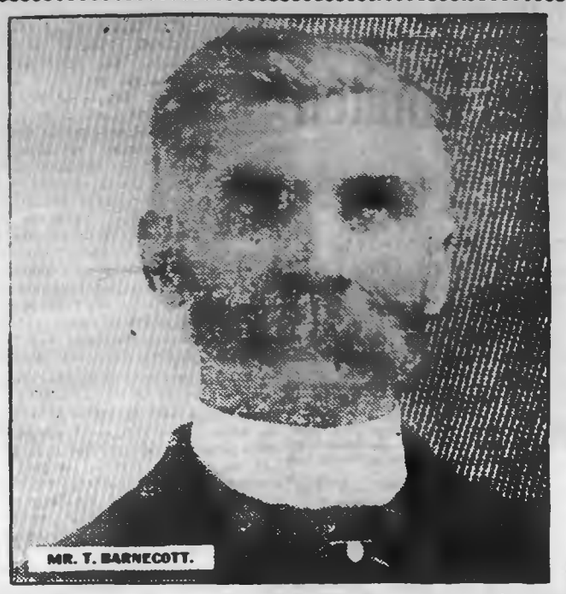
Pe-ru-na Promptly Relieves Severe Cold and La Grippe.

Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes:

"Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having la grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time and at little expense. Every time I take a cold, I take some Peruna, which makes me well again.

"I also induced a young lady, who was all rundown and confined to the house, to take Peruna, and after taking Peruna for three months she is able to follow her trade of tailoring.

"I can recommend Peruna for all such who are ill and require a tonic."



MR. T. BARNECOTT.

EVERY year, during the inclement weather of winter, there is an epidemic of la grippe. The disease is really catarrhal in nature, but from the form it assumes, has been commonly termed the "grip."

Splendid Remedy for La Grippe.

Mr. Frank H. Fielder, 213 Pleasant Ave., Montgomery, Ala., formerly principal of Haynesville High School, writes:

"I can truthfully say that Peruna is a splendid remedy for la grippe and a good tonic for building up the system."

La grippe is very tenacious when it once gets a firm hold upon the system, and in addition to a thorough, systemic catarrh remedy, a great deal of patience and persistence in the treatment are required to eradicate the disease.

Peruna, an internal catarrh remedy, is one of the best medicines ever devised to meet the exigencies of these cases. The large number of commendatory letters received by Dr. Hartman, the inventor of Peruna, in behalf of his remedy is proof sufficient of its value as a reliable medicine for the "grip."

Prompt Relief.

Mr. Frank Bauer, Minneska, Minn., writes: "I suffered with la grippe. My lungs felt as if knives were sticking in them. I took Peruna and in four days I was able to go out."

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WASTED

IN EXPERIMENTS

These Millions Have Been and Are Being Wasted in Experiments With Mills and Other Treating Plants

Ours is no experiment. Our new smelting process has Been tested in every detail. We KNOW what it will do and we know that it will do what we claim for it.

You know what a cheap smelting process will mean to the mining industry all over the world. Miners as well as investors in mining stock must pay their share in unreasonable charges to some smelter under the present system. Why not interest yourself in a company which will help you—which will help the miner as well as the investor in mining stock—to

We will erect a smelter of fifty tons right near your mine. Our smelter thus erected will save 85% in treatment, freight charges and hauling the ore to the railway. This is the crying need of the mining industry to-day.

Think what this means in the treatment of the ores from your mine. Think what this means in the treatment of the ore at present upon the dump. No matter how low grade the dump ore, so long as we have some high grade in every charge, we can get you the values from the ore now lying worthless upon the dump.

We have the practical smelter of the new era. It is not an experiment; it is now in practical working order. We are now ready to erect smelters everywhere. We will build the smelters right at your mines, and thereby overcome all the obstructions which may be placed in our way by the railroads and trust smelters.

Why lament the fact of the present smelter overcharges, when here you have the chance to get a smelter right at your mine, which will treat the ore at $2 per ton, without difference for grades?

We are offering only 100,000 shares of stock in the Kuenzel's Process Smelter Company at 75 cents a share. The proceeds from the sale of this stock will be used towards erecting several of our smelters near producing mines, when we will begin at once to make money for ourselves and for the mine owner.

We have a large plant, a completely equipped machine shop, capable of building at least two 50-ton smelters every month. The preliminary development stage of our enterprise has passed. We are ready to make money. Why not join us as a stockholder?

The money which you in this company is represented in full value in property and other assets. You are investing in a reality when you buy these shares.

Buy stock in this company now and you will help to realize upon the low grade ores in your dumps which otherwise must remain in waste and valueless. Let us tell you all about this new era smelter, the practical operation of which actually means the revolution of the mining industry. Write for full particulars. We will convince you that this is, indeed, the best gilt-edge investment on the market, from every point of view.

Italian Highwaymen Kill Three and Wound Twenty Near London

Pursued in Long Flight by Auto and Trolley Finally End Their Own Lives When Surrounded by Posse

London, Jan. 23.—Five persons are dead and more than twenty others are in hospitals at Walthamstow, a suburb of London, as the result of a sensational attempt made today by two Italians at highway robbery.

The Italians were run down and surrounded by a posse and finally committed suicide.

Three of their victims, including a policeman and a young boy, lie dead.

Two policemen and three boys are among the wounded.

The Italians have been employed in a rubber factory, but were discharged and planned to revenge themselves on their employers. They lay in wait near the factory and seized a bag of money containing the week's pay of all the hands. They then started on a mad dash down the street.

The police were summoned and started in pursuit in a motor car. As they approached the Italians the robbers opened fire with automatic pistols on their pursuers. A number of men and boys on the streets were shot down before they could recover from their surprise and get to cover.

The Italians kept ahead of the automobile until they came up with a car. This they boarded and making their way to the front platform forced the driver at the point of their revolvers to throw on full speed. The car went thundering down the track with the police automobile in pursuit.

At a point near Tottenham Marshes the Italians made the motorman slow down, and jumping from the car they sought a position in the marshes for their last stand.

By this time the police had been joined by several hundred laboring men. Together the pursuers advanced upon the robbers, the police in the van.

The Italians were surrounded and hard pressed. They saw their position was hopeless and after the exchange of a few shots they turned their weapons upon themselves and committed suicide.

Avalanche of Snow Carries Men and Horses to Death

Grand Junction, Col., Jan. 23. — Four men were killed and more than a score had narrow escapes from death when a 50-foot high avalanche of snow swept over the Camp Bird Mine at Ouray. The four men were talking in the cookhouse when, almost without warning, the thousands of tons of snow, rock and dirt came upon them. They were hurled into the canyon and covered with snow. It will be midsummer before their bodies can be recovered.

Caught in the steep mountain trails by the blizzard which raged all day are eight six-horse teams, and the Camp Bird bullion stage, carrying $6000 in gold and many passengers. It is feared that they were in the path of the slide.

Dad Austin, hero of many a wild ride through the mountains, and one of the stage driver in the west, heard the slide when it started. He was driving a six-horse stage filled with people and the horses were plunging along at a gallop when he recognized the sound. Instantly he threw all his weight on the brake and succeeded in stopping the stage on the very edge of the avalanche. Two of the leading horses were cut out off by the mass of snow and debris and carried down the canyon hundreds of feet below.

The camp of the Ascentelder freight gang was completely wiped out. Forty horses were carried into the canyon and buried.

Steamer Rammed in a Fog--Ten Toronto People Were Among Passengers

Toronto, Jan. 23.—The following Torontonians were passengers on the Republic;

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Woods and Miss Woods.

Dr. and Mrs. John Cavén.

Mrs. (Col.) Mason and two daughters.

L. L. McMurray and wife.

Mrs. J. L. Capreol.

Miss George, Miss McKenzie and Miss Teskie.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 23.—The White Star Line steamer Republic was rammed by an unknown vessel and disabled twenty-six miles south of Nantucket, while threading her way along the Nantucket south shoal in a thick fog early today.

Immediately after the accident the wireless apparatus on the steamer flashed the news of her plight in all directions, and within a short time several vessels, including the French Line steamer Lorraine, westward bound; the White Star liner Baltic; the revenue cutter Acushnet and the revenue cutter Gresham were on their way to the scene of the collision, prepared to offer every assistance to the disabled Republic.

All the messages asked that assistance be sent immediately, and one flashed to the navy yard here said the steamer was sinking. Later, however, the captain of the Republic sent a wireless message to the company's offices in New York and Boston, in which he stated that while the engine room was full of water yet the steamer could keep afloat and was in no danger.

The Republic left New York yesterday for Mediterranean ports with 250 first-class passengers and 211 in the steerage. The crew numbers 250.

The captain of the Republic reported that he was twenty-six miles south of Nantucket lightship when the accident occurred. This would place the Republic about 200 miles along on her voyage. The nearest land was Nantucket Island, about seventy miles due north, but with his engine room full of water the only thing left for the captain to do was to shed wireless waves broadcast over the Atlantic, asking for assistance.

VALUED AT $1,500,000.

The Republic is the largest vessel in the Boston trade, being of 15,378 tons displacement. She holds the record for the fastest passage between Queenstown and Boston, and Boston and Queenstown.

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R.V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for women's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

St. Paul's Congtegation Raised a Large Sum of Money During the Year

St. Paul's Presbyterian church has made great strides during the past year as the annual reports will show when presented at the congregational meeting on Wednesday evening next. The amount of money raised during the year from envelope contributions and open collections is over $7000, which is an increase of $1800 made up by $1500 more through envelopes and $300 in open collections. For missionary purposes and all other schemes of the church raised by all branches there is a total of between $12,000 and $13,000 which is a big increase over last year. The financial statement for the year was circulated in the congregation yesterday and it is indeed a very gratifying statement. The Board of Managers were not only able to meet all current expenses and demands but also paid off $1,000 on the mortage. Considering the depression in the times this is exceptionally good. The church membership was increased by 111, about equally divided between members by certificates and by profession of faith.

On Wednesday evening from six to eight o'clock the ladies of the congregation will serve tea to all the members and adherents of the church and a full attendance is looked for. The business meeting will be held afterwards.

Salvation Army Will Bring Out 8,000 Immigrants

London, Jan. 23.—In another couple of months the movement of British emigrants to Canada will have commenced, and already plans are in hand for the handling of the thousands who will seek new homes in the Dominion. The Salvation Army has not yet made any public announcement of its emmigration program for the coming season; but it is understood that "conduted" parties will be despatched from Liverpool every week from the middle of March to the middle or end of June by the Canadian Pacific and Dominion Lines. The season will open with the sailing of the C.P.R. steamer Lake Erie about March 17th. A few conducted parties will also be sent out by Allen liners from Glasgow. No steamers have been entirely chartered, as in some previous years, but the conductors of the largest parties will establish employment bureaus on board, so that all the emigrants will know before landing the exact situations they are going to.

The Army's arrangement to insure its emigrants at a small cost against sickness, accident, loss of luggage and unemployment is sure to arouse criticism.

In the last five years about 40,000 persons have been sent out by the Salvation Army. Last year's total, 7,000, was only about half of the year before. The Canadian officials of the army advise that 1,000 should be sent to the Atlantic Provinces, 5,000 to Ontario and the Eastern Townships of Quebec, 1,000 to Manitoba and Saskatchewan and another 1,000 to Alberta and British Columbia.

Endowment Made by Local Ladies

For a number of years the Misses Dickson and Sisters of Peterborough have generously kept endowed at the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives at a cost of $300 a year, a free bed for needy consumptives of the city of Peterborough. The renewal cheque for this amount for another year has just reached the head office, 347 West King street, Toronto.—Toronto World.

Longboat and Shrubb Race is Postponed

New York, Jan. 23.—At noon today Pat Powers discovered that it was impossible to secure a race between Longboat, Hayes, and Dorando for Tuesday, and he postponed the Shrubb-Longboat race until Friday, February the fifth.

There will be no race Tuesday night.

Both Shrubb and Longboat are satisfied.

The trouble in arranging a three-cornered race was that Dorando refused to run a second Marathon race so soon after his Chicago race.

New York, Jan. 23.—Alfred Shrubb and Tom Longboat will not get in a Marathon race here Tuesday night, or if they do a miracle will have happened. Shrubb has developed inflammation of the great toe of his left foot.

The trouble broke out yesterday, and today he came to New York to see P.

Another Acute Situation with Japan

The request of President Roosevelt that the California Legislature refrain from the passage of any legislation aimed against the Japanese has revived interest in American relationship with Japan.

William Randolph Hearst, in a long telegraphic despatch from San Francisco to the New York American, says;—

"There is another acute situation with Japan. The usual complications are developing which threatened war before and threaten war now, and may eventually result in war. When the American fleet was floating serenely upon the placid bosom of the Pacific Ocean. Japan was overflowing with graciousness and good-will toward the United States, and could find nothing but approval and admiration for the policy of this nation and the acts of its individual citizens. When the American fleet had been divided and the larger part of it had reached the farthest possible point from the Pacific coast, Japan's irritability and petulance suddenly returned, and have now reached such an aggravated stage that the smallest action of the California Legislature may be magnified into a casus belli. There is no peace or dignity possible in our relations with Japan without the fleet in Pacific seas."

Archbishop Sweetman Passed Away Yesterday in Toronto

It was with profound regret and deep sorrow that the news of the death of Archbishop Sweetman of Toronto, was received in this city on Sunday evening about 5.30 o'clock The first message was received by Rev. Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's.

The late Archbishop of Toronto and primate of all Canada, had been in ill health for some years but on Thursday last he was seized with an attack of pneumonia and he sank gradually but rapidly from that time until death relieved him of his sufferings Sunday afternoon. His grace was a native of England, and was educated in Cambridge. He was made Bishop of Toronto, some thirty years ago and about three years ago became archbishop. At the same time Bishop Reeves was appointed co-adjutor to his grace and his office it is understood expires with the death of the archbishop.

The late archbishop of Toronto, was well known in Peterborough and had hundreds of warm friends and admirers here. He had visited this season city many times and was always greeted by very large congregations whenever he officiated at any service. He had performed many confirmation ceremonies here and hundreds of members of St. John's, St. Luke's and All Saints' congregations have received his blessing. His grace was 76 years of age. The funeral arrangements and fuller particulars of his life and death will be given later.

IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

In St. John's church last night Rev. Canon Davidson made a very feeling reference to the death of Archbishop Sweetman, who was so well known and dearly loved in this city. The choir rendered two special hymns, "Peace, Perfect Peace," and "On the Resurrection Morn." The opening voluntary was "O Rest in the Lord," from the Elijah. At the conclusion of the service the organist, Mr. R. J. Devey, rendered "The Dead March in Saul," while the choir and congregation stood in their places, and during the rendition and while the congregation was leaving the bell tolled. The recessional was Beethoven's Grand Sonata in A flat.

Lindsay Coming with a Crowd of "Rooters"

Lindsay is due to play the return game with Peterborough intermediates on Tuesday night. They will be here with a special train load of rooters providing the weather permits and there is lee. This is the game which will decide the winner of this district, providing Lindsay wins. If the locals win, as they should do, then there will be a hard fight for the finish as Peterborough and Lindsay will be tied. No one should fail to see this match.

Womanly pains, head pains, in fact any pain anywhere can be completely stopped in 20 minutes with one of Dr. Sheop's Pink Pain Tablets. Ask your Doctor or Druggist about the formula. It is printed on the box — and it can't be bettered. Try one dose and be convinced. Box 25c. Sold by all dealers.

BLAME YELLOW PRESS FOR SEEKING WAR WITH JAPAN

Washington Officials See in Violent Agitation Only Danger in Situation—Islanders Want No Fight—Worst That Could Come Would be Rupture of Agreement, says Wellman

Washington, Jan. 23.—Only one danger exists in the Japanese complications, according to the views of officials here, and that is the work of the yellow press in America and in Japan. Already the yellow journals of the United States are doing their best to foment trouble. William R. Hearst screeches for war, eggs on the anti-Japanese sentiment in California and demands that the President turn back the fleet toward the Pacific Ocean. Another yellow paper, published mornings here at the national capital, reprints the Hearst screech with scare headlines and the uninitiated foreigner temporarily sojourning in Washington might easily imagine the American people were thirsting for war and that hostilities were not far distant. But all is serene in executive, diplomatic and congressional circles. The Hearst screech and its echo in Washington alarm no one. Every one recalls that Mr. Hearst lays the flattering unction to his soul that his yellow kid brought on the war with Spain. The kid did nothing of the sort, unless he blew up the Maine; and no one has ever accused him of that. For the purposes of sensationalism and advertising the kid would doubtless like to foment a war with Japan. But the yellows of America and of Japan together will not be able to do that.

The administration is in a peculiar position with reference to this sensationalism of the yellows. It does not wish to denounce the imprudence and recklessness of such journals because that would weaken the case which the President has raised with the legislature of California. In fact, President Roosevelt is willing the Californians and the country at large should have a little fright over the outlook, as that is probably the best way to convince the people of the Pacific coast of the heavy responsibility they bear in this affair. The President's belief is that if the business men and conservative people of the Pacific coast can be impressed with the possibility of the consequences of anti-Japanese legislation at this time they will see to it that no such legislation is enacted. In fact, the government is, in a way, promoting the fright by disclosing to the public in a recent to Congress today that San Pedro harbor, California, could easily be occupied by an enemy and held as a basis of operations against the remainder of the Pacific coast. For the present, therefore, until the west coast can be duly impressed with a sense of its responsibility, the yellows are probably safe from criticism at the White House.

One striking difference between the attitude of the administration and the Hearst screech is that the President and his aides are trying to allay anti-Japanese sentiment on the coast, while the yellow kid is doing everything in its power to stir up that sentiment and lead it to hostile action. As soon as the President can feel sure he has carried his main point and has received adequate assurances that California will not enact such legislation as would provoke the Japanese government and people, he is likely to be heard from in condemnation of the unpatriotic and reckless journalism of San Francisco, New York and Washington. There is much comment upon the fact that one of the leading journals of the capital city of the United States is lending its aid to this unworthy crusade against peace.

Despite the howling of the yellow kid and his imitators, there is no danger of war. All the probabilities are, according to the information received by President Roosevelt, that California will be patriotic enough to hold her hand. No one questions the constitutional right of the legislature of California to enact the proposed laws against aliens, but the moral right, in view of the possible consequences to the nation at large, is another thing. In a way this agitation raises the old question of state rights, and exposes one of the weaknesses of the American system. A state, or even a municipality, may bring on foreign complications, and possibly war, which the country as a whole would have no sympathy with. But President Roosevelt believes the people of California will remember they owe a duty to the remainder of the country and that moderation and wisdom will rule in their counsels.

It is a favorite theory of the sensationalists that if California persists in anti-Japanese legislation war will surely follow. It suits the present purpose of the administration to let that idea go uncontradicted. But as a matter of fact war is so remote, in any event, that no one in authority here is really alarmed.

Should California persist the worst that would probably happen would be a disarrangement of the "understanding" recently achieved between the two countries. Japan might feel hurt at such legislation, disappointed, even a little resentful. But when you get down to the actualities of the affair, nothing which the Californians propose to do would give Japan even a reasonable excuse for going to war. To restrict the activities and privileges of aliens is the right of every government. It is an essential part of the sovereign power. Nor is it a just cause of war if aliens be expelled from a country, let alone the mere denying to them of certain privileges enjoyed by citizens. No principle is better established than this in international law.

It is far better that California listen to President Roosevelt and stay the hands of her legislators. That would be the square deal for Japan and would help the cause of peace. But if California does not, Japan will make no war—unless the yellow kids on the other side of the Pacific have more influence than they are generally credited with. Japan would cut a sorry figure in the world making war upon the United States because one of the states had exercised powers inherent in sovereignty and employed by sovereign governments everywhere, in various ways.

Of course, if the Japanese are eager for war, if they are seeking pretexts for a fight, they could find it in this action, should action be had. But they are not. The most trustworthy information is to the effect that there is no war feeling in Japan.

New York City "Broke" Mayor Pleads for Increase in Debt Limit

New York, Jan. 23.—Unless the legislature increases the borrowing capacity of New York City, subway construction and other public improvement work will have to be halted for at least two years, according to a statement made today by Mayor McClellan before the legislative committee which is investigating the municipality's finances. The mayor declared that he felt bound by the report of William M. Ivins to the governor that the present margin of borrowing capacity is only $6,000,000. He believed private capital could not be interested in extensive subway building at the present time.

Replying to a question about municipal ownership of public utilities, Mayor McClellan said;

"There is a general socialistic tendency abroad in the country, and it requires all the backbone of the government and the officials of the city to resist the pressure. I don't approve of the operation of the city's facilities except as a last resort. I fought my last fight on that proposition, and had I not won by a few votes, the city would have undertaken every wildcat scheme that could be suggested. This policy would undoubtedly plunge the city into moral bankruptcy. Just now we are operating certain water plants, electric lighting plants and the Staten Island and Brooklyn Thirty-ninth street ferries. In this latter we are losing money every year.

Finances of the Presbytery of Peterboro'

A statement of comparative givings in all the Presbyterian churches in the Peterborough Presbytery has been published and circulated. It is a very interesting document. The congregation in Port Hope, (St. Paul's) leads in the giving for all purposes with $42.45 per family or $25.06 per adherent. The Westwood congregation is second with $412.10 per family. Warsaw is third with $39.22 per family, and St. Paul's, Peterborough, is fifth with $32.90 per family. Knox church, Peterborough, donated $31.11, while St. Andrew's, Peterborough, gave $22.49 per family. St. Paul's congregation, this city, however, stands first on the list for all givings per communicant.

A Small Fire at Mount St. Joseph

At noon on Sunday a small fire was discovered at Mount St. Joseph which threatened to do considerable damage. A bunch of rags over the furnace took fire and filled the place with smoke. A telephone message was sent to the fire hall and the department responded, but the fire had been extinguished in the meantime. Very little if any damage was done.

A PROSPEROUS YEAR

The annual report to the directors of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, presented at the annual meeting, Thursday, and printed in this issue, reveals results of a very successful year's operations. The net earnings of the year after payment of debenture interest and management expenses amounted to $96,583 81. Adding last year's balance of profit and loss of $35,725.18 makes a total of $132,308.99 available for distribution. This was apportioned to the payment of four quarterly dividends, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, and, a very satisfactory debenture, the payment of a two per cent. bonus upon the $1,00,000 of paid up capital, amounting to $20,000 The Reserve Fund was also strengthened by the addition of $30,000 bringing the fund up to the satisfactory total of $650,000, equal to 65 per cent. of the paid up capital stock of $1,000,000. These distributions left $22,308.99 to be placed at the credit of Profit and loss. General prosperity has marked the operations of the year; payments on the company's investments have been satisfactorily met and rentals have been properly paid. The general results are of an all round gratifying character and reflect credit upon the efficiency of the local management.

TALKS WITH THE DEAD

Mr. W. T. Stead has caused something of a sensation by the announcement that he is in daily intercourse with the spirit of his son Willie, which forsook its earthly shell some time ago. He promises that in the near future he will explain to the world how he established a medium of communication with the spirit land; and he also promises to produce irrefragible proofs of the actuality of such communication. Though dozens of experimenters have tried before now to prove to a sceptical generation that they could and did talk to the dead, and that the dead talked back, no one has succeeded in conquering the general disbelief on this point. The fact that hundreds of these attempts have been exposed as cruel frauds has not made easier the task of those who have taken Spiritualism seriously. The world will await Mr. Stead's proofs with interest. In the meantime it has made up its mind not be believe him.

ANXIETIES OF THE DEAD.

The news from Willie Stead is very satisfactory to his father, for Willie says that the citizens of that mysterious realm whence no traveler returns are just as anxious to talk to us as we are to hold conversation with them. "He talks with me at great length," says Mr. Stead, "regarding what he sees, how he feels and what his hopes are respecting myself and other members of the family. The idea of a spirit seeing and feeling is rather a new one; and in this case the words are to be understood, we suppose, as mere symbols for earthly intelligence, the real ideas of a spirit being difficult if not impossible, for us to grasp. At this point it may be not irreverent to remark that, judging from the messages that are supposed to have come from the spirit land, one would suppose that no newspaper reporter had ever died. At any rate none of them has ever arrived in the neighborhood of the other spirits who have established communication with those who remain on earth. It is certain that when a newspaper man gets among them we shall have some live information on subjects which are of the utmost importance to every human being, instead of the puerile reports that have leaked out up to the present moment.

THE TROUBLES OF W. T. STRAD.

Mr. Stead says that he has long been a believer in Spiritualism. He has known, he says, that the dead could talk with us, and he admits that his convictions on this subject have cost him dear. They have hurt him in a business way, made human beings treating him as though he were demented. He has lost not only money, but friends. Now, however, he is amply repaid for all he has suffered. He would not give one of his son's letters for all he has lost. The letters, by the way, would hardly be accepted in a court of law as evidence that the dead speak, for they are all in Mr. Stead's own handwriting. He sits before his desk, utterly passive. All he consciously does is to hold the pencil in his fingers. The rest is the work of the spirit. After the trance or aberration, or whatever it is, the paper will be found covered with writing. This is the letter from Willie.

A REMARKABLE PROPHECY.

In the Fortnightly Review there appears an account of what Mr. Stead thinks a remarkable experience of his own. He declares that it constitutes about the best possible proof that we can receive messages from the dead. He remarks that the hypothesis of telepathy from the unconscious mind of the living can be used to account for almost any message said to be transmitted from the dead. "There is, however, one class of message that cannot be thus explained away." He refers to prophecy. It is admitted that the living mind cannot pry very far into futurity. There are some prophecies, of course, that may be explained as mere coincidences. Others are a clever jump at the end of a spring board of reason. There are also the millions annually which are wrong. The prophecy that Mr. Stead tells of came true, an don that account is interesting.

THE CASE OF "E. M."

It appears that he has din his employ a female clerk named "E. M.," of uncertain temper and far from robust health. She was not satisfactory, and he had made up his mind to discharge her, when he received a spirit message from an American spirit named "Julia" telling him to bear with "E. M.", as she would die within the year. This was on Jan. 15. The message was repeated in February, March, April, May and June. Nothing doing. In July "E. M." swallowed a tin tack. The result was acute appendicitis and the doctors gave her up. Julia, however, said she would recover, and she did. In August, September, October and November the original message was repeated. In December, "E. M." was stricken with influenza. She was desperately ill when the old year passed away, and Mr. Stead ventured, in a gentlemanly way, to "Josh" Julia. She said, however, that influenza would not kill "E. M.," but that she would die a violent death. She also reminded Mr. Stead that the year since the prophecy had been made was not up—an worthy quibble on Julia's part, it seems to us. On January 10 Julia told Mr. Stead he would see "E. M." alive for the last time next day. Two days later she threw herself out of the window in her delirium and was killed.

AN INFERNAL EXPERIMENT.

The New York Sun refers to the Stead article as an infernal experiment, and accuses him of moral blindness to the simpler possibilities of the case. It considers it likely that "E. M." had heard of the ghastly messages through one of the two female secretaries whom Mr. Stead had taken into his confidence. She may even have had a peep at the horrible messages which the editor preserved, and this fear hanging over her may have so preyed on her mind, already weakened by disease, that she destroyed herself. This hypothesis seems a good deal more reasonable than that which Mr. Stead asks us to adopt, and for the time being we accept it.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the Stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Do Not Want to be Pardoned

Washington, Jan. 21.—"We have not asked, and will not ask, for clemency, and we hope our friends will not urge us to pursue such a course. Loving liberty as free men do—as we do—it cannot be difficult to appreciate what incarceration in a prison would mean to us.

"To ask pardon would render useless all the trail and sacrifice which our men of labor and our friends in all walks of life have endured, that the rights and liberties of our people might be restored.

"Such a pardon would only leave the whole case in confusion and it would have to be fought over again from the beginning."

This is some of the language used in a remarkable statement signed by Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison in the current number of the American Federationist, in formal protest against the action of Justice Wright in sentencing them to imprisonment for contempt of court in the Bucks Stove and Range.

...The... Plow Woman

He observed that as the Bickoure Bottling moved but a dog, which was going toward the shingle roof. So, composedly drawing his sheet of cow's hide about him, he strode to his lodge.

Until daybreak two Indians did not join the others in their rest. The one sat barking for the call of a mourning dove; the other sat cross legged beside the smudge, and as a splinter now and then revived the fire he wafted prayers of thanksgiving to the Great Spirit on its upward rising smoke.

CHAPTER XXXII.

THE wide valley was brown, with green splots and tracings for slough and stream. The distant ranges were gray. The sky showed the misty blue of the dog days. Far off to the north and west black streaks edged the horizon, where smoke rolled up from prairie fires.

Brannon was quiet to the point of lethargy. Guard was mounted and daily dress parade held ceremoniously. The trumpet blew its unvarying round of commands. There was no hunting and no field duty beyond the scouting of the eastern shore. The hoarse salute of an upward plying steamer roused the garrison to life one morning, but the interruption lasted barely half an hour. Then the steamer, her pilot house screened by sheet iron and her decks a-swarm with infantry, rounded a bend in the river and went coughing away out of sight. Once again interest centered at the site of the pony corral, where a platform was slowly building.

Life at the shack was even less eventful. For Dallas it was a season of idleness. The pumpkins and the melons were swelling. The tasseled corn wanted weeks before it would ripen. The field and garden were free of weeds. With no work to do, alone except for her sister, the elder girl had ample time to worry.

Marylyn saw that she was dispirited and increased in tenderness toward her, following her about with eyes that entreated yet were not sad. At breakfast she spitted the choicest cuts for Dallas. In the noon heat she was at her elbow with a dipper of ginger beer; at supper coaxed the elder girl's failing appetite by offerings of tasty stew, white flour dumplings and pone. As for herself, Marylyn needed neither urging nor tidbits. She ate heartily. Her sleep was a rest for both body and mind. Every afternoon she strolled across the head to the cottonwoods. The butterflies fared beside her. Overhead between sun and earth hung legions of grasshoppers like a haze. Underfoot bluebell and sunflower nodded. And the grove was a place for dreams.

And Dallas—was a wild thing that cannot tell of its wound.

She uttered no complaint even to Simon. The outburst that followed Lounsbury's return was her first and last. She questioned now if her suffering justified a lament. In this she resembled her mother. A woman coming to the section house one torrid day remarked wonderingly that Mrs. Lancaster gave "nary a whimper." The latter looked up with a smile. "I don't think I'm sick enough," she said. "Other people worse off have a right to groan." Dallas, certain that Marylyn's heartache was the keener, would not be behindhand in restraint, and her sister's happiness, forethought and desire to please all drove the thrust of penitence to the hilt and turned the knife in that secret wound.

She found no solace in Marylyn's friends of the calico covers. Her thoughts were too tempestuous for that. They were like milling cattle. Around and around they tore, mingling and warring, but stilling in the end to follow the only course—self denial. Once so rebellious, she was growing meek at last—meek and full of contrition. She was coming to dwell more, too, on the lessons that the evangelist had taught her. She was coming to think of leaning where David Bond had leaned—she who had always been a prop.

There was the old terror that had stalked beside her down to her mother's death. She had fought her way with it, and the conflict had given her strength. There was the jealousy that had smirched her sister love. She had fought it, too, and bitterly, scorning it because she knew it for a hateful inheritance. Now was come a third misery and the worst. She saw herself as a traitor. This was not mere reproach. It was the torture of a stricken conscience.

Her face grew thin, her hand unsteady, her eyes wore a hunted look. At night hers were the scalding tears that dampened the pillow.

And so the days went by. Whatever pangs of remorse, whatever longing she endured, she remained faithful to the resolution that she would not give way to temptation again. But every night thought the lonely watcher to the south.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

THE dark of the moon was come. All that day the sun had baked, and the steady south blow had been like the draft of an oven. As evening came, brushing a glory of red from the sky, the wind quickened instead of lulling and fetched up clouds that rested on the ridge tops and roofed the wide valley. Through these not a star showed. But now and then, for an instant, the pent sprang into sight out of the blackness to the weird play of the heat lightning.

In the stockade there was perfect quiet—a quiet tense with excitement. Secrecy forbade any strong heart songs and dances. Caution advised against mosquito fires, and suspense did away with drumming, shrill laughter and feast about. The aged men, the weaker and the children kept close within their lodges, where they whispered and nodded, nose to nose. The warriors stayed outside, preserving their calm with kinnikinick. In the dark the open bowls of their scattered pipes were as many ruddy glowworms.

From the pitchy shelter of the shingle roof Squaw Charley looked out. He sat on his heels, about him the few mangy dogs that had not found the dinner pot. One of these stirred. Half rising he gave it a kick, just as one of his brothers might have done. Then he squatted again, and through the ragged strands of his bang his black eyes sparkled eagerly, for of late every warrior's lodge had seen secret flesh painting. Under every warrior's blanket were hidden gaudy tracings of vermilion, scarlet, orange and blue, and was he not painted too?

He had sought in an ash pile for coals, found a beef bone and snapped it for marrow, next taken from his worn pouch a lump of red earth. He had rubbed the coals to powder in a square of rag, after which he had mixed the powder and the grease to make a paste. Then he had pulled off his mourning blanket and his squaw's shirt and bared his body to the waist.

Vermilion, orange, scarlet and blue—these colors had been laid in stripes, circles and figures upon the braves. They were colors that he, an outcast, might not use, but there was one poor privilege in flesh painting that even he could claim. Kneeling again in clout and squaw's skirt he had smeared the black and red in rude signs upon his chest. The braves, his brothers, had painted themselves for battle, but he, the pariah, had painted himself in the colors of death.

Suddenly he forsook the roof for the shadow of the log wall. There he waited. Two warriors had left the lodge of Brown Mink and were crossing the pen. He knew them. The shorter was Canada John, the eldest of the four condemned. The other was a Sioux who had been captured that day and cast into prison at sunset. He was a giant in stature, wore full war paint and dress and a belt that testified his valor, for it hung thick with scalps, some jetty and coarse, taken from heads of his own kind, some brown or fair, with the softness that belongs to the hair of white women and children. The two were talking low together. Presently, as they strolled near, the outcast heard the deep murmur of their voices, then their words. He leaned toward them, all ears.

"How many sleeps before the doye calls?" It was the bass of the stranger.

"Perhaps only another," answered Canada John.

There was a great laugh, like the cry of a full fed lion. "Surely Big Ox stays not long! But how can my friends be sure that the Double Tongue will have horses ready?"

"He claims a reward."

"Ho, ho! And what?"

Canada John halted close to Squaw Charley. "There is a cottonwood lodge beyond the river," he said. "It should belong to the Double Tongue. He is kept out. An old paleface and his two daughters seized it in the moon of wild cherries, and they would not go."

"An old squaw, you say?"

"But he hunts the white buffalo. Only the daughters are there."

"Are they young?"

"Young and sleek. One is called the Plow Woman. She is tall, and she watches like the antelope. The younger has hair like the grass when it is withered."

"They live alone?"

"The Squaw guards"—

"Wuff!"

"And the Man Who Buys Skins. May he be struck by the sigung fire!"

"Who is to have the women?"

Canada John scratched his nose. "The medicine giver says, 'He that first reaches them.'"

Big Ox shook his head in doubt. "The swiftest may yet fail to keep."

"Should any pursue, the women will be killed. The soldiers will think them hit by rattlesnakes."

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided Into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia, Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont, Sec-Treas; Charles Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C. Ritchie, Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim MiR. 868, containing 40 acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 18th December, 1908, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. LeVesconte, 20 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties. In consideration of 200,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 20,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $ 000; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 5000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 15th of December, 1908.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

THREATENED WITH PARALYSIS.

Peter H. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

Accuse Kaiser of Squandering Millions

Berlin, Jan. 23.—"For more than twenty years Emperor William has been living beyond his means," says the Vossische Zeitung, a paper which is by no possible means sensational or socialistic, but on the contrary, is one so conservative and staid that it has long had the nickname "Aunty Vies," because of its at times rather exaggerated carefulness.

What no radical paper would have dared a few years ago, practically accusing the head of the German nation of being a reckless squanderer, who cannot make both ends meet on an income of $5,000,000 a year, the most conservative paper of the country prints without as much as a blush. Times have indeed changed in Germany and the lion has had its claws shorn. No charge of any kind will be made against the editor, who has stated a fact that is so much more grave as not only did William's predecessors get along on the same income, but his grandfather, William I., even managed to save up the snug little sum of $15,000,000, a considerable part of which has also vanished through the present emperor's fingers. One may imagine what the kaiser feels when the radical papers remind him that President Roosevelt, the head of an at least equally great nation, receives no more than $50,000, and has no secret national funds to fall back on, no castles to sell.

EXPENDITURES GROWING.

Since the present kaiser ascended the throne the expenditure has been growing all the time, and it is stated that there has of late been a considerable annual deficit. The kaiser's journeys from one of the principal reasons of excessive expenditure, as they involve very heavy costs. The Vossische Zeitung writes:—

"It can only cause satisfaction if unnecessary expenses of the imperial court are avoided, and if unnecessary luxury is limited in the future. It appears that November 17, 1908, (the day on which Prince Buelow told the emperor the whole truth about the outburst of national discontent against his personal regime) was the beginning of a new area in this as in other respects. It remains to be seen whether the change for the better will be permanent or only temporary."

A significant sign of the times may been seen in the decision of the crown prince not to build the new magnificent palace at Babelsberg, the construction of which has already been begun. This palace was to be the most luxurious building in Germany, and enormous sums were to be spent on the home of the future emperor. Orders have now been given to abandon the work of building, and the crown prince and princess will continue to reside at the marble palace at Potsdam, although this building has frequently been described as too small for their requirements.

MAGNIFICENT MONUMENTS.

It is noteworthy that protests are being made in some quarters against the sale of the kaiser's five castles, on the ground that they are valuable architectural works which ought not to be allowed to pass into the hands of private possessors. The Rhenish Westphalian Gazette describes the sale as a violation of the act of 1907, which prohibits the destruction of historical monuments. The castle of Stolzenfels, which is now offered for sale was given to King William Frederick IV. of Prussia by a number of enthusiastic patriots, who subscribed the necessary amount to buy it, and the Rhenish Westphalian Gazette declares that it is improper to offer a present for sale.

At any rate, adds the newspaper, ordinary mortals consider it indecent to sell presents which have been given to them. The Rhenish Westphalian Gazette proceeds to point out that the King of Italy, although a comparatively poor monarch, maintains all the historical castles in his possession, although large sums of money are necessary to preserve them. "King Victor Emmanuel," it says, "would never wound the historical sentiment of his people by selling these magnificent monument of bygone times."

Tight, tickling, or distressing coughs quickly yield to the healthful, soothing action of this splendid prescription—Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so safe and good for children, as well. Will Not Raise the Bounty on Wolves

A proposal was made at the recent fish and game convention here to increase the bounty on wolves from $15 to $25 apiece, but Hon. Dr. Reaume told The Star this morning that he was opposed to any such change.

"It would simply mean that Ontario would be flooded by sharpers from Michigan and Minnesota bringing in skins from there in order to collect the higher bounty. There was a proposal also to keep the ears of the animals on the pelts in future instead of cutting them off as we do now. Of course, cutting the ears off spoils the head to a certain extent, but you must remember that it is the surest way of marking a hide which has been examined and paid for and thus stopping impositions."

"Then consider this:—If we increased the bounty to $25 it would actually be profitable to breed wolves as you do dogs and then collect bounties on the hides."

Joseph Roy and Joseph Lafroy were fined $100 each at Sault Ste. Marie for having in their possession illegally a quantity of beaver skins.

There has been a close season for beaver and otter in Ontario for the past ten years. This close season ends next year, but will undoubtedly be prolonged. It is thought probable that one year's open season would result in the extermination of these animals owing to the value of their fur.

A Natural Fighter

In a recent article written for a San Francisco newspaper, Sam Berger, tells why the negro has achieved such wonderful success in the prize ring. Although comprising a very small percentage of the population of this country, the black man stands pre-eminent as an exponent of the manly art. Berger gives as the chief reason for the colored man's success the obstacles that are placed in his way by racial prejudice. It is the natural instinct of the human being to fight in the face of great obstacles—the greater the obstacles the harder he fights.

MUCH TO OVERCOME.

The black man's native disregard for dignity and propriety spurs him on to overcome the social inequality between him and his white brother that has developed by a natural process through centuries of time. His native animal instincts and his acute sense of humor turn many thrusts that are meant for indignities into jests.

aJck Johnson, the first colored heavyweight champion of the world, is typical of his race in every respect. For years he has been clamoring for recognition in championship circles, but al the while men of his class slammed the door of opportunity in his face by drawing the color line. Some were inspired by race feeling, and others by fear. By a lucky chance a white man's craving for money gave the big negro the chance to reach the topmost rung of the ladder of flatic fame. Tommy Burns worshipped the coin of the realm and Johnson was the tool that proved his undoing.

ROUGH ROAD TO TRAVEL.

All through the years that Johnson was ostracised from high-class company he bore his exile "with a patient shrug" and flaunted his happiness in the face of his greedy oppressors. He was robbed out of a decision in a twenty-round battle with Marvin Hart on the coast. The record books place victory after the Kentuckian's name, and the world accepts the victory. Hart later posed as the champion of the world. But Johnson was still happy. He did not go around in sack cloth and ashes hunting undertakers establishments. The care-free smile did not leave his dusky face. He laughed, drank an occasional bottle of wine, and continued his fight for recognition and a square deal. He knew,

HERE A WEEK BLACK.

With all this commotion over the probable return of Jeff to the ring is Johnson hiding under the bed with a hot water bag on his neck? Is he stalling around like Tommy Burns did when challenges were flung in his face? Why, of course not, my dear child. He is grabbing all the vaudeville money there is in Australia, and will cop as much more out of the music halls in London when he hits the dear old Strand. He is happier than ever before in his life, and all the crockery in his facial dining room is exposed by the smile that won't come off.

He will fight Jeff or a Kangaroo, or anything that can put up its dukes. Like our cyclonic lady friend, he doesn't care. If Jeff comes back he will fight him, provided he receives the proper consideration in the financial reckoning. This is due any champion. If Jeff does not come back then Johnson has the title clinched. The accessories of the heavyweight championship are enough to keep any man in ham and eggs money as long as ham and eggs are authentic.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. For, truly, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually weak. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that, the heart muscle promptly fails, and the stomach and kidneys also fail to have some controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a matter of fact, Shoop's Restorative has in the past proved so helpful for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a popular prescription—it is for those who want and require nerve power. It is for those who want strengthened nerves, more vital, nerve force. If your nerves are strong, your heart will be strong. If your nerves are weak, your heart will be weak. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a nerve tonic. It is for the nerves. It is for nerve weakness, nerve exhaustion, nerve starvation. It is for heart weakness, heart palpitation, heart suffocation, heart fluttering, heart pain, heart nervousness. It is for heart strength, nerve strength, nerve power, nerve health. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a nerve tonic. It is for the nerves. It is for nerve weakness, nerve exhaustion, nerve starvation. TRAPS FOR MARINERS

MERCILESS KENTISH KNOCK.

This Real Davy Jones' Locker Is a Vast Cemetery For All Ships That Are Gripped by Its Relentless Sands. Sable Island's Fingers of Death.

The exact location of Davy Jones' locker is not shown on any ocean chart extant, principally because it is a state and not a place, but if any one ocean death trap deserves the title it is the Thames estuary. The British naval department has a chart upon which it marks the position of wrecks with a black dot. On this chart the Thames mouth tract is a solid black spot. So numerous have been the wrecks that the dots run together. The point where the black dots actually pile one on top of another is the Kentish Knock, and this is the place among all of the ocean's danger spots that deserves the title of Davy Jones' locker.

At the Kentish Knock it is not keel shattering rocks of piercing points of coral that wreck the ocean travelers. It is sand, treacherous, clinging sand, that grasps the doomed ship with a grip of steel and holds it firmly while the angry sea beats it to fragments. Many a vessel posted at Lloyd's as missing would be duly accounted for if the Knock sand would give up its booty. There is no hope for ship or man when Father Neptune asks toll at the Kentish Knock, for the nearest land is twenty miles away and the nearest lifeboat at Margate, thirty miles away.

The sands of the ocean are far more dangerous than the rocks. The sand banks extend over more space, therefore offer more points of contact than the rocks, which usually rise in one slender pinnacle. The waters flow over them in smooth waves, and there are no warning breakers.

Next to the Thames mouth tract in point of danger is the Hugli, the salt water river on which Calcutta stands. The most trying part of a large vessel's voyage from New York to Calcutta is the last few miles of this calm river. In this strange river in windless weather and flat, calm water vessels have been lost, dashed to pieces on the ever shifting sand banks by the force of the tides. The sands grasp the keel of the marked vessel, and she stops, but the tide moves on with relentless force, and the helpless ship is carried over on her beam ends. She careens over and founders with all on board. One of the worst shoals in the Hugli bears the name James and Mary. It was the name of a great Indian merchant shipwrecked on the sunken sand banks.

Another danger point dreaded by the master mariner has neither sand nor rocks, but a great submarine waterfall. In the English channel there is a point just beyond the Shambles banks where there is a sudden drop in the sea bottom. The channel tides sweep over the banks and down this sudden drop, creating rapids equal in fury to those of Niagara. The American ship Georgian foundered in Portland race, the name by which this danger point is known, and all hands went down with her.

Ships bound to New York from Europe pass quite near a deadly hidden shoal which runs out from Sable island, lying off Sable cape, in Nova Scotia. The shoal runs out for miles in five directions like the fingers of a great hand reaching out for what it can destroy. When the gales blow, heavy seas boom upon the shoals with sufficient force to shatter the stanchest vessel afloat, and when the wind ceases the beaches are strewn with wreckage and the bodies of those who have perished. The distance from the shore is too great and the surf too heavy for the life savers to reach a struggling vessel, and few lives are saved at this point. Ten vessels have been wrecked in this trap in a single day.

The rocky danger points in the ocean have nearly all been tagged, and lighthouses have been erected on the most dangerous—all except one. There is no lighthouse on the Virgin rock, and there never will be. Out in the mid-Atlantic a giant pinnacle rears its head up from the ocean floor and endeavors vainly to reach the surface of the sea. It is too short by about eighteen feet. There it stands with its sharp point hidden by the ocean waves, waiting to pierce the bottom of some unsuspecting vessel and send it down to join the pile of ships' ribs and dead men's bones that litter the floor around its base. The waves seem to be in league with the rock, for if a vessel of light draft tries to pass over its head the waves shoot it down into a trough at the bottom of which the point of the rock is waiting to rip out her keel.

These danger spots, however, are but annexes to the real Davy Jones' locker, the Kentish Knock, that cemetery of ships and men where dripping ghosts of master mariners and their mates sit over the ruins of their vessels.—R. B. Winslow in Los Angeles Times.

Bridge Builders.

We read of the heroes of the battlefield, the ocean and various other callings, but there is another class of men whose work is also heroic, but who are seldom heard of—men who face death high in the air. They are what the engineer calls "riggers" and are the creators of the world's big bridges and the huge skyscrapers of American cities. Without their bravery and skill the towering structures which span the world's great rivers and gorges could not be put together.—Wide World Magazine.

BOWLING

The Pacifics took three straight games from the Lock Works on Saturday night. It took them all their time, however, and they only won the first game by a few pins. For this Jack Connors' big score gets credit. All the games were close.

One or more games are scheduled for this week in the ten pin tournament at the P.B.C. alleys. It will be noticed that there are quite a number of games that have been postponed. These must be played off this week as it is important that the schedule be kept up to date.

"Social Whirl"

With Insomnia and Collapse

It seems difficult for some of us to be good all of the time, but it pays, after all.

Even a model school teacher, on a vacation, may drop into excesses in the way of overeating, late hours and tea or coffee to add to the irritation of the nervous system.

"I am a teacher in the University", writes a lady in Salt Lake City, "and hold a responsible and trying position. For months before my collapse. I rose completely devitalized, but braced up on a cup of coffee.

"The summer vacation I spent in the East where I participated in a whirl of social affairs. There was scarcely an evening when I did not drink strong coffee and afterwards spend hours awake.

"Finally the break-down came and I have spent hundreds of dollars and almost two years of suffering trying to mend it.

"Every doctor I had insisted on my giving up coffee. I tried Postum, not prepared, at first, as it ought to be, and I did not care for it. Since getting it right I have found it wonderfully beneficial.

"The benefits derived from Postum the past year have been gradualbut sure. The effect on my stomach was immediate. It was the only thing except the white of egg that did not distress me.

"There is no doubt that coffee is injurious to many even in small quantities. To one who will make the trial, there is no doubt that Postum is decidedly beneficial and a delicious drink if made according to directions on package."

"Name given by Postum Co., Battle Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

Has Been Analyzed by Government Chemists and Pronounced Free From Narcotics.

The fact that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic makes it particularly suitable for young children, and especially so, as it can always be depended upon in cases of colds, croup and whooping cough, and it has become famous for its cures of these diseases. Mothers have for many years accepted our statements that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic, but that they may be further assured of this fact, we submit the following certificates:

Mr. Isaac Kennedy Visits Peterborough

Mr. Isaac Kennedy, who was one of the old settlers in this country, came back a few days ago from Los Angeles, where he has been for a good many years in business. Mr. Kennedy came to this country from Ireland in 1855, the same year as the Russian War. He is a veteran of the Fenian Raid in 1866, after which he was married in 1869 at Warsaw. From here he went ot Cleveland, Ohio, living there for about sixteen years, after which he moved to Kansas and went into the cattle business, having about three hundred head of that famous beef. He sold out and moved to Los Angeles, California, and formed a company known as the Lloyd Schovel Iron Company, which founded two stores, one at San Francisco and the other at Los Angeles. They sold out to the Waterhouse and Leslie Company just a few days before the earthquake, in which everything was lost. Mrs. Kennedy was in the city at the time that it happened and they lost all their household goods and their clothes. Mr. Kennedy was himself in Los Angeles, but as soon as he heard of the catastrophe took the first train for San Francisco, witnessing the aftermath of the disaster.

Los Angeles had only 15,000 people when Mr. Kennedy went there and now it has a population of 310,000 inhabitants. Everything there is up to date and he says he has never seen more beautiful stores than those there. One of the largest jewelry stores is owned by the Montgomery Bros., an old Peterborough firm.

Mr. Kennedy leaves here next week for his home in the land of flowers and sunshine, after having visited all his old friends.

Frenchman Next to Run the Marathon

Marathon runners who have raced Dorando Pietri since his arrival in this country could truthfully be called a galaxy of all nations. First there was JJohnny Hayes, an Irish-American; then Tom Longboat, a Canadian Indian; and finally Percy Smallwood, an Englishman. And now a Frenchman is going to try to beat the sturdy Italian. Next Thursday night in Chicago Albert Corey will tackle the Capri baker at the Marathon distance. Corey is a Frenchman, and has been in this country five years.

No distance is ever too far for the sturdy son of Gaul. He is a Marathon veteran, having won two or three of these long grinds. He finished second to Johnny Hayes in the Yonkers Marathon a year ago last Thanksgiving, and in the same position in the St. Louis Marathon.

Corey proved his mettle when he broke the Chicago—Milwaukee record by an hour. Corey ran the 101 miles, in the fastest time ever recorded, and was fairly fresh at the finish.

The Frenchman has an interesting history. As a child he started taking long runs with the rest of the children of his native town, in France. As he grew older he would go to Paris and compete in the twenty-four hour races, which would be held from 6 o'clock Saturday evening until the same hour the following day. Corey always was fond of running, and he could outrun or outwalk any man in his part of France.

Later Corey enlisted in the army, and went to Pekin to serve with the allies in the Boxer uprising. After this he returned to Paris, and later went to Chicago.

Corey has been training hard in preparation for his coming race with Dorando. He went to St. Louis to watch the Italian run Smallwood, and has a fairly good line on the methods which the Italian runner uses.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WASTED

IN EXPERIMENTS

These Millions Have Been and Are Being Wasted in Experiments With Mills and Other Treating Plants

Ours is no experiment. Our new smelting process has Been tested in every detail. We KNOW wha it will do and we know that it will do what we claim for it.

You know what a cheap smelting process will mean to the mining industry all over the world. Miners as well as investors in mining stock must pay their share in unreasonable charges to some smelter under the present system. Why not interest yourself in a company which will help you—which will help the miner as well as the investor in mining stock—to

We will erect a smelter of fifty tons right near your mine. Our smelter thus erected will save 85% in treatment, freight charges and hauling the ore to the railway. This is the crying need of the mining industry to-day.

Think what this means in the treatment of the ores from your mine. Think what this means in the treatment of the ore at present upon the dump. No matter how low grade the dump ore, so long as we have some high grade in every charge, we can get you the values from the ore now lying worthless upon the dump.

We have the practical smelter of the new era. It is not an experiment; it is now in practical working order. We are now ready to erect smelters everywhere. We will build the smelters right at your mines, and thereby overcome all the obstructions which may be placed in our way by the railroads and trust smelters.

Why lament the fact of the present smelter overcharges, when her you have the chance to get a smelter right at your mine, which will treat the ore at $2 per ton, without difference for grades?

We are offering only 100,000 shares of stock in the Kuenzel's Process Smelter Company at 75 cents a share. The proceeds from the sale of this stock will be used towards erecting several of our smelters near producing mines, when we will begin at once to make money for ourselves and for the mine owner.

We have a large plant, a completely equipped machine shop, capable of building at least two 50-ton smelters every month. The preliminary development stage of our enterprise has passed. We are ready to make money. Why not join us as a stockholder?

The money which you in this company is represented in full value in property and other assets. You are investing in a reality when you buy these shares.

Buy stock in this company now and you will help to realize upon the low grade ores in your dumps which otherwise must remain in waste and valueless. Let us tell you all about this new era smelter, the practical operation of which actually means the revolution of the mining industry. Write for full particulars. We will convince you that this is, indeed, the best gilt-edge investment on the market, from every point of view.

Simpson Ran in Grand Style--Won by four Laps

New York, Jan. 25.—Fred Simpson, the Canadian Indian, beat Bob Edgar, a New York runner, four miles at the Newark race on Saturday night. He won by four laps. Simpson ran in grand style, but was only given 23.10 for the four miles. "It looked to me," says Lou Marsh, "as if Simpson was running at about 22 minutes to the four miles, and the time given was what excited my suspicion that the track was about half a lap too long for the mile."

Simpson is tickled to death with the way Tom Eck is handling him. Simpson is getting speed every day, and if he gets a chance will surprise some of the wise ones.

Riot Nearly Occurred as Republic's Passengers were Being Transferred to the Florida--Spikes and Revolvers in Use

New York, Jan. 25.—The dramatic sea story of the wrecking of the White Star Liner Republic, by the steamer Florida, of the Lloyds-Italian Line, in which six lives were lost and four people injured came to a close today when the big steamship Baltic of the White Star Line, came into port bearing on board more that 1,600 passengers of the sunken Republic, and the crippled Florida.

Stories told by the Republic's passengers show that the transfer of passengers from the Florida to the Baltic in the dark hours of Saturday night, came perilously near resulting in a riot of the 500 Italian steerage passengers on the Florida, who believed that their vessel was in imminent danger of sinking.

Only the efforts of the officers aided by several of the Republic's passengers quieted the frightened men who sought to be the first to board the life boats.

BODIES WENT DOWN

The officers of the Baltic report the deaths of Mrs. Eugene Lynch, of Boston, Mass., and W. J. Mooney, of Langdon, N.D., together with four negro sailors, whose names are not known.

The bodies of Mrs. Lynch and Mr. Mooney were placed in hermetically sealed caskets, which sank with the steamer Republic off Nantucket.

While the passengers of the Republic were being carried to the Baltic, word was spread about the Florida that she was in danger of sinking, and the Italian steerage passengers, who until this time evidenced no fears, became greatly alarmed. They pressed about the entrance of the gangway, which was guarded by Chief Steward Stanyer, and three of the ship's other officers. The Italians made several rushes for the gangway, but were repulsed by the officers and one or two passengers of the Republic, who used their fists and a few convenient spikes.

One officer is said to have drawn a revolver, while another used a rope end. All night long, while the slow progress was made in the transfer of passengers, the Italians were in a constant state of hysteria and fright.

Queer Figures in the New Commons

Ottawa, Jan. 25.— Glen Campbell wears a stiff-brimmed cowboy hat. He wears it in the House of Commons, and he wears it in the West when the temperature is 50 degrees below zero. Campbell, M.P., has ears which are absolutely beyond the reach of temperatures. They refused to burn when Burroughs, ex-M.P., said his nastiest things of their owner during the election campaign in Dauphin. They refused to freeze when the election campaign was over. Burroughs defeated, and the real Western winter in progress.

Glen Campbell is a six-footer. Billy Staples, M.P., from Macdonald, is not. But William does not wear a Stetson hat, and he loves to exhibit his friend from Dauphin.

The two of them went into a store in Ottawa the other day. Mr. Campbell wanted an indelible pencil. Mr. Staples calmly told the pretty young lady behind the counter that his tall friend was an Indian and couldn't ask for things for himself. Would she please produce some pencils? She did so. Staples turning to Campbell with a guttural query as to whether these would do. The man from Dauphin, feeling bound to play the part, answered also in what sounded like Indian language. The two carried the farce through to the end, the pencils were finally bought, and Brave Campbell departed with Interpreter Staples.

EEVRYBODY GETS ACQUAINTED.

Campbell of the cowboy hat is by no means the only "character" among the members of the House of Commons. The five dozen newcomers are having lots of fun getting acquainted, and finding out who isn't which. Some are remembered by their names; others, again, by their calm or glistening eye. Many have an individuality which marks them at once for recognition.

RANKIN A BIG MAN.

Dr. Rankin, of North Perth, for instance, is one of the big men of the House. He stands over six feet in his stockings, and weighs 200 pounds.

John Angus McMillan, of Glengarry, has put on flesh of late, and is being frequently mistaken for Joe McDougal, ex-M.P.P., of Ottawa. McMillan was a deakmate of McCoig of West Kent in the Ontario Legislature. By an odd freak of chance, and without pre-arrangement they are again deakmates in the Commons.

Hon. George P. Graham is looking better than he will before the session ends. Although a perpetual motionist when on the platform, he gained in weight throughout the whole of the last campaign. Now he expects to thin down again. Office work does it.

Hon. Frank Oliver, it is said, has a marked aversion to the frock coat and the "biled" shirt.

Joe Russell appropriately stops at the Russel House.

FIRE, WATER, LIGHT COMMITTEE WIND UP THEIR INVESTIGATION

Recommend to the Council That It Would Not be in the Best Interests of the City for Chief Howard to Remain at the Head of the Fire Department

The Fire, Water & Light Committee met last night and completed the investigation into the charges laid by ex-Ald. Johnston against Chief Howard of the Fire Department. All the evidence was heard a week ago except on the matter of Fireman McBride being paid too much money last July. McBride returned the money $8.22 to the chief, and there is no record of it being returned to the city treasurer. Chief Howard claims to have paid the money to Albert E. George, who was relieving at the time. Mr. George has since left the city, and cannot be located. This was the only charge that the chief failed to clear himself on.

The proceedings were followed with much interest by the aldermen and there were nine present last night and upon the invitation of Chairman Buller expressed their opinions on the charges.

So far as the committee itself was concerned, Chairman Buller stated that he was in favor of giving the chief an opportunity to show greater discretion in his personal conduct. He would not block any motion that the committee might desire to pass but if he had an opportunity in council to vote for the chief being given another chance he would do so.

Ald. Turner was of the same opinion and he hung out for a long time against the proposed motion. He wanted it modified, stating that there was a doubt in his mind, and he would give the chief the benefit of it.

Ald. Morgan was very strongly opposed to the chief, and desired that all asking for his resignation at once.

Ald. Hicks' opinions are expressed in the following resolution which he moved, seconded by Ald. Morgan and which was carried just before twelve o'clock:—

Moved by Ald. Hicks, seconded by Ald. Morgan, that we recommend to the council, that Chief Howard deserves credit for organizing the permanent fire department in the face of many obstructions, but he was extremely indiscrete during and after and we would judge from the evidence produced that he has left himself open to criticism to such an extent that we are convinced that it would not be in the best interests of the city for him to remain at the head of the fire department.—Carried.

Sons of Scotland Celebrate the Anniversary of Burns

Burns' anniversary was celebrated by the Sons of Scotland in Peterborough by a banquet and concert in the Snowden House last night under the auspices of Camp Clan Alpine No. 36. There was a large number present and a fitting tribute was paid to Scotland's poet.

Mine Host Fraser did himself proud in the preparations he made for the feast and the manner in which he carried them out. He provided a splendid menu, the principal dish being haggis, that delicacy which makes glad the heart of every son from the Land of the Heather.

May Destroy Europe

Maud Lord Drake, Forest Park, Border Creek, California, writing to The Progressive Thinker, has predicted a new series of calamities from seismic causes. She is famous on the west coast for having foretold the time and place of the San Francisco earthquake, or so it is alleged.

She anticipates the total submergence of Europe, and other catastrophes as the following paragraphs indicate. She refers to corrections she made in the predictions of other prophets:

"At that time," she says, "I also stated that there would be great spiritual changes, followed by material changes on this planet. New religions would be formulated, volcanoes and earthquakes would be in evidence, disasters on land and sea. Many of these things have been accomplished. We have to-day the Emmanuel and other movements, and many others are in process of formation, all looking to establishing a religion that will cover all the beauties of all other religions, producing a new race, a new civilization.

"The disquieting forces are first spiritual and then material. For what? Let our civilization answer. I see craters opening up—belching forth—in this country. As near as I can locate it, it is in old Mexico and the State of Washington, and possibly the lost Atlantis may appear. The long lost continent comes up again. It seems an earthquake and tremendous tidal wave will sweep everything far and near, and the cataclysm I saw for New York, over a year ago, may be close at hand, for come it must, and that, too, in our day.

"California must again be subjected to another great seismic disturbance. As the time approaches I may be able to so interpret the vibration as to designate the day and place, as I did when the San Francisco disaster occurred, and yet, many whom I then warned, went to their deaths in that doomed city—doomed for its unrighteousness."

At the meeting of the Police Commissioners yesterday afternoon, his honor Judge Weller was elected chairman again.

The chief of police presented his annual report which in part is as follows;—

The general health of the force has been good and they are working harmoniously.

Second-hand and junk dealers have complied with the bylaws.

Seventeen persons were before the magistrate for a breach of the license act and eleven were convicted.

The pool rooms have been very well conducted.

No illicit sale of liquor is done in the city and the city is free from houses of ill-fame and gambling resorts.

The chief asked to be allowed to attend the Chiefs of Police annual convention at Niagara Falls, as he is the president.

The chief again drew the attention of the Property Committee, the total inadequate size of the police office, there being only one small room in which to do the police business.

There were several petty thefts during the latter part of the year from delivery rigs and as yet no arrests were made.

There has been no serious crime this year.

Patriotism

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier and a fault finder.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are promptly and permanently cured by the use of

Dropped Off the Mark Street Bridge

Mr. and Mrs. Brown of Otonabee, had a very narrow escape from serious injury a couple of days ago, that they will not soon forget. They were driving north on Mark street, immediately after leaving church, and were north of Hunter when the horse they were driving became frightened at an umbrella and shied violently. They were passing the bridge over the creek at the time and the buggy slewed and almost before the occupants could realize their peril, it had tipped over and horse, vehicle and occupants had slipped over the edge of the bridge and fallen in a heap on the bed of the creek below. Spectators of the accident hurried to the scene, expecting to find that Mr. and Mrs. Brown, were seriously hurt, but they discovered to their surprise that neither was injured in the least and that the horse had escaped unhurt, while the only damage to the outfit was that the harness was slightly broken. Willing hands succeeded in rescuing the horse and buggy and getting them to the surface again.

The hockey match between Lindsay and Peterborough has been postponed until Friday night next on account of there being no ice.

McClusky Gets $20 Damages

McClusky's claim of $25 damages for injuries to his horse which was alleged to have been caused by the ladders of the fire department striking his horse and knocking it down, was considered by the Legal Committee last night. The horse was laid up for a couple of days. The chairman, Ald. Turner, stated that he had talked to Mr. McClusky, and he had agreed to accept $20.

The committee passed a motion authorizing the payment of $20.

Fourteen Head of Stock and Barns Burned---A Terrific Electric Storm

Lindsay, Jan. 25.—A terrific electric storm raged in this vicinity on Sunday morning early, and destroyed the barn of Mr. Edmund Beck, Verulam Township. The entire contents were also consumed. The loss is $1,000. The barn had been insured, but the time expired the other day, unknown to Mr. Beck.

Lightning struck the barn on the farm of Mr. Reuben Danes, north of Argyle, and total destroyed it, along with the contents, including fourteen head of stock. The horses were saved. The insurance on contents amounted to $600.

How Many Meals Have You Saved?

Do you show your meals do you good, as the saying goes? Have you the product of former good dinners tucked away around your waist line? Do they reproach you? Do they lie heavily on your physical conscience, as it were? Are you anxious to reform?

Well, then contemplate a period of penance. What do you say to a month of unmodified breakfast food diet—made thin; to be followed or accompanied by thirty days of road work or weight lifting. No?

How about a few months' course of some acrid (put your teeth on edge) acid, heart-burn-causing, wrinkle-forming, stomach-upsetting, high-priced patent advertised "fat remedy," then—No?

All that remains for you to try, then, if you really wish to reform, is Marmola Prescription Tablets. These tablets possess special virtues the most important of which is; they cause not one ripple of internal uneasiness. Neither do they leave wrinkles behind; nor a dieting and exercise required to help out. Yet, in a reasonable time they are capable of reducing possibly, any man or woman on this green earth a pound or so daily.

How about your trying this safe and well indorsed plan if you do not care to exercise or diet? The Marmola Company of Detroit, Mich., or any druggist will give you, for as little as 75 cents, one large case, so well stocked that just that one case will show you the problem of reducing safely and quickly on three full meals a day has been solved.

Chairman Buller Makes Statement

In connection with the investigation into the charge of the chief retaining $8.23 overpay to one of the firemen, which is being aired by the Fire, Water & Light Committee, Chairman Buller wishes it made known that the chief of the fire department has full control over the department. The chief makes up the time and certifies to it and the treasurer pays the cheques.

Ex-Ald. Johnston stated that this alleged offence was committed in July and that he heard about it the latter part of the year from firemen and also on the street. He at once investigated the matter and could get no satisfactory explanation. He could not have detected the matter himself as he had no access to the time sheets and could not keep track of them anyway.

An Interesting Paper

At the meeting of the Young People's society in the Murray street Baptist church last night Dr. Morgan gave a very instructive paper "Our bodies and how to take care of them." The address was exceedingly interesting and at the conclusion a vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Elcome and seconded by Mr. John Reesel. During the evening Miss Clara Kidd rendered a solo. There was a large attendance.

Pacifics Now in Second Place in Ten Pin Race

Three games were played in the ten pin tournament at the P.B.C. alleys last night, which resulted in the Bankers taking another drop in their standing in the league. They lost a game to the B.A.C. At the same time the Pacifics which were tied with the Bankers for second place now are in the lead for second place. This, however, may be changed tonight as the Pacifics play with the Greys who are still struggling for the booby prize. The scores were as follows;—

Bronchitis

Catarrhozone Cures Bronchitis of three years' Standing after four doctors failed.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

"I feel it my duty," writes Mrs. Boyd, of Leonardville, N.B., to let you know that I have been cured of Bronchitis of three months' standing by Catarrhozone.

"With the least change in temperature or exposure to inclement weather, I was attacked with bronchial discomfort, wheezing in the chest, hoarseness, sore throat, partial loss of voice, and stuffiness of the head. I consulted four doctors and was treated by them all without any benefit.

"Catarrhozone was strongly recommended to me by several persons whom it had benefited, and I was induced to give it a good trial.

"It quickly relieved my difficult breathing, so I got the complete outfit, hard rubber inhaler, etc., and I began systematically the Catarrhozone treatment.

"In a few days the huskiness and hoarseness disappeared, and my voice became stronger. The running of the nose, and stuffiness of the head, feverishness, difficult breathing, were all done away with before I had been using Catarrhozone very long.

"About six weeks' treatment was sufficient to do more for me than four doctors failed to do in three years' time. It cured me and I don't believe there is another such a remedy on earth. Its action is speedy, pleasant and permanent."

Catarrhozone is a new, scientific treatment, and is guaranteed to cure Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Cold, etc., or money refunded. It contains nothing injurious and can be used by the infant as well as by the adult.

It is both a local and a constitutional remedy. The Inhaler supplies abundance of medicated air, which spreads through all the air passages, killing germ life, and healing sore spots as it goes.

The impurities in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone tablets, which strengthen and build up the system to such a healthy condition that disease simply can't exist.

Catarrhozone is recommended by doctors and druggists for all respiratory diseases. It relieves quickly and cures permanently. Complete outfit costs $1 00; trial size, 25c. At Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Con., Kingston, Ont. Buy Catarrhozone today.

CALIFORNIA AND THE JAPS

Lively interest will be taken in the fate of the anti-Japanese Bill which it is proposed to lay before the Californian Assembly. We do not need to carry our memories very far back to the critical situation that existed as a result of the attitude of the Golden State, or certain sections of it, toward the immigrant subjects of the Mikado. While we at that time were confident that it would be well to take a pinch of salt with the rumors of war which were bruited about, there is no doubt that a good deal of ill-feeling was stirred up between Washington and Tokyo, consequent on the complaints of the Japanese in San Francisco and other cities. It would appear that the proposed legislation is very speciously framed, being, in fact, an amplification of existing laws, rather than a drastically new departure. There is certain to be a very hot debate on the measures, with the preponderance of sentiment in their favor, so far as the State House is concerned, but it is highly improbable that the Federal Government will allow their passage into law without setting going the preventive machinery at its command. The developments of the last few months have drawn the United States and Japan closer together as Powers, and the desire for harmonious relations has been, and is, as strong on the part of Washington as that of the Mikado's Ministry. Unfortunately, it is impossible to avoid the vexatious friction which is bound to exist spasmodically, if not chronically, between the units of races so divergent in all basic characteristics. If it were possible to maintain the "hands across the sea" amenity in a purely official sense, the two nations might well enjoy those neighborly relations—with the Pacific Ocean as barrier-link—which make for international peace, but unfortunately closer communion between the masses of the people does not conduce to that mutual affection which tends to true inter-mingling. If the respective governments of the United States and Japan can conceive a policy capable of reconciling the official love with the unofficial—well—unprepossession, they will achieve something even more important than their Pacific Intents.

ARCHBISHOP SWEETMAN

"His wise words of counsel and of cheer should abide with us to encourage us to ever greater and more hopeful efforts in extending the Kingdom of Christ in this our vast Dominion, and making the Church of Canada worthier in faith and good works as the true daughter of her august mother."

The foregoing sentence, taken from the address delivered by the Right Reverend Arthur Sweatman at the opening of the fifty-third session of the Synod of Toronto, refers to the Archbishop of Canterbury, who had just closed his short visit to Canada. Fitter terms could not be chosen in which to commend to the remembrance of Canadian Churchmen the inspiring goodness of the Archbishop of Toronto himself, whose sojourn on earth has now been brought to a close. From his lips many a perplexed and disheartened laborer in the vineyard has received wise words of counsel and of cheer. In the days when the state of his health had not yet rendered extremely difficult the performance of the visitorial duties of his episcopal office he was a real sustaining influence to the clergy in the more troubled and backward parishes. No one not in personal contact with him could duly appreciate the strength of spirit and sanity of judgment the Archbishop brought to his work. To distant and superficial observers he might seem to be lacking in vigor of charater. This was because display and seeking after effect were foreign to his nature. No man occupying a distinguished place in Church or State could make less of himself consistently with the dignity of his office than did the late Archbishop. He avoided controversy, and his views on social problems, in which he took a deep interest and could discuss instructively, he never obtruded on the public otherwise than as he rarely gave utterance to them in sermons and charges. His was a quiet force, but none the less a force. No one present at a meeting of the synod under his presidency would mistake his quietness for weakness. Nor could anyone who ever attended a confirmation service at which the Archbishop officiated fail to be impressed with the manner in which were laid on the hands and were pronounced the words: "Defend, O Lord, this Thy child with "Thy heavenly grace, that he may "continue Thine forever; and daily in-"crease in Thy Holy Spirit more and "more until he come into Thy ever-"lasting kingdom." Venerable the Archbishop truly was to all who were reached by his ministrations. As administrative head of the Diocese of Toronto, the quality that was probably the means of his greatest usefulness was his reasonableness. He was the man for the time and state of the diocese. There was division within the Church, and it was all-important that no man of lopsided mind should be chosen for Bishop. Dr. Sweatman had the necessary breadth and conciliatory temperament. His conduct of the affairs of the diocese brought about harmony and now the Church of England in the See of Toronto is a unit. The theological and educational differences that threatened to divide the church into two permanent parties are now things of the past. A work begun by the Archbishop and carried to what must surely be the borderland of certain success is the construction of a cathedral and other diocesan buildings. It is due to his memory that the completion of this work be now energetically undertaken and realised in as short a time as possible.

It is hoped that in the matter of appointing a successor the choice of the diocese will be well guided. By a change made two years ago in the constitution it was provided that the Assistant Bishop, as such, has no right of succession, and that his duties shall cease upon the death of the Bishop. We trust that the filling of the office of Bishop may not be attended with so much difficulty as it was when Dr. Sweatman was chosen, or as the Diocese of Montreal recently had in fixing upon a successor to Bishop Carmichael.

Coal Bucket Fell on Him

Couldn't Walk for Two Months.

Worker Owes His Restoration to Zam-Buk.

Mr. Daniel Goddard, of Bay street, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., says:—"Whilst employed superintending the unloading of a coal vessel at Cohen's Coal Dock, a heavy coal bucket in descending into the vessel to be re-filled suddenly overturned, grazing my left leg and scraping the flesh off to the bone. I was compelled to discontinue work and go home for treatment, where I was confined for about two months.

"When able to get out again I got cold in the wound, inflammation started, the wound opened again, and for another month I was unable to move about. I tried all manner of things to get ease and get the wound to heal up, but nothing seemed able to do it. Not only did everything I tried seem useless so far as healing went, but I could get no ease from the aching and the burning pains. At times I was just about crazy with the intense throbbing pains, and night after night got no sleep whatever.

"Not until my wife began applying Zam-Buk did I find relief. When applied to the injured member this balm quickly soothed the pain, and as we continued using it each day brought an improvement. The throbbing pains were soon banished, and inflammation and soreness relieved, and the wound thoroughly cleansed of all poisonous and unhealthy matter.

"Healing then began, and in a wonderfully short time—considering the seriousness of the wound—Zam-Buk effected a complete and lasting cure. I have since had no trouble with the limb at all, and it is as sound and strong as before the injury."

Zam-Buk is a sure cure for cuts, lacerations, burns, eczema, ring-worm, cold-sores, chapped hands, poisoned wounds, festering sores, bad leg, and all skin injuries and diseases. It is also a cure for piles. Druggists and stores everywhere sell at 50c. a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price. You are warned against harmful imitations sometimes represented as "Just as good and cheaper."

...The... Plow Woman

A hammer clicked from the stockade top. A sentry began to bawl angrily.

"Git, you pup eaters," he declared and slanted his gun to them. Casting dignity aside, they ducked into the nearest lodge.

Squaw Charley dragged himself back to the shingle roof. There he fell prone, resting his forehead against the ribs of a dog. The strength was gone from his body, the light from his eyes. The wind of that other's nostrils had blasted him. He was like the scattering ash heaps of the evening smudges where the last bit of fuel was crumbled and the last red coal was dead.

Long he stayed upon his face. When the first numbness was past and his brain was rallying slowly a very scourge of sorrow visited him—sorrow for the fate of the shack, where he had warmed himself so often, relieved his hunger and known a kindly smile. With sorrow came remorse. He had not done his part for the little home. He had not guarded as he ought. And he had helped by bringing rattlesnakes—which he had been told were to be used for medicine—in the plot for its destruction. When sorrow and remorse had their turn a stronger passion gnawed and racked him. It was the yearning for reinstatement.

Dwelling upon this, he became two Indians, and one of him opposed the other. They traveled separate trails—trails that bent different ways, like the horns of a buffalo. The trail to the right was a warpath. It led him behind his brothers, through the hole in the stockade. For awhile he loitered, loath to share in the work on the dead. Afterward he joined them. They were free and crazy with their freedom. He matched his strength with theirs, dared where they faltered, woe—woe—

But there was no hope for the Plow Woman!

He was back on the other trail, and it led to the gallery where Oliver's hammock swung. The outcast made swift motions with his hands. He was hustled along with the guard. The sliding panel opened. The tent flaps of Brown Mink's lodge were lifted. He was caught in a mad onrush. He was hewied at, spat upon. Finally, a bruised, exiled traitor, more despised, if possible, than before, he fled stalking away.

He was back at the parting of the trails, one man again, helpless before the knowledge that safety for the shack meant the wiping out forever of his dream of becoming a brave.

Of a sudden he remembered David Bond. He got feebly to his knees, covering his face from the dogs. The evangelist had laid a charge upon him—no matter what came, he was to think first of the shack. He had accepted it before he knew it would clash with his own purpose. Was he held to the promise now? David Bond was dead. If he were not obeyed, he could never come back to punish.

He found himself upon his feet, listening. Across the stockade he saw the glowworms of the scattered pipes dancing in the dark. But a moment later, when flashes lit up the huge pen, the hostages were sitting as before, their faces lowered moodily.

Still he listened. And it came again, from the direction of the river—the long, sad cooing call of a dove.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

WITH the third mourning of the dove a figure left the lodge of Canada John and shuffled to the sliding panel, where it knocked. In tardy answer the wicket was pushed aside a little and a lantern was held up.

"Hey, Charley!" said a friendly voice. A white face peered into a red one, noting the uneven bang and the handkerchief tied over the head like a squaw's.

The Indian blinked at the light and showed his teeth in a grin.

Cursing, though not unkindly, the guard pushed the wicket wide. "Don't y' come botherin' me any more t'night," he counseled as a black blanket and a ragged skirt wriggled through.

The Indian grinned again and did not seek to elude the lantern. Released, he shuffled away, going straight for the post. But the stockade left a few rods to the rear he changed his course and made toward the river. Close to its edge he halted and mocked the signal.

The call was repeated softly. Then call and echo neared by degrees, until the Indian and the interpreter were touching hands.

There was no need for words. The night's work was planned. They started cautiously upstream. Before long they were behind the stables, ready for the second step. It was one that devolved upon Matthews. For it he carried a long knife, single edged, keen and slightly curved, like a saber.

First he tiptoed to the nearby repair shop, where the stable guard and two herders were gathered about a lantern, relieving their irksome hours with cheese, hardtack and various tall bottles that once adorned the shelves of the Trooper's Delight. Unseen the interpreter looked in upon the group.

BEFORE TREATMENT

AFTER TREATMENT

Peter E. Sommerer, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and exposure in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Sensational dreams at night, weakened memory, dark rings and pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair came, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers led to and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

Wordsof praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WASTED

IN EXPERIMENTS

These Millions Have Been and Are Being Wasted in Experiments With Mills and Other Treating Plants

Ours is no experiment. Our new smelting process has Been tested in every detail. We KNOW wha it will do and we know that it will do what we claim for it.

You know what a cheap smelting process will mean to the mining industry all over the world- Miners as well as investors in mining stock must pay their share in unreasonable charges to some smelter under the present system. Why not interest yourself in a company which will help you—which will help the miner as well as the investor in mining stock—-to

We will erect a smelter of fifty tons right near your mine. Oursmelter thus erected will save 85% in treatment. freight charges and hauling the ore to the railway. This is the crying need of the mining industry to-day.

Think what this means in the treatment of the ores from your mine. Think what this means in the treatment of the ore at present upon the dump. No matter how low grade the dump ore, so long as we have some high grade in every charge, we can get you the values from the ore now lying worthless upon the dump.

We have the practical smelter of the new era. It is not an experiment ; it is now in practical working order. We are now ready to erect smelters everywhere. We will build the smelters right at your mines, and thereby overcome all the obstructions which may be placed in our way by the railroads and trust smelters.

Why lament the fact of the present smelter overcharges, when her you have the chance to get a smelter right at your mine, which will treat the ore at $2 per ton, without difference for grades?

We are offering only 100.000 shares of stock in the Kuenzel's Process Smelter Company at 75 cents a share. The proceeds from the sale of this stock will be used towards erecting several of our smelters near producing mines, when we will begin at once to make money for ourselves and for the mine owner.

We have a large plant, a completely equipped machine shop, capable of building at least two 50-ton smelters every month. The preliminary. development stage of our enterprise has passed. We are ready to make money. Why not join us as a stockholder?

The money which you in this company is represented in full value in property and other assets. You are investing in a reality when you buy these shares.

Buy stock in this company now and you will help to realize upon the low grade ores in your dumps which otherwise must remain in waste and valueless. Let us tell you all about this new era smelter, the practical operation of which actually means the revolution oi the mining industry. Write for full particulars. We will convince you that this is, indeed, the best gilt-edge investment on the market, from every point of view.

The following letter was received by the publisher of the "Naledi Ea Lesotho," a paper published in the Basuto language at Mafeting, South Africa, and translated by him and forwarded to the Chamberlain Medicine Co., Des Moines, Iowa: "Since I subscribed to a newspaper I have found true health. I have forsaken bone-throwers because I am tired of them. When a child is sick they say it is bewitched and that its ancestors have caused its illness because of some duty which its parents have failed to do towards it, and they say you must slaughter a sheep and anoint the child with its bile. I do not believe this any more because I have found a medicine in the newspaper. I can swear that in case of colds and whooping cough, which does so much harm to children, I have never found Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to fail. I advise you to buy it now and you will never have occasion to go to bone-throwers, who are bound to say that the cause of this illness is witch doctors or offended ancestors and you have to slaughter a sheep to cleanse the sick and pay to have your house sick-proof even before your child is cured."

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided Into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia, Ont., Pres. ; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice-Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont , Sec-Treas.; Charles Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C. Ritchie. Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 868, containing 40 acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Colette Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information :

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 15th December, 1908, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. Levesconte, 20 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties, in consideration of 600,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 250,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $500; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 5000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 15th of December, 1908.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

The U.S. Coast Line Cities are at the Mercy of Invader

Washington, Jan. 26.—The fact that there was recently sent to Congress by President Roosevelt a report by the general staff of the army, which became public to-day, recommending fortifications for San Pedro harbor, California, was made the basis for suggestions that such decision had just been reached in view of a possibility of trouble with Japan.

At the War Department this inference was given a most explicit denial. There it was said that the general subject of the improvement of San Pedro harbor had been under consideration more than two years, beginning before there was any thought of dispute between the United States and Japan. It was taken up as a natural military problem involving the necessary protection of the southern California coast from foreign invasion and without reference to any particular enemy. The defence of San Pedro was considered, just as that of other harbors on the Pacific or on the Atlantic coast would be.

Formal legislative authorization for an investigation and report as to the advisability and necessity for sea coast fortifications for the protection of San Pedro harbor was given May 27 last. Conformably to this action President Roosevelt sent to Congress the report of the general staff on the subject, which was accompanied by estimates of the cost of the site and fortifications, aggregating $3,695,240 for big guns, submarine mines, land and accessories.

GOOD CHANCE FOR ENEMY.

The report shows that the general staff made a most comprehensive study of the whole question of the necessity for adequate fortifications at San Pedro, analyzing in detail the possibilities of use for this purpose being with a view to operations against other points on the Panama Canal.

The general staff's argument in this connection assumes that an enemy is coming from the Orient, and the statement is made that so far as location is concerned San Pedro would be a good base for an enemy from which to operate against our Pacific coast. The report speaks of the Los Angeles country, and adds: "When one thinks of the great extent of this country, its immense wealth, takes into consideration its climate, making it one of the most attractive dwelling places in the world, no effort of the imagination is needed to realize the temptation it offers to those oriental powers whose population is pressing hard on the means of subsistence."

SEES EASY CONQUEST.

Under the head of "easy of conquest" the report says that "recent study discloses the fact that, assuming there were no effective naval opposition, a certain oriental power could within a month of the time its hostile intentions began to be even strongly suspected (a formal declaration of war would no doubt come a good deal later) land on our Pacific coast an expedition of an estimated maximum of about 100,000 men, and that such a force could be augmented by the end of two months more to a total of possibly 200,000. The ease with which San Pedro harbor, unfortified, and through it the entire Los Angeles country could be seized is apparent."

From a defensive point of view, the report points out, the Pacific coast country is divided naturally into three grand divisions. While complete each in itself for defensive purposes, these are yet so related to one another as readily to permit of progressive occupation by an enemy's army, provided it acted quickly. At the same time the board points out the ease of retaining possession, and the conclusion is reached that "sea, mountain and desert combine to make the position of the invader, once he has taken possession of the Los Angeles country in force, well nigh impregnable."

Reference is made to a report made by what is known as the Taft coast defence board, in 1906, and in this connection the report says:

"The changed conditions since the Taft board report that now render the fortification of San Pedro Harbor imperative may be summed up as follows:—

"1.—The development of San Pedro Harbor.

"2.—The great potential strength as an enemy which a certain oriental power has acquired.

"The conclusion seems justified that the early fortification of San Pedro Harbor is a requirement of the welfare of the nation.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to health. Many who think they must, have proven it can be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a tested success most famous and popularly prompt. Whether "Shoop's Restorative is wisely or unwisely used is a mark. The Restorative is for the stomach, nerves and entire system, healing, toning, vitalizing all parts, all tissue, and all blood, as it should.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes nerves and lulls to sleep coughs, relaxing, yet healing the mucous membranes, while the Restorative, more fully constructive, gives improved vigor and nourishment to build up your general health. Both are safe, both are certain. Both are tested and proven. Both are sold on a plain, fair, square, open, honest basis, as are all goods sold by the Shoop system. For positive local help, use the Night Cure. For positive blood help, use the Restorative.

"ALL DEALERS"

The Archbishop's Fortunate Election

Archbishop Sweatman became Bishop of Toronto in 1879, at a moment when the diocese was very much divided over the question of "high" or "low". The great issue had arisen in England in consequence of the Oxford movement, and its influence was felt keenly in Canada. There had come to this country church members who were opposed to any inhovations or changes. There had also come many people imbued with High Church principles, and most anxious to do in Canada what had been commenced in the Motherland.

IT CAUSED A STRUGGLE.

The situation was very much like an attempt to mix oil and water. Neither party would concede, and a deadlock was impending. One year before the election of Dr. Sweatman there had been a tremendous fight in the synod over the mission fund. The Mission Committee was largely "high", and it was officering the various stations on a High Church basis. The contributors to the funds were chiefly "low", and they objected to the placing of missionaries of the "high" type in the field. Wycliffe College had been established to provide a clergy of the "low" school, and the demand was made that the graduates of this institution should be recognized by the Bishop. And appointed to all east some of the missions. The contest over this question had not been settled when Bishop Bethune passed away. Thereupon the dispute centred upon the election of the next Bishop. Whatever might be the view of the Bishop would be the policy of the Church.

The two parties lost no time in selecting their candidates. The "low" church element chose Dr. Sullivan, then of St. George's, Montreal, who afterwards became Bishop of Algoma, and who died while rector of St. James'. Dr. Sullivan was an eloquent preacher, and was regarded as evangelical—the term employed to distinguish a "low" churchman from a "high" churchman. The High church party chose the Provost of Trinity College, Dr. Whitaker. This clergyman was a very learned man. He was not eloquent ; but he was a fine speaker and a powerful administrator. With these two candidates already in their minds, the rival schools met in the synod and entered into a contest over the election. The voting, as is customary, was by ballot and by [illegible]. That is to say, while all members voted by ballot, there were two classes of ballots—those cast by the laity and those cast by the clergy. In order to effect an election a majority of the laity and a majority of the clergy in favor of some particular nominee was needed. A majority of one order would not be an election. A majority of both orders was essential.

THE DEADLOCK.

When the first vote was taken it was found that the clergy had gone strongly for Provost Whitaker, an dthat the laity had expressed themselves most enthusiastically for Dr. Sullivan. This indicates fairly well how the Church was divided on the "high" and "low" issue. The laymen were as a rule inclined to moderate churchmanship; while the clergy, not unanimously, but to a large extent, were "high". The laymen wanted to have as Bishop a preacher of eminence; the clergy looked for an administrator rather than for a preacher. A second vote was taken, with the same result. Again there was a deadlock, with the same candidates in the same positions. This situation continued for some days, and a solution seemed to be impossible, for both parties were very much in earnest. Finally, leaders of the lay and the clerical elements came to the conclusion that some action of the character of a compromise was needed, and a meeting was held to see what could be done. Much discussion took place, and a clergyman who had not been identified with either school of thought, but who would act in harmony with both, was suggested.

DR. SWEATMAN CHOSEN.

Dr. Sweatman was then rector of Woodstock and Canon of Brantford. He stood high in the Diocese of Huron, and while a man of culture, he was not identified with either of the two parties in the Church. To him the leaders of both sides in the synod looked, and after he had been named as the candidate of both, he was elected on the next ballot. The election of Bishop Sweatman was an event of high importance for the Anglican Church. Had either of the other nominees been chosen, the party to which that nominee belonged would have been victorious in the struggle, and there would have been heart-burnings on the other side. The outcome might have been a division of very considerable proportions. But as neither party had scored over the other, and as Bishop Sweatman held the scales evenly, trouble was averted, and the Church became very much united under him.

THE END OF HTE DISPUTE.

The "high" and "low" dispute ceased to be acrimonious during Archbishop Sweatman's regime. As a consequence of the toleration that has prevailed the various parties have viewed the little difference in practice without misgivings, and the Church of England has become harmonious and united. It may be said that the election of Dr. Sweatman to the Diocese of Toronto was the beginning of the better era.

Weary, Worn Out, Tired

If You Feel Poorly this Spring this Article is worth Considering.

Nothing in life keeps people from advancement like poor health. If the nerves are weak, if the stomach, liver, bowels or kidneys, fail to work properly, healthy surely suffers. Spring is the hardest time on health—the season when the system calls for active cleansing medicine.

The best plan is to entrust your condition to a physician of reputation like Dr. Hamilton, who has had years of experience in compounding tonics. For the ills and tired feeling of spring Dr. Hamilton says nothing is better than Mandrake and Butternut Pills, and this is well proven in the case of James Burton of Lewistown. "I had grip and it left me very weak. The disease settled in my back and side, which ached day and night. I had a nagging cough. My appetite was all gone. My nerves unstrung. I could not sleep well. I struggled against growing pale, thin and weak—but it was no good. Spring brought depression, overpowering weakness and bad headaches. But my life was spared, simply because I learned off the wonderful merit in Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. The result was marvellous, I gained rapidly, became strong, ruddy, vigorous, perfectly well. I urge every man and woman to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly.

You'll brighten up, have cleaner blood, stronger nerves, better spirits after using Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c at all dealers. Guaranteed safe, sure helpful for old and young.

Farmers Represented at Ottawa

The farmers of Canada are to have a representative in the House of Commons during this session. The Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, has engaged a practical farmer to attend the session and write a weekly letter to that paper, telling the farmers of Canada how Parliament is conducted, as he sees it. The man engaged is not only a practical farmer, but is well able to write such a letter. He is said to be a man absolutely free from political prejudice, and no doubt, his weekly letter will be of great interest to all Canadian farmers.

The Family Herald and Weekly Star costs only one dollar a year, or will be sent on trial to new subscribers for the Session (about six months) for only twenty-five cents. Lady Maccabees

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Chimney Fire

About two o'clock yesterday afternoon the firemen were given a call to the rear of Mr. Hooper's store. The chimney from the rooms next the Young Conservative Club rooms was on fire. It took a couple of chemicals to extinguish the fire. Very little damage was done.

The second of these entertainments will be held tonight at the close of the regular meeting and much interest is being shown by the boys in making these social gatherings a success.

County Council

The first session of the County Council for 1909 will be held this afternoon at two o'clock in the County Council chambers. The first duty will be the election of a warden and as yet there does not appear to be any opposition to Mr. R. N. Scott, reeve of Smith, and it is likely he will be chosen. A better man could hardly be selected. He has had a large experience in municipal affairs and is also well acquainted with the county's business.

The family is one of the oldest in Ennismore. Mrs. Sullivan and her late husband having come out in 1825. They shared in the early industry which was required to bring the township to its present position. Mrs. Sullivan's maiden name was Bridget Corkery. Peterborough Girl took Poison in Toronto

Alice Howell was Attacked with Bad Headache After a Late Party and Made Mistake in Medicine

Toronto, Jan. 26—Suffering from bichloride of mercury poisoning, Miss Alice Howell, twenty-one years of age, was taken to St. Michael's Hospital this morning.

The girl was a roomer at 42 1-2 Alice street, with Mrs. Florence Hawkins. Last night she came home from a party and complained of a headache. At about four o'clock this morning she arose and went to a drawer in a wardrobe in the room and took a tablet which she says she thought to be a headache tablet. In a short time she began to suffer from severe pains, and a doctor was summoned. He ordered her removal to the hospital. A stomach pump was applied, and the girl put to bed. She is still in a critical condition, however, owing to the fact that the after effects of this particular form of poisoning are very dangerous.

WHAT SHE TOLD HER FRIEND.

Cassie, the girl with whom Miss Howell was sleeping when she took the poison, told her story to a reporter.

"We had been out to a party, Alice and I, and did not get back until about four o'clock this morning. Alice said she had an awful headache. She told me, too, that she was tired of life, but I did not think much about this, as you often hear people say such things. I got in bed, and was going to sleep when she got up and said she was going to the wardrobe to get some headache tablets that were there. She came back and I went to sleep. I was awakened in about an hour by her rolling around in the bed. When she saw that I was awake she said to me; "Cassie, give me your word of honor that you will never tell anyone what I am going to tell you.' I said I would not and she said, 'I think I must have taken something else beside headache powders. I have pains in my stomach that are awful.' I got scared at that and went to Mrs. Hawkins and told her about it. She went out and got Dr. Spiers, and he called up the police and had her taken over to St. Michael's Hospital."

CAME FROM PETERBOROUGH.

Miss Howell has boarded with Mrs. Hawkins since before Christmas. She came to the house at that time, saying that she was out of work. She did not go to look for another position at once, but went home to visit her parents in Peterborough, returning to the city a short time ago. The police have possession of the remainder of the tablets which the girl used. They were used, she said, for antiseptic purposes.

ROBT. N. SCOTT WAS CHOSEN WARDEN FOR THE COUNTY

The Selection was Made Yesterday Afternoon when the First Meeting of New Council was Held

Mr. SCOTT HAD NO OPPOSITION

The reeve of the Township of Smith, Mr. Robt. N. Scott, has been elected warden for the County of Peterborough for 1909. The selection was made yesterday afternoon when the first meeting of the new council was held. There was no opposition to Mr. Scott, who was deemed by every member of the council to be the best fitted and the most worthy councillor for the position.

County Clerk E. M. Elliott stated that the following reeves and deputy reeves had been elected, and had filed their declarations of office and taken their seats in the County Council;—A. Brault, Norwood; A. J. Kidd, Lakefield; J. Knox, Havelock; W. Comstock, Asphodel; J. W. Russell, Belmont; W. Tucker, Burleigh; W. Hales, Chandos; C. J. Darling, Dummer; F. Moher, Douro; M. Perdue, Enniskmore; C. Coben, Galway; R. Shaw, Harvey; J. Brown, Monaghan; J. Fife, W. B. Stewart, Otonabee; R. N. Scott, Thos. Graham, Smith.

The clerk then called for nominations for warden.

It was moved by Councillors F. Moher of Douro, J. W. Russell of Belmont, that Robert Scott, reeve of Smith, be warden for 1909.—Carried unanimously.

The mover and seconder with the clerk accompanied the warden elect into the anti-chamber where he was introduced to the county's goat. After Mr. Scott had his ride and took the oath of secrecy and the oath of office he was possessed with his robe of office and escorted to the council chamber where he was greeted by the members, all standing while he ascended the pedestal.

WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

Warden Scott assured the council that he felt greatly honored by being elected to the chair of honor. He said he honestly believed that there were other men in the council who were more capable of filling the chair but with the assistance of the members he hoped that he would be able to give a good account of himself at the end of the year. He expressed the hope that the business would be carried on harmoniously and economically during the year. The warden said he would, as is the usual proceeding, read his formal address at the June meeting. In the meantime he wished all a happy new year.

The warden was warmly applauded by all present.

The minutes of the last meeting were then read and adopted.

The council was formed into a committee of the whole to strike the standing committees for the year.

On motion of Messrs. Brault and Knox, Mr. C. E. Packenham was appointed high school trustee to replace Mr. Robertson, who has left the locality.

On motion of Messrs. Shaw and Kidd, Mr. Casement was appointed an auditor for 1908.

On motion of Messrs. Brault and Hales, Mr. Squires was appointed auditor for the year 1908.

On motion of Messrs. Shaw and Kidd, Mr. Case.

The council then adjourned until ten o'clock this morning and went into committee to strike the standing committees with Mr. Fife in the chair.

Warden Robt. N. Scott

In selecting Mr. Robt. N. Scott as warden for the county the council made no mistake. He is a man in the prime of life, who has an enviable reputation throughout the county for his ability and integrity. Not only is he a capable man from a business standpoint, but he has had a wide experience in municipal affairs, both in the township and in the county, and this especially qualifies him for his present position. To Warden Scott is due congratulations and particularly as he was selected by his fellow councillors and raised to the seat of honor without opposition.

Warden Robt. N Scott was born in the Township of Smith, on the same farm where he makes his home now. He has lived here all life and as a boy attended the public schools of the township. He has been known by every resident of the district since he was very young and as he grew older his acquaintances and friends increased until today he is one of the best liked men in the county. Mr. Scott first entered municipal life as a councillor in his native township in 1902. When County Clerk E. M. Elliott received his appointment in 1904, Mr. Scott was elected reeve by acclamation to fill the vacancy. In 1905 he had a contest but was given a majority of 87. In 1906 he was re-elected reeve by acclamation. In 1907 he met with opposition but won the contest with a majority of 201. It was in 1907 that he first entered the county council and since then he has been re-elected reeve by acclamation twice and continues to be the representative in the county. During the past two years he was chairman of the House of Refugee Committee, and did very satisfactory work. He proved himself worthy of his position, and was always backed up by the whole council. In 1907 he was also chairman of the County Property Committee, and in 1908 headed the Committee on Appointments.

In speaking of his election Warden Scott stated that he felt it a great honor to be thus chosen by his fellow councillors. It was not only a compliment to himself but also to the township which he represented, as it is many years since the warden was chosen from Smith Township. With the assistance of the rest of the council there is every reason to believe that the new warden will legislate wisely and well during 1909.

The Banks Behind the Ontario and Sovereign

Montreal Financier Discusses the Situation --The Bank of Novia Scotia Expects Big Call for Help

Montreal, Jan. 26.—Mr. H. M. Peckhardt, in a letter to the Star, says that the action of the Bank of Nova Scotia in providing $100,000 in anticipation of possible loss from the guarantee of the Ontario and Sovereign liabilities is the first intimation to the public that the bankers have been calculating on deficits occurring in the ultimate winding up of those two concerns.

Not a great many references have been made to this subject at previous annual meetings, but on one or two occasions it has been stated that the guarantors did not expect to be drawn upon in either instance.

As yet it is not exactly clear whether or not this opinion has been generally changed or modified.

It is quite possible that the provision of this $100,000 by the Nova Scotia may mean, in the end, that addition of just that much to the bank's general profit reserve. In other words, the appropriation may not be called into use.

And, again, the other banks joining in the guarantee, or some of them, may also have provided for possible losses in connection therewith, without allowing the appropriations to appear in their statements.

For some time the outlook in regard to the Ontario Bank has been regarded as complicated, in the liquidators last statement, it was estimated that the assets would fall short of meeting the liabilities by some $800,000.

Over three months ago the financial Post, of Toronto, hinted at the difficulties in the way of proceeding promptly against the shareholders under the double liability, and mentioned that an important body of them were in the mind to resist a call.

The matter is further complicated by the claim of the stockholders against the directors for over $3,000,000, which is still existent, though it has not been vigorously pressed.

But with regard to the Sovereign Bank it will come as a surprise to many of the outside critics to learn that the guarantors are calculating on the possibility of a loss.

According to the latest statement—that for 30th November, 1908—the surplus of assets over liabilities was $2,000,000. While it is understood that the value of some of the assets is problematical, they would yet have to shrink, on the whole, nearly 25 per cent. before the guarantors' position became imperilled. In this case also there is question as to the value of the recourse against stockholders under the double liability.

Stock-holders say that, as the bank did not fail or become insolvent, they cannot be proceeded against in case the assets do not liquidate the liabilities.

Second Explosion Killed Twenty Men

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 26.—From 50 to 75 men are reported imprisoned in the Boswell coal mine, Somerset county, following the explosion there last night, which killed three men.

The entombed men entered the mine after the explosion to investigate and were caught by a subsequent explosion.

According to reports today 22 of them are dead.

Bowling Matches Between Toronto and Local Teams

Mr. Jos. Hay, proprietor of the P.B.C. bowling alleys, returned last evening from Toronto where he had spent a couple of days at his home and also calling on some of his many warm friends there. He visited a few of the bowling alleys and was besieged with applications for games with the Peterborough bowlers. The travellers out of Toronto, calling here are nearly all acquainted with Joe and they have bowled on the Peterborough alleys and against Peterborough bowlers. The result is they have gone back to Toronto with glowing stories of the prowess of the bowlers in the Electric City, and many of the Toronto bowlers are desirous of meeting teams from here.

Mr. Hay stated to The Times last night that he has arranged two games for five-men teams from this city to go to the Queen City a week from Saturday night. There will be a picked team from here play a picked team from the Toronto bowlers, and the latter bunch will include such men as Eddie Sutherland, Frank Johnston, Bath Neill, etc., all members of the big league bowlers and men with Canadian championship aspirations. It is men of this class that the local bowlers will be called upon to meet. The local team will include McIlroy, Warem, Cairns and two others, probably Hay, Martin or Pollard.

Mr. Hay is of the opinion that although the Peterborough men have been bowling for about only one year, they have not very much to fear from the Toronto men. He does not say the locals will win in Toronto but he is confident that they will win the return game, and anyway it will be a feather in their cap to be pitted against the best men in Canada, no matter whether they win or lose. The contest will be played in Toronto a week from Saturday night.

On the same night a team of Peterborough printers will go to Toronto to meet the Mail & Empire team. The locals will be composed of such men as Cairns, Lacheur, Richea, etc., while the Mail & Empire will play their regular printers' league team. This match will undoubtedly prove of great interest both in Toronto and here.

In addition to the games mentioned above, applications are in from the News, the champions of the Printers' League and it is possible that they will visit Peterborough within the next three weeks.

Another match which may materialize is a game between the editorial staff of the Toronto Telegram and a team of local newspaper men. If this game comes off it will likely be played on the same night that the News printers' team comes down.

There is a team of Toronto druggists who have issued a challenge to a team of Peterborough druggists. Mr. Hay will try and accommodate these people in the near future, but so far the local druggists have not gone in for bowling very extensively.

The Canadian Bowling Club also want a game here and together with the return matches with the Toronto picked team and the Mail & Empire team the local bowlers have a busy season before them.

Report of Inspector of Protestant Home

The following is the report of the Inspector of the Protestant Home, making a number of recommendations;—

On inspection the beds and bedding, halls, dormitories, closets and drainage were found satisfactory. The ventilation is not good and never can be made good in a building so poorly adapted for the purpose of a Home. The building is old and one upon which it would not be prudent to make any expenditure for much improvement.

The old people at the Home are carefully looked after and the management is excellent, those in charge being evidently faithful and kind in looking after those committed to their care. All the inmates seemed cheerful and content.

An effort should be made during the current year to provide a new building for this Home.

The city of Peterborough should come to the assistance of the board with a liberal grant, for at present there are several old men in the county jail who should be provided for elsewhere.

THE INJURED.

Willard Pooler, cut in the nose and mouth and shoulder dislocated.

Tom McCauley, Silver Queen mine, shoulder dislocated.

William Stewart, face and legs bruised.

Conrad Parent, hurt in the neck and chest.

J. W. Ingham, face and head cut.

Three or four others, slight bruises and scratches.

Cobalt, Jan. 26.— With one end three-quarter minutes to play at last night's game between Cobalt and the Wanderers, a length of railing gave way on the west side of the rink, resulting in a fall of twelve feet to the ice of a score of persons. About one dozen are injured, and five are in the hospital, but it is not thought that serious consequences will attend. The crowd were most anxious for Willard Pooler and Billy Laird, who were heavy men. Laird was stunned for several minutes but was revived. Pooler was carried off the ice in a semi-conscious condition, bleeding from the mouth and nose.

CROWD WAS EXCITED.

Under the circumstances an accident was practically inevitable. In the last ten minutes the Wanderers, who were two goals behind, were playing furiously and storming Chief Jones' goal like mad. The entire rink was all excitement. A hot scrimmage took place in the northeast corner of the rink and the crowd where the accident took place had to bunch together and lean over in order to take it in. There was enormous pressure on this section of railing, which is some fifteen feet from pillar to pillar; someone shouted "look out!" and the next instant with a crash the railing collapsed, letting those who were against it out on the ice.

FOUR DOCTORS ON HAND.

The players and some of the crowd, with Drs. Schmidt, Kane, Hare and McLaren, went to the assistance of the injured. A couple of women fainted in the galleries, and a lad named Jemmett was overcome in one of the dressing rooms.

SHOULDER WAS SET.

McCauley suffered the most from dislocation. Chloroform was administered to him in the dressing room and his shoulder bone was set before being taken to the hospital.

Remarkable Demonstration to Sealby and His Crew

New York, Jan. 26.—Captain Sealby and his officers and most of the crew of the wrecked steamship Republic were given a remarkable demonstration today when they landed at the pier of the White Star Line from the revenue cutter Seneca, which arrived last night from the scene of the disaster.

A great throng of officers and seamen of the steamships of the White Star Line in dock, together with 300 or 400 spectators, were on the dock when Capt. Sealby and his shipwrecked crew stepped down the gang plank. Officers and seamen alike made a rush for Capt. Sealby, and lifting him to their shoulders, carried him the whole length of the dock to the street while the crowd yelled itself hoarse and stewards on the steamships blew trumphets.

CARRIED THE TWO ALOFT.

Behind the captain the crowd carried aloft the brave Binns, the wireless telegraph operator. Captain Sealby was carried from the street to the offices of the Steamship Company on the second floor of the pier where only on his earnest protest would the crowd cease its demonstration.

Few marine stories in recent years of marvellous escapes from the sea equal in dramatic intensity the story that Captain Sealby told today of the escape of Second Officer Williams and himself from the fast-sinking Republic. The captain would not talk of the collision with the steamship Florida. Captain Sealby said.

SEA WAS PRETTY BAD.

"It was about eight o'clock Sunday night, at which time the Republic was sinking and only myself and Williams were on the bridge. There was a rumbling and cracking at the other end of the boat. The stern was settling very rapidly and the sea was pretty bad. Then I said to Williams; "Well, what do you think about it, Williams?"

Three Sisters All Burned to Death

Montreal, Jan. 26.— Beatrice, 18 years; Marguerite, 17 years, and Ruth aged 9 years, three daughters of W. G. Slack, treasurer of the Bell Telephone Company, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their house, 168 Cote Des Neiges road, yesterday.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Slack, who about midnight was awakened by smoke which was filling the house. If it had been possible to send in an alarm immediately help would have probably arrived in time to save the lives of the victims, but the effect of the storm on the telephone system had rendered the instruments in the house useless.

Pacifics Lead in the Ten Pin Tournament

There were doings in the ten pin tournament yesterday and last night and during the evening the standing was somewhat bullish, especially for the first, second and third places. In the start the Examiner A. lead with the Pacifics second and Bankers third. The Pacifics took two from the Greys and were in first place until the Examiner A team took three straights from the Iroquois. Then the Examiner A. team played the Midgets and dropped two and by so doing put them down to third position with the Pacifics in the lead and the Bankers second. The games were watched with great interest by a big bunch of bowlers and the defeat of the leaders was a popular one.

The Bankers and Beans play tonight and also the Midgets and Greys. The Bankers figure on taking three straight but the Hams will not stand for that and will endeavor to take at least two themselves. Next week there will be a battle royal between the Bankers and Pacifics.

The scores last night were as follows;—

Mr. Richard McCallum

A well known citizen of Stirling, Ont., cured of Chronic Catarrh and Irritable throat by Catarrhozone.

A remarkable case, exciting great interest in Stirling, which, if possible, adds to the popularity of Catarrhozone as a cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis, and Throat Trouble.

Catarrh is one of the most disagreeable and at the same time hardest to cure diseases. This has been Mr. McCallum's experience:

"For many years," he writes, "I have suffered from Catarrh, and continually hawked and coughed, so that my throat was always in an inflamed irritable condition.

"Doctor's medicine did not help me in the least, and all other remedies I used were quite useless. In one case it was time wasted in snuffing powder up the nose; in another using a greasy ointment, and so on. Not one of them was the least bit of good.

"I heard Catarrhozone favorably spoken of and tried a sample, and it really benefitted me more in a few hours than years of treatment with doctors' and other so called remedies.

"Receiving such immense benefit from the sample size, I got the complete outfit, large Hard Rubber Inhaler, etc., and but a few weeks of its use completely cured me of Catarrh and throat trouble.

"I recommend Catarrhozone as the most satisfactory Catarrh remedy on the market. Every word said about it is true.

(Signed) "Richard McCallum."

Now perhaps you need a remedy like Catarrhozone. It is the only treatment that is applied locally as well as constitutionally. The Inhaler clears the air passages, stops hawking and spitting, and purifies the breath.

The Ferrozone Tablets which are used in conjunction with Catarrhozone Inhaler, drive all the poisons from the blood and build up the system to a healthy, vigorous condition.

The complete outfit costs $1 at all druggists; trial size 25c., by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy Catarrhozone to-day.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN ENGLAND

Keir Hardie, the Independent Labor Leader in the House of Commons defends the violent methods of the so-called suffragettes in England on the ground that "what would not be justified in a person who had a vote would be justified in one who had no vote."

The excesses of the suffragettes, their public demonstrations, their conflicts with the police and the imprisonment of their members in Holloway Jail has given an impetus to the woman suffrage movement in England which long years of orderly agitation had failed to imparet. In the number of their sympathizers and in financial strength they have made amazing progress. Wherever the women who wear the violet, white and green appear they go determined to force the fighting.

But while the suffragettes, as the Social and Political Union, of which Mrs. Pankhurst and her two daughters and Mrs. Pethick-Lawrence are the leading spirits, keep foremost in the public eye, several other organizations are actively in the field. The Women's Freedom League, of which Mrs. Despard, the sister of General French, is a conspicuous figure, is an offshoot of the Social and Political Union.

The Women's Liberal Federation was founded in 1887. Mrs. Henry Fawcett was formerly and to-day Lady Carlisle is its President. After Gladstone went to the country on the Irish question there followed a split. About two-thirds of the membership kept up the old organization on the basis of women suffrage in the programme and retained the old name. It carries on the agitation along constitutional lines and in a non partisan spirit. The secedars, as the Women's National Association, went on with the Liberal propaganda without suffrage.

The Tory women work for the suffrage chiefly in the ranks of the Primrose League, but within the last few weeks they have started the Women's Conservative League for suffrage on the advice of Lord Robert Cecil, the son of the former Tory Premier, Lord Salisbury. There is also a Men's League, for Women's Suffrage, a league of voters. The Union of Suffrage Societies is an organization of the various women-suffrage societies on an absolutely non-political basis.

In 1907 the Campbell-Bannerman Government by the Woman's Qualification Act granted the right to serve on all local government bodies to all qualifications being almost the same as for men. Outside of London no married woman—that is, no woman whose husband is living—can vote or serve on a town or county council, but in London there is no such disqualification. This permits women to serve as members of the London County Council, which in importance is second only to Parliament among the legislative bodies of Great Britain. That within a few years one or the other of the great political parties will find it expedient to grant the Parliamentary franchise to women on terms equal with men is altogether probable. Mr. Asquith has given his word that in the next reform bill the present Government, while not pledged to woman suffrage, will entertain such an amendment.

THE FEBRUARY ROD AND GUN

Varied in its contents, but redolent throughout of the many delights of the Canadian Winter, the February number of "Rod and Gun and Motor Sports in Canada," published by W. J. Taylor, Woodstock, Ont., brings with it the breeziness attached to this particular season of the year. The record of a fine snowshoe tramp, an Indian tale of a moose race on the ice, the story of a winter in Northern Ontario and an article on Snow Blindness by Martin Hunter, an ex-Hudson Bay Factor, show how many sided are the beauties of the Canadian winter and how thoroughly the inhabitants of the Dominion appreciate and enjoy them. A fine illustrated account of the Qualification Climb of Mt. Hermit, in connection with the last meeting of the Alpine Club of Canada, is contributed by Mr. D. B. Taylor, who has been touring the West as representative of the Magazine since that event. It is evident from this article that the spirit of the mountains seized the writer and made him an enthusiast. One of the best papers written by Mr. Bonnycastle Dale, "Chief Canim Tikope of the Skagits," with the author's illustrations, tells of an old Indian Chief out in Vancouver Island, who makes canoes with primitive tools and disposes of them at unheard of prices. Notes on the last deer season, a couple of grave indictments against the alleged inefficiency of the Ontario Fish and Game Department, one of the Rev. A. Murdoch's capital hunting stories, Some Old Time Reminiscences of Old Ontario, intensely interesting as telling of pioneer days, and stories of camping and fishing trips, are some of the further papers making up a number strong in every department of outdoor life with which the magazine deals. It is Canadian throughout, imbued with the spirit of the Dominion, and is good.

Lights Went Out on Tuesday Night

Lindsay was enveloped in darkness last night from about ten o'clock and there was considerable scurry for coal-oil lamps and candles in the different households throughout the town. There was also a good deal of guessing as to the cause thereof.

Inquiry this morning elicited the fact that an insulator had been broken on a pole at Cameron and the high wind which had arisen had blown the wire against the crossarm, which ignited. The fire burned the cross-arm and, extending to the pole, burned it down also, the heat injuring the wire to such an extent as to render it useless for further conveyance of the juice.

The break was repaired at an early hour this morning and there were no places of business inconvenienced as a result of the accident.

The company are to be congratulated upon the promptness with which they overcome any difficulties that arise. While other places frequently suffer from stoppages from a variety of causes Lindsay is troubled with surprisingly infrequent occasions of this kind, which goes to show how careful are the officers of the company to give the best service possible under all circumstances. Even Toronto has its troubles with Niagara power.

Womanly pains, head pains, in fact any pain anywhere can be completely stopped in 20 minutes with one of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. Ask your Doctor or Druggist about the formula. It is printed on the box—and it can't be bettered. Try one dose and be convinced. Box 25c. Sold by all dealers.

Canal Would Cost $9,000 a Year

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—The final report of the Georgian Canal Commission has been placed before Parliament. In the main this has been discounted by the preliminary report which appeared last session. Some additional details, however, appear.

It has already been noted that the cost will be $100,000,000; the additional information is vouchsafed that the annual cost of maintenance will be $900,000.

The plan advocated is to have the summit level above Lake Nipissing. To use Lake Nipissing as the summit level would cost an additional $10,000,000 at least, and introduce twelve additional miles of canal-cutting. The water supply conditions are satisfactory, and on the Ottawa the current will not exceed three miles an hour; practically slack water will obtain.

It already is known that the water power developed will be about a million horse-power. The cost of developing this is put at $50 per horse-power. No international waters are affected. The Board recommends continued measurements and observations to show the water supply of the Ottawa and Mattawa Rivers, and 20,000 square miles of the upper drainage area of the Ottawa is little known, and should be examined. So should the drainage areas of the several tributaries, and, indeed, all large river drainage basins. Appended is a recommendation as to forest conservation. A commission should examine the great canals of the world.

Croup positively stopped in 20 minutes, with Dr. Shoop's Croup Remedy. One test alone will surely prove this truth. No vomiting, no distress. A safe and pleasing syrup—25c. Sold by all dealers.

This week we are selling a line of books at 25 cents. Be sure and see these values. Best yet. Times Bookstore.

... The ... Plow Woman

Tied in twos outside the long barn were six horses, the mounts of the guard. Each of the animals was bridled and saddled. Matthews went from pair to pair of the horses, stealing along carefully. When he was done with the six he disappeared inside. Down the rows of stalls his work was surer and more swift. What noise he made was drowned by the rush of the river.

Now Indian and white ally continued upstream. Beyond the northern sentry line and beyond the sod huts of the scouts they spied the first sign of the horse herd they sought, a herd composed of the sutler's spike team, a four-in-hand used on the wood wagon, Lieutenant Fraser's Buckskin and a dozen or fifteen second choice mounts belonging to absent officers. That sign was a spark on the ground a long way ahead. They knew it for the lantern of the remaining herder.

Matthews turned aside toward the landing. "We meet here," he whispered.

The Indian grunted an assent and made off in the direction of the distant spark.

When he came back some time had passed. A flash of lightning disclosed him to Matthews, who saw that the other was wiping at his face with his skirt.

"How did it go, Canada John?" asked the interpreter.

Canada John laughed. "The herder was glad to see Squaw Charley," he answered, "but he fought like a badger."

"Here is the small boat. When you have finished on this side remember the Mae Who Buys Skins is on the other. He will be glad to see Squaw Charley too."

"Have you the oil?"

"Yes." The interpreter felt for the other's hand and gave him a can. They parted for the second time.

Canada John now started for the post. As he went he pulled dry grass until his arms were full. Arrived beside the barracks, he began to pile the grass against the pine wall.

The interpreter had reached the herd, where he was taking the rope hobbles from the fore legs of several horses. This done he climbed into a herder's saddle and headed the band slowly up the bottom land. Nearly all the animals had seen long service, so they went tamely enough. Where the road along the bank turned west to cross the bluffs through a break they took it and were soon over the ridge and out upon the prairie. There Matthews started them south. Finally a mile or more below the line of the stockade he completed his wide detour by driving them due east. Beside the Missouri he rounded them up and brought them to a stand.

He tied the horse he had ridden to some willows. Next, having unwound several rope lengths from about his waist, he began to catch and tie others of the bunch. He had rope for only ten. The hobbles fastened three more. The remaining horses were gentle, all but the one belonging to Fraser. Matthews, swearing in English and Uncapapa, tried every device he knew, but failed to catch her.

He dared not waste another minute. Quickly he wound some grass into a twist, lit it and waved it back and forth above his head three times, after which, as a precaution, he took a flask from his hind pocket and going from horse to horse of the string, to the hobbled three and to the half dozen that were standing loose, rubbed their nostrils with the liquor. But again he was unable to touch the "She Devil." In a fury he threw the empty flask at her.

From his hiding place beside the barracks the Indian in squaw's dress saw the signal torch of the interpreter. At once he sneaked from side to side to listen. Then he took a wisp of grass, bound round it a strip of oily cloth and kneeling beside the bundle farthest from the river set a match to it. Instantly flames leaped up. He ran to other grass piles, lighting them one by one.

The next moment an amazed sentry who was pacing his beat by the scouts' huts saw the growing bonfires and called out in alarm to another. Before the latter could reply the end of the barracks was burning. Both sentries fired their guns. The sergeant of the guard answered with revolver shots. The Gatlings spoke from the lookouts. A trumpet shrilled the fire alarm. From the sutler's sounded the clang of the mess gong.

In the midst of the tumult one spot—the stockade—kept strangely quiet. Its guards were collected at the sliding panel, from where, not daring to leave, they watched the growing blaze. So intent were they upon the sight that they took no heed of their prisoners. Therefore no one knew or hindered when the Indian braves, led by Standing Buffalo and notorious as shadows, filed into Brown Mink's wicking, crawled through the breach in the log wall and sped away into the shielding dark.

Behind the squaws and children were gathered, with the Indian girl walking boldly among them. Of a sudden they parted. From under the shingle roof there was a sound of struggling, a thump as a body hit the ground, an old woman's squeal of rage. Then into the faint glare reflected from the fire came a stooping figure in squaw's dress that sped through the scattering crowd, shot into Brown Mink's tent and was gone.

Across the prairie Matthews was following after the eighty cayuse, not trying to catch her, only striving to get her out of the way. Buckskin was willful, however, and as often as the angry interpreter drove her off came circling exactly back to halt in the path of the coming braves. The string by the willows, the hobbled horses and the gentle free ones, were frightened by her into stamping about. But the whisky biting their noses killed the hated scent that was nearing. Not so with the cayuse. She caught it. For a moment she waited, head high, ears a-quiver, nostrils spread. Matthews warned the Indians. They did not

IN EXPERIMENTS

These Millions Have Been and Are Being Wasted in Experiments With Mills and Other Treating Plants

Ours is no experiment. Our new smelting process has Been tested in every detail. We KNOW wha it will do and we know that it will do what we claim for it.

You know what a cheap smelting process will mean to the mining industry all over the world- Miners as well as investors in minir g stock must pay their share in unreasonable charges to sc me smelter under the present system. Why not inte est yourself in a company which will help you—which will help the miner as well as the investor in mining stock—to

We will erect a smelter of fifty tons right near your mine. Oursmelter thus erected will save 85% in treatment. freight charges and hauling the ore to the railway. This is the crying need of the mining industry to-day.

Think what this means in the treatment of the ores from your mine. Think what this means in the treatment of the ore at present upon the dump. No matt r how low grade the dump ore, so long as we have some high grade in every charge, we can get you the values from the ore now lying worthless upon the dump.

We have the practical smelter of the new era. It is not an experiment ; it is now in practical working order. We are now ready to erect smelters everywhere. We will buil'd the smelters right at your mines, and thereby overcome all the obstructions which may be placed in our way by the railroads and trust smelters.

Why lament the fact of the present smelter overcharges, when her you have the chance to get a smelter right at your mine, which will treat the ore at $2 per ton, without difference for grades?

We are offering only 100.000 shares of stock in the Kuenzel's Process Smelter Company at 75 cents a share. The proceeds from the sale of this stock will be used towards erecting several of our smelters near producing mines, when we will begin at once to make money for ourselves and for the mine owner.

We have a large plant, a completely equipped machine shop, capable of building at least two 50-ton smelters every month. The preliminary. development stage of our enterprise has passed. We are ready to make money. Why not join us as a stockholder?

The money which you In this company is represented in full value in property and other assets. You are investing in a reality when you buy these shares.

Buy stock in this company now and you will help to realize upon the low grade ores in your dumps which otherwise must remain in waste and valueless. Let us tell you all about this new era smelter, the practical operation of which actually means the revolution oi the mining industry. Write for full particulars. We will convince you that this is, indeed, the best gilt-edge investment on the market, from every point of view.

Maple Leaf Mines, Limited

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided Into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia, Ont., Pres. ; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice-Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont , Sec-Treas ; Charles Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C. Ritchie. Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 868, containing 40 acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information :

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 16th December, 1903, and which may be inspected at the offices of E. C. Le-Vesconte, 18 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties. In consideration of 250,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 20,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $500; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 5000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 16th of December, 1903.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development must fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines Ltd., and send same to—

A Great Triumph for an Invention--Struggle Ended

One of the finest newspaper stories ever printed in a Canadian journal was the description of the ramming of the ss. Republic, published in Monday's Mail and Empire, and written by their New York correspondent. To say that it was worthy of its subject is to give it the highest praise, for it chronicled one of the great triumphs of modern science. The real feature of the fine story that came from New York was not the accident to the Republic. It was the achievement of wireless telegraphy. For the first time on record, so far as we know, the Marconi system was given the chance to save hundreds of lives. Nobly it rose to the occasion, and averted what might well have been one of the most frightful ocean tragedies of modern times.

A STRUGGLE ENDED.

With the rescue of the passengers and crew of the Republic wireless telegraphy may be said to have ended a ten years' struggle. There can no longer be any doubt that for the most important function any mechanical invention can perform, namely, the saving of human life, wireless telegraphy is incomparably superior to the old system of transmitting messages by wire. The claim of the cable companies that wireless telegraphy has vital defects which unfit it for commercial purposes was true ten years ago, even five years ago. To-day the new system is not perfect. But as a life-saver it commands wonder and the gratitude of civilization to an extent beyond that of any other invention of recent times. Good-will must be a mighty factor in telegraphy, as in other competitions, and wireless telegraphy in struggling for business with a powerful, long-established trust has the good-will of millions of English-speaking men and women upon its side.

CORRECTING DEFECTS.

It is a little more than a year since the Marconi system of wireless telegraphy began regularly to send and receive ordinary commercial messages between stations in Cornwall and Cape Breton. Five years earlier the first trans-Atlantic experiments had been made, and though wonderful in proving the possibilities of the system, they revealed serious imperfections. Anyone who would go to the expense of fitting up a receiving station could intercept the wireless messages. Not only could the messages be intercepted, but they could be interrupted by other wireless messages flung into a trans-Atlantic conversation by anyone desirous of making trouble. There was no method by which transmitter and receiver could be attuned so that each would be responsive to the other, and deaf and dumb to messages emanating elsewhere. It took five years to improve the system in these important respects.

A PREDICTION JUSTIFIED.

It is worth while quoting what was said in this column some time ago, about the Marconi system, in view of the fact that a prophecy then made has been strikingly fulfilled:—"Its benefit to navigation cannot but be great. Already serviceable use has been made of wireless telegraphy by ocean liners, two of which were communicating with each other in mid-ocean, 100 miles apart, at the time Marconi was announcing the results of his Newfoundland experiments. In fogs, darkness and storm, vessels can notify each other of their proximity, lighthouses can be communicated with, and ports can be advised of the troubles of distressed vessels."

OTHER WIRELESS GENIUSES.

It is Marconi's destiny to go down in history as the inventor of wireless telegraphy; but in the moment of his most dramatic success it is proper to remember that wireless telegraphy, without the work of anyone of half a dozen men, might be to-day only an interesting toy in the laboratory. Arco and Slaby are the names of two great wireless inventors. Indeed, their system has been preferred by official Germany to that of the Italian. Lieut. Solari, a fellow-countryman of Marconi's might claim equal credit with him. A still earlier genius whose name is remembered was Hertz.

HOW TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS.

To recommend that all passenger vessels should carry wireless apparatus would be fitting for the next international gathering, that meets with the Republic accident fresh in mind. Had the Florida been thus equipped it is extremely unlikely that the collision could have occurred. Now that the Marconi device is recognised as a great life-saving agency, it would seem almost criminal for steamships not to adopt it. One result of the accident will be that in future ocean voyagers will assure themselves before booking passages that the vessel on which they mean to sail is able, in case of emergency, to send a cry for help that can be heard and answered hundreds of miles away.

Will Duke of Abruzzi Renounce His Rank?

Paris, January 23. — A special despatch from Turin to the Petit Parisien says that the Duke of the Abruzzi has decided to resign from the navy and to renounce all rank and honors in order to marry Miss Katharine Elkins, but that the King has refused to accept the Duke's resignation.

A number of officers conversant with the situation, who asked the Queen aboard the battleship Regina Elena at Messina to intercede with the King for his consent to the marriage, according to the despatch, were placed under close arrest by Admiral Mirabello, the Minister of Marine. Many other high naval officers also have decided to resign with the Duke of the Abruzzi in token of their sympathy.

Sheep Husbandry in Canada

A timely bulletin entitled "Sheep Husbandry in Canada" by Mr. J. B. Spencer, B. S. A., has been issued by the Live Stock Branch at Ottawa. Mr. Spencer has taken up the task from practically all the standpoints that concern the sheep raiser in whatever province he may dwell. After describing the ideal mutton sheep he gives a brief, though comprehensive, history and description of eleven of the popular breeds. Next he covers in a practical way the establishing of a commercial breeding flock. Mutton production as a highly specialized industry is dealt with by reviewing the methods in vogue in Great Britain. Following this are appropriately described the various systems of finishing for the market in Canada. Nor does the treatment of the subject stop when the animal is fattened for it is followed right through the butchering and curing processes until the joint is ready for the cook. Then come sections on handling, dipping, wethering, feeds and feeding, housing, weed destroying, enemies, etc., each subject exhaustively treated according to the practice of the most successful shepherds.

Evidently recognising that the industry differs in the various provinces by reason of climatic and other conditions the author treats each separately. The section devoted to diseases will appeal to thousands of sheep men. This chapter, covering upwards of twenty of the common ailments, and accidents, was personally prepared by the Live Stock Commissioner, who is also Veterinary Director General. As a practical home doctor book for the flockmaster this work will undoubtedly become a helpful steadby. A review of the wool industry concludes the text of the work of more than 136 pages of reading matter. The book is profusely illustrated by some sixty beautiful plate illustrations printed in sepia and a number of line drawings. This attractive, comprehensive and pratical "Bulletin, No. 12 of the Live Stock Branch" is ready for free distribution to all those interested in the sheep or its products who care to apply for it to J. G. Rutherford, Live Stock Commissioner, Ottawa.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing less usually. At least so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr Shoop's Headache Tablet—causes blood pressure away from pain centers (its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, enough subtly, it gently equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause. If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Brains your throb, your head doesn't fit and feel right, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets

"ALL DEALERS"

Carrie was the Target for Rain of Stale Eggs

London, Jan. 27.— Whack, whack, whack, went several eggs, one of which hit Carrie Nation on the cheek. Down came the curtain, and in a few seconds Mrs. Nation's first appearance at the Canterbury Music Hall was over. Before that she had appeared at the Paragon Music Hall, where the Eastend audience gave her more time, apparently in order to listen to their own, not her remarks.

"Is it time, now?" she asked, leaning over the footlights to make herself heard above the din.

"Yes," cried two camera holders, whereupon Mrs. Nation opened a Bible and lifted up one of her arms. Flash went the magnesium.

"Get off", yelled the audience, and down came the curtain.

Bryce and Root Have Reached Understanding

Washington, Jan. 27.—For the first time under the terms of the international arbitration treaties with the various countries of the world negotiated by Secretary Root, resort is to be had to the international tribunal at The Hague, to which august body are to be referred the disputed questions growing out of the Newfoundland Fisheries Treaty of 1818 between the United States and Great Britain.

In this way the State Department and the British Foreign Office hope will be terminated a long pending issue which has become annoying and irritable and a source of bad feeling between the American fishermen and the Newfoundland authorities while plying their vocation in the waters of that country.

After protracted conferences of months standing, Secretary Root and Ambassador Bryce have come to a complete understanding and as soon as the formal consent of the colonial authorities is received the treaty will be signed. Final action has been hastened by the presence at the conference of Ministers of Justice Aylesworth, of Canada, and Kent, of Newfoundland.

The machinery of The Hague providing a court of arbitration is always available if the means of naming its members is not provided in the treaty specifying the questions to be arbitrated, which has to be ratified by the Senate. Prompt action therefore will be had as soon as the contracting powers finally pass on the treaty.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

HOW TO TELL

If the Kidneys and Liver are Not Acting Well.

Thousands die every year from aggravated kidney distress that could have been saved if they only knew.

Your back may ache, you think it's tiredness or physical weakness.

You grow irritable and nervous—it's put down to loss of sleep.

Can't you see it's all from your over-worked kidneys, which can't keep the body clear of poisons that are now surging through the whole system.

Cure your kidneys with Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"When I was so stooped and back weary, so lame and sore with kidney and bladder trouble, I cured myself quickly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills" writes C. C. Ferrier, a well known merchant in Plainsville. "Dr. Hamilton's Pills touched the spot, at once, gave my back ease, lifted depression and weariness, made a new man of me. I can also say for a good spring medicine to clear and enrich the blood Dr. Hamilton's Pills have no equal."

The housewife whose aching back makes every little duty a burden, the working man who is tired all day and can't rest at night, whose back aches, and whose feet swell—these people have kidney trouble. Women whose kidneys are sick, suffer continually from blind and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, bearing down pains, sharp twinges when stooping, distressing urinary troubles, aching muscles, and joints lack of apetite, and loss of sleep. Reach the cause. Cure the kidneys. Use Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills, which have cured thousands, 25c. at all dealers.

The place will be closed for a few days while the remodelling in contemplation is being done, and will then be opened under the management of Mr. F. A. Jacobi, and will be called the Peterborough lunch room.

New Speed Boat

The boat that is being built for Mr. W. E. Talbot, the George street tobacconist, by the Peterborough Canoe Company, is nearing completion. This boat is 28 feet long with a 5 foot 6 inch beam, and is at present being fitted with a 15-horse power Schofield-Holden Gasoline engine, which will give a speed of from 12 to 15 miles an hour. This craft is one of the most comfortable and beautiful of boats that will be on the river next summer and it holds, without crowding, 20 persons. It is covered with an automobile canopy cover and all the comforts of a home will also be installed.

Committee of the Whole

All the aldermen are reminded of the Committee of the Whole Council meeting this evening. Business of great importance will be taken up and it is necessary for all to be present. The Water Commissioners will likely present their plans for the construction of the new dam and power plant and also the amount necessary to be raised by debentures. WEDDING BELLS

CONWAY—FRAILEY.

Monday morning at ten o'clock at St. Martin's church, Ennismore the marriage took place of William Conway, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Conway, Ennismore, and Matilda Frailey, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen O'Reilly. The Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, rector of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a very large congregation. Miss Conway, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Patrick Killen performed the duties of best man. After the ceremony had been performed dinner was served to about sixty guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O'Reilly, and the happy couple left on the 5.35 C.P.R. train for Toronto, where they will spend a few days, returning on Thursday to take up their abode on the homestead at Ennismore.

GIARDINO—CUPOLI.

The second Italian wedding of the new year was solemnized at St. Peter's cathedral yesterday morning, the contracting parties being Miss Leonardine Cupoli and Mr. Carmine Giardino, both of whom are residents of Peterborough and very popular among their many friends. They were supported by Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Febbo.

A marriage with an Italian bride and groom particularly in a foreign country where they are naturally not nearly so frequent as in the old land, arouses particular interest and practically the whole Italian section of the city's population attended the celebration of the happy event. A number of the Canadian neighbors of the young couple were also present.

Nuptial events are observed by the people of the sunny land when the bride and groom are very young from the Anglo-Saxon viewpoint and Mr. and Mrs. Giardino are only 20 and 17 years of age respectively.

The bride is a sister of Mr. John Cupoli of 288 Elm street, and has been in this country for about four years, coming from Castelluccio Valmaggiore, of the Province of Foggia. The groom lives with his parents at 288 Parnell street. He is from Rocco S. Grovannia, Province of Chietti, and has also been here about four years. He is a prosperous young member of the Italian colony. The couple in keeping with the Italian custom, will live with the parents of the groom, as he is their eldest son.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the groom's home, at which there were about fifty guests.

The presents given the bride were especially numerous and valuable.

Old Peterborough Boy Visits the City

Mr. J. A. Ellis of Omaha, Neb., general agent of the Chicago and Great Western Railway, arrived in the city on Monday last, and was the guest of his brother-in-law, Ald. Wm. Butler. Mr. Ellis left for his western home again yesterday morning after having renewed acquaintance with his many old friends. He is an old Peterborough boy, and 20 years ago he was assistant station agent for the C.P.R. here. When he left the C.P.R. he entered the service of the Chicago and Great Western where his ability as a railroad man were soon recognized, and his advancement to his present position was rapid. It is eight years since Mr. Ellis visited Peterborough, and he notices many changes, especially in the people. Large numbers of the old faces and old friends have disappeared and their places taken by others. He also noticed a vast improvement in the city as a whole and considers it one of the finest places in America.

Who Will Succeed Archbishop Sweetman?

While there is a general indisposition on the part of church leaders to discuss as yet the situation created by the death of Archbishop Sweetman this is being thought of by the Church generally, the more especially as the subject was canvassed a year or so ago when it seemed likely the Primate would retire. The names mentioned now are those of Canon Cody, rector of St. Paul's, Provost Macklem, of Trinity College, Canon Welch, of St. James', Rev. T. W. Powell, of Eglinton, and Rev. J. Paterson Smyth, of St George's Church, Montreal. Some predict that the Synod will go afield and will select a man, possibly from Great Britain, who has never been mentioned in connection with the diocese, but others hold this would only be in event of failure to agree on a local men.

Big Building Year for Winnipeg City

Winnipeg, Jan. 22. — The coming building season in Winnipeg, according to every indication, will be a very good and same one. The most important real estate transaction of the winter in the city was concluded last week in the purchase by the Great West Life Assurance Company of 100 feet frontage on Lombard street, for $100,000.00. The property was purchased as a site for a large reinforced concrete office building which the company proposes to erect in the early spring.

The Canadian Pacific Railway have purchased a large strip of property 99 feet wide and nearly two miles in length in the western portion of the city. The company will build a substation for the convenience of manufacturers who have located along side of the property and it is rumored that there are negotiations on for other large industrial concerns locating on this spur track which will relieve the construction at other points within the city.

In Daily Intercourse with Spirit of His Son

Mr. W. T. Stead has caused something of a sensation by the announcement that he is in daily intercourse with the spirit of his son Willie, which forsook its earthly shell some time ago. He promises that in the near future he will explain to the world how he established a medium of communication with the spirit land; and he also promises to produce irrefragible proofs of the actuality of such communication. Though dozens of experimenters have tried before now to prove to a sceptical generation that they could and did talk to the dead, and that the dead talked back, no one has succeeded in conquering the general disbelief on this point. The fact that hundreds of these attempts have been exposed as cruel frauds has not made easier the task of those who have taken Spiritualism seriously. The world will await Mr. Stead's proofs with interest. In the meantime it has made up its mind not be believe him.

ANXIETIES OF THE DEAD.

The news from Willie Stead is very satisfactory to his father, for Willie says that the citizens of that mysterious realm whence no traveler returns are just as anxious to talk to us as we are to hold conversation with them. "He talks with me at great length," says Mr. Stead, "regarding what he sees, how he feels and what his hopes are respecting myself and other members of the family." The idea of a spirit seeing and feeling is rather a new one; and in this case the words are to be understood, we suppose, as mere symbols for earthly intelligence, the real ideas of a spirit being difficult if not impossible, for us to grasp. At this point it may be not irreverent to remark that, judging from the messages that are supposed to have come from the spirit land, one would suppose that no newspaper reporter had ever died. At any rate none of them has ever arrived in the neighborhood of the other spirits who have established communication with those who remain on earth. It is certain that when a newspaper man gets among them we shall have some live information on subjects which are of the utmost importance to every human being, instead of the puerile reports that have leaked out up to the present moment.

THE TROUBLES OF W. T. STEAD.

Mr. Stead says that he has long been a believer in Spiritualism. He has known, he says, that the dead could talk with us, and he admits that his convictions on this subject have cost him dear. They have hurt him in a business way, rude human beings treating him as though he were demented. He has lost not only money, but friends. Now, however, he is amply repaid for all he has suffered. He would not give one of his son's letters for all he has lost. The letters, by the way, would hardly be accepted in a court of law as evidence that the dead speak, for they are all in Mr. Stead's own handwriting. He sits before his desk, utterly passive. All he consciously does is to hold the pencil in his fingers. The rest is the work of the spirit. After the trance or aberration, or whatever it is, the paper will be found covered with writing. This is the letter from Willie.

A REMARKABLE PROPHECY.

In the Fortnightly Review there appears an account of what Mr. Stead thinks a remarkable experience of his own. He declares that it constitutes about the best possible proof that we can receive messages from the dead. He remarks that the hypothesis of telepathy from the unconscious mind of the living can be used to account for almost any message said to be transmitted from the dead. "There is, however, one class of message that cannot be thus explained away." He refers to prophecy. It is admitted that the living mind cannot pry very far into futurity. There are some prophecies, of course, that may be explained as mere coincidences. Others are a clever jump at the end of a spring board of reason. There are also the millions annually which are wrong. The prophecy that Mr. Stead tells of came true, and on that account is interesting.

THE CASE OF "E. M."

It appears that he had in his employ a female clerk named "E. M.," of uncertain temper and far from robust health. She was not satisfactory, and he had made up his mind to discharge her, when he received a spirit message from an American spirit named "Julia" telling him to bear with "E. M.", as she would die within the year. This was on Jan. 15. The message was repeated in February, March, April, May and June. Nothing doing. In July "E. M." swallowed a tin tack. The result was acute appendicitis and the doctors gave her up. Julia, however, said she would recover, and she did. In August, September, October and November the original message was repeated. In December, "E. M." was stricken with influenza. She was desperately ill when the old year passed away, and Mr. Stead ventured, in a gentlemanly way, to "Josh" Julia. She said, however, that influenza would not kill "E. M." but that she would die a violent death. She also reminded Mr. Stead that the year since the prophecy had been made was not up—an worthy quibble on Julia's part, it seems to us. On January 10 July told Mr. Stead he would see "E. M." alive for the last time next day. Two days later she threw herself out of the window in her delirium and was killed.

"AN INFERNAL EXPERIMENT.

The New York Sun refers to the Stead article as an infernal experiment, and accuses him of moral blindness to the grisly possibilities of the case. It considers it likely that "E. M." had heard of the ghastly messages through one of the two female secretaries whom Mr. Stead had taken into his confidence. She may even have had a peep at the horrible messages which the editor preserved, and this fear hanging over her may have so preyed on her mind, already weakened by disease, that she destroyed herself. This hypothesis seems a good deal more reasonable than that which Mr. Stead asks us to adopt, and for the time being we accept it.

The Maple Leaf a Sure Winner

The Temiskaming end of the Cobalt camp is being vigorously developed, and many shippers will be added to the camps list from this section.

A few days since Mr. Herman discovered a fine vein on the Progress Mine which is situated south of the Temiskaming and just north of Gifford Extension. The vein which is 3 inches of Calcite and Silver, was first discovered immediately on the line dividing the Progress and Gifford Extension and was a mere crack showing iron rust.

This vein was stripped north for 100 feet where a shaft was sunk 12 feet on it. At this point and with the last shot the vein widened and exposed the silver. This is remarkable as no where in this section has silver been found so near the surface. The Gifford Extension will diamond drill this vein very soon cutting it at the 250 foot level. They have already stripped this vein for several hundred feet on their property, and find that it parallels the vein on which their shaft was sunk, and is about 250 feet east on shaft.

With these evidences it would be reasonable to expect great results in Southern Coleman this year. The camp generally is in fine condition, and with the recent advance in the price of silver profits will increase materially.

The Gifford Cobalt Contractors have installed a splendid plant and work is being rushed, and the 200 foot level should be reached by April next. The Gifford flotations seem more than likely to become shippers during this year.

The Maple Leaf, which is now offered the public, has a splendid property and their nearest neighbor, the Ontario Development Co., have recently discovered some good things. Bailey Cobalt which has been very active in New York, looks a little manipulative. Temiskaming, Chambers Ferland, La Rose and Nipissing should be quite active soon, and make decided advances. Beaver is receiving good support, but there is no news of a strike as yet.

St. Railway Co. Asks City Not to Oppose Their Application

The Peterborough Radial Railway Company, represented by Mr. J. H. Larmonth and Mr. E. A. Peck in reference to the proposed opposition from the City Council to their application to the legislature for an extension of time to build their line to Stoney Lake. The deputation asked the council not to oppose their application and stated that their plans would be laid before the committee as soon as possible.

Mr. E. A. Peck was present on behalf of the Peterborough Radial Railway and asked the council for an expression of good will. The company is seeking an extension of time to build their railway He understood the Board of Work would recommend the council to oppose it. Mr. Peck asked a little consideration from the council as the service furnished this city would compare favorably with that in any place in Ontario. He asked that this city favor the local company in opposition to any outside the city. He said the only company applying for a charter was the one from Cobourg. It would certainly be much better for this city to have the road built to the Kawartha Lakes by a local concern. It was extremely difficult to finance a road and the delay in the past was due to that.

Mr. Larmonth stated that the estimates for the road to Stony Lake were from $350,000 to $400,000. The company has already put $80,000 new capital into the street railway here.

Ald. Phelan explained that it was not the object to block the road, but to discuss the matter and find out just where the city was at in this matter. The company's charter expires in May, and it will soon be time to apply for a new lease. The city is interested in this matter and do not want that road delayed any longer than was really necessary.

No definite action was taken as the matter had not yet come before the council.

Establish Fund to Wipe Out All Level Crossings

Ottawa, Jan. 27. — The Railway Commission, in a letter addressed last night to the Minister of Railways, has made a series of most important recommendations looking to the protection of all dangerous railway level crossings throughout Canada. This communication is in the nature of a reply to a message which Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Minister of Railways, addressed to the board this week on the same subject.

The Railway Commissioners are of the opinion that the enormous sum of money which is required to provide for the protection of the public at these highway crossings is larger than the railway companies alone can be expected to subscribe. Presumably the municipalities would be willing to bear a portion of the expense, but the Railway Commissioners think that the Dominion and Provincial governments should also establish funds which may be drawn upon for this purpose.

They suggest, accordingly, that legislation should be passed by the Dominion Parliament and the Provincial legislatures for this purpose and the proposal will, no doubt be brought before the House of Commons during the present session.

This whole question of more efficient protection for the public at railway crossings is one which has been discussed in Parliament for several years past. A bill of Mr. Lancaster's on the subject passed the Lower House last session, but was thrown out in the Senate.

G.T.R. WOULD PAY HALF.

It is in evidence before the Railway Commission that Chas. M. Hays has expressed the willingness of the Grand Trunk Railway to pay one-half the cost of protecting all highway crossings on its system that may be considered dangerous. Presumably the railway company's feeling is, however, that the public should bear its share of the cost. In most of the individual cases dealt with by the Railway Commission the cost of protection is divided.

The Coming Exhibit of Paintings and Statuary

Early in February, under the auspices of the city section of the Women's Art Association of Canada, an interesting exhibit of art works—painting and statuary—will be held in the rooms of the local association, Bank of Montreal Chambers, Simcoe street.

The exhibit will be an elaborate and excellent one, comprising oils by Scotch artists and Dutch watercolors by the leading artists of the Netherlands. There will also be exhibits of the statuary work of the Peterborough artist, Miss Kathleen Wallis, which was received with so much enthusiasm in Montreal. Exhibits of sculpture by the celebrated Dutch artist, Mr. Charles Van Wyk, will also be on view. An unique feature of the exhibit will be specimens of the black and white work of Mr. Walter Crane, illustrations, etc. These have never, heretofore, been exhibited outside of England. The coming exhibits will be the most elaborate and interesting of any ever held under the management of the local branch of the association.

Both Men Expect to Win the Big Walk

The announcement that J. E. Blake of Syracuse, N.Y., the American colored walking champion and Jim Harrison, Peterborough's well known distance ped, are to hook up for a six-hour race in the Auditorium Roller Rink on Saturday of this week has aroused great interest in the city and a big crowd will witness the event. Blake was a prime favorite with the local enthusiasts while he was taking part in the big six-day walk in which he finished second with Harrison third and many people will welcome the opportunity to see him in action again. He writes from Syracuse that he is in good shape and expects to beat Harrison here on Saturday. Whether he will do so or not is another matter, Harrison does not say so, and those who saw the local crack go in his last match with Boagland are of the same opinion. In any event it should prove a great race and will be well worth seeing. The race will start at two o'clock in the afternoon and will continue until five when the men will leave the track for three hours returning at eight o'clock to wind up the grind with another three hours' walking.

Couple Elope and Cause Sensation in Brockville

Brockville, Ont., Jan. 27. —Something of a sensation was created here yesterday when a well-known young man and a hitherto respectable married woman, who was married last summer to a commercial traveller made an effort at eloping. The couple got as far as Lyn station, where they were intercepted by the father of the woman and an uncle. The father took charge of the young woman, while the uncle vigorously applied a horsewhip to the young man. The woman was brought to Brockville, and later, making her escape from the house, walked to Maitland, five miles away. She took a train to Prescott, crossed to Ogdensburg, and met the young man. They took a New York Central train for a point south, but were intercepted at Morristown, opposite here, by the husband and father. The woman was brought back here. A warrant is out for the man, charging him with the theft of jewelry, the property of the woman's husband.

Successful Sewing Bee

At the Children's Shelter the pansy, the violet and the daisy are in full bloom. These are the names of some of the inmates from the northern part of this county; and under the improving influences of the Shelter, they are as sweet as their names. On Tuesday, by the way, there was held the largest and most successful sewing "bee" in the history of the shelter. Ladies to the ill-amended number of thirteen were present, making, with the aid of two sewing machines, garments for the shelter children. The afternoon was devoted to work—the "conversational" element generally attributed to such gatherings, being conspicuous by its absence. Work was the order of the afternoon and the substantial results showed how closely this order was observed.

COUNTY RESIDENTS DESIRE TO SEND CHILDREN TO COLLEGIATE

Reports from House of Refuge, County Treasurer and School Inspector were Received—County Council Dealt with Several Other Matters and Made Many Appointments

The County Council spent most of yesterday afternoon in committee They met in open session, however, to hear a deputation of rural residents, who asked the council to wait upon the Board of Education of this city and endeavor to arrange with them to allow pupils from the county to attend the Collegiate Institute. It was urged that arrangements were made in other counties whereby county pupils attended the collegiates upon certain conditions and the deputation desired that a similar arrangement be made here.

The council appointed a special committee to wait upon the Board of Education in the near future.

The council then adjourned and went into committee again.

County Council Asks to Have the Market By-Law Amended and Made Easier

The market bylaw has caused the farmers considerable inconvenience and a lot of anxiety during the past year and the County Council has been requested to wait upon the City Council to endeavor to have the bylaw altered. The whole county council met the city's committee last night and talked the matter over with the result that a change will be made in clause 11 by withdrawing the confiscation clause.

Those present were; — Messrs. Shaw, Brown, Breault, Kidd, Knox Comstock, Russell, Tucker, Hales, Darling, Moher, Perdue, Coben, Fife, Stewart, Graham and Warden Scott, representing the council, while Aldermen Turner, Metherall, Duffus, McIntyre and Mayor Rush represented the city.

In opening Ald. Turner asked the County Council's committee to state the questions they desired to take up with the city.

Mr. Shaw said their purpose was to discuss first, clause 11 of the market bylaw, which they thought was rather harsh. They would also like some shelter in case of storm.

The farmers would like to have the market on the ground floor instead of having to go upstairs with their baskets, etc.

WARDEN SCOTT.

Warden Scott stated that the question proposed to discuss was the market bylaw. There is considerable dissatisfaction among the farmers and it was felt that some more congenial arrangement could be made.

Clause 11 referred to the sale of potatoes, beef, etc., which must be sold according to weight and measure as represented.

This clause has caused several farmers to pay fines and lose their goods. They think it very hard to lose their goods. They think potatoes should be sold by weight and some other alterations could also be made.

Mr. Brown said that it was just as convenient for the city people to go to the market as it was for the farmers. If the farmers are to be hauled up in police court and to have their goods confiscated they will stop patronizing the market and sell to the grocers.

Mr. Brown said that if the city could afford to do so a covered market would be a great convenience to the farmers and they would come in large numbers on stormy days and the prices would be more steady.

County Solicitor Peck pointed out that the bylaw as it stood was a hardship on the farmers. Some of them filled their bags and might be a pound short without any intention on their part to do wrong.

The city purchasers pointed out that the purchasers had to be protected, and the council tried to do justice to all parties. It was felt, however, that the farmers should sell all their produce according to a standard weight.

The county representatives finally stated that it might be all right to impose a fine but not confiscate the goods. For instance a man should not lose a whole load of potatoes or a basket of butter, because they were a little under weight.

One suggestion made was to repeal the confiscation clause from the bylaw.

The joint committee will refer the matter to the Property Committee and have the matter fixed up.

Board of Education was Given Some Advice by the Aldermen Deputation Met Committee of the Whole in Reference to the $10,000 Extra Debentures for the Collegiate and Also the Yearly Demand

A VERY INTERESTING SESSION

The Board of Education, represented by the chairman and the Finance Committee waited upon the Committee of the Whole Council last night to explain the necessity of their large demand for this year's running expenses and also the request that debentures be issued for $10,000 spent on the Collegiate Institute over and above the $11,000 voted by the people, and the debentures for $4,557 50 spent on the public schools in the way of permanent improvements. The deputation addressed the council and then some of the aldermen asked a few pointed questions of the deputation.

The school rate this year will be in the neighborhood of 9 1-2 mills and that made the aldermen sit up and take notice. The request for debentures for $10,000 for the Collegiate Institute also created considerable interest, and Ald. Hicks led in quest for information, followed by Ald. Bradburn. The result is the matter will be considered by the committee again before action is taken.

The Board of Education was heard after the Water Commissioners had retired.

R. FAIR.

Mr. R. Fair as chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Education, stated that since they submitted their demand for this year they find that portions of that sum should be charged to permanent improvements. The total was $4,557.50. This should be provided for by debenture. The overdraft was $5,460 and this is what should be provided by debenture. The board also desires the council to issue debentures for an additional $10,000 for the new Collegiate Institute.

CHAIRMAN HAYES.

Chairman Hayes, K.C., stated that the first grant for the Collegiate, was admitted by all to be too small. The amount was $71,000. Mr. Hayes read a statement as to how this money was expended. The items were as follows;—

Sundries and purchase of lot	$15,206.80
Langford & Sheehy	52,457.95
J. Kinsella	865.50
Duranceau	1899.50
McGregor & Reid	4699.87
J. E. Belcher	2280.00

The amount expended in excess of receipts was $6,828 22, to which must be added $1800 for sundries, making $79,628 62 as the total cost of the Collegiate Institute. The extra expenditure largely includes furniture and equipment. The building was erected well within the contract. The furnishing and equipment may be looked upon as an extra. If the city will issue debentures for $10,000 it will cover the full cost of the whole building.

Ald. Hicks pointed out that the Board of Education first asked for $50,000 and again for $50,000 which was defeated. The next year they got $21,000, saying that would be sufficient and have about $2,000 to come and go on. The alderman asked if the board did not know that they would need furnishings and equipment.

Mr. Hayes stated that if he remembered correctly it was stated that the board would have to come back for more to furnish and equip the school, probably $10,000 or $15,000 would be required.

Ald. Hicks did not remember this and had no record of it.

D. W. DUMBLE.

Mr. Dumble stated that he went

Fell 35 Feet Off a Car

Leo Sullivan, a brakeman on the Grand Trunk, had an experience last night which he will remember for a long time. He was riding on the siding of a freight car from the Quaker Oats Mills, going towards Auburn. Just as the car was passing the new power house Sullivan, hanging to the side of the car struck the power pole just outside the power house with such force that he was knocked from his position and dropped to the ice and rocks at the bottom of the dam, a distance of about 35 feet. At first it was thought he had been blown off the car as there was a very high wind at the time, but such was not the case.

Those who saw the accident fully expected the unfortunate fellow was killed, but he was found with one leg on the ice and one in the water. He was taken out of his dangerous position as soon as possible and medical assistance was called. It was found that the right leg above the knee had been broken but other than that he was not seriously hurt.

He got a good shaking up but late last night was resting quietly. He was removed to St Joseph's hospital where the leg was sent. Mr. Sullivan is a resident of the city and resides over McPherson & Company's store on George street.

If your Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are weak, try at least, a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. A few cents will cover the cost. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the stomach, nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. Dr. Shoop's Restorative goes directly to the weak and failing nerves. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity falter. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading druggists everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

Water Commissioners Want $12,000 for New Dam and Plant

The Water Commissioners are now ready to go to the people with a bylaw seeking authority to borrow $120,000 for the ppurpose of erecting a new dam, a new power house and a new pumping plant. They appeared before the Committee of the Whole Council last night and presented their scheme. The chief features are;—

The whole equipment will be strictly modern in every detail and will last for many years.

Thepresent surplus from the water works will more than pay for the interest and sinking fund on the debentures.

The rates to the consumers will not be raised one cent, and the taxes will not be affected one cent.

The revenue from the water works will be greatly increased.

The pumping capacity will be trebled.

1200 electric horse power will be developed. 600 h.p. will be used by the commissioners and 700 will be available fro the city.

Thosepresent were;—Mayor Rush in the chair, Aldermen Hicks, Duncan, Buller, Duffus, Morgan, Turner, Gillespie, Metheral, Morrow, Phelan, Bradburn and McIntyre.

From the Water Commissioners were chairman T. F. Matthews, W. H. Moore and W. H. Hill.

THE CHAIRMAN.

Mr. T. F. Matthews, chairman of the Water Commissioners, stated that the water works property had been the cause of much consideration thepast couple of years. The commissioners have reached that point where they are prepared to submit to the ratepayers a proposition to build a new dam, rebuild the power house, put in a new pumping plant and an auxiliary plant. Before going into this matter Mr. Matthews gave a short review of the water works plant since it was taken over by the city. He said that the services had increased so rapidly that at times the plant was pumping to its full capacity and had there been a serious fire the water works system would not have responded sufficiently. The pumping plant now has a pumping capacity of 3,500,000 gallons and they desire to increase that to 10,500,000 gallons. It is proposed to build a new concrete dam about 500 feet down the river, erect a new power house and plant and to use the present plant as an auxiliary plant.

Mr Matthews then read the following resolution which was passed by the Water Commissioners at their meeting in the afternoon;—

Moved by W. H. Moore, that in the judgment of the commissioners the time has arrived, when a new concrete dam with the necessary accessories should be erected to replace the wooden one, built by the late Peterborough Water Company in 1888-4; that such dam should be placed about 500 feet down the river from the present dam, where the river is considerably narrower, and where a much better foot bottom and increased head can be obtained; that the dam and accessories should be so designed, constructed and equipped, as to be thoroughly modern and efficient throughout, thus securing the greatest degree of permanency, reducing cost of maintenance to a minimum, and assuring the city the full benefit of the

The annual meeting of St. Paul's Presbyterian church was held last night in the school room, and a great number of the members and adherents were present.

The Ladies' Aid were hostess to the whole congregation and from 6 to 8 o'clock they served supper. The tables were laid in the Sunday school room and were very artistically decorated for the occasion. The menu provided was an exceptionally good one and very appetising. The young ladies waited on the tables and were very attentive to the large number who availed themselves of the opportunity to partake of the ladies' hospitality. The supper was a very enjoyable features of the evening and the ladies are deserving of much praise.

About nine o'clock the business meeting was called to order, and Mr. R. E. Wood was elected to the chair.

SESSION'S REPORT.

Sheriff Hall read the report of the session in which was mentioned that there was a very substantial increase in the membership of the church. The Sunday services were well attended and the contributions both to the ordinary revenues and to the missionary schemes have showed a marked increase over those of any former years.

There was also an increased attendance at the Sabbath school and Bible class. The number of members on the roll at the end of the year 1907 was 708. There were added during the year by certificate 54 and by profession of faith 57. 42 have been removed by certificate, and 16

MONEY NO OBJECT

When People are Seeking Health or RELIEF from any DISEASE the Price Never Counts.

It is a fact that not less than a million is spent every year by people seeking a satisfactory cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably the best and most highly recommended preparation is Catarrhozone which treats the local symptoms very effectually by means of medicated air supplied through a convenient hard rubber inhaler. The poisons in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone Tablets, which are taken after each meal. They promote appetite, aid digestion, and make the blood rich and pure, so that it will nourish all parts of the body.

This combined local and constitutional treatment in catarrhal diseases has met with wonderful success and can be relied upon to cure every time. The inhaler stops sneezing, coughing, droppings in the throat, and brings quick relief and cure to all the disagreeable symptoms of catarrh.

Mrs. James Tweedie, of Jay Bridge, says: "For years my daughter doctored unsuccessfully for Catarrh. She had droppings in the throat, hawkings, nausea, and could not sleep at night. The first day's use of Catarrhozone benefitted and ultimately cured my daughter so that Catarrh has never returned. I can recommend Catarrhozone as a grand remedy for Catarrh."

Thousands of strong letters could be given like the above if necessary, but all this is required to prove the merit of Catarrhozone is a trial. It is sure as death to cure and if it fails your money will be refunded. Catarrhozone cured lots of cases worse than yours and can do it again.

SEEKING THE INVISIBLE

Within the last few days the world's attention has been directed to three impressive examples of the possibility of acquiring knowledge of objects or phenomena completely hidden from the human eye. An astronomer has expressed the belief that beyond the orbit of the furthest planet there is another member of the solar system. He has not discovered it yet, and if his expectation should be realized only a powerful telescope would reveal it. Nevertheless he is so confident of its existence that he indicates the region in which it is likely to be detected.

Whether or not the prediction is to be verified, there is at least an historical precedent for the forecast. As we have already pointed out, the reasoning adopted in the present instance is identical with that which led to the finding of Neptune sixty years ago. It was the disturbing influence exerted by some mysterious cause upon the movements of Uranus, which so remote as to be discernable only with instruments, that led Adams and Leverrier to compute the position of the then invisible body. A professional friend in Germany complied with a request to explore the spot with his glass, and found it in the designated place, thus registering an amazing triumph for celestial mechanics and mathematics.

Last Saturday morning in a score of observatories in this country and Europe automatic records were made of an earthquake of notable violence. Seismology still being in its infancy, the experts who examined this testimony were unable to determine exactly where the centre of the disturbance was, but they were perfectly convinced of two things—the shock was as severe as the one that destroyed Messina last month and it originated at least three thousan dmiles from the places where its cipher messages were received and interpreted. To those who knew how to read the strange writing it was no less significant than witnessing the yawning and shuddering of the earth which told the story.

The third instance has left such a powerful impression on the minds of millions that it will not soon be forgotten. Two steamships came into collision off the coast of New England, and in an instant many hundreds of men, women and children were threatened with death by drowning. By a new form of magic, which has become available only in the last ten or twelve years, the captain of one of the injured vessels was enabled to summon aid, and thus avert any addition to the very small loss of life resulting from the immediate impact. But for this swift communication, unconsciously addressed, both ships might have gone to the bottom with every one on board, and their fate might have remained unknown for months, if not forever. What is more, the same marvellous agency for revealing the unseen made possible a positive assurance of safety hours before the rescued passengers reached port. Thus not only was an appalling danger successfully defied, but the whole dramatic narrative of peril and rescue was given to the world with a celerity before unknown in the long annals of the sea.

SHORT CUTS.

If You Take the Long Way Round You Never Arrive.

Let women who have swallowed wholesale the proverb that short cuts are sometimes longest forget it. This is a day of short cuts. If you take the long way round you never arrive.

Cuts to be short need not be poorly done with a blunt knife. The cleverest surgeon is he who can perform the biggest operation with the shortest gash.

Learn to do things quickly, but well. Pottering is a word tabooed in the up to date lexicon.

In this hustling world the woman who does not "get there" on an air line never has a chance to rest.

Take to conversational short cuts. She who rambles beats about the bush, proses, bores her hearers and uses up her own nervous energy. If terseness were a habit doctors would never have to order for their women patients periods of Trappist silence.

Be a housekeeping short cutter. Avoid nonessentials. Spend on labor savers rather than on frills. Get down to a system and hold every one else in your household to it. This way lies the solution to the eternal servant problems.

Hunt short cuts with the needle. Many women wear their lives out with constant stitching. Fine hand work is a luxury. Take to a machine for steady wear.

Digging is for the specialist, the scholar. The average busy man or woman to read at all must seek short cuts. Reviews and abstracts are not admirable, but they are better than total ignorance. Literary culling is not the old way. It seems to be the only way in these days of varied interests.

Be a short cutter in business. Learn details, then study to eliminate them if you would have time and strength for bigger things. The swiftest road to success has the fewest curves.

CARING FOR MILK.

A Few Maxims of Value to the Young Housewife.

Tuberculosis kills 5,000,000 people annually. It may be carried through infected milk.

Select a milkman who has clean hands, clean clothes, clean wagon, clean cans and clean bottles.

Do not select a milkman because he sells milk cheap.

Do not forget that dirt in milk is a menace to health.

Do not forget that dirty milk may kill the baby.

Always keep pasteurized milk cool. Use at once. Do not forget that germs multiply more rapidly in pasteurized milk than in any other.

Do not leave the milk uncovered anywhere.

Do not leave milk in a warm room or unchilled icebox. Protect it from flies. Do not leave it out of doors in the sun or exposed to cats and dogs.

Do not use the milk bottles for anything but milk.

Wash and scald milk bottles as soon as emptied. Return clean bottles to the milkman. Buy only bottled milk, if possible.

While these "maxims" may horrify some good housekeepers who would never think of being guilty of the negligence implied, there are homes without number, nice homes, too, where sanitary and hygienic rules are violated constantly. In some of these it is because the housekeeper is young or inexperienced; in others, where the care of the kitchen and marketing are left entirely to servants ignorant or constitutionally careless.

To these housekeepers let us whisper that that attention to the meanest detail in housekeeping is not ignoble. It is not only woman's duty, but her great privilege. A man cannot make a home. He may build the houses. Halls and chambers, roofs and domes, But the women of the earth, God knows— the women build the homes!

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

In choosing a grape fruit see that it is heavy in proportion to the size. A dry fruit is very tight.

To polish a looking glass first rub it with a duster wrung out of cold water and dipped in whiting and then polish with a dry cloth.

If canned fruits are opened an hour or two before using, the enclosed oxygen is regained and the flavor improved. Turn out of the jar at once.

As soon as a salt ham or tongue is cooked remove it from the boiling water to a pan of cold water for a few seconds. This will loosen the skin, which may be easily pealed off.

To prevent cabbage boiling over saves time both in stirring the cabbage down and also in cleaning the stove afterward. If a piece of lard about the size of a walnut be dropped into the cabbage pot it will not boil over.

To clean candlesticks, whether of enameled or plain metal, fill them with boiling water. Do not allow the water to stand any time, but pour it away and thoroughly dry the candlestick with a cloth. In this way dirt and grease are removed without doing damage to the color or substance of the candlestick.

To dry clean lace heat some soap and in this put the lace, covering it entirely. Leave it an hour or two, then rub it lightly and shake it well. Unless it has been really very much soiled it will then look like new once more. Valuable lace that cannot bear rubbing may be covered with French chalk and laid aside, wrapped in blue paper, between the pages of a book for a day or two. The chalk will absorb any grease and leave the lace looking fresh and clean.

away with them, while the hobbled, with no cow pony respect for rope, made up a mad, plunging rear.

Consternation seized the Sioux. They were without boats, without weapons, without horses. They cursed. They threatened Matthews.

"Cross, cross!" he cried. "Your bows are in my wood lodge. The soldiers have no horses and no boats. They cannot swim the river. You will be safe."

The Indians rushed back to where hammers had been ringing for days past. They tore away boards of the scaffold. Then returning to the river, they dropped in.

Matthews called after them. "Remember your promise," he said, "and do not drink the water that burns in my lodge."

There was no answer.

And now the interpreter took thought for himself. At sundown he had fasted for the night's doing. But the heart was gone out of him. Even before the stampede the whole affair had assumed monster proportions. He had begun to think of the murdered and of the maiming and had wished himself well out of it. Now, with no horse to carry him across to safety, there seemed to face him only discovery and punishment.

"Well, they drove me to it," he complained. "This wouldn't 'a' happened if they'd give me a square deal." He was wrenching with all his might at a section of the scaffold platform. "I wanted to be decent, and they treated me like a dog."

With this he ran down the river bank and launched his frail raft. "Anyhow," he said, "I'll git out o' this jus' as fast as water'll take me!"

CHAPTER XXXV.

THROWN down by a sounding beard of inky clouds, the alarm shots at Brannon, the shouting, the reports of the Gatlings and the trumpet calls fell sharp and clear upon the shack. Dallas, watching into the blackness from her bench by the door, was up and armed on the instant and leaning far over the sill as if to see the better through the dark. Soon she made out something—a glimmer—that in the beginning was redder than the flare of the lightning, fainter and more fixed, but which, growing as the din grew, swiftly deepened in color, spread wide and rose, throwing into relief the intervening grove of cottonwoods and the form of a man who was racing riverward from the swale. He disappeared, swelling the distant clamor with a cry—a dread cry she had never heard before—of "Fire!"

Presently she went in and bent over Maryln, touching her gently and speaking low to save her a fright. "Honey, dear, honey. Flop up and see what's happ'ning at the fort."

The younger girl scrambled to her feet, putting out nervous hands to her sister. Dallas quieted her, and they stood together in the door.

And now, across the Missouri, the guns and trumpets suddenly stilled and the shouting lessened, while the glow rapidly thickened into a roaring press of flame, before which darted the troopers like flies in the light of a lamp.

"My, my!" whispered Maryln, her voice quavering with sorrow and awe. She found her clothes and, keeping in line with the door, began to dress.

"I'll put on my shoes, and we can go down a ways, so's to see close. Shall I, Dal"—

"Eh!" Dallas was leaning out again, her head lowered as if to listen. All at once she turned and, kneeling, felt on the floor for her cartridge belt. "Yes, yes," she answered. "Put 'em on—quick!"

"Are we going down to watch?"

"No."

The barracks and the stables were high, cherry hued pyres, terrible enough to the eye, with their tops crooking northward in the wind. To Dallas, ear they were far more terrible, telling of awful misdoing, hinting of direful intent. For the nearer fire sent proof of a sacrifice. She could hear the screams of a horse.

The belt found, she stepped back to the door. "Hurry, hurry," she said. The old iron resolve never to desert the shack was fusing in the heat of a panic. Her unfailing instinct was hardening a new one that ruled for immediate flight.

Maryln was working with her shoe thongs, not stopping to thread them, only to wind and tie them around her

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WASTED

IN EXPERIMENTS

These Millions Have Been and Are Being Wasted in Experiments With Mills and Other Treating Plants

Ours is no experiment. Our new smelting process has Been tested in every detail. We KNOW wha it will do and we know that it will do what we claim for it.

You know what a cheap smelting process will mean to the mining industry all over the world. Miners as well as investors in mining stock must pay their share in unreasonable charges to some smelter under the present system. Why not interest yourself in a company which will help you—which will help the miner as well as the Investor in mining stock---to

We will erect a smelter of fifty tons right near your mine. Oursmelter thus erected will save 85% in treatment, freight charges and hauling the ore to the railway. This is the crying need of the mining industry to-day.

Think what this means in the treatment of the ores from your mine. Think what this means in the treatment of the ore at present upon the dump. No matter how low grade the dump ore, so long as we have some high grade in every charge, we can get you the values from the ore now lying worthless upon the dump.

We have the practical smelter of the new era. It is not an experiment ; it is now in practical working order. We are now ready to erect smelters everywhere. We will build the smelters right at your mines, and thereby overcome all the obstructions which may be placed in our way by the railroads and trust smelters.

Why lament the fact of the present smelter overcharges, when her you have the chance to get a smelter right at your mine, which will treat the ore at $2 per ton, without difference for grades?

We are offering only 100,000 shares of stock in the Kuenzel's Process Smelter Company at 75 cents a share. The proceeds from the sale of this stock will be used towards erecting several of our smelters near producing mines, when we will begin at once to make money for ourselves and for the mine owner.

We have a large plant, a completely equipped machine shop, capable of building at least two 50-ton smelters every month. The preliminary development stage of our enterprise has passed. We are ready to make money. Why not join us as a stockholder?

The money which you in this company is represented in full value in property and other assets. You are investing in a reality when you buy these shares.

Buy stock in this company now and you will help to realize upon the low grade ores in your dumps which otherwise must remain in waste a lueless. Let us tell you all about this new era smelter, the practical operation of which actually means the revolution oi the mining industry. Write for full particulars. We will convince you that th's is, indeed, the best gilt-edge investment on the market, from every point of view.

Maple Leaf Mines, Limited

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided Into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia, Ont., Pres. ; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice-Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont , Sec-Treas ; Charles Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C. Ritchie, Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 868, containing 40 acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information :

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 15th December, 1906, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. LeVesconte, 23 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, providing for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties in consideration of 250,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 50,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $ 000; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 1000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 2000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 26th of December, 1906.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines Ltd., and send same to—

The Ontario House is Called for February 16

On Tuesday, February 16th, the first session of the twelfth Legislature of the Province of Ontario will be opened by Hon. J. M. Gibson, Lieutenant-Governor of the province. The date for the opening was announced by Sir James Whitney, Prime Minister, after the Cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon, and, as is usually the case, three weeks' notice is given to the members of the Legislature.

The session will probably not be prolonged. Of course, there will be the usual grist of private bills introduced, as well as the hundreds of petitions which always appear. On the first day of the session, very probably, the Hon. J. J. Foy will introduce the forty or fifty statute revisions which have been completed, and they will be dealt with at once.

At the last session of the Legislature a resolution was passed that the question of law reforms be dealt with at this session, and that will necessarily form one of the great questions with which the Local House will have to deal.

Several proposed amendments to the Assessment Act were introduced last session, and Sir James announced that they could not be dealt with at the time, except in a general way, and the whole question of the Assessment Act will presumably be taken up.

Another question which will be discussed will be the change in the financial year, and the estimates this year will be for ten months only. Formerly the Government's financial year ended on December 31, but in future Oct. 31 will close the fiscal year so far as the Government is concerned. By the change the public accounts can be dealt with at an earlier date than at present, and the Legislature can be called any time after the first of January, whereas it has been impossible to call the House together earlier than some time in February, on account of the delay in getting the accounts straightened up.

It is expected that the Legislature will proceed to business on the Wednesday after opening, as was done last year, instead of adjourning, as is sometimes done. If the members work diligently the session may conclude by Easter, but, of course, it is impossible to state definitely at this time just how long the session will last.

The opening will be the first at which the Hon. J. M. Gibson has presided, and added interest will be caused by that fact.

Tom Longboat Is Hard to Handle

New York, Jan. 27.—Several things go to indicate that the postponement of his race with Alfred Shrubb was no misfortune for Tom Longboat.

For all that has been told of the Indian's physical condition, and the progress he was making under the training of Jimmy De Forest, it is the fact that Longboat is not in the pink of condition, and the delay till Friday of next week will be greatly to his advantage.

Training Longboat has been found by his new management to be no easy or ordinary task. De Forest, who has him in charge for P. T. Powers, is experienced in the matter of conditioning men for supreme physical efforts, and if Longboat would scrupulously submit himself to De Forest's rule and regime he would undoubtedly be turned out fit to show the best that is in him.

The situation with him is just this, that if Shrubb had been fit to run tonight he would have beaten the Indian easily. The most fortunate thing that could have happened him was the disability of Shrubb. Longboat will profit vastly by the extension of his training period to the fifth of February, and with the greater knowledge his new manage has of his ways he should be greatly improved.

But the man who is going to make a success of training Longboat must be a diplomat and a manager as well as a conditioner. Regulations and instructions have no value when not followed, and the difficulty with Longboat has always been to get him to do as his mentor wanted. The Indian prefers to follow his own way, which is not conducive to the best results, and he never had any liking for discipline, restraint, and strenuous work of training.

Woman Rescued from Assailant by Husband

Dayton, Ohio, Jan. 27.—"Sam" Morris and Charles Snyder, held in the case of the criminal assault and murder of Mary Forschner, fifteen years old, on Saturday night, were released from custody today. Both men have shown conclusively that they are innocent, and the police now are without a clew to the identity of the assailant. However, a number of negroes are under surveillance.

Additional indignation was caused tonight, when another attack upon a woman became known. Mrs. Jas. Powers, living in West 3rd street, was rescued from the clutches of an unknown assailant by her husband after her clothing had been torn and her throat bruised. The man escaped.

The coroner established the fact today that the murderer of Miss Forschner possessed enormous hands, as the imprints of his fingers on the throat of his victim extend far around her neck. It has been further determined that the girl was attacked in the shed in which her body was found. This must have occurred after her head was beaten in and after her body had been dragged nearly half a block.

The ground at the scene of the assault presents unmistakable evidence that the victim made a desperate struggle, as the soil and sand were torn and covered with tracks, from which the police estimate that the struggle could not have consumed not less than twenty minutes.

President-Elect Taft Off for Panama

Charleston, S. C., Jan. 26.—President-elect and Mrs. Taft and their party, including the civil engineers selected to inspect the Panama Canal, sailed from this city early to-day. They expect to reach New Orleans on the return trip on February 13.

The cruisers North Carolina and Montana as they passed out, to sea attracted considerable attention. Aboard the North Carolina were the President-elect, Mrs. Taft and Wendell Mischler, Mr. Taft's assistant secretary. The engineers and newspaper correspondents were on the Montana. Aboard each craft was a Secret Service agent.

At 10 o'clock, an hour after weighing anchor, the North Carolina passed through the jetties to sea, heading for Panama. The Montana joined the North Carolina as she came out. Mr. Taft, accompanied by Mrs. Taft, his secretaries and personal attendants, left the hotel at 8 o'clock. A cutter from the North Carolina was waiting at the government wharf to convey them to the cruiser. Mayor Rhett and a number of prominent citizens wished the President-elect a good voyage. There was no delay in getting off, and the party was soon aboard the ship.

As Mr. Taft came on deck a salute of twenty-one guns was fired. Everything had been made ready to get under way, and within a few minutes of their boarding the party was on the way to Panama. The ship passed down the harbor at a good speed. The Torpedo boat Dupont convoyed the cruiser down the bay. With signals of farewell flying, the two warships were soon hull down to the southward.

Mr. Taft said he had enjoyed his brief stay in this city greatly.

Senator Knox returned to Washington this afternoon. Chairman Hitchcock will remain probably a day or two.

Womanly pains, head pains, in fact any pain anywhere can be completely stopped in 20 minutes with one of Dr. Shoop's Pink pain Tablets. Ask your Doctor or Druggist about the formula. It is printed on the box—and it can't be bettered. Try one dose and be convinced. Box 25c. Sold by all dealers.

A Fungus Disease Attacks Peach Tree

St. Catharines, Ont., Jan. 26.—It appears that the troubles of the peach farmers of the Niagara fruit belt are never to end. After fighting the deadly pest, the San Jose scale, for many years, and finally by virtue of judicious spraying of the trees getting the pest under control, comes the announcement that a more deadly danger menaces the peach and cherry trees. W. Armstrong, one of the largest fruit-growers in the district, at a meeting of the Farmers' Institute yesterday at St. David's, stated that only recently a new fungus disease has developed on the peach and cherry trees. It is a gummy growth, created by insects and brown rot, the latter form being the most deadly and harder to get at

Appetite Gone---Nerves Badly Run Down

A Strong Moral Well Exemplified In Mrs. Wilson's Case.

Like thousands of other people at this season of the year Mrs. E P. Wilson was tired and worn out—winter sorely tried her health and vigor. But now she is robust and well, eats well, sleeps well, feels invigorated and braced. "For some years," writes Mrs. Wilson of Watmere, P.O., "I suffered from systematic weakness, billiousness and depressing headache I could take little nourishment and grew thin and pale. If I ate a hearty meal the result was dreadful. Pains started at my chest, and spread all through my body going across my stomach, back and right side. I was discouraged till a friend insisted on me taking Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They made a new woman of me, and for the past eight months my health has been perfect. For a good cleaning, rejuvenating medicine I urge every one to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

There is extraordinary and magic power in Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they bring, vigor, tone, health and spirits—are compounded from the most wonderful and healing juices and essence in vegetable life—are safe for young and old, and guaranteed to kindle renewed activity and strength of every system that is weak, sickly or run down from kidney, liver, stomach or bladder trouble. Given Some Advice into the board to lend his influence to have everything done as economically as possible. After several years' experience he said he would say that no crookedness whatever to the extent of even ten cents had been attempted. He then went on to explain why they got the best buildings and best furniture, how the cost was run up. He thought everything had been done very economically.

Ald. Buller asked what the increase in salaries had been, in two years. Mr. Dumble replied about $8,000.

Ald. Hicks pointed out that the people voted $71,000 to the Board of Education. Then the Board of Education spent something over $6,000 in excess of that and never notified the council or the people until after it was spent. That was not good business and the time to come to the council for money was before the money was spent, not afterward.

Mr. Fair was forced to admit that possibly the board should have come to the council first.

Ald. Hicks stated that so far as he was concerned he thought the board had better carry that overdraft for a while and in the meantime the council would do something.

Ald. Bradburn agreed with Ald Hicks and said that no money should be spent on such matters without going to the people or to the council first.

Ald. Bradburn pointed out that the school rate this year would be about 9.48 mills. The probable town rate would be 12 mills. In the past the tax bills were made out in a total sum. This year he would like to see the tax rates made in separate items; the town rates, the public school rate, the separate school rate and the Collegiate Institute rate. He said he would move a motion to that effect. This was seconded by Ald. Phelan and was carried.

The Committee of the Whole will deal with the Board of Education demand at another meeting.

whole flow of the river; that the result desired can in the opinion of the commissioners be secured, almost, if not altogether, out of current revenue from the works, without increase of water rates or other assessment; that such dam is estimated to produce about 1200 horse from an average yearly outlay on the dam of nearly $800,000, and also from all apprehension as to its safety; that there be sent to the City Council this resolution and a copy of the report and letter of 17th December last of Wm. Kennedy, civil and hydraulic engineer, of Montreal, to the commission, in relation to a dam of the character and capacity outlined above, with a request to submit to the ratepayers a bylaw for the issue of $120,000 of debentures for the above proposal, in case the council shall approve of the proposal of the commissioners.

The surplus revenue of the water works will take care of the interest and sinking fund on the new debentures and will not cost the citizens any more than they are now paying. The rates will not be affected in the least.

W. H HILL.

Mr. Hill stated that it would cost about $7,500 to meet the sinking fund and interest on the debentures and this the commissioners are already providing as the surplus this year would be about $10,000 Therefore there is no reason why this work should not be gone on with this year as it would cost the ratepayers on water consumers nothing. Then the cost of cement this year is so much lower that about $8,000 would be saved in constructing the dam. Mr. Hill urged that the council take immediate action so that the commissioners could get to work as soon as possible. The plans have to be completed, tenders called for, contracts let, etc. It is proposed to take two years on the consatruction of the dam and thus take advantage of the low water in the river. Mr. Hill also remarked upon a filtration plant which would have to be taken up in a few years, but this is now being provided for by the fund the commissioners now have of the accumulated surpluses amounting to $30,000.

Moved by Ald. Morrow and Turner that the matter be referred to the Special Power Committee to be taken up at once.—Carried.

The Special Power Committee will meet this afternoon.

worth of dishes, etc., accidentally broken, not sufficient to make any note of, and we considered the showing very satisfactory.

We also report that in all these have been 41 inmates committed since inception. All seem to be in good health baring two old men and one old lady, who are more fit for an asylum at times than a Home.

We find the plumbing has not been giving satisfaction and the chairman was authorized to have it remedied as speedily as possible.

The harvest and stock and work of farm was all done at a very nominal cost in so far as farm wages were concerned. The auditors' report will show the amounts.

The amount of produce used and produced on hand December 31st, together with the cattle receipts will show the earning power of the farm.

50 apple trees were planted during 1908 together with 200 small fruit trees and all looked well at the close of the season.

We would recommend to our successors the planting of ornamental trees in the front to make the House more attractive and give it the appearance an institution of this kind should have.

The increase of inmates will necessitate the purchase of clothes in the near future

At the beginning of the year there were 30 inmates; 16 male and 12 female. Admitted during the year 15; Otonabee sent 3, Smith 2, Dummer 2, Ennismore 4, Harvey 2, North Monaghan 2. Discharged during the year, 6; died 3; leaving 34 inmates on December 31st, 1908.

KEENE

After five months' rest and recreation the Sons of Rest met in their club rooms on Tuesday evening, Jan. 19th. The president (Minnie Whale Jones) in the chair. The minutes of the former meeting were read by the secretary, Pony Moore. The president asked if there were any objections, and Fighting Archie Weir said "Yes, most certainly yes." He then said, Mr. President and brethren, I have been a member of this society since its foundation, and have shared with its members in all its many advantages and disadvantages. I never yet saw the present secretary make a proper report of the minutes. He has forgotten entirely to mention that I came within two votes of being elected to the chair last year. Minnie Whale Jones jumped to his feet and gave one yell that awoke Mayor Drummond who was peacefully sleeping in the rear of the hall. He said, Fighting Archie I want you to understand that you were five hundred votes behind and will be more if you ever attempt to oppose me again for this chair. On taking his seat the president called on the brethren present to state their views in a few concise terms. Toban Brown arose to his feet and told the president that Prophet McIntyre had promised rain and spoiled his carnival, and asked damages to the amount of twenty dollars. Minnie Whale at once fined the prophet the required amount. Wolf Howson then arose and said, "Mr. President and brethren, it is my sad duty to inform you I am about to sever my connections with you as I am moving to the city; but I want to say I will never forget you or your grand work of saving men from the grim master, Mr. Toil. I may say my heart and brains will always be at your disposal; and if at any time you wish to call on me I will be very glad to have you for two minutes. Again hoping you may always prosper I wish you success."

Waxy McFarlane here came to his feet with a jump and said he couldn't see why we could accept of Bro. Wolfe his heart and brains as it would be manslaughter. Farmer McCarthy told Waxy to keep quiet or he would expel him for trying to take work from their medical man. Bob-tail Pue thought the brethren should remember Bro. Wolf, and give him some token of remembrance. Constable Howden Doris said, as it is nearing St. Patrick's Day I move we present Bro. Wolf with a shamrock badge taken from a plug of Shamrock smoking tobacco. Yankee Mack seconded Howden's motion and it was carried. Chittery Gall was appointed to secure the badge, and Hosier Roach to present the same. Huff Quinn laid a charge against Ponty for selling tea. Ponty said, "Brothers, I am not selling tea I am taking orders for it, and as I go among the people I drop a word to them about our society and have by so doing got Farmer Elmhirst, Hackney Mulcahey, Bunny Bacon and Sandy Patterson Neish.

Minnie Whale told Huff he was fined two thousand dollars. Engineer Mack laid a charge against Ginger Ale Kennaley for beating him playing checkers. Minnie Whale told the engineer to sit down and never mention such a matter in open lodge again. Miner Greer accused Pansy McFarlane of running his buggy without an order from the lodge. Minnie Whale let him off with a warning. At this moment Dear Hunter Rennie arose and presented the constable with a new pair of darbies. The Constable replied and said he thanked him for them, and would try them on Fighting Archie in the near future.

Munchy Dean then arose, and said as it was getting late that he moved that Ponty and the Prophet repeat the lecture. This was carried.

The secretary then read the roll and the following members responded;—Minnie Whale Jones, Fighting Archie, Mayor Drummond, Toban Brown, Prophet McIntyre, Wolf Howson, Waxy McFarlane, Yankee Mack, Chittery Gall, Hosier Roach, Huff Quinn, Engineer Mack, Pansy McFarlane, Miner Greer, Dear Hunter, Munchy Dean, Ponty and John B. After the roll call a rap came to the door and in came our District Organiser "De Cackey." He reported four new lodges, and asked for funds to get the proper rituals for them. It was moved by Ponty seconded by Howden that De Cackey call on the following members who were behind in their dues;—Hickory Campbell, Gold Dust Reid, Fadie Wedlock, Shetland Campbell, Gum Chewer Skinner, Rinker McIntyre, Saw Bones McWilliams, Dead Shot Elmhirst, Cautious Tucker, Tinner Stillman, Winnie Wedlock, Handsome Bryce and Raiser Dixon.

De Cackey thanked the brethren, and said he would report at the next meeting. The closing ode was ably rendered by Minnie Whale and De Cackey. As the meeting was about to close, By Hearn Doris came in and offered the order a half cord of wood if they would get some one to haul it from Apsley. It was accepted, and Brothers Roxy Weir and Mail Pouch McNevan were ordered to draw it. Skunk Hunter Rennie then appeared, apologized for being late and laid a charge against Blue Beard Kempt for holding a hop. Minnie Whale was wrathy and immediately fined Blue Beard five thousand dollars. Blue Beard said, "Boys, Gall I will appeal to the supreme lodge," but Minnie Whale ordered Constable Howden Doris to arrest him; but through the interference of Hockey Kennaley he was allowed a week to either pay the same or spend ninety-five years in the dungeon beneath the hall. Meeting adjourned until Wednesday evening, except in case of emergency of which all brethren should be duly notified.

A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests, and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate woman or children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better form is used both for extracting [illegible] principles used in them, viz.—pure glycerine. This agent possesses therapeutic properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heart-burn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

The U. S. Evacuates Cuba and the Island is now Independent

Havana, Jan. 28.—A new era of Cuban independence dawned today when the affairs of the island, which have been administered by American officials for more than two years as a result of the revolution against former President Tomas Estrada Palma, in 1906, were formally transferred to the newly elected native officials.

January 28th will hereafter take rank with May 20th, as a natal holiday in Cuba, for it was on the latter day in 1902, that the island was first transferred to the Cuban people by the United States after a period of rehabilitation following the Spanish war.

The coming of this new day of Cuban liberty was signalled by a general display of fireworks, the velvet blackness of the tropical midnight being set aflame by screeching rockets and pyrotechnic bombs, which sent down showers of golden rain and gleaming variegated lights. The streets of the city, which were brilliantly illuminated and garlanded with chains of incandescent bulbs, were thronged with people until an early hour this morning, and a spirit of carnival everywhere prevailed. Thousands of people gathered round the club throughout the night where inaugural and farewell balls were held jointly in honor of President Gomez and Vice-President Zayas and Governor Magoon, all three of whom were quickly recognized on entering the building and leaving and were loudly applauded. The balls constituted one of the most brilliant functions held here since the days of the Spanish occupation.

TRIUMPHAL ARCH.

The ceremonies of today began almost with the dawn, and they will not end until long after nightfall. The inaugural parade, in which only native troops, civil organizations, and the rural guards will participate, will pass under the magnificent triumphal arch erected in Monserrate Square facing Central Park, and it will be reviewed by President Gomez. It will not start until late this afternoon.

One of the first ceremonies of this morning was the placing of a wreath on the tablet marking the house in which Jose Marti, the Cuban patriot was born. Next came the presentation of the new Cuban flag, which was raised on the flagstaff of the palace, marking the end of the American intervention.

GOMEZ EXALTED.

General Gomez who plotted against former President Estrada Palma, and who was imprisoned by him for one month and released only when William H. Taft came to the island as the first official under the American intervention, will take the oath of office as president of the republic at noon, and within one hour thereafter provisional-Governor Magoon and all the army officers who have served in an executive capacity will be bound out of the harbor for home.

Major-General Jose Miguel Gomez, the first president of the new Cuban Republic, is 53 years old.

ANNUAL WARDEN'S BANQUET AT NATIONAL HOTEL A BIG SUCCESS

Warden Scott, Ex-Warden Thompson, M.P.P., County Treasurer Elliott and Solicitor Peck, were Hosts at a Jolly Affair—Many Ex-Wardens were Present

One of the most enjoyable and in a social way an historical event, took place last night in the National Hotel. It was the annual warden's supper, and it was the largest and best banquet that has been enjoyed by the county representatives. It differed from the suppers of other years inasmuch that this year Warden Robt. N. Scott, ex-Warden T. Thompson, M.P.P., County Solicitor E. A. Peck and County Treasurer E. M. Elliott were the hosts. The guests included the County Council, all the ex-wardens of the county who are still living and who were available, the county officials, Mayor Rush, City Treasurer F. Adams, President Dr. Morrison, of the Board of Trade, Major L. M. Hayes, K.C., chairman of the Board of Education, members and ex-members of Parliament and the city and county press.

Host Dennison of the National provided an excellent menu which was greatly enjoyed by all present. He had the spread ready sharp on time and there was no delay in getting started, while the service afforded was excellent. Four tables were set and all the chairs were filled.

Ex-Warden T. Thompson, M.P.P., of Havelock, filled the chair, with Warden Scott in the vice chair. After due justice was done to the good things, Chairman Thompson proposed the health of the King, which was responded to in the usual way.

The other toasts were as follows; The House of Commons and the Ontario Legislature, proposed by Mr. R. R. Hall, ex-M.P., and responded to by Mr. Thompson, M.P.P., and T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P.

The Municipal, Educational and Banking Interests of the City and County and the Board of Trade, proposed by Mr. E. A. Peck and responded to by Mayor Rush, Mr. D. Hughes Charles, Major L. M. Hayes, K. C. and Dr. Morrison.

Mr. J. H. Burnham proposed the toast to the County Council and county officials, and it was replied to by Warden R. N. Scott, Councillor Breault, Auditor Squires, Engineer J. Belcher, and Treasurer E. M. Elliott.

Ex-Wardens of the county, proposed by Sheriff Hall, and responded to by Messrs. Pease, Casement, McNulty and Shaw.

The Press, was proposed by Mr. Lees, and responded to by Mr. F. H. Dobbin, Mr. Keefer of the Norwood Register, Mr. Lancaster of the Havelock Standard, H. Theobald, P. Crane and C. H. Sawle.

Mr. E. M. Elliott, proposed the toast to the Ladies to which Messrs T. Hunter and Councillor Rassell of Belmont, responded.

All the gentlemen made excellent addresses and were listened to with interest, while the singing was hearty and unanimous. The evening, which will long be remembered, was brought to a close by singing God Save the King and Auld Lang Syne.

BLAKE HAS ARRIVED.

John Blake, of Syracuse, the professional walker from Syracuse, N. Y., arrived in the city on the midnight last night, and is registered at the Grand Hotel. He will meet Jimmy Harrison tomorrow [illegible] Rouier skating rink, and it should be one of the best exhibition of walking ever seen here. Blake is in splendid condition, and he says he is feeling fine. Harrison is also in good shape and he will have many supporters.

Baby Left by Its Mother was Saved by Other People

When Mrs. Roberts, 305 Gr[illegible]ce street, was just entering a store she noticed close to the entrance a small go-cart, in which lay a baby a little over a year old, almost in the last stages of death from exposure.

The go-cart had not even been placed in the comparative shelter of a lane between two stores, but stood on the sidewalk, exposed to the full blast of the snow-laden winds sweeping along the street.

The baby was wrapped in a thin blanket and a piece of sacking, and was crying bitterly. Its face was blue with cold, and its little body was shivering. Mrs. Roberts, who is a mother herself, was horrified at the sight. She looked around for the mother, but could see no one who looked like her. Then she picked up the baby, and, with the cart, hurried into the store. The baby was almost dead from cold and hunger, and was crying bitterly. Its face was blue with cold, and its little body was shivering. Mrs. Roberts, who is a mother herself, was horrified at the sight. She looked around for the mother, but could see no one who looked like her. Then she picked up the baby, and, with the cart, hurried into the store. The baby was almost dead from cold and freezing, no cover was over it, and its bare limbs were exposed to the wind. It was not crying, but lying with closed eyes, too exhausted and weak to move.

Mrs. Roberts cast caution to the winds, seized the child in her arms, and rushed into Eaton's, to the nursery on the second floor. She worked for an hour and a half over it, assisted in every way by the staff of the nursery. Finally, with the aid of hot water bottles and warm cloths, the little mite was brought back to consciousness. It was still too weak to raise its head, however, when in response to a call, a policeman came and an ambulance was ordered to take it to the Sick Children's Hospital.

The eagerness with which the pitiful little creature clutched at and swallowed a glass of warm milk brought by a nurse, as well as the emaciated condition of its body, showed that hunger had gone far to aid in the work so nearly finished by the cold.

An inquiry made by an newspaper representative, brought out the fact that the baby had been there at least an hour and a quarter before Mrs. Roberts had noticed it.

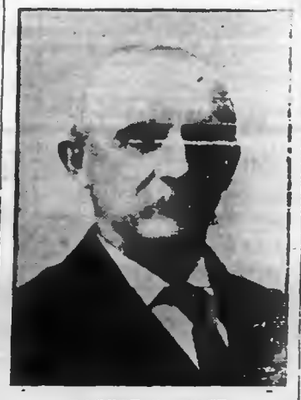
"Why, they leave babies on the pavement here the coldest days in winter, and we have no power to stop them," said the porter at the door.

There is a society on Toronto which occasionally prosecutes a man for leaving his horse standing unblanketed in the winter wind, but, apparently, cases of this kind will continued to go unpunished around the big stores till there is a repetition of the tragedy of some years ago.

Two hours after the mother left her baby in the wind outside the door, she had not appeared to claim it, or to ask questions when she found the carriage empty. She called at the hospital at night for the child.

J.J.Crowe Made Serious Charge Against Management of House of Refuge

County Council Accepts Retraction of Statements---Grant for the Children's Aid Society Discussed.



ROBERT N. SCOTT
Warden of the County of Peterboro'

WAS REFERRED TO FINANCE COMMITTEE

The county council was in session for a short time yesterday morning for the purpose of hearing a couple of deputations. All the members were present, and Warden Scott occupied the chair.

On motion Mr. J. J. Crowe of Dummer, was allowed to address the council. The reading of the previous meeting's minutes were dispensed with.

Mr. Crowe addressed the council with reference to the burying of a relative of his from the House of Refuge without notifying him of the death of such inmate. He also stated that the funeral was not satisfactorily or reverently carried out, inasmuch as the death took place in the early morning, and the burial took place at nine o'clock the same morning. He also requested the council to have the body removed to be Dummer cemetery.

The chairman of the Board of Management assured Mr. Crowe that Says Longboat is Ill and Should be Prevented from Starting

Toronto, Jan. 28.—If Tom Longboat starts in his race with Alfred Shrubb, on February 5, he will never finish.

But the chances are that he will never start.

At least he will not start if E. E. Fraser, M.P.P. for Welland, can start an agitation of sufficient proportions to accomplish this. Mr. Fraser came into the Star office today to see me, and asked me if rumors of Longboat a physical disability were true. In reply I exhibited a letter from Tom Longboat, in which he said; "I am not in shape for this race. My old trouble (lumbago and rheumatism of the knees) has come back on me, and I am all in. I don't think I can run 15 miles. I think this next race will put me out of business. I have been afraid to train hard for this race, because I was afraid the old trouble would come back. I wouldn't bet on me, if I was you, for I am no good for nothing. I can't run fifteen miles."

When I exhibited that letter to Mr. Fraser he became much excited.

"It would be a shame to let the Indian run that race," he said. "The honor of Canada is at stake, and if I can prevent it he will not face the starter. It is not fair to Longboat, and it is not fair to Canada. The boy has brought great honors to Canada in the past, and will not stand by and see him forced into a race he knows he cannot do himself justice in. He is down there all alone with Pat Powers, and Powers must know he cannot win, yet he sends him into this race. If Tom Flanagan had him he would not be allowed to run. We simply must prevent it, if we have to raise a fund to pay the expense of another postponement, or buy the Indian's contract. I'll arouse the whole country on this thing."

I went down to see Tim O'Rourke. "So the Indian is all in, is he?" exclaimed Tim, from his sick bed, and he cogitated a moment. "Say, Longboat has as much at stake in this race as Alf Shrubb had," he said.

"If Shrubb could demand a postponement because of his sore toe, surely the Indian is entitled to one, when he breaks down. It would be a crying shame to let him run when he knows himself he has no chance to win. The Indian always ran to win when he was in Canada; now he is over the border, and up against it and practically forced to run and lose his reputation to a man that cannot beat him when he is right. It isn't right. Canadians should take a hand in this game and force Powers to abandon the race until the Indian is well again."

Property Committee Are Asking for $900

The Property Committee will endeavor to get along this year with the same appropriation that was allowed them in 1908. Besides the regular demands it is proposed to light the town clock on the Market building, a thing which should have been done years ago, and which every ratepayer will uphold the committee in doing. It is also proposed to repaint the interior of the council chamber for the first time in ten years; and the Dan Spence ambulance is to have a coat of paint. The committee met yesterday afternoon at five o'clock with Ald. Bradburn in the chair, Aldermen McIntyre and Duncan, and Mayor Rush were also present.

The Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co., made application to the council for the deed of that portion of Murray St., which they erected their buildings upon, but never have been given a deed.

There was a bylaw passed 25 years ago giving the company permission to erect their buildings on condition that they graded the remainder of the street. In return they were to be given a deed of the street.

The committee, however, were not particularly anxious to hand over a deed as the city may want to use the street sometime in case the Wm. Hamilton Company move or are burned out.

The matter was referred to the city solicitor. Mr. Hall stated that if the company had done the work the city would have to give the deed.

It was moved by Aldermen Duncan and McIntyre that a bylaw be prepared authorizing the execution of a deed to the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co., Limited.—Carried.

A letter was received from Mr. E. B. Edwards, proprietor of the Crystal, stating that he desired to move into a much larger building to accommodate the public, and he would like to rent the building formerly occupied by R. Hall & Son.

Ald. Bradburn stated that the committee should decide upon a price for the building and whether they intended to sell at once or not. The committee wanted to sell out as they intended to build the new public library this year.

The committee decided that the city should sell the building, but not to give a lease for it. In the meantime the chairman stated that he would see Mr. Edwards.

The Property Committee has received a letter from Hoboken, stating that the $25,000 from Andrew Carnegie for the city of Peterborough's new public library, was on deposit in their trust.

Ald. Bradburn stated that he had prepared the estimates for this year and made it $800. This was less than last year by $100, but it did not allow anything for repainting the interior of the council chambers. The chambers were at present in a disgraceful condition and should be fixed up. It is ten years since the chamber was cleaned and fixed up.

Ald. McIntyre introduced the matter of lighting up the town clock. It could be done very cheaply, he said. The wiring would not be more than $50, and one 30-candle power lamp on each dial would be sufficient. The chairman was authorized to look into the matter before the next meeting.

The committee will endeavor to secure an extra $100 to fix up the council chamber, light the town clock and paint the ambulance.

Manager for Power System of Province

Will the coming session of the Ontario Legislature see the appointment of a paid commissioner or manager of power and the dissolution of the pioneer Hydro-Electric Commission?

The power situation is such that a permanent head looks to be a logical outcome.

So far the brunt of the work has fallen on Hon. Adam Beck, chairman of the Commission, and he has not complained. It is not reasonable to assume, however, that the old conditions can continue indefinitely.

Mr. Beck has devoted at least four days of every week to power. In return he has received the sessional indemnity of $1,000 a session, and no more. He has not accepted any expense money; on the contrary, he has refused it.

The construction of the power line has passed the abstract stage, and the Commission is considering tenders for electrical supplies of all kinds.

With forty or fifty municipalities regarding the Commission or its successor as a supply house, where everything electrical may be had for municipal use at cost, the argument is urged that there must be a business head, who will give all his time to the work.

Joy Work

And the Other Kind

Did you ever stand on a prominent corner at an early morning hour and watch the throngs of people on their way to work? Noting the number who were forcing themselves along because it mean' their daily bread, and the others cheerfully and eagerly pursuing their way because of love of their work.

It is a fact that one's food has much to do with it. As an example:

If an engine has poor oil, or a boiler is fired with poor coal, a bad result is certain, isn't it?

Treating your stomach right is the keystone that sustains the arch of health's temple and you will find "Grape-Nuts" as a daily food is the most nourishing and beneficial you can use.

We have thousands of testimonials, real genuine little heart throbs, from people who simply tried Grape-Nuts out of curiosity—as a last resort—with the result that prompted the testimonial.

If you have never tried Grape-Nuts it's worth while to give it a fair impartial trial.

Remember there are millions eating Grape-Nuts every day—they know, and we know if you will use Grape-Nuts every morning your work is more likely to be joy-work, because you can keep well, and with the brain well nourished work is a joy. Lakefield Won Hard Fought Game from the T. A. S. in City League

The T.A.S. last one of the most exciting city league hockey matches played this year. The winners were the Lakefield boys, and they deserve credit for their victory. The two teams played hard and fast and as an evidence of how evenly they played the score at half time was 1—0 in favor of the T.A.S., and that goal was only scored after 24 minutes of play. The Lakefield boys put many shots on the T.A.S. goal, but Derocher was like a stone wall and saved his team a bad trimming.

In the second half the visitors went in to win, and from the start forced matters until Tony Sabatino got the puck out of a scrimmage in front of the nets and scored. Then things became very exciting and rush after rush was made by both teams who started to mix it up a little. The T.A.S. had five men ruled off and while they were on the fence Lakefield succeeded in scoring three more goals in quick succession. The trick was done by Moran in 10 minutes, Quinn in 1 minute, and Simpson 11-2 minute later. From that time the puck travelled up and down the ice without any scoring. It was not until six minutes before time was up that Giroux succeeded in notching the second and last goal for the T.A.S., making the final score 4—2 in favor of Lakefield.

The line-up was as follows;

STRATHCONAS—WEST ENDS.

The Strathconas, champions of the City League, ran away from the West Ends last night. The match was very one-sided as the final score 12—1 will indicate. The only goal the West Ends got was scored by Short in the second half, and was the last goal shot before time was called. The champions got most of their goals from rushes, although there was some combination too. The West Ends were not slow and while they realized they could not win did not

Slowly Dying

Thousands are slowly dying from catarrh, but don't know their danger.

A CASE IN POINT.

Mr. Ulric Berault, a young gentleman who has lived for years in Gwentsburg, Quebec, inherited Catarrh from his mother. The disease spread through his system till he was a physical wreck.

"As a child," said Mr. Berault, "I was prone to an ulceration of the mucous lining of the throat and nasal passages.

"I grew pale and emaciated, lost all desire for food, and got into such a dreadful condition that my friends said that Catarrh was fairly eating me up.

"Every organ of my body seemed affected and the doctor said it was the first stage of consumption. He advised Catarrhozone, and I inhaled it ten minutes at a time every few hours, and was rewarded in a few days by a wonderful improvement.

"Catarrhozone pleased me and the doctor so well that I used it continually, and took Ferrozone Tablets after each meal to build up my strength. In about three weeks I was quite recovered, and the doctor says no remedy but Catarrhozone could work such a miracle.

"Every one in town knows I was just about dead with Catarrh, and my cure is an evidence of what Catarrhozone can do. It is a pleasure to recommend Catarrhozone."

(Signed) Ulric Berault."

Catarrhozone beyond question is the proper remedy for catarrhal and bronchial troubles. The medicated air goes all through the air passages of the head, throat and lungs. It kills the germs, heals the sore spots, allays irritation and keeps the breath pure.

Headache, tired feeling across the eyes, nausea, all these well-known disagreeable symptoms are overcome by the medicated air of Catarrhozone.

Ferrozone Tablets which are used in conjunction with Catarrhozone Inhaler drive all the poisonous secretions of catarrh from the blood. One taken after each meal creates new appetite and digestion, strengthens the stomach, revitalizes and invigorates the entire system.

Catarrhozone is quite unsurpassed as a cure for Catarrh in any part of the system. It is highly recommended for Bronchitis and Asthma, and for coughs and colds has no equal.

CALL IT SPECIAL LEGISLATION

The movement to inaugurate a system of national postal savings banks in the United States, similar to that which has proved such a great boon to the Canadian people, is meeting with strong opposition on the part of representatives of the financial and banking interests of that country. One body of financiers has gone so far as to describe it as a "special legislation of a most vicious sort, in that it will add greatly to the cost of running the Post-Office Department and tax the whole country for the benefit of a class. It is in its essence socialistic and at utter variance with the genius of the American people."

This is in the view of the Philadelphia Post a pretty heavy objection. Not but that the whole country may be taxed for the benefit of a class. The tariff does that. Advocates of ship subsidy want to do it. But in these cases the beneficiaries constitute a comparatively small and positively wealthy class. In so far as the postal savings-bank would increase the expense of the Department it would amount to taxing the whole country for the benefit of a large and comparatively poor class. Whether or not that is at variance with the genius of American people, it is certainly at variance with the practice of the American Government. Probably it is socialistic. About all measures which aim to accomodate the most numerous and less fortunate members of the community are denounced under that name.

The Post concludes:—"We expect this great truth will have considerable weight with Congress when it comes to consider redeeming the Republican platform's pledge in respect to postal savings-banks. There is certainly a danger that such banks might at some point trench, in some degree, upon the profits of flourishing private enterprises; while accommodating poor persons they might discommode rich persons."

Womanly pains, head pains, in fact any pain anywhere can be completely stopped in 20 minutes with one of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. Ask your Doctor or Druggist about the formula. It is printed on the box—and it won't be bettered. Try one dose and be convinced. Box 25c. Sold by all dealers.

FACTS ABOUT COUNTIES.

Some of Them Are Larger Than Many of the States.

The county is a territorial division that the United States derived from Great Britain, where the counties correspond to the provinces or departments of other European countries and in a limited sense to the states of the American Union. An Englishman addresses a letter to "Parkinton, Hants," as we address a letter to "Columbus, O.," or "Elmira, N.Y."

One state, which derives its usages from French and not from English originals, has no counties at all. In Louisiana these subdivisions of the state are still called parishes, both officially and in ordinary speech, though they are now divided into many real parishes of the church.

There are about 3,000 counties in the Union, with an average size of about 1,000 square miles, but this average is enormously exceeded in many instances and is also frequently fallen below. Leaving out certain great unsettled counties in the west, the average county would be about 600 square miles in extent.

In much of the western part of the country the size of the county is regulated mathematically. It consists of sixteen townships, each composed of thirty-six square miles, making 576 square miles in all. In other words, each township is six miles square and each county twenty-four miles square.

In Iowa there are thirty-nine counties that were formed in this way, each one of which has exactly 576 square miles. Such divisions were possible in the newer west, where these minor political divisions were made in advance of settlement. In the older parts of the country the territorial arrangements were largely accidental.

The largest county in the United States is Yavapai county, Ariz., which has an area of almost 30,000 square miles. Nine states of the Union are each smaller than this county. It is larger than the whole of West Virginia and almost as large as South Carolina.

The sixteen counties of Montana average a greater size than the state of Massachusetts.

Among the other great counties of the Union are San Bernardino and San Diego, in California, which are not only vast regions, but contain a great productive territory; Humboldt and Lincoln counties, in Nevada, which are only sparsely populated, and Lincoln county, N. M., which bids fair in time to have a large population.

Although the New England states are small, the average size of the counties is greater than in most of the middle, western and southern states. Worcester county, in Massachusetts, is an example of an eastern county that is at the same time large in area and very populous. It is larger than the adjoining state of Rhode Island.

The smallest state in the Union has the smallest county as well, Bristol county, R. I., has only twenty-five square miles. At one place it is not more than two miles in breadth.

Thread in Surgery.

Are you aware that the modern surgeon employs in his work dozens of different kinds of thread for sewing up cuts and wounds? Among them are kangaroo tendons, horsehair, silk, and very fine silver wire. Many of these threads are intended to hold for a certain number of days, and then naturally break away. The short, tough tendons taken from the kangaroo, which are used for sewing severe wounds, will hold for about four weeks before they break away. Silk thread will remain much longer, sometimes six months, while the fine silver wire is practically indestructible.

With the entire outfit a surgeon is able to select a thread that will last as long as the wound takes to heal, and will then disappear completely. To accommodate this assortment of threads, special varieties of needles are required. Besides the needle eyened in different segments of a circle, surgeons use needles shaped like spears, javelins and bayonet points.

Queer Auction Custom.

"Candle auction" is an ancient custom which still survives in Somersetshire, England. A valuable piece of meadow land in the village of Tatworth was sold recently by auction while the candle burned. The ceremony consists of the burning of an inch of candle, the last bidder before the candle's final flicker becoming the tenant for the ensuing year. Previous to the auction freeholders assembled for a supper of bread and cheese, beer and pickles, the funds for this being provided from the "colting" of the new tenant. Fines are also imposed for speaking, nose blowing, laughing out loud and moving, other than bidding, while the candle is burning.

The Last Straw.

She was one of those women who always present a woefully untidy appearance during the early part of the day. In vain had her husband remonstrated with her on her unfastened blouse and unkempt hair. It was not until aid came from an unexpected quarter that victory was his. They had removed to a new house on the previous day, and when she answered the summons of the front door bell a humble looking woman awaited her.

"Oh, I see it's too late!" sighed the woman. "I called to see if the missis wanted a charwoman, but I see she's suited."

No Dogs Allowed Out at Night.

The first summons under the new Kent (Eng.) control of dogs order, 1906, which provides that no dog shall be allowed out between sunset and sunrise without effective restraint, was heard at the Bromley Police Court recently. The owner of the animal in question was ordered to pay the costs.

Denver, Jan. 27.—An autopsy on the body of Fred. Pompiatu, who was found dead under circumstances indicating foul play last week, revealed a strange condition.

An ordinary black waist button was found lodged in the right auricle of Pompiatu's heart. The button was bent and warped, and the doctors say that it had been in the mans heart for a long time. How it got there is not known.

ankles. She heard her sister exclaim. Then she was seized and brought forward by a trembling hand. "Marylyn, Marylyn! The boat! She's going!"

They looked and saw a black funneled bulk floating across the watery strip mantled by the blaze.

"Maybe they thought it'd burn," suggested Marylyn. "See, there's sparks flying that way."

Dallas leaned back against the door. "I guess—that's it," she said slowly. Then after a moment: "But why didn't they bring her straight across? There's no place to tie up down stream."

"Why, there's fire breaking out all over now," cried the younger girl, forgetting to be afraid in her wonder and excitement. "See! One of the little houses is caught!"

It was the first cabin of Clothespin row. Two or three men were near it. At that distance they seemed gayly posturing to each other in a dance.

"If anything is wrong," Dallas said, "Mr. Lounsbury'll come back."

"Mr. Lounsbury!" repeated Marylyn. "Was he here?"

"On this side, by the grove. I saw him start for the fort."

And so their going was delayed.

Nevertheless Dallas' sense of coming danger was acute, and when before long she heard the trumpet again and saw the troopers fall away from the pyres, leaving the flames to their work, she lit the lantern and held it to where were stored her treasures—a lock of her mother's hair, her father's pipe, the letter she had received from Lounsbury.

"You take the cartridge belt," she called to Marylyn.

The other obeyed.

"Ready?" said Dallas and lifted the lantern to shake it.

She got no reply. Instead, gasping in alarm, Marylyn came headlong to her, pinioning her arms with wildly clinging ones. "Dallas! Oh, help"—

Outside there was a sound of rapid running. Dallas flung herself against the door, driving it shut. A second and a weight was hurled against the outer batiens. Then came four raps.

"Don't open! Don't!" cried Marylyn. "Maybe it ain't Charley!"

But Dallas, undoubting, swung the door back, and into the room leaped a stooping figure.

It was Squaw Charley.

He crouched and moved his head from side to side, as if expecting a blow or a bullet from behind. His right hand held a bow, his left a bundle of arrows. With these he beckoned violently, shaking the water from his tattered clothes and pointing over his shoulder to the west.

"We're coming. Charley. Dearie, stand up Now, now!" Marylyn was dragged to her feet. The light was quenched. The outcast faced about, and the three headed for the river, with Charley leading at a trot.

They paused for the last time near the river end of the corn and close to [illegible] Dallas saw that the pyres were lower and that other buildings of the row were ablaze; the roof of a scout hut, too, and the prairie, over which traveled widening crescents of gold. But the fire was the only thing that was moving, for not a single man was in sight.

Charley was not watching toward Brannon, only along the nearer bank to the south.

Of a sudden as their eyes followed his a gun shot rang out from the cottonwood grove.

"Mr. Lounsbury!" cried Dallas, starting forward.

"No, he's gone"—

That moment they saw between them and the landing the silhouette of a figure.

It was not Lounsbury's. It was too short and thickset for his. Moreover, it seemed to be casting aside clothes as it ran.

Like one, Squaw Charley and Marylyn bolted for the coulee. Dallas hesitated, then followed. Near the brink they missed the steep road and went slipping, sliding and rolling down the sumac grown side. Then they struck the bristling bottom, righted, turned their feet up it and fled.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

His face as blanched as a dead man's, his voice pealing out above the babel like a bell, Oliver stood to windward of the double furnace, giving quick orders on right and left.

"Two men there on the major's quarters. Let the guardhouse go. Use your blanket, Flaherty; use your blanket, Sergeant," as Kipps passed close by, "clear the row and bring 'em all down here. Don't let 'em stop for anything. Boys, boys, turn out those horses!"

A trooper rushed up and leaned, yelling, to his captain's ear. "They won't go, sir; they're hamstrung!"

Once more Oliver gave tongue, and directions were sent to the stockade and to the line. A signal light communicated with the lookouts on the bluffs.

Kipps was already rushing his charge. Through a gap in the northward sweeping prairie fire—a gap fought out and kept open by a line of men—were coming the women of Clothespin row, each carrying a child and dragging a second by the hand. Behind them scuttled the papoose encumbered squaws from the scouts' huts. At their rear trudged the sergeant, also weighted, and jaunty no longer, but leaving red stains where his naked feet touched the hot and smoldering ground.

"To headquarters!" shouted the captain at the foremost incubrous in the rout. Then he turned to his trumpeter. A moment after, the fire and the garnishing barnes were deserted, and the troopers, weapons in hand, ran out upon the parade ground, obeying a call to arms.

Oliver led them. As he approached the flagstaff the voice of a woman halted him from the gallery of the nearest house. He sprang that way and was up the steps at a bound.

Mrs. Cummings, who had sought refuge in her own house, met him at the top. "The colonel's library is stripped!"

So it was. One hurried look by the

Maple Leaf Mines, Limited

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided Into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia, Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice-Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont, Sec-Treas; Charles Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C. Ritchie, Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 668, containing 40 acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 50 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 18th December, 1906, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. LeVesconte, 20 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties, in consideration of 100,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 20,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $600; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 5000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 16th of December, 1906.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development must fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of excessive capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your cheques payable to Maple Leaf Mines Ltd., and send same to—

Trip Through Dives and Homes of Chinatown

When in New York I visited Chinatown. Climbing several flights of wooden stairs I found the Chinese joss house or temple, presided over by one of their priests, who explained in voluble Chinese what the different gods represented in their religion. I afterwards looked at the mysterious, and to me uninviting Chinese viands displayed in the shop windows, also admiring their fine Port Arthur restaurant; but, being alone, I did not penetrate to their opium dens, such an experience, strange to say, being reserved for our dear old London, which contains in its cosmopolitan population, nationalities as distinct in the customs as in their appearance.

DENS OF THE EAST END.

I will remember my first visit to these "dens" in the east end, reached by the up-to-date electric car running through one of the wide thoroughfares, such streets being a feature of that district.

On our way there we noticed over many of the shop doors such names as Sugarman, Rosenberg and others equally familiar, proclaiming that we were passing through a Jewish quarter.

On getting down from the car I walked a little way, passing first Limehouse Church with its fine turreted tower, a familiar and welcome sight to home coming seamen—and then on my right hand and left the English, German and Asiatic homes for seamen, which must be a real boon to them when they are on shore.

I then came to the place I sought, an old, narrow, winding and ill lit street of two storeyed houses, which for very many years has been the refuge and temporary home of "John Chinaman," contenting myself with looking at the outside of their shops, which contain for the most part tobacco, etc., and the dried foods of which they are so very fond, but did not enter, as these shops being rented or owned by Chinese proprietors who know little, if any English, I could not have made myself understood, or if understood should most likely have been lied to, as it would, of course, be purely an act of courtesy on their part to show me anything inside their houses.

When afterwards told of the peaceable, inoffensive character of the Chinese I immediately thought of a scene I witnessed on my first visit to that neighborhood, namely a fight between an English and Chinese youth. The former was thrown heavily to the ground, but the Chinaman, lithe and agile as a cat, flew to the refuge of his countrymen lounging round the doorsteps of their lodging house. The usual crowd quickly gathered round, but I hurried away and so did not see the sequel, but the memory of the grinning faces of the Chinese at the sight of the Englishman's defeat still remains with me.

UNDER GOVERNMENT INSPECTION.

All the Chinese lodging houses are now under government inspection, so my next visit was under the wing of a kindly official, who, of course, could go in and out at will, as he was well known in that quarter.

On entering the first house, we were greeted with a strange smell—which had a curious effect on me—and I was told that the large copper pan, placed over a bright fire, and nearly full of a dark brown fluid, was "prepared" opium. We are all aware that opium is a narcotic drug prepared from the juice obtained from the capsules of the opium poppy, which after different processes is then ready for the market, and is made as follows:—

The ball of opium is removed from its covering of leaves, etc., moistened with a little water and allowed to stand for about 14 hours. It is then divided into pans, two and one-half balls of opium and about 10 pints of water going to each pan. It is then boiled and stirred occasionally, the scum as it rises being taken away with a bunch of feathers, until a uniform mixture having the consistency of a thin paste, is obtained. This operation takes from five to six hours, the fumes arising therefrom, having no effect on an old hand, but on a novice creating a great desire for sleep. We were next shown a wooden basin containing a thick dark brown treacly extract, usually sealed up in small pots. This is the kind the opium smokers use. There is a commoner opium sold, and I was shown what looked like a lump of paste covered with poppy trash, but from the suruge and broken English of the proprietor—himself a great opium smoker—I gathered that it was not appreciated by him.

AT GAME OF FAN TAN.

We next came to a group of Chinese gathered round a table playing fan-tan. At the head of the table sat a Chinaman, and before him lay a heap of glittering brass coins, out of the middle of each of which a coins had been punched. His right hand held a long steel needle or opium dipper with which to draw back to the original heap four coins at a time from those he had put aside for the gamblers when ready to play. With his left hand he covered these coins as if he feared a raid upon them. At his right sat a man who was evidently the croupier, as a box containing English coins lay between them. On small strips of red cardboard English money at one end and what looked like buttons were laid on the other. Scarcely a word was spoken, as whether the players won or lost less or more than $5 they looked quite unmoved.

In the corner of another room a man sitting at a small table was painting a pale brown, some of the Chinese signs which covered a small sheet of paper, also pasting more signs on the sheet's margin when applied to for one. These sheets of paper were lottery tickets, and by playing sixpence a man, if he were lucky, might win any sum from $5 to $50.

Another group surrounded a countryman of theirs, who being something of a scholar, and knowing English moderately well, was busy addressing envelopes, writing letters or reading same to their owners.

CHINAMEN GOOD COOKS.

We also looked at some of their food, just cooked, little bits of fat meat placed in a high mound of thin hard looking paste. Another dainty (?) was a very whitish cooking paste shaped like a small loaf, which contained some minced meat. It looked so smooth that one wondered how the meat was placed inside, but "John Chinaman," as every one knows, is a resourceful cook. Rice is, however, their staple food, one and one-half pounds per day being allowed to each man, two meals a day only being provided. Our board of trade now insists that all sea cooks be certified, and to obtain this certificate they must attend a school of cookery until proficient.

The new board of trade regulations also demand that all foreign seamen signing on, must either speak English or show that they are British born subjects, and as no Chinese—except those born in Hongkong—can show a birth certificate—much prized by its possessor—many of the Chinese over here are in a quandary, and doubtless there will be some difficulties to overcome before they can leave England. A ship captain does not dislike Chinese for part crew, and usually inquires if there are any opium smokers amongst them, and when men are actively employed, opium smoking appears to be no more injurious than the smoking of tobacco. Possibly, too, as the drug has a soothing effect on the smoker, it is more likely to make him contented with his lot, say, as a fireman.

LEISURELY SMOKING OPIUM.

We next had a look at the opium smokers. Each man was lying fully dressed on his side in a comfortable position on a mattress covered with a rug, with his face toward the tray—two men often sharing the same hard pillow and lighted lamp—a necessary adjunct of opium smoking, which was placed on a tray in company with a small jar of "prepared" opium, dipper and pipe. The pipe, which often costs as much as $50, is a hollow wooden tube some eighteen inches long, ornamented at either end with some silver work, and the bowl of polished stoneware placed in the centre of the pipe has a small orifice in the middle. The smoker then takes the dipper in his hand, and puts the sharpened end into the opium jar, twisting it around until he gets a large drop to adhere to it. Still twisting it to prevent its falling, he brings it to the flame and dexterously turns it round and round, care being taken not to burn the opium or make it too dry, until it becomes somewhat of the consistency of burnt worsted. Every now and then he takes it away from the flame and rolls it on the flat surface of the bowl, then it is roasted and rolled to his satisfaction, he gently heats the centre of the bowl, then quickly thrusts into the orifice, the end of the dipper, twirls it round smartly and withdraws it. The smoker, assuming a comfortable attitude, lying down of course, at a proper distance from the lamp, puts the stem to his lips and holds the bowl over the lamp. The heat causes the opium to frizzle, and the smoker takes two or three deep inhalations, the smoke in sickly fumes coming from his nostrils and mouth, for it is first swallowed and then exhaled.

These preparations occupy from five to ten minutes, and the actual smoking thirty seconds. The other end of the dipper is then used to scrape away any residue there may be left round the orifice in the bowl. The same process is repeated over and over until the smoker is either satisfied and lays the pipe aside for a time, or continues at pleasure until he falls asleep.

SPOT BETRAYS SMOKER.

One would think it would be a difficult thing to make a Chinaman look any yellower, but it seems an opium smoker is betrayed by a large yellow spot appearing for a time near the mouth. Their frequent resort to opium smoking, as also gambling, is due no doubt to their lack of occupation whilst waiting here for a ship, and in part to a natural desire for companionship.

Used moderately, opium enables a man to endure great fatigue, and to go for a considerable time with little or no food, but in cases where opium has a hold on its victim, its effect is a loss of appetite, leaden pallor of the skin and a degree of leanness so excessive as to make him appear a living skeleton. His will power sapped, he loses all interest in life and is beggared. Years ago in England the poor used opium in large quantities; now it is used, chiefly in the form of morphia, by the well-to-do.

Opium is much cheaper in England than it is in China. In London a pound of opium costs $7.50, whilst in China its value is greater, because of the duty to be paid on its coming from India and other countries, for the China cultivates the poppy, it is not grown in sufficient quantities for the consumer's needs. At one time, however, it was cultivated in such quantities that the cereal crops were quite neglected, and there was a famine in the land.

We did not overlook the household god, a small image reposing on the floor in a recess by the fireplace, a lighted lamp burning before it, of the kind to be found in all Chinese homes.

SUBJECT TO STRICT SUPERVISION.

Given the choice, a Chinaman prefers the hard floor, which is well scrubbed every day, to a bed for his resting place, but the paternal L.C.C. will not allow that, nor more than a certain number of inmates to one room, surprise being frequently paid at night to see that their rule is duly carried out. The Chinese are clean in their habits, and each man brings his own bedding with him, some of the better class having very dainty linen. The proprietors of the Chinese lodging houses here are also very kind to their countrymen in helping them with money and clothes, if required, and if a man cannot pay them what he owes they will wait until such time as he can.

One of the Chinese "reforms" so often alluded to of late embraces the opium traffic, and the following extracts will show how far these people have advanced on western lines:

The history of opium is exceedingly interesting. From the first of the twelfth century the opium of Asia Minor appears to have been the only kind known in commerce. Probably the all-conquering Arabs in the thirteenth century introduced opium first into China, where it was commonly used as a medicine before the trade with India commenced.

REFLECTION ON BRITISH TRADE.

In India the opium monopoly was the property of the great Mogul, and the drug was regularly sold. The East India Company then came to the front, and increased the opium trade in China to such an extent that in 1796 the then Chinese Emperor tried to stop it by such severe penalties as punishment and death, but his efforts for the good of his people were unavailing, and more than a century elapsed before this national evil received a further check.

On Sept. 20, 1906, the late emperor and dowager empress issued the famous Opium Edict, and the regulations submitted by the council of govern-

KEENE

The carnival which was to have been held in the Keene skating rink on Friday the 23rd is postponed until Jan. 29th.

We regret to report that Mr. Martin Kennaley of the "Victoria House", who had the misfortune to fall and break his hip some time ago is not keeping so well lately.

The Keene Hockey Association will hold their annual ball in the town hall on Friday the 8th day of February. As this is generally an extra good time a large crowd is expected.

The regular meeting of L.O.L. No. 494 will take place in their hall on Thursday evening. A full attendance of the brethren is requested, as their is a large amount of general business to discuss.

Mr. John B. Doris spent Tuesday in Peterborough.

P Messrs. John Moore, Samuel Armstrong and John Dimedale are leaving for the Cobalt this week. The first two gentlemen have extensive shares in the mine known as the "Casey Mountain" and are going to develop it to its fullest extent.

Mr. McCann of Peterborough, has taken the Keene Methodist Church Choir under his control; so we can expect trained singers of the first class as Mr. McCann is an artist of the highest class in his profession.

The Keene Hockey team go to Norwood on Saturday to play the return game. It looks as if the boys would be the winners of this district.

After five months' rest and recreation the Sons of Rest met in their club rooms on Tuesday evening, Jan. 19th. The president (Minnie Whale Jonas) in the chair. The minutes of the former meeting were read by the secretary, Ponty Moore. The president asked if there were any objections, and Fighting Archie Weir said "Yes, most certainly yes." He then said, Mr. President and brethren, I have been a member of this society since its foundation, and have shared with its members in all its many advantages and disadvantages. I never yet saw the present secretary make a proper report of the minutes. He has forgotten entirely to mention that I came within two votes of being elected to the chair last year. Minnie Whale Jonas jumped to his feet and gave one yell that awoke Mayor Drummond who was peacefully sleeping in the rear of the hall. He said, Fighting Archie I want you to understand that you were five hundred votes behind and will be more if you ever attempt to oppose me again for this chair. On taking his seat the president called on the brethren present to state their views in a few concise terms. Toban Brown arose to his feet and told the president that Prophet McIntyre had promised rain and spoiled his carnival, and asked damages to the amount of twenty dollars. Minnie Whale at once fined the prophet the required amount. Wolf Bowson then arose and said, "Mr. President and brethren, it is my sad duty to inform you I am about to sever my connections with you as I am moving to the city; but I want to say I will never forget you or your grand work of saving men from the grim master, Mr. Toil. I may say my heart and brains will always be at your disposal; and if at any time you wish to call on me I will be very glad to have you for two minutes. Again hoping you may always prosper I wish you success."

Waxy McFarlane here came to his feet with a jump and said he couldn't see why we could accept of Bro. Wolfe his heart and brains as it would be manslaughter. Farmer McCarthy told Waxy to keep quiet or he would expel him for trying to take work from their medical man. Bob-tail Pue thought the brethren should remember Bro. Wolf, and give him some token of remembrance. Constable Bowden Doris said, as it is nearing St. Patrick's Day I move we present Bro. Wolf with a shamrock badge taken from a plug of Shamrock smoking tobacco. Yankee Mack seconded Bowden's motion and it was carried. Chittery Gall was appointed to secure the badge, and Hosier Roach to present the same. Huff Quinn laid a charge against Ponty for selling tea. Ponty said, "Brothers, I am not selling tea I am taking orders for it, and as I go among the people I drop a word to them about our society and have by so doing got Flamer Elmhirst, Hackney Mulcahey, Bunny Eason and Sandy Patterson Seals.

Minnie Whale told Huff he was fined two thousand dollars. Engineer Mack laid a charge against Ginger Ale Kennaley for beating him playing checkers. Minnie Whale told the engineer to sit down and never mention such a matter in open lodge again. Miner Greer accused Pussy McFarlane of running his buggy without an order from the lodge. Minnie Whale let him off with a warning. At this moment Dear Hunter Rennie arose and presented the constable with a new pair of darbies. The Constable replied and said he thanked him for them, and would try them on Fighting Archie in the near future.

Munchy Dean then arose, and said as it was getting late that he moved that Ponty and the Prophet repeat the lecture. This was carried.

The secretary then read the roll and the following members responded;—Minnie Whale Jonas, Fighting Archie, Mayor Drummond, Toban Brown, Prophet McIntyre, Wolf Howson, Waxy McFarlane, Yankee Mack, Chittery Gall, Hosier Roach, Huff Quinn, Engineer Mack, Pussy McFarlane, Miner Greer, Dear Hunter, Munchy Dean, Ponty and John B. After the roll call a rap came to the door and in came our District Organizer "De Cackey." He reported four new lodges, and asked for funds to get the proper rituals for them. It was moved by Ponty seconded by Howden that De Cackey call on the following members who were behind in their dues;—Hickory Campbell, Gold Dust Reid, Fadie Wedlock, Shetland Campbell, Gum Chewer Skinner, Blinker McIntyre, Saw Bones McWilliams, Dead Shot Elmhirst, Cautious Tucker, Tinner Chillman, Winnie Wedlock, Handsome Bryce and Raiser Dixon.

De Cackey thanked the brethren, and said he would report at the next meeting. The closing ode was ably rendered by Minnie Whale and De Cackey. As the meeting was about to close, By Hearn Doris came in and offered the order a half cord of wood if they would get some one to haul it from Apsley. It was accepted, and Brothers Benj Weir and Mail Pouch McNevan were ordered to draw it. Skunk Hunter Rennie then appeared, apologized for being late and laid a charge against Blue Beard Kempt for holding a hop. Minnie Whale was wrathy and immediately fined Blue Beard five thousand dollars. Blue Beard said, "Boy Gall I will appeal to the supreme lodge," but Minnie Whale ordered Constable Bowden Doris to arrest him; but through the interference of Hockey Kennaley he was allowed a week to either pay the same or spend ninety-five years in the dungeon beneath the hall. Meeting adjourned until Wednesday evening, except in case of emergency of which all brethren should be duly notified.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative Without that original and highly vital principle, such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

Radium Institute by Royal Charter

London, Jan. 23.—A charter will shortly be granted establishing the Royal British Radium Institute. It will carry on research work, and will also have a medical department for the eventual treatment of cases to which experiment has shown the radium cure is applicable.

The foundation of the institute, in which King Edward has taken the greatest personal interest, has been made possible by a handsome donation from Ernest Cassel, who is an intimate friend of the King. Its work will probably be carried on with the help of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund.

The new institute's council will include Sir Frederick Treves, physician to the King; Dr. William Ramsay, and Joseph John Thomson, professor of physics at the Royal Institution.

London, Jan. 23.—The scarcity of radium and the extreme difficulty of obtaining it since Austria banned its exportation, have led to the formation of a private syndicate here for the purpose of exploiting the pitch blende deposits in the Trenwith Copper Mine, in Cornwall, with the hope of producing radium therefrom as a commercial commodity, enabling scientists and physicians to become independent of foreign supplies. Before the discovery of radium the pitch blende from the Trenwith mine was thrown away after the copper and uranium were extracted. These residues are being collected, and radium seeking will begin forthwith. The mine belongs to a company in which some South African mining concerns are interested, and $200,000 capital has already been found for the new enterprise, for which public subscriptions will not be asked.

Physicians here wishing to experiment with radium are mainly dependent on tubes of the matter which they hire from three or four wholesale druggists at a fixed tariff. It is estimated that the efficacy of the radium in these tubes will endure for at least thirty thousand years.

VESUVIUS THREATENS.

Rome, Jan. 27.—A strong earthquake shock, lasting three seconds, was felt to-day at Messina.

Twelve prominent citizens of the Commune of Alt, near Messina, including the Mayor, have been arrested for appropriating food and other necessities intended for the use of the earthquake survivors.

It is reported that Mount Vesuvius is displaying signs of activity.

CHILDREN SICK WITH ONE DISEASE AFTER ANOTHER ALL WINTER.

How to Avoid Catching Contagious Diseases---Something Every Mother Should Remember.

Good morning, I'm so glad to see you. How are the children? What's the trouble now? Seems like they have been sick all winter. First scarlet fever, then diphtheria, and now it is whooping cough. Well, you have had your hands full to be sure, but do you know I believe you could have warded off some of those diseases. Oh, no! I'm not accusing you of neglecting your children; you're too good a mother to do that. I know your new neighbors brought scarlet fever, but don't you remember the hard colds your children had just when they came? Now listen a moment; that has had more to do with it than you think. Your children were then particularly susceptible to disease germs. Eminent physicians now agree that children would not be near so likely to take scarlet fever, diphtheria, whooping cough or any of the catching diseases if every cold were doctored when it first makes its appearance. You have noticed that when two children are exposed to some contagious disease at the same time often one of them will take it and the other will not. Well, that is just the reason, one child had a cold and the other did not. I never allow a cold to run twenty-four hours without attention. You say you don't have any confidence in cough medicines? You have not used the right one yet. Just try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and you'll change your mind. Of course you have heard of it. It has been on the market for thirty-five years. No, indeed, it won't hurt the children. There is nothing in it that will injure your little baby. Get a bottle of it while you are up town and you will find that your children will not catch everything that comes along.

Says This Medicin Has Mystic Powers

It's in the spring that health gives out—that folks begin to feel draggy, weary, tireless,—hate, to eat, look pale, feel discouraged

If you've reached this state read what J. W. Jervell, well known in Morristown, has to say about the medicine that cured him. "Last winter I caught a heavy cold that settled in my back. My kidneys and liver were affected and my health failed. By spring I was in bad shape —couldn't sleep like I used to —felt tired in the morning—ate very little—was terribly depressed, pale and anxious looking. Twinges of rheumatism, frequent neuralgia attacks over the temples, made matters worse. The doctor prescribed three times, but didn't help. Then I heard of Dr. Hamilton's Pills,— They possess mystic powers surely, for I gained and improved day by day and now am in perfect health again. I will praise and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills till I die."

The ingredients in Dr. Hamilton's Pills are pure and wholesome—come right from the storehouse of Nature in the form of vegetable juices and extracts,—consequently this gentle invigorating laxative tonic and blood purifier is safe for old and young alike. We assure you of enormous benefit from Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which revitalize delicate glands, search out the seat of hidden disease, flood the body with vigor and health that has caused thousands of broken-down, despairing men and women to join in a mighty song of praise for the beneficient aid that comes from this king of all tonics. Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills to-day. 25c at all dealers.

Glasses Unnecessary

Eye Strain Relieved by Change to Postum

Many cases of defective vision are caused by the habitual use of tea or coffee.

It is said that in Arabia where coffee is used in large quantities, many lose their eyesight at about fifty.

A N. J. woman writes to the point concerning eye trouble and coffee. She says:

"My son was for years troubled with his eyes. He tried several kinds of glasses without relief. The optician said there was a defect in his eyes which was hard to reach.

"He used to drink coffee, as we all did, and finally quit it and began to use Postum. That was three years ago, he has not had to wear glasses and has had no trouble with his eyes since.

"I was always fond of tea and coffee and finally became so nervous I could hardly sit still long enough to eat a meal. My heart was in such a condition I thought I might die any time.

"Medicine did not give me relief and I was almost desperate. It was about this time we decided to quit coffee and use Postum, and have used it ever since. I am in perfect health. No trouble now with my heart and never felt better in my life.

"Postum has been a great blessing to us all, particularly to my son and myself."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read, The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Boys Will Use the Old Baptist Church

The memers of the Park street Baptist church met Wednesday night to discuss the advisability of allowing the old church building to be used for Y.M.C.A. purposes when vacated by the congregation.

After some discussion it was moved and seconded that the old church building be given over for the use of the young men of the city, especially the south end. There was a most overwhelming majority in favor of the motion, only three voting against it.

The pastor, Rev. W. C. Riddiford, who is deeply interested in Y. M. C. A. work, and young men will wait upon the Board of Directors of the local Y.M.C.A., and ask their advice and counsel in all matters pertaining to the workings of the institution. He, as well as the church, are anxious that it should be of some practical value to all young men.

Such a move on the part of the Park street church certainly bespeaks a spirit in accord with the times. Wholesome amusement and entertainment is in accord with reason and merits the hearty support and sympathy of all just thinking people.

Three Doctors in the Police Court

Three well known physicians of this city were arraigned in the police court yesterday morning, charged with practising medicine from January 1st to 27th, not being registered according to the Medical Council. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the accused and R. E. Wood conducted the prosecution. The defendants pleaded not guilty. His worship reserved judgment to allow both the Crown and the defence to put in authorities to support their contentions.

The doctors were charged with practising medicine on W. Gregory and Mrs. C. Beswick, professional witnesses, acting for Mr. C. Rose on behalf of the Ontario Medical Council.

Mr. Wood said that in these cases there was no doubt about the defendants having practised medicine this year, and asked that the accused admit this, but the counsel for the defence would not and the evidence was proceeded with. The doctors were called and Mr. Gregory and Mrs. Beswick also testified to having called on the defendants and in some instances having received medicine.

His worship will give judgment in week.

ment reform received the imperial sanction on Nov. 21, 1906.

The imperial edict received by the grand secretariat reads as follows:

"Since the prohibition of opium was relaxed, the poison has spread practically throughout the whole of China. Those who consume it waste their time lose their livelihood, destroy their health, and break up their homes. It is the real cause of the poverty and weakness which has been daily apparent for these many years. The mere mention of it is enough to excite bitter indignation. At the present moment the throne is keenly bent on devising measures to render the country powerful. It is of the first importance that it should urge its subjects to reform, so that with one mind they may be stir themselves, throw off this disease and tread the ways of health and happiness and tread the ways of health and harmony. We therefore ordain a limit of ten years within which the evils of the foreign and native drug alike are to be utterly abandoned. As regards the various steps which must be taken strictly to prohibit consumption and prevent the cultivation of the poppy, let the office of government reform devise and submit fitting rules and regulations."

SUBMITTED TEN REGULATIONS.

In response to this imperial edict the council of government reform presented to the throne a memorial which contains the following sentences:

"They have carefully prepared ten regulations which they submit to your majesties' consideration. Should these meet with approval, they would suggest that an edict be issued strictly enjoining their observance of the officials and people in the capital and provinces in order that, by exerting themselves to throw off this long-standing disease, they may respectfully lend their aid to the throne in its desire to renovate the national character and to devise measures for rendering the country powerful."

"The emperor and the dowager-empress in compassion for their people's distress have issued a special edict, announcing prohibition, and fearing too drastic measures have further, allowed a term of ten years, thus uniting consideration for the sufferings of their people with vigor in eradicating a long standing vice."

"The measures to be taken for prohibition should consist in cutting off the sources of supply, and in restricting sales, admonition and persuasion should come first and afterwards an example should be made of offenders, what is past should be condoned, but fresh lapses should be dealt with severely."

The ten regulations submitted by the council contain the following suggestions:

1. Restriction of the cultivation of the poppy, in order to effect a root-and-branch reform.
2. Issue of permits, in order to prevent the further spread of the habit.
3. Allowance of time for the gradual reduction of the craving, in order to allay a chronic ailment.
4. Prohibition of opium dens, in order to cleanse the haunts of vice.
5. Enquiry into opium shops, in order to assist the work of investigation.
6. Prescriptions to be officially provided, in order to facilitate medical treatment.
7. The establishment of anti-opium societies to be permitted in order that good work may abound.
8. The local officials to be charged with the responsibility of taking the lead in the hope that genuine progress may be made.
9. Officials to be strictly prohibited from smoking that they may set a good example.
10. Negotiations for the prohibition of the importation of foreign opium in order to check the supply at its source.

EDICT MEANS ENFORCEMENT.

On the 25th of June, 1907, the throne issued another edict from which the following sentence is extracted:

"It must be understood once for all that this matter—the prohibition of the cultivation, sale and consumption of opium—must be put into force without fail."

When we remember that the Chinese have been for thousands of years a most conservative nation, the "reform" int his particular instance shows a comprehensive grasp of the situation an dan ability to take the necessary measures for the effectual stamping-out of one national evil, which, drug-like, has induced a lethargy affecting alike their moral and physical well-being, that we might well copy in relation to our own national sin.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN ENGLAND

Keir Hardie, the Independent Labor Leader in the House of Commons defends the violent methods of the so-called suffragettes in England on the ground that "what would not be justified in a person who had a vote would be justified in one who had no vote."

The excesses of the suffragettes, their public demonstrations, their conflicts with the police and the imprisonment of their members in Holloway Jail has given an impetus to the woman suffrage movement in England which long years of orderly agitation had failed to imparet. In the number of their sympathisers and in financial strength they have made amazing progress. Wherever the women who wear the violet, white and green appear they go determined to force the fighting.

The Women's Liberal Federation was founded in 1887. Mrs. Henry Fawcett was formerly, and to-day Lady Carlisle is its President. After Gladstone went to the country on the Irish question there followed a split. About two-thirds of the membership kept up the old organization on the basis of women suffragy in the programme and retained the old name. It carries on the agitation along constitutional lines and in a nonpartisan spirit. The seceders, as the Women's National Association, went on with the Liberal propaganda without suffrage.

The Tory women work for the suffrage chiefly in the ranks of the Primrose League, but within the last few weeks they have started the Women's Conservative League for suffrage on the advice of Lord Robert Cecil, the son of the former Tory Premier, Lord Salisbury. There is also a Men's League for Women's Suffrage, a league of voters. The Union of Suffrage Societies is an organization of the various women-suffrage societies on an absolutely non-political basis.

In 1907 the Campbell-Bannerman Government by the Women's Qualification Act granted the right to serve on all local government bodies to all qualifications being almost the same as for men. Outside of London no married woman—that is, no woman whose husband is living—can vote or serve on a town or county council, but in London there is no such disqualification. This permits women to serve as members of the London County Council, which in importance is second only to Parliament among the legislative bodies of Great Britain. That within a few years one or the other of the great political parties will find it expedient to grant the Parliamentary franchise to women on terms equal with men is altogether probable. Mr. Asquith has given the word that in the next reform bill the present Government, while not pledged to woman suffrage, will entertain such an amendment.

Making Good.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good;" and Doctor Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity, are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards.

A good, honest, square-deal medicine of known composition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper —no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug, therefore don't accept a substitute that the dealer may possibly make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for.

Don't buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its sterling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine it is unequaled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy—one to three a dose. Much imitated but never equaled.

Says City Should Have an Inspector of Wiring

Ald. Turner Thinks the City Should Have an Inspector of Its Own to See that Wiring is Done Properly

A plea for an inspector of electric wiring in Peterborough, was made at the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night by Ald. J. J. Turner.

Ald. Turner referred to the fact that an inspector from the Underwriters' Association had been in Peterborough for several weeks, and had ordered changes in the electrical wiring in many buildings. Some of these were of comparatively recent erection, while in others the wiring had been overhauled recently. Under such conditions it was not fair to the owners of buildings to be put to heavy expenses to have the changes made. The city should have an inspector of its own in order that citizens might know that their electric wiring was done properly.

City Clerk Armstrong said that the council had power to appoint an inspector of electric wiring.

The committee will consider Ald. Turner's suggestions.

Hold What We Have and Support St. Railway Co.

At their regular meeting on Thursday night the Board of Works modified their resolution somewhat in reference to their application to the legislation for an extension of time to complete their road to Lakefield and Stony Lake. The board appointed a committee composed of Mayor Rush, Aldermen Bradburn, Duncan and McIntyre to look after the city's interests in this matter.

The Board does not proposed to block the Street Railway Company if work is not started on the extension before the first of May. All the board intends to do is to get a statement from the company of what their plans are and when they intend to get started.

The recent action of the board should be much more satisfactory to the citizens generally. It is to be remembered that the interests connected with the Street Railway Company have expended in Peterborough in the neighborhood of $2,000,000 in buildings, plants, etc., and are paying several thousands of dollars every month in wages.

It must be remembered that the past couple of years have been very hard ones on financial interests and to get money on reasonable rates has been impossible. To construct the line from this city to Stony Lake would cost between $350,000 and $400,000, and the interest on that money alone would be a big sum, and no company will invest large sums of money without seeing some return for it.

Another feature is that the Peterborough Radial Co., in the past has carried out its contract with the city to the letter, and there is every reason to believe they intend to do so in reference to the extension of their lines. As soon as financial matters are easier there is every reason to believe that the railway will be constructed.

While the new road would certainly be a convenience to a portion of the population for a few months in the summer, the council is supposed to do business in the best interests of the city as a whole. To antagonise the interests behind the street railway company would probably mean a great loss to this city. It is well known that several more mills, flour and cereal, are to be erected in the near future. Will it be better to drive those mills away to other towns in order to allow some other street railway company, not yet in existence, secure a charter, good for four or five years to build a line through the city, or to support the company now in existence and the color of whose money the city has seen and benefitted by? It is the opion of many good citizens who are looking to the welfare of the city, that no good purpose can be served by opposing the Peterborough Radial Railway Co.

Premier Scott Being Prosecuted for Criminal Libel--Interesting Case

Victoria, B.C., Jan. 29.—Hon. Mr. Templeman arrived yesterday from Ottawa. Nominations in the Comox-Atlin bye-election are set for February 8th at Prince Rupert, and polling on February the 20th.

Regina, Jan. 29.—The first day of the libel suit of the King v. Premier Scott, in which the private prosecutor is ex-Mayor Laird, was devoted to formal evidence of publication. Telegraph operators, messengers, editors and reporters of the Leader were examined. The defence lawyers took numerous exceptions to P. J. Nolan's examination of the witnesses, to which Nolan was content to say he would arrive quicker if left to do things his own way. The chief interest was in the legal sparring, the prosecution wishing to delay. Many jurors were challenged. Both the premier and Mr. Laird were present. There was an imposing array of counsel for the prosecution. P. J. Nolan, Calgary, and J. F. L. Emoury, who is in consultation with Hon. F. W. G. Haultain, K.C. The defence is represented by N. F. Hagel, K.C., and R. A. Bonnar, Winnipeg, with whom is associated Alex. Ross, and, in a consulting capacity, Norman Mackenzie, K.C.

During the proceedings it was shown that Hagel had been originally retained by the prosecution, who complained that the attorney-general's department had peremptorily moved the case forward.

Nelson, Jan. 29.—The eleventh annual meeting of the associated Board of Trade of Eastern British Columbia at Trail came to a successful close last night. The former executive were re-elected;—G. O. Buchanan, Kaslo, president; F. A. Starkey, Nelson, vice-president; A. B. Mackenzie, Rossland, secretary. The Dominion Government was asked to aid experiments in electrical zinc smelting carried on at the Canada Zinc Works at Nelson, and that a readjustment of the duties on zinc be made; also that the government be asked to insist on the construction by the C.P.R. of a line filling the gap between Kootenay Landing and Proctor now covered by a steamboat service.

A Strong Sentiment Against Local Option

The Times is informed that the canvassers who are engaged in securing signatures to the petition in favor of Local Option are having troubles of their own. Many refuse to sign because they are not in favor of a change from the present license system, and others for business reasons prefer to keep their names off the petition. There are many who, while opposed to the liquor traffic, are of opinion that doing away with licenses would result in a worse condition than the present system affords. It is, however, believed that the required number of signatures will be obtained, and that the measure will come before the people next January.

Much depends upon the attitude of the rank and file of the workers in favor of the measure. Intolerant and too aggressive a campaign would, we believe, result in exciting stronger opposition than might otherwise be encountered, and be the means of switching over to the other side many who are comparatively neutral, and who would be inclined to give Local Option a fair trial. Many, again, have not forgotten their experience under the Scott Act, which has left anything but a favorable regard for prohibitive measures in dealing with the liquor traffic.

The Times believes that the campaign in order to be successful, should be conducted on purely educational lines, without resort to abuse or extravagant statements, that only tend to excite opposition and provoke ill-will in the community.

Estimates for the Fire Department Considered

A meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee was held last night when the bulk of the time was spent in going over the estimates of the fire department for 1909. The last was gone over very carefully, and the work in this connection was practically completed. The estimates, however, will have to go before the Finance Committee before they are submitted to the council.

Some of the matters under the consideration of the committee in the closing stages of last year, were considered in order that the present committee would know just where they were at.

Some applications for lights in different parts of the city were considered and listed along with others already on fyle. The committee will take a drive around the city shortly in order to deal with the requests to better advantage.

Ald. Hicks moved, seconded by Ald Morgan, that the Water Commissioners be instructed to place a hydrant near the corner of Wolfe and George streets, at a point to be located by the chairman of the committee, and Mr. T. F. Matthews.—Carried.

Those present were, Ald. Hunter in the chair, Aldermen Morgan, Hicks and Turner.

Scenes of Disorder and Riot at Cleveland

Cleveland, Jan. 29.—The most dramatic scenes enacted in the whole period of street railway warfare were precipitated at the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Cleveland Street Railway Company Wednesday in a session that opened in the Electric Building with scenes of disorder and riot and ended in a long drawn out contest for votes extending into the morning hours at the assembly rooms in the Hollenden.

Shareholders who receive their stock through exchange of Forest City shares were ushered into one office and the old Cleveland Electric contingent were seated in an adjoining office. Neither was capable of seating more than fifty persons. The shareholders in the room assigned to the followers of the Municipal Traction Company who were unable to comprehend the nature of the motions made raised a protest that the Cleveland Electric crowd had packed the meeting.

FORMED A FOOTBALL WEDGE.

A storm of dissenting cries came from the east room and were taken up by several hundredpersons who packed the outer hallway and were unable to enter either room.

As the conviction grew upon the mass that the Cleveland Railway people were attempting to control the meeting the storm in the outer rooms became more insistent. A score of turbulent spirits crowded the doorway between the two rooms and clamored for admission. They formed a football wedge and jammed the doorway. A half-dozen women were caught in the jam and their cries were added to the confusion.

When the wedge broke through the doorway the chairman's table was swept before the crowd into the middle of the room and the meeting broke into complete disorder. Secretary Davies asked the police to be called to quell the disturbance, but comparative quiet, was restored before the police arrived.

City Clerk Witt, who, with Attorney D. C. Westenhaver, had been admitted to the main room, stormed out into the hallway with a threat to bring injunction proceedings to suspend the meeting. Other shareholders clamored for a hall in which to hold the meeting. Witt made a speech in the hallway exhorting the shareholders to demand the return of their property.

When the inspectors appointed to act as tellers threw up their hands at the impossibility of canvassing a vote on any question, the attorneys at the advice of President Andrews and the directors finally gave way and agreed to secure a hall in which to continue the meeting. An adjournment was taken to the assembly rooms in The Hollenden, where a contest that commenced at five o'clock was continued well into the night.

Local Player Received an Offer from Erie

Corney Burns, manager and captain of the Peterborough Baseball team of 1908—the Midland League winners—has received an offer to to play professional ball during the coming season with the Erie club of the Ohio and Pennsylvania League. A contract has been forwarded Corney but he has not attached his signature yet. The contract provides a salary of $100 per month and Corney is considering it.

The O. and P. League is in class "C" and other teams in it are Youngstown and Wilmington with which Harry Burridge and Walter Joyes were connected last summer.

Burns is a heavy hitter and is fast on the bases and should be able to make good across the line.

Lawyers Scare at Law Reform and Present Memorial to Premier

That whereas, the resolutions of the Honorable the attorney-general would practically abolish appeals to the Supreme Court or to the Privy Council in cases between citizens of Ontario, this association would respectfully represent to the attorney-general that where a reasonably large amount is involved the right to a final appeal to a Dominion or imperial court should not be denied to citizens in this Province.

Toronto, Jan. 29.—This resolution passed this week by the York County Bar Association, expresses the alarm that has seized upon the lawyers of Ontario at the idea of the attorney-general carrying out the terms of his resolution passed last April to practically limit appeals in Ontario to one court, the Court of Appeal.

The Ontario Bar Association has also taken the question up vigorously, and at noon today Sir James Pliny Whitney, the premier and president of the Executive Council, was presented with a memorial asking that representatives be heard before the law reform is definitely settled, and asking, moreover, that an extraordinary session of the judges of the Supreme Court be called to pass upon Mr. Foy's proposed amendments before they assume their final shape.

Sir James Whitney acceeded to the request to hear a deputation, and fixed the time as next Wednesday, at three p.m.

Some sixty of the most prominent lawyers of the Province, composing the Executive of the Ontario Bar Association, and the trustees of the York County Bar will be present.

The memorial opens thus;

"To the Honorable the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council;

"The Ontario Bar Association and the County of York Law Association respectfully ask leave, through their Executive Council and Board of Trustees, to be permitted to present to you the matters contained in this memorial."

The memorial recites the fact that resolutions "having in view the more prompt and satisfactory administration of justice in civil matters," has been introduced by Hon. J. J. Foy at the last session of the legislature, including the question of the constitution of the Appellate Courts in this Province.

The resolutions passed by the Ontario Bar Association, at its annual meeting held in Toronto on Dec. 17th and 18th last, are also recited. These contained one asking that the permanent character of the Court of Appeal should not be interfered with.

Another asked that the Council of the Judges of the Supreme Court be asked to meet "to consider the effect of the resolutions on law reform introduced by the attorney-general, and what, if any, amendments or alternatives it would, in their judgment, be expedient to make, relating to the administration of justice, having regard to the said resolutions."

On Tuesday last the County of York Law Association passed a similar resolution to the last one mentioned.

On Wednesday a joint committee of the two associations decided to memoralize the government to call together the Council of the Judges so as "to consider the effect of the proposed changes, especially in view of the fact that the work of the judges will be re-arranged, and it seems desirable that in matters of such great importance an opportunity should be afforded of co-operation between the Bench and the Bar."

The memorial asking for a "time and place for a more formal presentation of these views and others is signed by Messrs. F. E. Hodgins, president of the Ontario Bar; Wm. Davidson, president York County," and J. T. Small, chairman of the joint committee.

Section 127 of the Ontario Judicature Act provides for a meeting of the Council of the Judges of the Supreme Court at least once a year to consider the defects, workings, etc., of the laws and report on amendments.

Judge's Decision was Dated on a Sunday

Toronto, Jan. 30—"Rev." Robert Brown, pastor of the Chinese Mission, threatens to bring Judge Winchester before the Magistrate for breach of the Lord's Day Act.

It is all a result of the prosecution of Mr. Brown for performing illegal marriages. Mr. Brown still declares that they were not illegal, and can give forty-one reasons per minute in support of this, but Judge Winchester couldn't see it that way, and deciding that Mr. Brown had never been properly ordained, found him guilty.

Verbal judgment was given on the 15th of November, 1907. Then Mr. Brown sent for a copy of it, and six months later got one dated the 17th of November, which was a Sunday, and certified as correct by the court stenographer.

"That's where the trouble starts. Mr. Brown now wants to have his honor, prosecuted for a breach of the Lord's Act. He says that by issuing this judgment on this day he was transacting the business of his ordinary calling, and thus committed a grave breach of the law.

Yesterday Mr. Brown glided softly into the office of the Lord Day's Alliance, and creeping into the sanctum, laid the whole matter before Rev. T. Albert Moore, general secretary of the organization. Mr. Moore listened, and then showed Mr. Brown that no proceedings could be instituted without the consent of the Attorney general. He also pointed out the clause in which it is stated that if sixty days have elapsed since the commission of the alleged offence no action can be taken.

LUNG TROUBLE

PROMPTLY RELIEVED AND PERMANENTLY CURED BY INHALING CATARRHOZONE

Mrs. Biny Brown, of Tenerape, N. S., was cured by Catarrhozone of lung trouble and Catarrh after hundreds of other remedies failed.

If your lungs are weak; if there is consumption in your family; if Colds, Catarrh and Bronchitis bother you, be sure to use Catarrhozone. It is especially adapted for these diseases and cures every time.

Mrs. Brown took cough mixtures, but they made her sick. Then she used an anomizer, but, after resorting without benefit to poultices and numerous other remedies, she tried Catarrhozone.

"I used Catarrhozone Inhaler," writes Mrs. Brown, "five minutes every hour, and soon recognized that it was going to cure me. I could feel the soothing medicated air spreading through the air passages of the throat, and it touched the sore spots in the lungs that other remedies failed to reach. Catarrhozone seemed to go just where it was needed most, and soon put a stop to my cough. It restored me to perfect health, and I am convinced that no cough, cold or catarrh can exist if Catarrhozone is used."

No treatment is so clean, so pleasant, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone. By means of the inhaler the local symptoms such as coughing, inflammation and congestion are speedily corrected. Ferrozone tablets, which are taken after each meal, purify and cleanse the blood of all poisons and build up and strengthen the system.

This local and constitutional treatment is always effective, and cures cases that have been given up as hopeless. Money can't buy or produce anything better, and to get cured it is absolutely necessary to use Catarrhozone.

GREAT MISSIONARY CONGRESS

A notable gathering will be the Canadian Laymen's Missionary Congress which will be held in Massey Hall, Toronto from March 31 to April 4 next. This great gathering which it is anticipated will be attended by 2,000 men from every section of the Dominion, is intended to be the culmination of a great missionary campaign, which will be conducted throughout Canada, during the intervening weeks. In a circular sent out by Mr. J. Campbell White, the General Secretary of the International Laymen's Missionary Movement, it is stated that "all the churches of Canada are co-operating to the full extent of their power in this national campaign of education and enlistment. There will be a complete separate convention held by the men of each of the denominations during the forenoons of the Congress period. All of the afternoons and evenings will be given up to the sessions of the Laymen's Missionary Congress. This Congress will be the largest, the most representative and the most influential body of men ever assembled, to consider their own and their nation's responsibility, for the evangelization of the world." It is expected that the representative Christian laymen of Canada will adopt at this gathering a missionary policy which will challenge the attention, the admiration and the imitation of Christendom.

WIFE BEATERS

Mr. Robert Bickerdike, M. P., proposes to amend the statutes to provide for the infliction of the lash upon wife-beaters. This power should certainly be in the hands of judges, and they should use it freely. There is no class of prisoners who deserve less sympathy than the cowardly and brutal wife-beaters and it should be taken as a matter of course that they receive the lash unless there are special reasons in individual cases why it should not be applied. Nor should any attention be paid to the plea of the wife for mercy for the bullying poltroon who should protect her, but who is her most savage assailant. Her plea is very apt to be caused by a desire on her part to mitigate the revenge he will take on her when his sentence is served. But if the lash be well applied he will ever after have a wholesome fear of her power to get it applied again.

MOUNTAIN SLIDING.

Hawaiian Small Boys Simply "Drop Down the Edge of the Scenery."

Water sports are by no means the only vigorous athletics indulged in by the boys of Hawaii. Mountain climbing is a favorite pastime, for there are peaks 4,000 feet high within easy walking distance of any part of Honolulu, and on the island of Hawaii there are two mountains fully 14,000 feet in height. Not infrequently the Honolulu schools give picnics on the mountain sides that the pupils may gather land shells. It is on these excursions in search of land shells that the Hawaiian schoolboys revel in the once national sport, mountain sliding.

A very steep mountain side is selected, where the grass is long and sloping downward. Every one gathers his own ti leaves. The ti leaf is something like the banana leaf, but not nearly so long. With a bunch of ti leaves in his hand the first boy steps to the edge of the side, grasps the leaves by the stems in both hands, places the leafy part under him and sits down, gives himself a start and drops down the edge of the scenery like a flash. I was assured that it was an easy matter to regulate the speed of descent by merely grasping the ti stems firmly and lifting them upward, this acting as a brake. I longed for the thrill of dropping down over the edge of a mountain and upon my brief sled of ti leaves began the descent. I went like the wind. It seemed as though my breath would be taken away from me or that I would plunge head over heels, to be dashed to pieces among the trees below. I thought of my brake and drew up on the ti leaves with all my might and came up with a jerk that jarred every bone in my body. There I sat, looking downward almost perpendicularly, held in position only by a few leaves resting on the smooth, slippery grass, but the sliding grass is nearly a foot long, and it is only after it has been repeatedly slidden over and beaten down that it approaches perfection in the eyes of the Hawaiian small boy and sometimes leads to accidents. When, for instance, the thin layer of ti leaves wears out beneath the slide a gentle tug at the stalks parts the sled and sends the slider whizzing downward in a most uncomfortable and ungraceful manner, all arms and legs. Lucky is the victim of such an accident if he is not stopped in his downward career by the trunk of a tree.—St. Nicholas.

SCARED THE ROBBERS.

Odd Incident in England in the Eighteenth Century.

For a time during the eighteenth century in England there was a lull in the robbery industry owing to an odd incident. Shortly after the execution of an English burglar named Elliston a curious communication purporting to have been written by him was put into circulation. "Now, as I am a dying man," it ran, "I have done something which may be of good use to the public. I have left with an honest man—the only honest man I was ever acquainted with—the names of all my wicked brethren, the places of their abode, with a short account of the chief crimes they have committed, in many of which I have been the accomplice and heard the rest from their own mouths. I have likewise set down the names of those we call our setters, of the houses we frequent and all of those who receive and buy our stolen goods. I have solemnly charged this honest man and have received his promise upon oath that whenever he hears of any rogue to be tried for robbery or housebreaking he will look into his list and if he finds there the name of the thief concerned to send the whole paper to the government. Of this I here give my companions fair and public warning and hope they will take it."

THE FEEDER.

Sheaf oats are one of the best feeds grown for young stock. Farmers Advocate thinks oats in the sheaf are worth more for feed than in any other shape. Cut early with a binder, stack well and feed in the barn. The cows and calves enjoy a little variety, and a feed of sheaf oats will be much relished.

Appetizers Not Needed.

A breeder says: "A farmer recently asked me to name some kind of appetizer for his calves, which for a few meals ate and drank well and again would eat and drink nothing. It is suspected that these calves were being overfed. Never feed an animal more than it will clean up well at each meal. Feed in such a way that the animal would eat just a little more if the feed were to be had. This feeding direction followed, no recipes for appetizers are needed."

Overfeeding and Underfeeding.

There is more danger of overfeeding colts than underfeeding. Either one, however, is disastrous. Overfeeding injures the digestive organs and leaves the system in a condition much more liable to disease and disorders. Underfeeding means a stunted condition, which is invariably a disappointment. Even with good breeding such a colt will not develop into a profitable animal. A healthy, vigorous growth is the ideal thing to be sought.

Skimmed Milk For Pigs.

Pigs like skimmed milk right from the separator, and it makes an excellent feed, especially when a proper amount of grain is added, as these animals should be kept growing and fattening at the same time, says a dairyman. The last of February I took a Chester white pig, weighing 115 pounds, alive, and put it in a pen alone where it was warm and dry. It was fed with the skimmed milk and one quart of mixed grain three times a day. It was fed thus for fifty days and then slaughtered. The dressed weight was 178 pounds. I calculate this was equal to two pounds of increase per day, live weight. Morning and night fresh separator milk was fed light of a lamp showed that not a bow, not an arrow, remained on the walls.

....The.... Plow Woman

But there was no time for exclaiming or conjecturing. Oliver rushed back to the gallery and bade all the women and children collect and keep within quarters. Around it, under Sergeant Kippis, he stationed a cordon. Next, and while the house was being thoroughly wet down, the ammunition stores were drawn upon, and extra guns and cartridges were carried into the long reception room, where the women could assist in reloading. Barely three minutes had passed since Oliver sent his messengers. But headquarters was fixed to withstand an assault and to protect its inmates. And now, still ignorant of what had befallen, he ordered the remainder of his men into line.

At this point, with the detachment about to move, a volley of rifle shots sounded from the stockade, another and another. Then up went a great hubbub: "The Indians, the Indians!"

Oliver started his troopers double quick across the square. At the hospital one of the stockade guard stopped them.

"The Indians!" croaked Oliver.

"Gone!"

Oliver turned back.

They met a second man, black faced, staggering, frenzied with alarm. It was Fraser. He caught at the captain's ragged sleeve.

"Shot—other side—they're over there—those girls—those girls"— His breath failed him.

Oliver saw the need. "To the ferry," he commanded.

Like one man they bounded headlong across the parade, through the red smoke pouring from barracks and stables and on, only to come short upon a beatless landing, where they crowded upon each other and cursed.

Fraser was half crazed. Oliver took him forcibly in hand. No man of them all, even if not burdened with a gun could stem the river's current.

"There's one chance yet," he said "the night herd." He turned to his trumpeter. "Sound the recall and keep a-sounding it!"

Again and again the familiar strain rang out. All looked northward to where they knew the herd had been, to where the long curves of the prairie fire were still moving.

But the minutes went, and there was no answering beat of hoofs. Where were the herders? Why did they not obey?

Again, again and again!

Then to the south a reply! Above the spiteful crackling of the tindery buildings, out of the thinning dark, came a clear, eager neigh!

That way the troopers rushed. Gathering at the flagstaff they saw by the light of the burning piles a single horse come galloping toward them from the direction of the stockade. Her dun neck was arched like a charger's. As she swung proudly into an imaginary line the men greeted her with a cheer.

That greeting was echoed. Until now the Indians had been quiet, as quiet as a flock of scurrying grouse. But the river was between them and their enemy, and they felt secure from pursuit. Moreover, whisky was working. They were boisterous with it. Casting caution aside when they heard that cheer, they answered with defiant whoops.

The cheers of the troopers changed to anguished groans. One, wildly repeating a girl's name, sprang toward the waiting Buckskin. From headquarters came the sobbing of women, the whimpering of frightened children, and then, nearer and nearer, a dull pounding that swelled into the steady plud, plud of unshod hoofs.

Once more a cheer went up. A moment and a cavalcade swept in, a riderless cavalcade, with ropes dangling. It was the night herd, the discarded second choice mounts of the regiment's officers, a motley band that had served their country through more than one enlistment, and that, hearing the familiar summons—some limping, some hobbling—had followed the dun cayuse to answer it.

Down the bank and into a black, rolly whirl.

Now noses were twisted about the noses of the horses. The troopers mounted. The trumpet sounded the advance.

Again came whoops from across the Missouri. They were farther away than the first.

"Go up—go up to the crossing!" Oliver ordered. "Fraser! Fraser!"

But the buckskin mare, with her master, far in advance of the twenty others, was already plunging down the bank and into a black, rolly whirl.

Dear Mrs. Curran: I feel so very much better after using the ten days' treatment of Orange Lily you were kind enough to send, that I will not require any more. In fact, I feel entirely well, and it is now a month since I stopped using the treatment. (Miss) F. T. W.

Similar letters to the above are not infrequent though, of course, such cases are not of long standing. Most women who have suffered for any length of time will require to use Orange Lily longer than the Free Trial Treatment in order to effect a complete cure, but in every case they will be benefited. Further, the benefit will be permanent whether they continue to use Orange Lily or not. It is not taken internally, and does not contain any alcohol or other stimulant. It is an applied treatment, and acts directly on the suffering organs. In all cases of women's disorders, these organs are congested to a greater or less extent, and Orange Lily will relieve and remove this congestion just as positively and certainly as the action of ammonia or soap on soiled linen. It is a simple chemical problem, and the result is always the same, a step towards better health and complete cure.

In order that every suffering woman may prove its good qualities, without cost, I will send enough of Orange Lily for 10 days' treatment absolutely free, to each lady who will send me her address. Mrs. E. F. Curran, Windsor, Ont.

Maple Leaf Mines, Limited

No Personal Liability

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia, Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont., Sec-Treas.; Charle Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C. Ritchie, Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 668, containing 40 acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Cobalt Lake we have staked claim No. 1269, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 16th December, 1903, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. LeVesconte, 20 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties, in consideration of $60,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 310,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $500; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 1000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 16th of December, 1903.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development must fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

The Cause of the Recent Earthquake

Dr. Edmond O. Hovey, an authority on volcanoes and come forward with the following scientific explanation of the geological significance of the recent earthquake in Messina. Dr. Hovey says:—

"From what we have been able to learn up to the present time the earthquake does not seem to be of great geological importance. I was in Baltimore at the time the news reached this country, and visited the Johns-Hopkins University, where the seismograph had recorded the disturbance. It did not indicate as much disturbance during the Messina quake as during the San Francisco earthquake in 1906. The geological importance of an earth-nothing to caused [illegible] cases of [illegible] void

canic or [illegible] and those which arise from tectonic or mountain building movements of the earth's crust.

"The volcanic quakes, as the name implies, occur in districts of active volcanism and they originate not far below the surface, probably at depths of less than two miles. A well-known example of this class is the earthquakes of Casamicciola, which devasted the Island of Ischia, Italy, in 1883 and cost the lives of about 1,900 people.

"This quake was scarcely felt in Naples, only 22 miles distant, and the depth of its focus is calculated to have been scarcely more than have a mile below the surface of the earth. The characteristics of a volcanic quake are a rather definite point of origin or centrum, a comparatively restricted area of disturbance, and the usual absence of secondary after shocks.

"Tectonic or dislocation earthquakes are practically confined to those portions of the earth's crust which are still undergoing changes of elevation due to the action of mountain-building forces. Such quakes are usually to be assigned to a deep-seated origin as compared with the volcanic quakes.

"They are characterized by an indefinite or linear centrum, by a great radius of influence, and by succeeding subordinate shocks, which sometimes recur for months or even years. The great destructive earthquakes which have occurred within historic periods have been assigned for the most part to this class of quakes.

"In this class evidently without question belongs the recent Messina earthquake. Mount Etna or Mount Vesuvious had nothing whatever to do with this last disturbance:

"Earthquakes are propagated by waves, which are of four kinds: (1) normal, in which the vibrations are forward and back along radii emanating from the centrum of the quake; (2) transverse, in which the vibrations are perpendicular to the radii; (3) surface, in which the movement is very slow, comparatively speaking, and is horizontal in charater; (4) epifocal.

"Waves of the first three classes demand or their amplitude on the elasticity of the rocks through which they pass. They are seldom visible, though they are felt to a greater or less degree, and although they are propagated with different velocities they are not always distinguishable, even by aid of seismographs.

"The waves of the fourth class, the epifocal, are those which are conspicuous, terrifying and destructive. They occur only in the regions over and near the centra or foci of great earthquakes and they are not felt far outside of these epifocal districts.

"They are caused when strong waves of the first two classes pass from high by elastic rocks into adjacent almost inelastic soil and unconsolidated sediments. These are the waves which eye-witnesses of great earthquakes have described as causing the surface of the ground to rise and fall like the billows of the ocean, opening cracks in the crests and closing them again in the troughs as the motion passes along. It is these epifocal waves that caused the damage in the Messina quake, as the conditions described above were present in that region.

"That section is right within the earthquake belt, as is evidenced by the hundreds of shocks that have occurred there. The earth's crust there is constantly changing, and you have the boundary region between newer and older rocks which is the line of disturbances in the course of contraction of the earth's surface.

"In the toe of the boot of Italy you have Reggio. You have the Alpennine Mountains of old geological structure extending in a northwesterly direction, and at the western base of these the foothills of comparatively more recent geological date and of less firmly consolidated sediment.

"When in the course of contraction the earth's crust is squeezed the greatest disturbance comes along the line of demarcation between the highly elastic and the less consolidated soil. During all historic time that has been a region of adjustment of strata of different degrees of resistance to altered conditions induced by accumulation of strain.

"The geological importance of an earthquake depends upon the change in the configuration of the earth's surface. Geologists would be very much surprised to find that this change had been great in the Messina region as a result of the earthquake shocks already experienced there.

"If, for instance, it should be found that there was a differential movement of several feet in the earth's crust as a result of the recent shock in Messina it would be up to the scientists to inquire why the seismograph did not indicate a greater shock. Later shocks or later reports may of course indicate some such change.

"It will be recalled that at the time that St. Pierre was destroyed by the eruption of Mount Pelee, on May 8, 1902, the greatest eruption did not come until the following August, although the great damage, the destruction of 30,000 people was the result of the dhunkglo people was the result of the first eruption.

"One of the most severe earthquakes of recent record occurred some years ago in Alaska, when there was a change in the configuration of the earth's surface of 47 feet. That was at the time when the Muir glacier was partly destroyed.

"Although the ultimate cause of the Messina earthquake is traceable to the fact that that region is within an earth quake district where there is a constant contraction of the earth's strata the immediate cause is one of those things that "no fellow knows." Although it is reported that Frank A. Perret, the Brooklyn scientist who has been making an extensive study of the earthquake of Italy, has stated that he predicted the Messina quake I should take exception to the value of such predictions.

"While it might be possible once in a while to make a guess about such a probable happening I believe that the cause and effect is not well enough known to the geologists to make any exact prediction possible. The accumulation of exact observations and of numbers of such observations together with an increase in the number of instruments by which to study such disturbances may enable us some time in the future to give some definite information as to the probable occurance of earthquakes.

"Like the weather men, the more material with which we have to work the nearer we can predict, but unlike the weather prophets, we have to work with forces unseen and unfelt. Many observers widely scattered throughout the world are accumulating data which may some time lead to the discovery of laws governing the periodicity as well as the other phenomena of the earth movements which are of such vital importance to the inhabitants of certain parts of the globe and are of interest to everybody."

Interesting Report on English Inebriate Act

An interesting report has just been issued by a Departmental Committee on the English Inebriates Act. Last April the committee was instructed to investigate one or two phases of the drunkard problem, especially the possibility of the State forcing inebriates to submit themselves to treatment by drugs, with a view of destroying the drink habit. The committee believes that it would be an impossibility to enforce drug treatment by Act of Parliament, and points out that those who have been treated successfully or otherwise, have asked for treatment, and have surrendered themselves to the management of a doctor or specialist of their own free will. It would be quite a different matter, the committee thinks, to force a man to take a cure against his will.

Those who are anxious to be cured and who make a mental effort in sympathy with the action of the drugs are, presumably, the most likely to have the craving destroyed; but not everyone of them is curable. It is admitted by the makers of the various cures that they cannot expect a favorable outcome in every case, nor can they tell until the result proves it which will be benefitted and which will resist the action of their drugs. On these grounds the committee cannot recommend that Parliament should attempt to enforce the use of any particular drug, in lieu of the present system of detaining inebriates in reformatories. The argument that a man cannot be forced to take a drug against his will does not impress us. Men are obliged to submit to much more unpleasant treatment, such as floggings and hangings, but it seems unlikely that a drug cure would do much good if the patient who was taking it were resolved to preserve his taste for liquor and to re-create the appetite on the first opportunity, even should the drug succeed in abolishing it.

LET THE STATE TAKE CHARGE.

At present, in England, inebriates who are committed to reformatories are a charge on the municipality in which the particular institution is located. Those who go to prison are a charge on the State. The committee believes that all should be cared for by the State, because municipalities, on grounds of economy, are inclined to shift their responsibility. Moreover, inebriates are either criminals or on the borderland of crime, and it has long been a principle that the State shall take care of criminals. The most important reason of all is that no municipality could afford to provide adequate accommodation for the proper treatment of inebriates.

WHAT THE INEBRIATE COSTS.

Of the economic advantages accruing to State management of inebriates the committee says:—

"A loan effected for the purchase, or provision, of reformatories at £150 per bed, repayable in 30 years at 3 per cent., would mean a cost per bed during that period of a little over 3s. per week. Allowing for contingencies, such as the unlikely possibility of each bed being empty one-sixth of each year, the cost per inmate would not exceed 3s. 6d. per week. After institutions have been provided, we see no reason why the maintenance cost of inmates should materially differ from the average prison maintenance rate. This, according to the report of the Commissioners of Prisons for 1907-8 amounted to 11s. 6d. per head per week. In view of the fact that all inebriates detained in reformatories during 1907 cost the country, in taxes and rates, the sum of 18s. 9d. per head per week, it is clear that such a scheme for State control as we have suggested would lead to a large saving. One thousand inebriates, detained under a continuance of the present system, means a charge of £46,852 per annum: whereas the same number controlled by the State, at a sinking fund charge of 3s. 6d. per head, and a maintenance rate of 11s. 6d., would mean a total expense of £35,672 only—a clear saving of £10,211 every year upon every thousand cases under detention."

CRIMINAL AND OTHER INEBRIATES

The scheme recommended by the committee for dealing with drunkards divides them into two classes, criminal and non-criminal. In the first case the man accused of inebriety could be released on probation, for a period not less than six months, nor more than one year. He would be subject to arrest and a term in a reformatory should he indulge in a drinking bout while on suspended sentence. If the Court considers release on probation undesirable the inebriate might be sentenced at once to a reformatory, and, in the worst cases, he should be made to serve a preliminary term in jail, and then go to a reformatory. The non-criminal inebriate should, on his own motion, be entitled to name a friend to act as his guardian for a certain period, and the Court would then clothe the guardian with statutory powers. In extreme cases of non-criminal inebriety the victim should be sent to a reformatory.

A GOOD IDEA.

The idea of a guardianship seems a particularly happy one, and likely to be the salvation of many a weak-willed drinker. No man likes to be ordered by a policeman to stop drinking, nor does he like his wife to have him put on the "Indian List"; but a friend can achieve the same ends quietly and preserve the drinker's self-respect. Moreover, he can easily prevent him from falling a victim to the treating of other friends, which is one oft he hardest problems of all to solve.

Valise Thieves are Busy on the Trains

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 28. — The Lehigh Valley and Grand Trunk Railroad detectives have been busy for the past several weeks trying to run down a gang of thieves who have been operating on the passenger trains of these roads between Buffalo and Hamilton. So far, as has been learned by the detectives, or at least from what they are willing to tell, the gang is making its rendezvous in this city.

The modus operandi of the gang is to board the trains in Buffalo, or Hamilton, pass through the train, size up the valises, and then when they are left unguarded when the train nears a station, the thief steps off the train with it and checks it at the station. He may or may not reboard the train, and perhaps make a second haul while making the same trip.

The detectives said yesterday afternoon that the two companies have received a number of complaints recently, but the gang has so clearly carried on its operations that detection has thus far been impossible.

Tom Longboat in Good Condition

Asbury Park, N. J., Jan. 27.—Longboat is doing a ten-mile walk a day, and is running a five-mile dash every other day or so, so as to keep in good shape for sprints.

His feet are in fine condition, also his physical condition. He does boxing and dumb-bell exercise every morning.

When this is finished he gets a good rub down and he feels like a two-year-old. He says he never felt better in his life.

We go to Washington, D. C., to race three soldiers Saturday night, and he is going to see the President.

We will come right back and then we get down to real business.

DANGERS OF CHILDHOOD

THE WORST OF THESE IS THE NEGLECTED COLD.

Health Commissioner Reynolds of Chicago Issues a Bulletin to the Public.

(From the Chicago Tribune.)

"Health Commissioner Reynolds of Chicago, in his latest bulletins of the department, says that the worst danger to which the children of Chicago are now exposed is the neglected cold.

If your baby has a cold don't say 'it will wear off,' and let it go at that. If your children have the snuffles, or sore throats or watery eyes, don't hesitate to take them from school for a day or two so that you may break up the colds they have.

Every parent can add to the healthy conditions of the city and to his or her own peace of mind by guarding against any and every kind of a cold.

Generally the child doesn't know it caught cold. It may be impossible to prevent it from exposing its sensitive body to those dangers which older persons shun. But the chances of contracting colds can be easily diminished by a little care and foresight.

If the children get colds don't waste any time.

Don't trifle with a cold."

This warning, coming from so prominent an official and one whose position enables him to know the real danger, should be heeded by all. The lives of many children are sacrificed each year by neglecting the colds which they take, others contract chronic catarrh from which they never fully recover.

It would be unwise for the health commissioner of a city to recommend any remedy or treatment for a disease, but should he do so Chamberlain's Cough Remedy would certainly head the list as the most efficacious for colds, croup and whooping cough in children, and the one remedy that can always be depended upon to effect a speedy cure and that is pleasant and safe to take. This remedy contains no opium or other harmful drug and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. Its great worth and merit in the treatment of these diseases has been attested by many thousands of mothers.

Charge Withdrawn

The charge of practising medicine without being licensed, laid against Dr. Gray, by Chas. Rose, the Medical council detective, was withdrawn in the police court by R. E. Wood, Esq., the Crown Attorney. Mr. G. N. Gordon, who defended Dr. Gray consented to the withdrawal of the charge upon the prosecution paying the cost.

Store Flooded

While waiting on a customer Thursday night at LeBrun's clothing establishment shortly after six o'clock, the employes were startled by hearing water dripping from the room above on some clothing that was on the show tables. They hurriedly removed the goods before any serious damage was done although a great deal of water came down. This was caused by a drain pipe getting stopped and the sink overflowing, flooding the room with about four inches of water.

Bad Symptoms.

The woman who has periodical headaches, backache, sees imaginary dark spots or specks floating or dancing before her eyes, has gnawing distress or heavy full feeling in stomach, faint spells, dragging-down feeling in lower abdominal or pelvic region, easily startled or excited, irregular or painful periods, with or without pelvic catarrh, is suffering from weaknesses and derangements that should have early attention. Not all of above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time.

Neglected or badly treated and run down cases often run into maladies which demand the surgeon's knife if they do not result fatally.

No medicine extant has such a long and numerous record of cures in just such cases as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. No medicine has such a wide range of invigorating, restorative and curative ingredients—worth more than any number of ordinary non-professional "tonics."

The very best ingredients known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments enter into its composition. No alcohol, harmful, or habit-forming drug is to be found in the list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath.

In any condition of the female system, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can do only good—never harm. Its whole effect is to strengthen, invigorate and regulate the whole female system and especially the pelvic organs. When these are deranged in function or affected by disease, the stomach and other organs of digestion become sympathetically deranged, the nerves are weakened, and a long list of bad, unpleasant symptoms follow. Too much must not be expected of this "Favorite Prescription." It will not perform miracles; will not cure tumors—no medicine will. It will often prevent them, if taken in time, and thus the operating table and the surgeon's knife may be avoided.

Women suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Dorcas Society Successful Concert

In spite of the blizzard which was raging last night a very fair crowd gathered in the St. Andrew's lecture hall last night and thoroughly enjoyed the concert given by local and amateur talent under the auspices of the Dorcas Society. The first part of the program consisted on songs, choruses and recitations by the boys and girls, and they were all exceptionally well rendered. Dr. Parke was present and he favored the audience with several violin solos, including a perfect imitation of the Scotch bag pipes. Dr. Parke's numbers were greatly appreciated. He was very ably accompanied by Miss Helen Davies.

The second part of the program was a dialogue, entitled "Before and Behind the Scenes," and depicted the conduct of the average family before company and on ordinary occasions. The production caused considerable amusement.

The young people who took part in the evening's performance deserve credit. As a result the Dorcas Society will have a snug sum to help them carry on their work of charity.

The program was as follows;
Chairman—Rev. J. G. Potter.
Drill and Chorus—12 girls.
Violin Solo—Dr. Parke.
Song—Little Black me.—Seven Little girls.
Recitation—Little Miss Annie Christie.
Song—Four boys.
Violin Solo—Dr. Parke.

MRS. MARY MEYER.

MRS. MARY MEYER, Thomson Avenue, near Shell Road, Winfield, L. I., N. Y., writes:

"I have been annoyed with a cough for years. Often it was so bad that I could not sleep half the night. Many people thought I had consumption.

Consumption Was Feared.

"A woman recommended Peruna to me two years ago. I began to take Peruna, and now I am perfectly free from a cough. I am glad to say that Peruna cured me entirely.

"I take Peruna occasionally, when I do not feel well, and I also give it to my children.

"Peruna is the best medicine for coughs and colds. I have told many people how much Peruna has helped me."

Mrs. Hettie Green, R. R. No. 6, Inka, Ill., writes as follows of the efficacy of Peruna:

"Last November I had catarrh and felt so miserable I thought that I would go into consumption.

"I tried so many doctors and medicines, but nothing did me any good, only Peruna.

"After I began the use of Peruna I began to improve in every way. My head did not hurt so much, my stomach is all right, my bowels are regular, my appetite good, my complexion clear, my eyes are bright and am gaining in flesh and strength.

"I think Peruna has no equal as a catarrh remedy."

Peruna tends to lessen the cough, decreases the expectoration, strengthens the patient, increases the appetite and in many cases procures sound, refreshing sleep.

MISS BEULAH B. BROOME.

Miss Beulah B. Broome, 409 12th St., N. E., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have suffered from weak lungs and catarrhal troubles for four years, brought on by many neglected colds, but on the recommendation of a friend I gave Peruna an honest trial and I am pleased to state that it restored me to perfect health. There is not the slightest trace of catarrh in my system and my lungs are perfectly sound.

Weak Lungs For Years.

"I unhesitatingly give this testimonial."

Mrs. William Hohmann, 809 N. Paulina St., Chicago, Ill., writes:

"I suffered with catarrh of the bronchial tubes and had a terrible cough ever since a child. After a while it got so bad I had to cough both winter and summer. Finally, I burst a blood vessel in my throat from the strain of coughing, next a blood vessel in my stomach, so I kept getting worse and doctoring, and even then could get no relief. I thought, and everybody else, that I had consumption.

"Reading the papers about Peruna I decided to try it, without the least bit of hope that it would do me any good. But after taking three bottles I noticed a change. My appetite got better, so I kept on, never got discouraged.

"Finally I seemed not to cough so much, and the pains in my chest got better. I am well now. I cannot tell you how grateful I am, and I cannot thank Peruna enough. It has cured where doctors have failed. People who think they have consumption better give it a trial."

MISS JOSIE SCHAETZEL.

Miss Josie Schaetzel, General Delivery, Appleton, Wisconsin, writes:

"I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs in very short order, and it was not long until it developed into a serious case of catarrh. Every morning I would raise a lot of phlegm, which was very disagreeable. My digestion was poor and my lungs sore.

"After a few doses of Peruna I began to mend, and felt that if I kept on taking it it would not be long until I would be well. I was right, for in four weeks I was well again.

Consumption Prevented.

"I think Peruna is a grand medicine, and wish to add my testimony to the many others you have."

The fight against consumption is becoming a national problem.

Everywhere we hear of sanitariums established at the expense of the state for the treatment of the vast army of consumptives.

The open air treatment, fresh air and sunlight, are recognized by the medical profession generally as being the greatest necessities in the treatment of consumption in all its stages.

Dr. Hartman has for many years advocated the fresh air treatment for consumption. At the same time he has recognized Peruna as a useful palliative for the many distressing symptoms which accompany the white plague.

The promptness with which Peruna relieves a fresh cold, and even removes chronic colds, is well-known. This ranks Peruna as a reliable prophylactic against consumption.

Earl Grey Seems Likely to Succeed Lord Minto as Viceroy of India

Visit of Lord Morley to Ottawa Gives Rise to Rumor which Has Many Substantiating Features--Would be Fourth to Go

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—The visit of Lord Morley, secretary of state for India, to Ottawa as the guest of his Excellency Earl Grey, is regarded as significant in official circles.

It is believed to foreshadow an announcement from London that Earl Grey will be appointed viceroy of India at the expiration of his term at Rideau Hall. It is not expected, however, that his excellency will sever his Canadian connection before December.

In view of the difficult problems presented in the great eastern dependency and the remarkable ability and tact Lord Minto has exhibited in handling them, an extension of his regime would not have been improbable had the situation otherwise been favorable. But Lady Minto has suffered from the Indian climate, and but for the call of duty he might, as was indeed rumored, have resigned before the regular expiry of his term. And it is thought unlikely that he would be prepared to accede to a request that he should remain in the country till it became more settled.

Political rumor is inclined to look for the appointment of Earl Grey, the present governor-general of Canada, as the next viceroy of India. It is noteworthy that there is an evident tendency to regard the premier self-governing British state as a good field for preparation for the more responsible, because more powerful viceroyalty. Lord Dufferin went to India in 1884, after being between 1872 and 1878 governor-general. Lord Lansdowne went straight from Canada to India in 1888, and Lord Minto was slated for India before his term as governor-general expired in 1904.

Much can be said in support of Earl Grey's claims. He has won golden opinions in Canada, and the precedent set by the transfer of Lord Minto, his brother-in-law, appears likely to be followed.

The viceroy of India receives an honorarium of 20,833 rupees per month, or something over $100,000 a year.

Says Prohibition is Not the Solution

Dr. Henry Williams, whose articles on alcohol in McClure's Magazine have been arousing wide attention, discusses the cure for the evil in the February number.

Dr. Williams' articles have been uncompromisingly against alcohol scientific experiments prove, he said, that the smallest quantities of the poison are injurious to mankind, while the traffic as a whole works great national damage.

But Dr. Williams flatly disapproves of attempts at prohibitory legislation. An extract from his article is interesting;

"On purely physiological grounds, then, there would seem to be no valid objection to the total prohibition of the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages for popular consumption. But unfortunately the philosophical inquirer is not permitted to view the subject from this single standpoint. The problem is enormously complicated by its economic bearings. Considered merely as a commercial industry, the liquor traffic ranks, as we have seen, among result of such sumptuary legislation would be that within a few months the most important of business enterprises. Its diversified threads are woven everywhere into the fabric of modern social and industrial life. To remove them suddenly must result in serious injury to the fabric itself.

ECONOMIC RESULTS.

"Metaphors aside, it requires no wide grasp of economic principle to comprehend that a business enterprise representing invested capital to the amount of more than a billion dollars, supplying government revenue by hundreds of millions, and furnishing the exclusive means of support to more than two million persons in America alone, could not be suddenly legislated out of existence without entailing the most serious and far-reaching financial financial consequences. The direct and obvious result would be that some thousands of costly factories would become valueless; and that some hundreds of thousands of workmen would suddenly be thrown out of employment, and that new and exceptional means of taxation would have to be at once resorted to for the repletion of the national and local treasuries.

"But this is only the beginning. The indirect, but no less inevitable of the abolition of the distilleries and breweries there would be scores of small illicit stills where now there is one legalized one. Within a few months of the abolition of the saloons, there would be scores of secret bars where now there is a single public one. Within a few months liquor of bad quality would be flooding across our borders through a thousand channels, despite the efforts of a legion of revenue officers. Meanwhile hosts of hitherto law-abiding citizens would have become habitual law-breakers, and a vastly elaborated constabulary, judiciary, and correctional system would be at once required to render the new measures of repression other than openly farcial.

"And in the end the liquor problem would still be with us."

FAVORS GOTHENBURG SYSTEM

Proceeding Dr. Williams favors the trial in America of the Swedish or Gothenburg system, which has been in operation for over 50 years, with results that are reported to be excellent.

Admit There is a Corner in Turkeys

Chicago, Jan. 30.—A movement is on foot among the leading restaurants of Chicago to wipe turkey off their menus as a result of the high price now being asked for the meat, and it is a possibility that an effort will be made to have the restaurants in all the leading cities take the matter up.

Inquiry among the produce dealers along Water street brings out the fact that practically no turkeys are being offered for sale. The dealers admit there is a corner, but will not confess to having been caught on short deliveries.

Farmers Sending Bad Butter to Toronto and Prices are Going Down

Toronto, Jan. 30.—A great many of the wholesale dealers in this city are complaining about the quality of the butter that is being unloaded upon the local market at the present time. While butter at this season is not supposed to be up to the mark attained by June butter, it is nevertheless supposed to be free from deleterious matter and objectionable tastes. But that is just where the complaint now comes in. In June the cows are on the grass; at present they are consuming fodder in the barns. The difference in the character of their food, however, scarcely, to the minds of dealers in the city, explains the difference in the quality of the output. The fact of the matter is that while the current season is always a poor season for the very best grades of butter, the present season has witnessed the sale of much more poor butter than is ordinarily the case. Since the first of the year the trend of the market has been downward, and this has perhaps served to accentuate the poor qualities of the butter offered. In a market characterised by buyant prices and scarcity of supplies the offerings would be cleaned up much more quickly and the presence of bad flavors would not be able to make themselves so generally felt. With a dragging market, as at present, involving a slow sale, the poor qualities of the butter are brought into the boldest relief. Most of the butter reaching the market now comes direct from the farmer, and is not store-packed, so that it is difficult to account for the exceptionally poor quality. A suggestion has been made that it may result from washing the butter in water that is not absolutely clear and devoid of noxious tastes. Wells were low last fall, and are still low, so that the butter may very reasonably have been tainted after this fashion. That such an explanation is tenable is seen from the fact that most of the big creameries pasturise all the water they utilise. One consignment was palpably musty in its flavor, but the farmer from whom it was procured was strong in his protestation that his cattle had been fed no musty fodder. Objection was taken by another dealer to the butter coming from a certain creamery, and the authorities of the latter could only suggest that the preservatives may have had an objectionable effect. It would appear, then, that the attempt to afford some satisfactory solution to the existing shape of the butter market is doomed to disappointment. The fact must be accepted that the product now being purveyed by dealers in the city is scarcely up to the mark.

FOUR LOSE THEIR LIVES IN FIRE AT ANCASTER--CAUSE A MYSTERY

Philip Vansickle, Son, Daughter and Son-in-Law Perish in Blaze at 10 O'Clock in Morning

GAS MAY HAVE OVERCOME THEM FIRST

Hamilton, Jan. 30.—Coroner Farmer, Ancaster, will hold an investigation into the fire in which Philip Vansickle, his daughter, Meletta, his son, Martin, and his son-in-law, Harry Vansickle, were burned to death this morning.

The affair is a profound mystery, but the authorities have started an enquiry.

The scene of the tragedy is about 15 miles west of Hamilton, near the Village of Jerseyville, Ancaster township.

About ten o'clock this morning neighbors discovered that the house of Philip Vansickle was on fire. When they reached the burning building they could see that the son, daughter and son-in-law were dead, and they devoted all their efforts to trying to save Philip Vansickle. They managed to get his body out, only to find that life was extinct. The bodies of the other three were cremated the house being burned to the ground.

The authorities have not had time to get much light on the tragedy. The fact that it happened at ten o'clock this morning has set all sorts of rumors afloat. Coroner Brandon reported the occurrence to Crown Attorney Washington, but could not give any particulars. Mr. Washington promptly ordered an inquest.

While rumors of crime are in the air, the most generally accepted theory is that the family were overcome with coal gas from a defective stove during the night and that they were unconscious and possibly dead before the house caught fire.

The Vansickles belong to the most widely known family in the Township of Ancaster. Nearly everybody in the township who does not bear that name is related to the family in some way. Elmer, a son of Philip Vansickle, is employed at the International Harvester Co., here; another is Edgar, who resides in Woodstock.

Mrs. Forbes' barn, at the corner of Barton and Wellington streets, was burned down at an early hour this morning. Neighbors say they heard revolver shots in the place before the fire broke out. There is a suspicion that some tramps were in the barn, that they fought and that one of them may have perished in the flames.

What Future for Laurier?

Montreal, Jan. 30.—The near return of the Hon. W. S. Fielding to Canadian shores has once more given rise to the rumors touching the succession to the Liberal leadership in the Canadian parliament and throughout the country.

The statement was made today that the prime minister was certainly booked for the high commissionership and that Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal had consented to retain the position for a little while longer, or at least until Sir Wilfrid Laurier considered the moment a safe one to hand over the mantle of leadership to his successor.

The members of the house of commons who reside in Montreal are as one in the belief that this change will take place even before another year passes away.

There are a few, however, who are not of the same opinion and who have set their mind on a still higher position for the gifted leader of the Liberal party. There are in fact members of the party in this city who declare that the natural successor to Lord Grey at Rideau Hall is no other than the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, they claim, will in the meantime be elevated to the British peerage. It would be perhaps a wrench at the constitution, but they say that the Asquith government have done more surprising things than to appoint a Canadian as governor-general of the Dominion and that consequently Sir Wilfrid is the man.

There is one obstacle, however, and one only, to prevent Sir Wilfrid's retirement from the leadership at a very early day, and yet it is understood that this difficulty can be got out of with a little diplomacy amongst the managers here in Quebec and by the adoption of the "Give and take" principle all around the party camp fire. It is stated that a very large percentage of the Quebec delegation to the House of Commons is determined that if Sir Wilfrid is to go, a French-Canadian must take his place at the head of the Liberal party.

These men point out that the party always failed to reach power, with one exception, with an English-speaking man as leader.

Now the question is who could be put forward as the successor of Sir Wilfrid and this question is answered by the mention of two names, those of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and Hon. L. P. Brodeur. As Mr. Brodeur is booked for the bench at a very early day, the choice has summered down to the post-master-generalship. Mr. Lemieux has not very many personal friends amongst the Quebec M.P.'s, although they are proud of his eloquence and of his meteor-like advancement.

Sunday Services

Yesterday was missionary Sunday in the George street Methodist church and both services were particularly bright and interesting. In the morning Rev. Dr. Shorey of Cobourg, a former pastor of both the George street and Charlotte street churches, were present and delivered a bright sermon. In the evening Rev. Mr. Stewart of West China, a returned missionary held the attention of the large congregation while he dwelt upon the missionary work being carried on in that part of the Chinese empire. The choir rendered special music and special collections in aid of missions were taken up.

A memorial service in honor of the late Archbishop Sweatman of Toronto, was held in All Saints' church on Sunday morning and was very largely attended. Special hymns were sung and special psalms were chanted. The anthem was "On the Resurrection Morning." Rev. Mr. Trumpour occupied the pulpit and delivered a most feeling and interesting discourse. He took his text from the first ten verses of Ecc. 3. His first point was an outline of the late archbishop's career. The next was an explanation of his work and how it had been affected by his election, referring to the two factions which had been fighting, and which even yet were in existance. When late archbishop was elected it was not the time for an aggressive leader. It demanded a man of quiet strength who would conciliate the two parties.

Rev. Mr. Trumpour also dwelt upon the character of the departed. He had reserve and beneath that was strength, warmth and sympathy. Then there was his simplicity of life, sincerity, devotion to his duty and christian character. In fact the late archbishop had all those qualities which go to make up a good christian gentleman.

A special sermon to men and a full male choir were the attractions at St. Andrew's church last night, and there was a large congregation present. The choir rendered splendid music which was greatly appreciated by everyone. Rev. J. G. Potter occupied the pulpit and delivered an excellent sermon, taking as his subject, "And the witnesses who stoned Stephen laid their clothes at the feet of a young man called Saul." Stephen was a young man who preached the gospel in the early days and who was among the early martyrs who died for the cause.

Saul was just the opposite, and went about the country endeavoring to destroy christianity, and to stamp out all the followers of the Lord. Still Stephen was the ideal man and he lived again in the life of one who stood by and saw him stoned. The reverend gentleman made a strong plea to the men to follow in the footsteps of such men as Stephen. There was not a man so bad but that he could be saved if the rescuers had sufficient faith in the All Powerful. Saul was among the most persistent enemies of christianity, yet he became one of its strongest advocates.

Charged with Murdering His Brother-in-law

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Jan. 30.—Theodore Adams, employed in the railroad round house at Hopewell Junction, was arrested today and charged with the murder of his brother-in-law, John Kliff, of that place, after Mrs. Kliff had accused Adams of robbing her.

Kliff was the proprietor of a lunch room in Hopewell Junction, and was killed last Sunday morning, it was believed, by two men who entered the restaurant ostensibly to purchase a bag of tobacco. As Kliff turned his back upon the men he was struck by a heavy bolt and his skull was fractured. He died a few hours later. The men then entered Mrs. Kliff's sleeping room in the rear of the restaurant, fractured her skull with a blow, and took about $700 from under her pillow.

Mrs. Kliff has been unconscious in the Vassar Hospital, and Adams has been under police surveillance.

Amendments to Treaty

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—Manitoba's ungratefulness in returning such a Conservative majority in the recent federal election is going to be punished.

And Ontario's unexpectedly good behavior toward the Liberal administration is to be suitably rewarded.

And it will be province against province, too.

At least, that's the opinion in "well-informed" quarters.

It will all come to pass over the boundary question. Manitoba has asked for a great deal. Both Manitoba and Ontario would like, for instance, to have Fort Churchill, on Hudson Bay.

Ontario's prospect have brightened considerably since Manitoba's premier's, the Hon. Mr. Roblin campaigned so vigorously for R. L. Borden. Not that Sir James Whitney didn't assist the federal opposition leader, but Sir James didn't use the language that the westerner did.

Dummer Women Took Dose of Carbolic Acid and Died Soon After

Warsaw, Jan 30.—Word has reached here of the death of Mrs. Gilliam, who lived four miles from this place on Thursday night as the result of taking a big dose of carbolic acid from the effects of which she died about twenty minutes afterwards. With her son an dother relatives unable to do anything for her. Mrs. Gilliam was apparently in good spirits on Thursday night, and about nine o'clock retired to another room for a few minutes, and there took several teaspoonfuls of carbolic acid in water. When she returned to her family she asked that they should take off her boots as she desired to lie down for a few minutes. Her request was obeyed, but a few minutes afterwards her son noticed that she was ill and she rapidly grew worse. Word was sent to Warsaw to Dr. Munro but Mrs. Gilliam had passed away before he reached her home.

The only reason that can be assigned for her self inflicted death is that a sister of the deceased residing in Havelock has been so seriously ill that her life was despaired of and Mrs. Gilliam had been worrying very much over this and it is supposed that in a fit of despondency she took the carbolic acid.

Mrs. Gilliam came to this township about a month ago from Havelock and was not very well known in this district.

The funeral will take place at Havelock where the relatives reside.

The Thirty-Eighth Annual Meeting

The thirty-eighth annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Dominion Bank was held at the Banking House of the institution in Toronto, on Wednesday, Jan. 25, 1909, and the exceptionally satisfactory financial statement was presented. During the past year a twelve per cent. dividend was paid in four equal installments, making a total of $473,462 64, that was given to the shareholders. The balance carried forward was $302,996 08, so that the institution is in splendid condition to start the new year. The reserve fund now totals nearly $5,000,000. Such a statement in the face of the financial conditions prevailing last year is indeed creditable to the president, Mr. E. B. Osler, M.P., and the Board of directors are to be congratulated. The Dominion Bank is one of the strongest and most carefully and wisely conducted charter banks in Canada.

A paragraph from the president's report is as follows;—"At the annual meeting in January, 1908, your directors in their report to the shareholders made reference to the unusual financial conditions then prevailing, and the policy which it was considered advisable to pursue in conducting the affairs of the bank. Since a marked change has taken place—there has been a steady contraction in the trade of the country, and the demand for banking accommodation has been limited, although we now find an improvement in this respect and can confidently look for a gradual expansion in business. A crop somewhat above the average was harvested and the proceeds distributed throughout the country, which has tended largely to increased deposits. From the cause just named cash reserves of the bank have been particularly strong for some months, and the percentage of liquid assets is exceptionally high."

Branches have been opened up in several new localities and several new buildings were erected where needed, altogether the year's business has been very satisfactory. See another column for full details of the Dominion Bank's standing.

Rev. Father Twoney Passed Away in Belleville

Rev. Father Twomey, parish priest of Belleville, died very suddenly Saturday morning in Belleville. He had been ailing for the past ten days, but not seriously so. Saturday morning, however, serious symptoms developed and the deceased sank rapidly and passed away at eleven o'clock. The news was received here with deep sorrow as the Rev. Father Twomey was well known here. The first announcement of his death was made in St. Peter's church Sunday morning. The deceased was about 55 years of age. He had been in Belleville for the past four years, going there from Tweed. He leaves a brother Rev. Dean Twomey of Williamstown, and one sister in Cornwall. The funeral will be held on Tuesday morning, and will be attended by a number from this city.

Letter to The Editor

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—As a citizen, and one who is much interested in the good and welfare of our splendid city, I would like to express my opinion on the much discussed question regarding the maintainence of our present fire chief. While the chief has had a very difficult task to perform in the organisation of a new brigade, he taking hold upon the resignation of the old volunteer brigade, I believe he now has a brigade of much efficiency. The city has been most fortunate in not having any very serious fires since the installation of the new brigade but should a disastrous fire occurr, I believe the chief and his men are equal to the occasion, believing him to be the right man in the right place as a fire fighter. On the other hand I believe the chief has made a very serious mistake, in many ways, and that he should be severely censured with a final warning.

Let him that is without fault cast the first stone. In consideration of his wife and family at this period of the year I hope our mayor and city aldermen will approve of a final chance for the chief. All things considered, this would not be asking more than any one of us would wish under similar conditions.

Yours sincerely,
CITIZEN.

Interesting Subject

A very interesting subject has been chosen for tonight's young people's meeting in St. Paul's church, in the "Life of John Matheson. He was one of the leading preachers in his time and was also the author of the hymn, "Oh love that will not let me go." He was blind, having lost his eyesight about the time he graduated from college. At the same time he was in love with a young woman to whom he went after his affliction, and offered her her freedom. This she accepted and in his sorrow he returned home and wrote the above hymn.

Earl Grey Seems Likely to Succeed Lord Minto as Viceroy of India

Visit of Lord Morley to Ottawa Gives Rise to Rumor which Has Many Substantiating Features--Would be Fourth to Go

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—The visit of Lord Morley, secretary of state for India, to Ottawa as the guest of his Excellency Earl Grey, is regarded as significant in official circles.

It is believed to foreshadow an announcement from London that Earl Grey will be appointed viceroy of India at the expiration of his term at Rideau Hall. It is not expected, however, that his excellency will sever his Canadian connection before December.

In view of the difficult problems presented in the great eastern dependency and the remarkable ability and tact Lord Minto has exhibited in handling them, an extension of his regime would not have been improbable had the situation otherwise been favorable. But Lady Minto has suffered from the Indian climate, and but for the call of duty he might, as was indeed rumored, have resigned before the regular expiry of his term. And it is thought unlikely that he would be prepared to accede to a request that he should remain in the country till it became more settled.

Political rumor is inclined to look for the appointment of Earl Grey, the present governor-general of Canada, as the next viceroy of India. It is noteworthy that there is an evident tendency to regard the premier self-governing British state as a good field for preparation for the more responsible, because more powerful viceroyalty. Lord Dufferin went to India in 1884, after being between 1872 and 1878 governor-general. Lord Lansdowne went straight from Canada to India in 1888, and Lord Minto was slated for India before his term as governor-general expired in 1904.

Much can be said in support of Earl Grey's claims. He has won golden opinions in Canada, and the precedent set by the transfer of Lord Minto, his brother-in-law, appears likely to be followed.

The viceroy of India receives an honorarium of 20,833 rupees per month, or something over $100,000 in year.

Says Prohibition is Not the Solution

Dr. Henry Williams, whose articles on alcohol in McClure's Magazine have been arousing wide attention, discusses the cure for the evil in the February number.

Dr. Williams' articles have been uncompromisingly against alcohol be... tific experiments prove, he said, that the smallest quantities of the poison are injurious to mankind, while the traffic as a whole works great national damage.

But Dr. Williams flatly disapproves of attempts at prohibitory legislation. An extract from his article is interesting:

"On purely physiological grounds, then, there would seem to be no valid objection to the total prohibition of the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages for popular consumption. But unfortunately the philosophical inquirer is not permitted to view the subject from this single standpoint. The problem is enormously complicated by its economic bearings. Considered merely as a commercial industry, the liquor traffic ranks, as we have seen, among result of such sumptuary legislation would be that within a few months the most important of business enterprises. Its diversified threads are woven everywhere into the fabric of modern social and industrial life. To remove them suddenly must result in serious injury to the fabric itself.

ECONOMIC RESULTS.

"Metaphors aside, it requires no wide grasp of economic principle to comprehend that a business enterprise representing invested capital to the amount of more than a billion dollars, supplying government revenue by hundreds of millions, and furnishing the exclusive means of support to more than two million persons in America alone, could not be suddenly legislated out of existence without entailing the most serious and far-reaching financial consequences. The direct and obvious result would be that some thousands of costly factories would become valueless; and that some hundreds of thousands of workmen would suddenly be thrown out of employment, and that new and exceptional means of taxation would have to be at once resorted to for the repletion of the national and local treasuries.

"But this is only the beginning. The indirect, but no less inevitable of the abolition of the distilleries and breweries there would be scores of small illicit stills where now there is one legalised one. Within a few months of the abolition of the saloons, there would be scores of secret bars where now there is a single public one. Within a few months liquor of bad quality would be flooding across our borders through a thousand channels, despite the efforts of a legion of revenue officers. Meanwhile bands of hitherto law-abiding citizens would have become habitual law-breakers, and a vastly elaborated constabulary, judiciary, and correctional system would be at once required to render the new measures of repression other than openly farcial.

"And in the end the liquor problem would still be with us."

FAVORS GOTHENBURG SYSTEM

Proceeding Dr. Williams favors the trial in America of the Swedish or Gothenburg system, which has been in operation for over 50 years, with results that are reported to be excellent.

Admit There is a Corner in Turkeys

Chicago, Jan. 30.—A movement is on foot among the leading restaurants of Chicago to wipe turkey off their menus as a result of the high price now being asked for the meat, and it is a possibility that an effort will be made to have the restaurants in all the leading cities take the matter up.

Inquiry among the produce dealers along Water street brings out the fact that practically no turkeys are being offered for sale. The dealers admit there is a corner, but will not confess to having been caught on short deliveries.

Farmers Sending Bad Butter to Toronto and Prices are Going Down

Toronto, Jan. 30.—A great many of the wholesale dealers in this city are complaining about the quality of the butter that is being unloaded upon the local market at the present time. While butter at this season is not supposed to be up to the mark attained by June butter, it is nevertheless supposed to be free from deleterious matter and objectionable tastes. But that is just where the complaint now comes in. In June the cows are on the grass; at present they are consuming fodder in the barns. The difference in the character of their food, however, scarcely to the minds of dealers in the city, explains the difference in the quality of the output. The fact of the matter is that while the current season is always a poor season for the very best grades of butter, the present season has witnessed the sale of much more poor butter than is ordinarily the case. Since the first of the year the trend of the market has been downward, and this has perhaps served to accentuate the poor qualities of the butter offered. In a market characterised by buyers' prices and scarcity of supplies the offerings would be cleaned up much more quickly and the presence of bad flavors would not be able to make themselves so generally felt. With a dragging market, as at present, involving a slow sale, the poor qualities of the butter are brought into the boldest relief. Most of the butter reaching the market now comes direct from the farmer, and is not store-packed, so that it is difficult to account for the exceptionally poor quality. A suggestion has been made that it may result from washing the butter in water that is not absolutely clear and devoid of noxious tastes. Wells were low last fall, and are still low, so that the butter may very reasonably have been tainted after this fashion. That such an explanation is tenable is seen from the fact that most of the big creameries pasturise all the water they utilise. One consignment was palpably musty in its flavor, but the farmer from whom it was procured was strong in his protestation that his cattle had been fed no musty fodder. Objection was taken by another dealer to the butter coming from a certain creamery, and the authorities of the latter could only suggest that the preservatives may have had an objectionable effect. It would appear, then, that the attempt to afford some satisfactory solution to the existing shape of the butter market is doomed to disappointment. The fact some must be accepted that the product now being purveyed by dealers in the city is scarcely up to the mark

Sunday Services

Yesterday was missionary Sunday in the George street Methodist church and both services were particularly bright and interesting. In the morning Rev. Dr. Shorey of Cobourg, a former pastor of both the George street and Charlotte street churches, were present and deliver d a bright sermon. In the evening Rev. Mr. Stewart of West China, a returned missionary held the attention of the large congregation, while he dwelt upon the missionary work being carried on in that part of the Chinese empire. The choir rendered special music and special collections in aid of missions were taken up.

A memorial service in honor of the late Archbishop Sweatman of Toronto, was held in All Saints' church on Sunday morning and was very largely attended. Special hymns were sung and special psalms were chanted. The anthem was "On the Resurrection Morning." Rev Mr. Trumpour occupied the pulpit and delivered a most feeling and interesting discourse. He took his text from the first ten verses of Ecc. 3. His first point was an outline of the late archbishop's career. The next was an explanation of his work and how it had been affected by his election, referring to the two factions which had been fighting, and which even yet were in existance. When late archbishop was elected it was not the time for an aggressive leader It demanded a man of quiet strength who would conciliate the two parties.

Rev. Mr. Trumpour also dwelt upon the character of the departed. He had reserve and beneath that was strength, warmth and sympathy. Then there was his simplicity of life, sincerity, devotion to his duty and christian character. In fact the late archbishop had all those qualities which go to make up a good christian gentleman.

A special sermon to men and a full male choir were the attractions at St. Andrew's church last night, and there was a large congregation present. The choir rendered splendid music which was greatly appreciated by everyone. Rev. J. G. Potter occupied the pulpit and delivered an excellent sermon, taking as his subject, "And the witnesses who stoned Stephen laid their clothes at the feet of a young man called Saul." Stephen was a young man who preached the gospel in the early days and who was among the early martyrs who died for the cause.

Saul was just the opposite, and went about the country endeavoring to destroy christianity, and to stamp out all the followers of the Lord. Still Stephen was the ideal man and he lived again in the life of one who stood by and saw him stoned. The reverend gentleman made a strong plea to the men to follow in the footsteps of such men as Stephen. There was not a man so bad but that he could be saved if the members had sufficient faith in the All Powerful. Saul was among the most persistent enemies of christianity, yet he became one of its strongest advocates.

Charged with Murdering His Brother-in-law

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Jan. 30.—Theodore Adams, employed in the railroad round house at Hopewell Junction, was arrested today and charged with the murder of his brother-in-law, John Kliff, of that place, after Mrs. Kliff had accused Adams of robbing her.

Kliff was the proprietor of a lunch room in Hopewell Junction, and was killed last Sunday morning. It was believed, by two men who entered the restaurant ostensibly to purchase a bag of tobacco. As Kliff turned his back upon the men he was struck by a heavy bolt and his skull was fractured. He died a few hours later. The men then entered Mrs. Kliff's sleeping room in the rear of the restaurant, fractured her skull with a blow, and took about $700 from under her pillow.

Mrs. Kliff has been unconscious in the Vassar Hospital, and Adams has been under police surveillance.

Philip Vansickle, Son, Daughter and Son-in-Law Perish in Blaze at 10 O'Clock in Morning

GAS MAY HAVE OVERCOME THEM FIRST

Hamilton, Jan. 30.—Coroner Farmer, Ancaster, will hold an investigation into the fire in which Philip Vansickle, his daughter, Meletta, his son, Martin, and his son-in-law, Harry Vansickle, were burned to death this morning.

The affair is a profound mystery, but the authorities have started an enquiry.

The scene of the tragedy is about 15 miles west of Hamilton, near the Village of Jerseyville, Ancaster township.

About ten o'clock this morning neighbors discovered that the house of Philip Vansickle was on fire. When they reached the burning building they could see that the son, daughter and son-in-law were dead, and they devoted all their efforts to trying to save Philip Vansickle. They managed to get his body out, only to find that life was extinct. The bodies of the other three were cremated the house being burned to the ground.

The authorities have not had time to get much light on the tragedy. The fact that it happened at ten o'clock this morning has set all sorts of rumors afloat. Coroner Brandon reported the occurrence to Crown Attorney Washington, but could not give any particulars. Mr. Washington promptly ordered an inquest.

While rumors of crime are in the air, the most generally accepted theory is that the family were overcome with coal gas from a defective stove during the night and that they were unconscious and possibly dead before the house caught fire.

The Vansickles belong to the most widely known family in the Township of Ancaster. Nearly everybody in the township who does not bear that name is related to the family in some way. Elmer, a son of Philip Vansickle, is employed at the International Harvester Co., here; another is Edgar, who resides in Woodstock. Mrs. Forbes' barn, at the corner of Barton and Wellington streets, was burned down at an early hour this morning. Neighbors say they heard revolver shots in the place before the fire broke out. There is a suspicion that some tramps were in the barn, that they fought and that one of them may have perished in the flames.

Rev. Father Twoney Passed Away in Belleville

Rev. Father Twomey, parish priest of Belleville, died very suddenly Saturday morning in Belleville. He had been ailing for the past ten days, but not seriously so. Saturday morning, however, serious symptoms developed and the deceased sank rapidly and passed away at eleven o'clock. The news was received here with deep sorrow as the Rev. Father Twomey was well known here. The first announcement of his death was made in St. Peter's church Sunday morning. The deceased was about 55 years of age. He had been in Belleville for the past four years, going there from Tweed. He leaves a brother Rev. Dean Twomey of Williamstown, and one sister in Cornwall. The funeral will be held on Tuesday morning, and will be attended by a number from this city.

Letter to The Editor

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Sir,—As a citizen, and one who is much interested in the good and welfare of our splendid city. I would like to express my opinion on the much discussed question regarding the maintainee of our present fire chief. While the chef has had a very difficult task to perform in the organization of a new brigade, he taking hold upon the resignation of the old volunteer brigade. I believe he now has a brigade of much efficiency. The city has been most fortunate in not having any very serious fires since the installation of the new brigade but should a disastrous fire occurr. I believe the chief and his men are equal to the occasion, believing him to be the right man in the right place as a fire fighter. On the other hand I believe the chief has made a very serious mistake, in many ways, and that he should be severely censured with a final warning.

Let him that is without fault cast the first stone. In consideration of his wife and family at this period of the year I hope our mayor and city aldermen will approve of a final change for the chief. All things considered, this would not be asking more than any one of us would wish under similar conditions.

Yours sincerely,

CITIZEN.

Amendments to Treaty

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—Manitoba's ungratefulness in returning such a Conservative majority in the recent federal election is going to be punished.

And Ontario's unexpectedly good behavior toward the Liberal administration is to be suitably rewarded.

And it will be province against province, too.

At least, that's the opinion in "well-informed" quarters.

It will all come to pass over the boundary question. Manitoba has asked for a great deal. Both Manitoba and Ontario would like, for instance, to have Fort Churchill, on Hudson Bay.

Ontario's prospect have brightened considerably since Manitoba's premier's, the Hon. Mr. Roblin campaign ed so vigorously for R. L. Borden. Not that Sir James Whitney didn't assist the federal opposition leader, but Sir James didn't use the language that the westerner did.

Who wouldn't give 25 cents to stop a pain 20 times? Just one little "Pink Pain Tablet"—Dr. Shoop's—will stop any pain in 20 minutes, sure! Read the formula on the box. Doctors say it can't be bettered. Checks womanly pains, head pains, any pain. 20 tablets 25c. Sold by all dealers.

Dummer Women Took Dose of Carbolic Acid and Died Soon After

Warsaw, Jan. 30.—Word has reached here of the death of Mrs. Gilliam, who lived four miles from this place on Thursday night as the result of taking a big dose of carbolic acid from the effects of which she died about twenty minutes afterwards, with her son an dother relatives unable to do anything for her. Mrs. Gilliam was apparently in good spirits on Thursday night, and about nine o'clock retired to another room for a few minutes and there took several teaspoonfuls of carbolic acid in water. When she returned to her family she asked that they should take off her boots as she desired to lie down for a few minutes.

Her request was obeyed, but a few minutes afterwards her son noticed that she was ill and she rapidly grew worse. Word was sent to Warsaw to Dr. Munro but Mrs. Gilliam had passed away before he reached her home.

The only reason that can be assigned for her self inflicted death is that a sister of the deceased residing in Havelock has been so seriously ill that her life was despaired of and Mrs. Gilliam had been worrying very much over this and it is supposed that in a fit of despondency she took the carbolic acid.

Mrs. Gilliam came to this township about a month ago from Havelock and was not very well known in this district.

The funeral will take place at Havelock where the relatives reside.

The Thirty-Eighth Annual Meeting

The thirty-eighth annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Dominion Bank was held in the Banking House of the institution in Toronto, on Wednesday, Jan. 25, 1909, and the exceptionally satisfactory financial statement was presented. During the past year a twelve per cent. dividend was paid in four equal installments, making a total of $473,462.64, that was given to the shareholders. The balance carried forward was $302,096.08, so that the institution is in splendid condition to start the new year. The reserve fund now totals nearly $5,000,000. Such a statement in the face of the financial conditions prevailing last year is indeed creditable to the president, Mr. E. B. Osler, M.P., and the Board of directors are to be congratulated. The Dominion Bank is one of the strongest and most carefully and wisely conducted charter banks in Canada.

A paragraph from the president's report is as follows;—"At the annual meeting in January, 1908, your directors in their report to the shareholders made reference to the unusual financial conditions then prevailing, and the policy which it was considered advisable to pursue in conducting the affairs of the bank. Since a marked change has taken place—there has been a steady contraction in the trade of the country, and the demand for banking accommodation has been limited, although we now find an improvement in this respect and can confidently look for a gradual expansion in business. A crop somewhat above the average was harvested and the proceeds distributed throughout the country, which has tended largely to increased deposits. From the cause just named cash reserves of the bank have been particularly strong for some months, and the percentage of liquid assets is exceptionally high."

Branches have been opened up in several new localities and several new buildings were erected where needed, altogether the year's business has been very satisfactory. See another column for full details of the Dominion Bank's standing.

Interesting Subject

A very interesting subject has been chosen for tonight's young people's meeting in St. Paul's church, in the "Life of John Matheson. He was one of the leading preachers in his time and was also the author of the hymn, "Oh love, that will not let me go." He was blind, having lost his eyesight about the time he graduated from college. At the same time he was in love with a young woman to whom he went after his affliction, and offered her her freedom. This she accepted and in his sorrow he returned home and wrote the above hymn.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

SUCCESSFULLY RESCUED

Mr. Harry Gibson, of Kingston, was rescued from an enemy that had relentlessly pursued him for years.

Mr. Gibson was born and brought up in Kingston. By profession he is a school teacher. He received his training in Queen's University, where he took a course in arts and medicine that well befits him to talk on almost any subject.

The enemy that for 25 years relentlessly pursued Mr. Gibson is a menace to our entire population—it is the demon, Catarrh.

Mr. Gibson says:—"For years I was never free from Catarrh of the nose and throat. It bothered me winter and summer and kept me so continually coughing and hawking that I found it a great impediment to the proper performance of my duties at school. I used every available means of obtaining a cure, took bottle after bottle of medicine prescribed by local doctors, but never got more than temporary relief. I consulted a well-known specialist in the States, but after spending a considerable amount of money with him to no advantage, was forced to look elsewhere for relief, which I first received from Catarrhozone.

I consider Catarrhozone a genuine cure for Catarrh. It drove that loathsome disease completely out of my system, and today I am as well as if I never knew what the word Catarrh implied."

A straightforward proof of cure coming from a well-known gentleman like Mr. Gibson carries conviction of the fact with it that Catarrhozone does all that is claimed for it. As a cure for Catarrh and Bronchitis it positively has no equal. All druggists, price $1; small size, 50 cents. By mail from Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

CALIFORNIA FEELING TOWARD THE JAPANESE

In the letter addressed to the California legislature by business men of San Francisco there is this paragraph:

We firmly believe that any action by the legislature which is directed at the Japanese residents of this state will be taken as an affront by the entire Japanese nation. The Oriental trade passing through the ports of this state has assumed large proportions and is likely to be seriously crippled by such proposed action.

This sensitiveness to possible trade developments is an interesting factor in the situation, and it is not peculiar to California. Seattle sets a high value on Japanese trade and is a dangerous competitor of San Francisco as a port. Business men of the two cities are bidding against each other in their endeavors to please the Japanese.

Influences are also at work on behalf of the Japanese among farmers and orchardists. These men may not have a great admiration for the Japanese character, but they want laborers and can procure Japanese when there are no whites in the market. Their immediate selfish interest is against any policy that would put an end to immigration. Probably they care much more about that than they do about the proposed state laws.

On the other side there is the intense anti-Japanese sentiment among the working people, while is uncompromising, as the following anecdote illustrates: An orange grower in northern California who was a candidate for the legislate last fall had a Japanese field hand. He would say undoubtedly that he employed the man from necessity. Now when he rode to the railroad station near his home the Japanese acted as his driver, and it happened that there was a large gang of white laborers engaged in construction work near the station. These men took note of candidate and driver every time they came to the train, and had so good a memory for them on election day that the candidate did not receive a single vote from the construction gang, whose voting strength, as it turned out, was sufficient to defeat him.

The controlling thought with the laborers is that of labor competition. Land and school laws are of secondary importance and, of course, they would have little pratical significance if immigration were prevented, except in so far as they might affect public sentiment in Japan. The farmers want help, the business interests are more concerned with merchandise than they are with men, so that there is a curious mix-up. But the sentiment that is most in evidence is distinctly unfavorable to immigration. If immigration can be kept down the probabilities are that the pursuit of the Japanese will be abandoned.

HORSES FOR THE FARM.

There are several types of horses that are excellent types for farm use. We are not going to undertake to say which is the very best type because we don't know, says a writer in Farmers Advocate. If some one else thinks he knows we have no quarrel with him. With some the so called general purpose horse is the favorite farm horse, while others reject this type with scorn. There is no agreement as to what is the general purpose horse.

TYPICAL COACH HORSE.

The writer is familiar with a certain community in Illinois where the French coach horse is bred and sold by farmers. Horse buyers go there from Chicago and other cities to buy these horses for the city markets as carriage horses. We know of a gelding from this community which was a first prize winner at the New York horse show. This fellow had been sold for $3,000 to go to New York. The farmers in that community have a right to be proud of their coach horses. And you couldn't convince them that the French coach horses are not general purpose horses. They are used for all farm purposes and fall in none. They weigh from 1,100 to 1,400 pounds. They are heavy enough to pull the plow in the field or a load of hay or grain to town. And, when it comes to hitching to the buggy or carriage to drive to town on any day of the week, surely no better horse can be found. Moreover, these horses are usually docile and breed unusually true to type. Who can dispute their title to being classed as general purpose horses? But that is far from saying that they are the best general purpose horses or the best farm horses. We have no quarrel with the man who is partial to them.

As for heavier horses, the Belgian, we are glad to say, is becoming increasingly common in this country. He is the extreme type of draft horse. He cannot be called a general purpose horse. There are some things he cannot do to the best advantage, but for the purposes to which he is adapted he is a very valuable horse. Even in draft horses there are several types. The Percheron is the most popular draft horse in this country, and he deserves about all that can be said in his favor. He is not quite so upstanding, has not always quite so impressive a "way of going" as the best Shires have. Neither, on the other hand, is he so massive, so wide, so close to the ground, not always so strongly muscled as the Belgian, but the Percheron is, of course, a true draft horse and deserves all his popularity and more. The Shires are attracting more and more attention at our great fairs and live stock shows, and their popularity is certain to increase.

It pays to raise the draft horse on the farm. But every man to his trade. Some men can handle one kind of horse and some another kind. Much depends on the kind of horse one has been trained to handle, and much depends also on one's taste in horseflesh. If you don't like the heavy horse, let him alone.

Prof. McLean's Career.

Simon James McLean, whom the Dominion Government has appointed a railway commissioner, is still a young man, but has had a very brilliant and creditable career.

He is about 38 years old, and was born near Ottawa, and received his early education in the Ottawa schools and Collegiate. He graduated from Toronto University in 1894 in political science, and took his LL.B. in 1895. He then went to Columbia University and received his M.A. and from there went to Chicago University where he took the degree of Ph.D.

He was appointed an associate professor in the University of Arkansas, and from there went to Leland Stanford University, of which he was acting head of a department for a time.

Lastly he came back to Toronto University, and for three years has been associate professor of political science there. Prof. McLean was well liked by the students, and was especially well up in his work. For such a young man he has done a great amount of research work, and has written much for various journals on railway and transportation problems as well as on banking and finance.

Rejects Undesirables.

Thomas Robinson, the recently appointed immigration officer at Windsor, has started in to conduct an aggressive campaign against the cheap alien labor which for some time has been flooding the western part of Ontario. He turned back a batch of 25 Poles who crossed over recently with dinner baskets, hoping to get work at the Windsor end of the tunnel. No attempt is being made to conduct retaliatory tactics as against the United States' head tax, which continues to be imposed upon Canadians going into the United States for the first time, but a strong effort will be made to keep out the objectionable class of foreigners which for some time past has been invading the country in ever-increasing numbers at border points.

Meets Five Bears.

Roy Coon, of Apsley, came across five bears in a field of marsh hay near his home a few days ago, and, having taken his gun with him, shot two of them. The other three disappeared in the woods near at hand, one of them carrying in his hide a shot that had failed to reach his vitals. Coon had with him only a few cartridges, as he did not expect to meet any game. The bears he killed were the mother and a well-grown cub.

....The.... Plow Woman

light of a lamp showed that not a bow, not an arrow, remained on the walls.

But there was no time for exclaiming or conjecturing. Oliver rushed back to the gallery and bade all the women and children collect and keep within quarters. Around it, under Sergeant Kippis, he stationed a cordon. Next, and while the house was being thoroughly wet down, the ammunition stores were drawn upon, and extra guns and cartridges were carried into the long reception room, where the women could assist in reloading. Barely three minutes had passed since Oliver sent his messengers. But headquarters was fixed to withstand an assault and to protect its inmates. And now, still ignorant of what had befallen, he ordered the remainder of his men into line.

At this point, with the detachment about to move, a volley of rifle shots sounded from the stockade, another and another. Then up went a great hubbub: "The Indians, the Indians!"

Oliver started his troopers double quick across the square. At the hospital one of the stockade guard stopped them.

"The Indians!" croaked Oliver.

"Gone!"

Oliver turned back.

They met a second man, black faced, staggering, frenzied with alarm. It was Fraser. He caught at the captain's ragged sleeve.

"Shot—other side—they're over there—those girls—those girls"— His breath failed him.

Oliver saw the need. "To the ferry," he commanded.

Like one man they bounded headlong across the parade, through the red smoke pouring from barracks and stables and on, only to come short upon a boatless landing, where they crowded upon each other and cursed.

Fraser was half crazed. Oliver took him forcibly in hand. No man of them all, even if not burdened with a gun, could stem the river's current.

"There's one chance yet," he said, "the night herd." He turned to his trumpeter. "Sound the recall and keep a-sounding it!"

Again and again the familiar strain rang out. All looked northward to where they knew the herd had been, to where the long curves of the prairie fire were still moving.

But the minutes went, and there was no answering beat of hoofs. Where were the herders? Why did they not obey?

Again, again and again!

Then to the south a reply! Above the spiteful crackling of the tindery buildings, out of the thinning dark, came a clear, eager neigh!

That way the troopers rushed. Gathering at the flagstaff they saw by the light of the burning piles a single horse come galloping toward them from the direction of the stockade. Her dun neck was arched like a charger's. As she swung proudly into an imaginary line the men greeted her with a cheer.

That greeting was echoed. Until now the Indians had been quiet, as quiet as a flock of scurrying grouse. But the river was between them and their enemy, and they felt secure from pursuit. Moreover, whisky was working. They were boisterous with it. Casting caution aside when they heard that cheer, they answered with defiant whoops.

The cheers of the troopers changed to anguished groans. One, wildly repeating a girl's name, sprang toward the waiting Buckskin. From headquarters came the sobbing of women, the whimpering of frightened children, and then, nearer and nearer, a dull pounding that swelled into the steady plud, plud of unshod hoofs.

Once more a cheer went up. A moment and a cavalcade swept in, a riderless cavalcade, with ropes dangling. It was the night herd, the discarded second choice mounts of the regiment's officers, a motley band that had served their country through more than one enlistment, and that, hearing the familiar summons—some limping, some bobbling—had followed the dun cayuse to answer it.

Down the bank and into a black, rolly whirl.

Now nooses were twisted about the noses of the horses. The troopers mounted. The trumpet sounded the advance.

Again came whoops from across the Missouri. They were farther away than the first.

"Go up—go up to the crossing!" Oliver ordered. "Fraser! Fraser!"

But the buckskin mare, with her master, far in advance of the twenty others, was already plunging down the bank and into a black, rolly whirl.

MY FREE TRIAL TREATMENT MAY CURE YOU

Kingston, June 6, 1908.

Dear Mrs. Currah: I feel so very much better after using the ten days' treatment of Orange Lily you were kind enough to send, that I will not require any more. In fact, I feel entirely well, and it is now a month since I stopped using the treatment. (Miss) F. T. W.

Similar letters to the above are not infrequent though, of course, such cases are not of long standing. Most women who have suffered for any length of time will require to use Orange Lily longer than the Free Trial Treatment in order to effect a complete cure, but in every case they will be benefited. Further, the benefit will be permanent whether they continue to use Orange Lily or not. It is not taken internally, and does not contain any alcohol or other stimulant. It is an applied treatment, and acts directly on the suffering organs. In all cases of women's disorders, these organs are congested to a greater or less extent, and Orange Lily will relieve and remove this congestion just as positively and certainly as the action of ammonia or soap on soiled linen. It is a simple chemical problem, and the result is always the same, a step towards better health and complete cure.

In order that every suffering woman may prove its good qualities, without cost, I will send enough of Orange Lily for 10 days' treatment absolutely free, to each lady who will send me her address. Mrs. E. F. Currah, Windsor, Ont.

Maple Leaf Mines, Limited

No Personal Liability

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided Into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia, Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont, Sec-Treas; Charle Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C. Ritchie, Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 868, containing 40 acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

One of these rich veins crosses this fraction and forms the discovery of same. With a total of 136 acres, 40 acres of which are in the rich Cobalt field, 60 acres in the new Bonanza district, with 200,000 shares in the treasury, for development purposes, with no purchase price to be charged against same, it would seem that this proposition, based on a capitalization of $150,000, was the very thing you have been waiting for.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 50 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 16th December, 1908, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. LeVesconte, 20 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties, in consideration of 800,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid and out of which he has set apart 200,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 8 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $300; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 5000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 16th of December, 1908.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

J. COLLINS DAVIES, Secretary, Orillia, Ont.

It was moved by A. W. Austin, seconded by Dr. A. Smith, that Mr. B. B. Osler do take the chair, and that Mr. C. A. Bogert do act as Secretary.

Messrs. A. R. Boswell and A. H. Campbell, jr., were appointed Scrutineers.

The Secretary read the Report of the Directors to the Shareholders, and submitted the Annual Statement of the affairs of the Bank, which is as follows:

To the Shareholders:

The Directors beg to present the following Statement of the result of the business of the Bank for the year ending 31st December, 1908:

RESERVE FUND.

Balance at credit of account, 31st December, 1907	$4,333,454.87
Transferred from Profit and Loss Account	148,274.75
	$4,481,731.62

At the Annual Meeting in January, 1908, your Directors in their Report to the Shareholders made reference to the unusual financial conditions then prevailing and the policy which it was considered advisable to pursue in conducting the affairs of the Bank. Since then a marked change has taken place—there has been a steady contraction in the trade of the country, and the demand for banking accommodation has been limited, although we now find an improvement in this respect, and can confidently look for a gradual expansion in business. A crop somewhat above the average was harvested, and the proceeds distributed through the country, which has tended largely to increase deposits. From the causes just mentioned the Cash Reserves of the Bank have been particularly strong for some months, and the percentage of liquid assets is exceptionally high.

In January, 1908, we took over Branches of the Sovereign Bank at Baden, Linwood, Marmora, Mount Albert, New Dundee and Pefferlaw. The Pefferlaw office was subsequently closed.

Branches have also been established at the corner of King and Wentworth streets, Hamilton, on Upper Sherbourne Street, Toronto, and at Wawota, Sask. It is our intention to shortly erect an office at the corner of St. Clair Avenue and Vaughan Road, Toronto, where a site has recently been purchased.

Further expenditures have been made at Avenue Road Branch, Toronto, at Fort William and Windsor, Ont., at the North End Branch, Winnipeg, at Selkirk and Deloraine, Man., and at Grenfell and Regina, Sask., to an extent fully warranted by the importance of the Bank's interests at these points.

In connection with the issue of $1,000,000 of new capital stock in 1907, it is worthy of note that the amount subscribed for has now been paid in full.

A Special Committee of your Directors has completed the customary verification of the General Balance Sheet of the Bank as on 31st December, 1908, including the certification of our funds in the hands of Foreign Agents. They have also examined and found correct the Cash Reserves, Investments and Securities as shown on the Statement presented.

B. B. OSLER,
President.

The Report was adopted.

The thanks of the Shareholders were tendered to the President, Vice-President and Directors for their services during the year, and to the General Manager and other Officers of the Bank for the efficient performance of their respective duties.

The following gentlemen were duly elected Directors for the ensuing year: Messrs. A. W. Austin, W. R. Brock, James Carruthers, R. J. Christie, J. C. Eaton, J. J. Foy, K. C., M.L.A., W. D. Matthews, A. M. Nanton and B. B. Osler, M. P.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Mr. B. B. Osler, M. P., was elected President, and Mr. W. D. Matthews, Vice-President, for the ensuing term.

Matrimonial Romance.

Particulars have just come to hand of a strange romance connected with the will under which an English lady recently left an estate of nearly £300,000 to several charities. The owner of the estate had not finally decided how to leave her money a month before her death. She was then in her seventieth year, and casually remarked to a friend: "I might marry again if a baronet came along." The remark was repeated by a third person to a matrimonial agent, who was in touch with a baronet looking for a rich marriage to replenish his financial resources. The baronet agreed with the agent to marry the lady on the understanding that £20,000 should be settled on him, £5,000 of this amount being due to the agent as commission. In due course the baronet was introduced. He proposed, and was accepted. Twenty-four hours later the owner of the property received an anonymous letter informing her of the whole circumstances. She at once broke off the marriage, sent for her lawyer, and left her whole estate to charity.

Mr. Justice Warrington.

Many good stories are told of the cases tried before Mr. Justice Warrington, who is one of the most genial judges on the English Bench. On one occasion he was listening to a case in which an Irishman was called as witness. His ignorance was painfully evident as soon as he stepped into the box. A young lawyer, in his cross-examination, tried his best to obtain some information from the witness which might prove helpful, but all to no purpose. Then he asked him if he had read anything in is life. "Yes, sir," was the reply. "Then, tell the court what you have read." "Well, yer honor," replied Pat, innocently, "I have red hairs on my neck."

Relic-Hunting Vandals.

Thundridge Old Church tower, in Hertfordshire, Eng., has been badly damaged by visitors during the summer. Portions of the ancient moulding have been chipped off and removed, and part of the head of a carved figure by the side of the doorway has also been taken away.

A GRAIN OF MUSK.

Perfume Diffuses Odor For Years Without Losing Weight.

Wonderful stories are told of the number of years that some of the old Egyptian perfumes last, but we need not go to Egypt to find a thing like that. We have it here in the common perfume, musk, says Chicago News. It is said that a grain of it will diffuse an oder through a room for twenty years, and you know, perhaps, that all perfumes give off their odor by sending their particles through the air—that is to say, by giving off all the time little parts of their own substance. How small, then, must these particles of musk be when after a continuous diffusion of them for twenty years the original grain has suffered no diminution of weight.

But you can find an illustration of this wonderful divisibility of matter nearer home. Ask a scientist about a drop of blood that falls from your cut finger, and he will tell you that it is a drop of liquid in which are floating a million red globules and that these give it its color. And these million globules may be divided into smaller globules still. Finally, take the familiar illustration of the thread spun by the spider. It is so fine that 25,000 miles of it would weigh only eight ounces, and yet it is made up of a thousand filaments.

Discovery of a Planet.

The glory of discovering the big planet belongs to two men. An astronomer in Cambridge and another in Paris, each quite ignorant of what the other was doing, applied themselves to the task simultaneously. Each independently declared that if the laws of motion and gravitation were true there must be at a certain spot in the heavens a certain mass of matter hitherto unknown to astronomers. The presence of such a mass of matter in such a place would account, they said, for the disturbances that had been noticed in the movements of Uranus.

Forces a Discharge.

"The Japanese servant has many curious traits," said the man who keeps one, "besides his constant habit of eating raw fish but he is inordinately polite, as a rule. For instance, he never will give you notice that he wishes to leave you. Instead his work will grow steadily worse and worse till you can't stand it any longer, and so you fire him. It's always done purposely to avoid the necessity of telling you outright that he is tired of you and wants to quit."

Social Analogy.

Mrs. Subbubs—That Mrs. Newcome just moved into the Dudley's old house on Saturday, so I called today. Mr. Subbubs—Well, well, how like poker this social game is! Mrs. Subbubs—How do you mean? Mr. Subbubs—Why, in poker you also "call" when you want to see what the other person's got.

The Missing Feature.

"That meadow scene looks far from natural," declared the stage manager.

"What can all it?"

"Begosh, I believe it's the absence of advertising signs!"

Sneaky.

Magistrate—Sneaky sort of man? What do you mean, sir? Witness—Well, sorr, he's the sort of man that'll never look ye straight in the face until your back's turned."

There's no phosphorescence in flowers to speak of, but they may lighten up many a darkened spot in life.—Manchester Union.

(2) A homesteader may, if he so desires, perform the required residence duties by living on farming land owned solely by him, not less than eighty (80) acres in extent, in the vicinity of his homestead. He may also do so by living with father or mother, on certain conditions. Joint ownership in land will not meet this requirement.

THE MARATHON BOOM.

New York, Jan. 30.—The Marathon boom that has had the country in its grasp in the last few months will reach its zenith on St. Patrick's night, March 17, when the big four of professional athletes—Alfred Shrubb, Johnny Hayes, Tom Longboat and Dorando Pietri—will measure strides in a race at the Marathon distance, 26 miles 385 yards, in Madison Square Garden.

The date for the big race was announced last night. That the contest will furnish a fitting climax for the series of race with which Pat Powers has been regaling the New York sporting public, goes without saying, when the calibre of the men who will strive for the laurels is taken into consideration.

CLEAN Up INSIDE

Blood and System Cleansing in the Spring Makes Good Health all Summer.

In spite of all your careful habits safe to say that in the spring you feel poorly—have a throbbing sensation in the head—skin is pale or yellow, with dark rings under the eyes. If not absolutely bilious the system is so full of bile that you feel heavy and tired all day long.

Clean up, work off the winter's accumulation of waste, purify your blood. Do this and you'll feel fresh as a prize-fighter. "For ten years," says W. S. Gangster, of Concord, "I suffered greatly from impure blood, which made me feel debilitated and unfit for work. I had no appetite, suffered from indigestion and gas, had some pains in the back, caused by poor kidney action. Spring was the hardest time of all, and many a time I felt despondent and languid enough to throw up the sponge. I was impressed by the marvellous work done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills and tried them. They suited me exactly. In one week I felt like new. I was braced up, got rid of blood weakness, gained in flesh, got back my old time appearance and spirits. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will clean all the sickness out of a man in short order and I urge young and old to use this grand tonic medicine."

Didn't Know

Coffee was the Cause

Many daily habits, particularly of eating and drinking are formed by following our elders.

In this way ill health is often fastened upon children. A Ga. lady says:

"I had been allowed to drink coffee ever since I can remember, but even as a child I had a weak stomach which frequently refused to retain food.

"The taste of coffee was in my mouth all the time and was, as I found out later, the cause of the stomach rebelling against food.

"I now see that it was only from following the example of my elders that I formed and continued the miserable habit of drinking coffee. My digestion remained poor, nerves unstrung, frequent headache, and yet I did not suspect the true cause.

"Another trouble was a bad, muddy complexion for which I spent time and money for creams, massaging, etc., without any results.

"After I was married I was asked to try Postum, and would you believe it, I, an old coffee toper, took to Postum from the very first. We made it right—according to directions on the pkg. and it had a most delicate flavour and I at once quit coffee, with the happiest results.

"I now have a perfectly clear, smooth skin, fine digestion and haven't had a headache in over two years."

"There's a Reason."

OBITUARY

MRS MICHAEL CADIGAN.

The second child within two weeks of Mr. John Cronan, passed away Saturday night about ten o'clock, in the person of Nellie Cadigan, wife of Michael Cadigan, Concession St., Ashburnham. The death is a severe shock to the relatives and friends as the deceased was in the prime of life, being only 40 years of age. She was a native of Peterborough, and had a very large circle of friends. Besides a sorrowing husband, two children with one brother and two sisters are left to mourn her loss. funeral will be held Tuesday morning and mass will be said in St. Peter's cathedral. Interment will take place in the R.C. cemetery.

Special Prayers in St. John's Church

Just before the sermon yesterday morning in St. John's church Rev. Canon Davidson referred to the funeral of the late Archbishop Sweetman of Toronto. Rev. Canon Davidson was one of 140 of the clergy present at the last sad rites on Wednesday last. In speaking of the death of the beloved archbishop, Canon Davidson referred to it as being beautiful and peaceful, and it should be a lesson to all to live in the Lord so that they might receive the message as peacefully and joyously as he did.

In all the churches in the diocese special memorial services were held, but that service took place in St. John's last Sunday night upon the receipt of the sad news. However, the special prayers were said and a specially appropriate hymn was sung as a recessional.

Relief Association, is now making preparations to start on his long annual journey to the western provinces on the same mission. Mr. Tully will leave today, and will go direct to Winnipeg, where he will remain for a few days before journeying further west. He intends paying more attention to his work in Saskatchewan than he has done in former years, and will make Regina, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Maple Creek and Prince Albert as his headquarters. He expects it will be at least three months before he returns, and will visit all the Oddfellows' lodges in Saskatchewan and parts Alberta and Manitoba.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

Storms Prevail in the United States

New York, Jan. 30.—The local weather bureau has received the following special from Washington; Northwest storm warnings ordered displayed at 12 noon from Baltimore to New York. Severe storm over Illinois moving east. Increasing south-west winds shifting to south-west, and becoming high this evening. Westerly gales shifting to north-west by night.

A TERRIBLE BLIZZARD.

MILES OF WIRE DOWN.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Telegraph service to points west and north of Chicago was almost completely severed today by the worst storm of the season. Scores of telegraph poles and miles of wire in many sections were borne down and rendered useless by the high winds and the heavy snowfall.

The telegraph service of railroads was almost hopelessly crippled. It was reported that many trains had been abandoned in Northern Iowa. Washouts were reported numerous in that section.

West of Kansas City all wire service ceased in the early hours.

WIND AT 72 MILES.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 30. —Belated weather bureau reports received here give a maximum wind velocity of 72 miles an hour at Kansas City, 70 miles at Springfield, Mo., and 56 miles at Cairo, Ills. The Farmer's Wife is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sweet it will make the better butter and much butter. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and intestines and adjoining ducts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best secrets known to medical science for the cure of [illegible] conditions, as attested by the writings of leading doctors and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skilfully and harmoniously blended in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. THE BOHEMIAN FOR FEBRUARY

There are nine short stories, a portfolio of pictures, showing the striking scenes from current plays, and five special articles. The special articles are: "The Character Club," by Burges Johnson. The question is, do the characters in current novels act as they would if they were real men and women in life going about ordinary routine duties? Mr. Johnson deals with this question in this article in an exceedingly clever fashion. The cartoons are by F. Strothmann. "Why Some Plays Fail" is a critical examination of some recent plays to see why the public could not be induced to support them. "Tobacco and the Tobacco Habit," by Carl Werner. This entertaining article by an authority on tobacco tells just how opposition to tobacco developed in the first place. Furthermore, the facts are a striking illustration of the part the weed is playing in the affairs of men. "The Cartoonists of the Middle West," by Raymond Roy Olson. This feature is illustrated by caricature pictures of themselves drawn by the cartoonists.

Penny-a-Word Cables Impossible

London, Jan. 30.—A pessimistic note was struck at the meeting of the Norwegian Chamber of Commerce about penny-a-word cables. Sir F. London, Ont., Jan. 30.—Local option in Ekfrid Township is defeated by he narrowest of margins.

On January 4 the vote resulted, for local option 269, against 265, the majority being exactly the requisite 50 per cent.

But before Judge MacBeth yesterday at Appin it was shown that two voters, Donald McRae and Wm. Siddall, had not been on the voters' list. The latter was present, and acknowledged he had voted local option. Minus his vote, the majority is insufficient to carry by two-fifths of a vote.

The deputy returning officer explained that he knew McRae and Siddall were entitled to vote, and he took it for granted that their names had been in the voters' lists.

City Council Receive Committee Reports Short Session Held

The council meeting last night was a very orderly one after the report of the Fire, Water & Light Committee had been disposed of. Only routine business was put through such as reading committee reports, communications and passing bylaws.

Those present were Mayor Rush, Aldermen Phelan, Morrow, McIntyre, Metheral, Turner, Gillespie, Bradburn, Buller, Morgan, Duncan, Duffus and Hicks.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were adopted as read.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were received and referred to their respective committees;—

From Edward Armstrong, applying for the position of assessor.

From W. J. Stacey, secretary-treasurer of the Teachers' Institute, notifying the council that the grant of $25 to the Institute was due.

From 26 ratepayers at Auburn, drawing the attention of the council to the lack of fire protection in that portion of the city on the east side of the river, and north of South street. The petitioners asked that the water mains be extended early this year as they have no protection from fire whatever. By the time the brigade gets there the chemicals are no good as the fire has gained such headway. As an example the recent fire on the Douro side of Concession street was instanced.

From W. J. Strike applying for position of assessor.

From Harry Thompson, applying for position of assessor.

From Dumble & Johnston, notifying the council that Wm. Stock and Son, claim $100 damages from the city on account of an accident to one of their rigs on Tuesday last, caused by the improper grading of Concession street.

From John Corkery, secretary-Separate School Board, presenting the board's demand for the year of $9,333.

From the secretary of the Union of Canadian Municipalities, asking this city to become a member, and asking to arrange to have a delegate sent to the annual meeting in the summer.

From the carters of the city of Peterborough, asking the council to allow them to raise their rates to 50 cents per hour for singles, and $1 per hour for doubles. The carters claim the rates were always too low and that now hay and oats, etc., have advanced considerably.

From the Salvation Army Band asking the city for a grant of $200 towards the maintenance of the organization.

From the cement and concrete exhibition, inviting the mayor, aldermen and city officials to attend their first annual convention and exhibition to be held at St. Lawrence Arena, Toronto, on March 1st to 6th, 1909.

From John Holland, asking a refund of taxes on lot 40, plan 70, Inverlea street, for the past three years, and to have the assessment for 1909 fixed. He has been assessed for 45 feet and only owns 37 feet.

From R. F. McGregor, applying for the position of assessor for 1909, providing the salary be made $700.

From John Malone, applying for position of assessor.

From Wm. Van Every, applying for position of assessor.

From John A. Robertson, secretary Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association, enclosing the inspector's report.

From residents on south side of Rink street west of George, asking that a water main be extended from Aylmer street east, 400 feet, as they are badly in need of water, their wells having gone dry. They also asked that a hydrant be placed on the street also.

MORE FIRE PROTECTION.

In connection with the petition from Auburn residents for fire protection, a deputation was present on their behalf, and Mr. Jas. Kendry addressed the council. He pointed out the great necessity of some fire protection, as at present they have absolutely no protection, yet they have always paid their share of the taxes.

Mr. Kendry also asked to have Dunlop street fixed up and the hill cut down a little.

Another gentleman spoke and assured the council that they needed some protection.

The matter was referred to the Fire, Water & Light Committee.

The reports of the various committees were then read and adopted.

BYLAWS.

Bylaw No. 1432 was a bylaw to authorise the agreement for filling in the water front on the river Otonabee, and settling the difference between Mrs. Rogers, the C.P.R., the Peterborough Ceral Co., and the City of Peterborough.

Bylaw No. 1433 was a bylaw respecting the delivery of Portland cement for 1909.

Bylaw No. 1434 was a bylaw confirming the appointment of assessors for 1909.

Bylaw No. 1435 was a bylaw to authorize the execution of a conveyance of a portion of Murray street to the Wm. Hamilton, Mfg. Co. Ltd.

Bylaw No. 1436 was a bylaw to authorize the appointment of the commissioners of the City Trust.

Moved by Aldermen Gillespie and Turner, that the thanks of the City Council be extended to the Ministerial Association, Rev. F. A. Pearson and the choir of the George street Methodist church.

Stony Lake Cottagers at Council Meeting

A deputation from the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association, waited upon the Committee of the Whole Council last night with reference to the proposed opposition on the part of the city to the Street Railway Company's application to the Legislature for an extension of time to build their road to Stony Lake. The deputation was composed of Messrs. D. W. Dumble, R. Neill, F. Brownscombe, R. G. Kamm and J. H. Knapp.

Mr. [illegible] addressed the committee and stated that the association was very strongly opposed to an extension of time. They wanted a road and wanted it as soon as possible. He pointed out many good things to be derived by the construction of this road.

The council assured the deputation that they would endeavor to secure from the Radial Railway Company a statement that the road would be built in the next year or two.

This was satisfactory to the deputation.

FIRE CHIEF HOWARD IS GIVEN A CHANCE TO REDEEM HIMSELF

City Council Meeting One of the Warmest in the History of the City

DISORDERLY CROWD AT THE MEETING

Chief Howard remains at the head of the fire department. The aldermen by a vote of 7 to 5 decided last night to give him another chance. In future, however, it's the straight and narrow path for the chief.

One of the liveliest meetings ever held in the City Council Chamber was that which took place last night. The cause was the report of the Fire, Water & Light Committee on the investigation into Ald. W. J. Johnston's charges against Chief Howard.

The council chamber was crowded and many had to stand. The audience was a noisy one too, and at times even carried their disorder too far. The aldermen who supported the committee's recommendation were loudly applauded, while those who desired to give the chief a chance to make good were hissed by a few of the onlookers.

Chief Howard

as the Peterborough Fire Department.

The aldermen themselves mixed it uppretty well and in the heat of the debate some things were said which threw a little new light on the matter. Still with all the difference of opinion the aldermen were in earnest in their statements and honestly voiced their convictions.

Ald. Buller read the report of the Fire, Water & Light Committee including the report on the investigation into the charges made by ex-Ald. W. J. Johnston, which has been referred to in these columns already.

Ald. Buller made the statement that he intended to support the chief and moved the following amendment to the report;—

Moved by Ald. Buller and Ald Turner, that the report of the Fire, Water & Light Committee be amended by striking out the second paragraph of section 3, and substituting therefore the following;—"In view of Chief Howard's services in organizing the permanent brigade, and his abilities as head of the department, although he has been indiscreet and ill judicious; and in view of his promise of amended conduct, he be given an opportunity to show that he will keep his promise, and that as thus amended the report be adopted.

The original motion was as follows;—

In reference to these charges we beg to report that to Chief Howard is due the credit for organizing the permanent brigade in the face of many obstructions, but while doing so and afterwards we would judge from the evidence produced, the chief has been indiscreet, and his actions have left him open to criticism to such an extent as to convince us that the best interests of the city would not be served by his remaining at the head of the fire department.

Aldermen Morgan and Duncan moved that the report be adopted as read.

Ald. Hicks stated that three out of the four members of the Fire, Water & Light Committee were in favor of the report. It was strange that this amendment should come in at this time. Ald. Hicks said that at first he did not think there was anything in ex-Ald. Johnston's charges. But at the last meeting of the committee the particular charge referred to, took a more serious turn, and he could not see his way clear to give the chief another chance.

The Aldermen Mix It Up Among Themselves —Considerable Cross-Firing at Times

THE VOTE WAS SEVEN TO FIVE FOR THE CHIEF

Ald. Turner in reference to the amendment, said that he strongly opposed the wording of the clause in the report and wanted to give the chief another chance. He did not want to see any official run away with the city's funds. He would not state any specified time to keep the chief on, but at any time if the chief fails in any way he would be one of the first to call for the chief's resignation.

Ald. Morgan said he was elected to do the people's business in a business-like manner. This was no reformatory for city officials. There was one of those institutions in Toronto. One charge against the chief was booze. He was brought here because he was supposed to be a far superior man. Yet he has not made good, and does no mean to make good. Ald. Morgan attacked several members of the council for supporting the chief in the face of the evidence produced.

Ald. Buller in reply to Ald. Morgan stated that Ald. Morgan did not speak the truth. He stated that it was just such men as Alderman Morgan that the chief was led to his downfall, and those men went out for the purpose of killing the chief who unfortunately fell into their trap.

Ald. Metheral stated that he was at the investigation, and could not see where any unbiased man who was elected by the people could support the chief. The chief has betrayed the confidence the city has placed in him. In closing Ald. Metheral stated that he could not vote for the amendment.

Ald. Duncan stated that he agreed with Ald. Hicks all through. He did not think the chief would ever make good.

Ald. Duffus stated that he felt that if the council turned the chief down now, it would kill him for ever. Personally he felt for the chief, but he could not, as a business man, vote for him although he was sorry not to do so.

This wound up the discussion and the yeas and nays on the motion to adopt the report without the amendment were called for and resulted as follows;—

Yeas—Aldermen Hicks, Duffus, Duncan, Morgan, Mayor—5.

Nays—Ald. Phelan, Morrow, McIntyre, Turner, Gillespie, Bradburn and Buller—7.

The vote on Ald. Buller's amendment to retain the chief resulted by the same men voting in the opposite to the above.

Thus Chief Howard has been given another opportunity to make good.

His worship stated that he would strongly refuse to the chairman of the Fire, Water & Light Committee that if ever the chief was known to take another drink of liquor he be dismissed.

At this point Ald. Morgan interrupted and said that if the chief could not be dismissed on the evidence produced, he would like to know what was needed.

Ald. Buller arose to speak amid a disorderly demonstration on the part of a few of the hot heads in the audience. Nevertheless, Ald. Buller was not frightened and by standing by his convictions proved that he was not catering to that class of residents. He stated that as long as he was chairman of the Fire, Water & Light Committee he would guarantee that Chief Howard and every other official that was under the jurisdiction of his committee would live up to the mark or he would be the first to take steps to have them dismissed. He also stated that during the investigation there was considerable prejudice against the chief, and that Ald. Morgan especially so from the very first.

Ald Morgan asked Ald Buller to prove his statement that he (Ald Morgan) had been prejudiced. Thus Ald. Buller refused to do so, stating that he was prejudiced.

Mr. Stevenson was appointed for five years, suggested by Ald Duncan.

The following nominations were made;—

W. H. Moore, four years.
R. Hall, three years.
T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., two years.

The vote was taken on R. Neill and he got five votes.

The vote was taken for E. F. Mason and he got six votes.

Another vote was taken for R. Neill and he got six votes.

The tie was put up to his worship and he voted for Ex-Ald. Neill.

PROPOSED NEW DAM AND POWER HOUSE AND PLANT TO BE MODERN

13,000 ELECTRIC HORSE POWER

In connection with the engineer's report to the Water Commissioners re the proposed new dam, power house, etc., Mr. T. F. Matthews, chairman of the commission received the following letter from Mr. Wm. Kennedy, jr., of Montreal, who made the report;—

T. F. Matthews, Esquire,
Chair Water Commissioners;

Sir,—I am sending you today by Dominion Express, three blue prints in duplicate, preliminary designs and plans for the proposed new dam, pump house, and pumping plant for your town.

The dam is intended to be constructed of concrete piers, built on a solid concrete base or low dam—the latter founded on rock bottom—with sluices between the piers of sufficient capacity to discharge the entire flow of the river at high water periods without causing flooding or unduly high back water in the pond; the sluices to be closed or partially closed, by stop logs as may be required, to control the river discharge; thus making available the entire low water river flow for power purposes. The stop logs will be handled by power winches, probably electrically worked.

There will be a log slide in the dam; and the dam throughout its entire length will be covered by a steel re-inforced concrete floor or bridge.

The pump house situated at the westerly end of the dam, will have concrete foundations, penstocks and forebays,—all founded on rock bottom, with rock bottom wheel pits and tail races.

The superstructure will be of brick, with iron window sashes; steel concrete floors in the pipe vault and machinery room; thus being of the most durable construction and absolutely fireproof.

The pumping plant will consist of one new unit of 3,000,000 imperial gallons capacity per 24 hours when pumping against 115 pounds pressure in the air vessel, for fire purposes; also, the two 2,250,000 gallons each pumping units in the present pump house. The new unit will be first installed and set to work, after which the old units will be repaired, if necessary, and removed to the new pumping station; thus providing an uninterrupted water supply to the town. The pumping capacity will then be 7,500,000 gallons per day, for provision in the pump house for an additional unit of 3,000,000 gallons, thus ultimately providing for 10,500,000 gallons per diem.

The pump house will be well lighted, and provided with a travelling crane capable of handling any part of the machinery in the building.

There will be a concrete docked crib, situated in the pond, for the intake or suction pipe, with center well and revolving screens for convenient cleaning.

The suction and discharge pipes will be well supplied with stop valves for cutting off any pump or set of pumps, as may be necessary.

It is intended that the dam, pump house and pumping plant, in fact the entire development, shall be so designed, constructed, and equipped as to be thoroughly modern and efficient throughout, as well as absolutely fireproof. The materials of construction will be almost entirely of concrete, iron and steel, thus securing the greatest degree of permanence, and reducing the cost of maintenance and operation to a maximum.

The estimated cost of the dam with with bridge, power house, intake crib, 7,500,000 gallons capacity pumping plant installed complete with suction and discharge pipes, valves, etc., is $117,000. This sum includes 12 1-2 per cent. for contingencies, also 5 per cent. for engineering and inspection, but does not include land, legal or financing expenses.

With more time to command and detail plans fully worked out I expect the cost will be reduced from this preliminary estimate, but I deem it advisable that the amount should exceed rather than fall far short of the actual cost.

I may remark that it is the intention to provide a continuous roadway across the dam, thus requiring slight changes from the preliminary plans, but included in the estimate of cost.

(Signed) WM. KENNEDY, JR.

This letter was not quite satisfactory or in full enough detail for the water commissioners so the chairman wrote the engineer asking him several questions. The questions with the answers are given below.

1. What head the proposed dam will have,

The head will fluctuate slightly, according to the river flow, but I

Assessors were Duly Appointed Last Night

The question of appointing assessors for 1909, was taken up in Committee of the Whole, and resulted in Mr. T. B. McGrath being selected at a salary of $900, and Mr. Thompson at a salary of $500. There were 12 applications received, but only four were considered. The salaries this year are fixed, and there will be no change or bonus at the end of the year.

British Steamer Turned Over and Sank with Captain and Crew of 46

Melbourne, Feb. 1.—The British steamer Clan Ronald is a total wreck near Edinburg, and the captain and 46 of the crew, most of whom were Asiatics, were drowned.

The vessel was seen drifting ashore last night, but sank before boats could reach her.

Eighteen members of the crew, including twelve coolies, were picked up.

The Clan Ronald was struck by a heavy sea yesterday afternoon and rendered unmanageable. Then, being driven ashore, she turned turtle.

3,000 People Lined Up to Get Hot Coffee

New York, Feb. 1.—Swept by a biting north-west wind, New York City today experienced the coldest weather of the winter. With the temperature in some portions of the greater city down to the zero point, just before daylight, and the official thermometer of the weather bureau registering five degrees above, Two thousand applicants for food and coffee were lined up at the Bowery Mission during the night, which was the largest number fed at that place thus far this winter. In addition to these, 318 persons, including 24 women, were given shelter at the city lodging house, and at the pier of the Charities Department at the foot of East 26th street.

Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has THE BADGE OF HONESTY on every bottle-wrapper, in a full list of all its ingredients printed in plain English.

If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnawing distress in stomach, periodical pains, disagreeable, catarrhal, pelvic drain, dragging-down distress in lower abdomen or pelvis, perhaps dark spots or specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and kindred symptoms caused by female weakness, or other derangement of the feminine organs, you can not do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The hospital, surgeon's knife and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. Thereby the obnoxious examinations and local treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home. "Favorite Prescription" is composed of the very best native medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs.

Do not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription;" it will not perform miracles; it will not dissolve or cure tumors. No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weaknesses and ailments peculiarly incident to women as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this remedy of known composition.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best laxative and regulator of the bowels. They invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. One a laxative; two or three a cathartic. Easy to take as candy.

Fat and the Directoire

The coming season will be a hard one for fat ladies. The directoire modes are already ill-omened brows at such a plebeianism as bulky hips. Fat, in short, wherever it may be deposited, has merited great condemnation and is anathema. In Chicagoese, it's got to go.

Many mind many methods. 1. Exercise. 2. Dieting. 3. Worrying. 4. Tight lacing. 5. Marmola. All these are suggested, but not all should be adopted. For instance, 1 and 2 are not easy, while 3 and 4 are not hygienic. Thus we set them aside and consider Marmola.

What is it? A harmless powder obtainable of any good druggist, which, when mixed with 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 4 3-4 ounces Peppermint Water, and taken after meals and at bedtime will, without causing any inner disturbances or outward flesh wrinklings, reduce the excess flesh, proportionately and uniformly, 12 to 16 ounces a day.

Presentation by Dorcas Society

A very pleasant event took place last night at the home of Mrs. Rankin, Gilmour street, when the ladies of the Dorcas Society made her a presentation of a beautiful fern and fern dish in recognition of her valuable services in connection with the Dorcas Society. Mrs. Rankin is the president of the society, and has done a great deal toward making it a success and one of the leading charity organizations in the city.

Canadian General to Work Full Time

The Canadian General Electric Works started yesterday working a full ten-hour day.

This is good news, both for what it is and for what it means in indication of the general quickening of industrial activity. It is understood that all the departments of the Canadian General Electric Company's works will begin working full time today. This intelligence will be welcome, not only to the workingmen interested, but to others whose interests are connected with pay cheques with full time figures—our merchants and business men. It is also understood, though no definite authority exists for the statement, that the inflow of orders may even necessitate working over time. At any rate we shall cease to hear the whistle announcing work at eight o'clock, and the seven o'clock warning will take its place for all over the works. The large employing capacity of these works and the large value and wide distribution of their output gives the people of Peterborough a peculiar interest in their prosperity.

A Startling Revelation

The friends of Miss Mary McKenzie, of London, were astonished to hear that she had gone into consumption.

This sad intelligence came as a shock to Miss McKenzie's many friends. In the early fall she contracted a heavy cold which developed rapidly into Catarrh, and finally made such rapid advances that the bronchial tubes and lungs became affected.

Although the doctors said nothing short of a change of residence to the south would benefit, on the advice of a Dundas street druggist Miss McKenzie decided to thoroughly test Catarrhozone which is warranted to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes.

Miss McKenzie says: "After my druggist had recommended Catarrhozone I spoke to my friends about it and they all said it was such a good remedy that I commenced forthwith to inhale it five or six times each day. I breathed it deeply into my lungs, and felt its beneficial action very quickly. It seemed to go where other remedies did not reach, and was so pleasant and convenient that I did not mind using it very frequently, which, probably, was the cause of it curing my obstinate case so quickly. Certainly no case of Catarrh or Bronchitis should go uncured if the sufferer can get Catarrhozone, which is a sovereign remedy, worthy of the highest recommendations."

Miss McKenzie's case needs no enlargement. She was in a critical condition, apparently beyon dthe aid of doctors' medicines.

Catarrhozone has cured her, and others in her condition should no longer experiment with uncertain, untried treatments, but should turn at once to catarrhozone, and in it they will find relief and cure unobtainable by other means. Remember the name, Catarrhozone. Complete outfit guaranteed to cure. Price $1.00. Small size 50 cents. Druggists or N. C. Poison & Co., Kingston, Ont.

SOCIALISM SCORES

A good majority of the British Labor party has declared for Socialism, and it is reasonable to expect great exultation on the part of the Socialistic-Labor party, for one of the most annoying obstacles in its path has been the great trades union organization. The action of the majority may result in a split, and the formation of a new anti-Socialist Labor party, or in the going over to the enemy of the important minority that voted against the Socialistic resolution. It does not matter much which, for the masses of British workingmen seem to be thoroughly saturated with the doctrines of marx and Engles, and though they may shy at the shadow of Socialism they are friendly enough with its substance.

As much might be said of the Liberal party. Old age pensions, abolition of the House of Lords, the inheritance tax are Socialistic ideas that have won a respectable foothold in average British opinion. The Irish Land Bills, though of Conservative origin, are measures that were adopted from Socialistic propaganda. Some of the keenest intellects in England to-day are those of Socialists. George Bernard Shaw is one of them. The Governor of Jamaica, Sydney Oliver, is a Socialist. Victor Grayson, a leading Socialist, without the help of any political organization but that of avowed Socialists, has been elected a member of the British Parliament. Among the aristocracy there are to be found women like the Countess of Warwick, who make a cult of Marxism, and love to be called "Comrade." The campaign against the doctrine carried on by some of the best English papers was not begun a moment too soon; nor can it be prosecuted with too much vigor and pertinacity.

When we consider that Socialism is only about fifty years old, and that there are supposed to be 200,000,000 adult Socialists in the world; that it is the only strong international force that has been born since Christianity, it is evident that those who oppose it should lose no time in girding for the fray. It was about 1848 that Marx and Engles issued their "Communist Manifesto", and it was sixteen years later before there was a sign that the seed they had scattered had fallen on fruitful soil. On Sept. 28, 1864, there gathered in St. Martin's Hall, London, a handful of enthusiasts, who then and there formed the International Workingmen's Association. The platform on which the "Internationale" invited the support of the world was written by Marx himself, and the principles there laid down are said to have formed the kael and ribs of practically every Socialist platform from that day to this.

Here, then, is the famous platform that Karl Marx wrote:—

"In consideration of the fact that the emancipation of the working class must be accomplished by the working class itself, that the struggle for this emancipation . . . does not signify a struggle for class privileges and monopolies, but for equal rights and duties and for the abolition of class rule;

"That the economic dependence of the workingsman upon the owner of the tools of production, the sources of life, forms the basis of every kind of servitude, of social misery, of spiritual degradation and political dependence;

"That, therefore, the economic emancipation of the working class is the great end to which every political movement must be subordinated as a simple auxiliary;

"That all exertions which up to this time have been directed toward the attainment of this end have failed on account of the want of solidarity between the various branches of labor in every land and by reason of the absence of a brotherly bond of unity between the working classes of different countries;

"That the emancipation of labor is neither a local nor a national, but a social problem, which embraces all countries in which modern society exists, and whose solution depends upon the practical and theoretical cooperation of the most advanced countries.

"The first International Labor Congress declares that the International Workingmen's Association and all societies and individuals belonging to it recognize truth, right, and morality as the basis of their conduct toward one another and their fellow-men, without respect to color, creed, or nationality. This congress regards it as the duty of man to demand the rights of a man and citizen, not only for himself, but for every one who does his duty. No rights without duties; no duties without rights."

This call to arms me with astonishing success, and Socialists multiplied in practically every country. In 1872 Bakounin and the Anarchist group tried to seize the International whose headquarters were then transferred to the United States. Four years later it expired. But where one International had been before hundreds of nationals were now; and so a new International was gradually established, made up of delegates from the various countries of the world. At present there is a permanent International bureau at Brussels, but it is not a governing body, each national congress being its own master. Brussels, nevertheless, is the Socialistic headquarters of the world. The growth of Socialism in Canada is gratifyingly slow, though its cousin, Public Ownership, is well known and has many devoted admirers.

KITCHEN DANGERS

WHY EVERY HOME NEEDS ZAM-BUK.

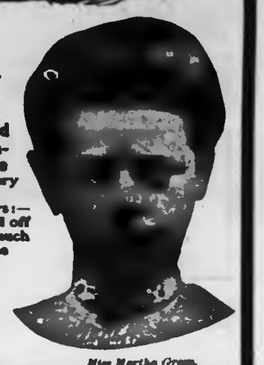
Burns, scalds, cuts, abrasions and scratches, are every-day occurrences in the kitchen, and a box of Zam-Buk kept handy & used immediately such injury is sustained will be found to save hours of suffering. For severe burns and scalds this balm is wonderfully effective.

Mrs. Davis, of Earlsden Street, Coventry, says:—"I was cooking one day when my clothes caught fire and I was badly burned about the legs. Zam-Buk relieved the agony, and although the burns were very deep, in a few days it healed them nicely."

Miss Martha Green, of Claremont Street, Toronto, in taking a pan of boiling fat from the oven spilt it over her right hand. "The boiling fat ran into the palm of my hand," she says, "and over all my fingers. You may well imagine the agony I suffered in consequence. I was almost wild with the pain. The hand became swollen, and large blisters formed all over the palm and along the fingers. For over a month I was unable to use the hand at all. I tried several kinds of salves and ointments, but the wound seemed apparently no better.

"About this time I was advised to try Zam-buk. I stopped using all other preparations, and applied Zam-Buk instead. The very first application soothed my hand and seemed to draw out the fire and inflammation; and as I kept on using Zam-Buk, the blisters gradually dried up and disappeared. In a very short time the scald was healed completely."

Mrs. R. Brown, of Calumet Avenue, Montreal, says:—"While busy in the kitchen one day my oven door fell off inflicting a nasty scratch on my leg. I didn't think much of it, once the first sharp pain had gone; but the dye in my stocking got into the wound and set up blood-poisoning. I had a bad leg for weeks and I believe that had it not been for Zam-Buk it would have been bad yet. As soon as, acting upon the advice of a friend I put on Zam-Buk, I got relief, and the inflammation began to subside. In a few weeks the wound was healed. In my opinion Zam-Buk should be in every home."



Miss Martha Green.

The above are but a few instances of the varied uses to which Zam-Buk can be so advantageously applied. It is equally effective for cuts, bruises, abrasions, sprains and stiffness. It also cures eczema, ulcers, sores, blood-poisoning, ringworm, scalp sores, chronic wounds, some blackheads, pimples, chafed places, chapped hands, cold sores, and all skin diseases and injuries. Rubbed well on the chest in cases of cold, it relieves the aching and tightness, and applied as an embrocation it cures rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, etc. All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50 cents a box, or from Zam Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Three boxes for $1.25.

Maple Leaf Mines, Limited

No Personal Liability

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided Into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia, Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont, Sec-Treas; Charle Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C. Ritchie. Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 868, containing 40 acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

One of these rich veins crosses this fraction and forms the discovery of same. With a total of 163 acres, 40 acres of which are in the rich Cobalt field, 63 acres in the new Bonanza district, with 200,000 shares in the treasury, for development purposes, with no purchase price to be charged against same, it would seem that this proposition, based on a capitalization of $150,000, was the very thing you have been waiting for.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 18th December, 1908, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. Levesconte, 20 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties, in consideration of 800,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 250,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $500; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 1000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 5000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 28th of December, 1908.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

J. COLLINS DAVIES, Secretary, Orillia, Ont.

"Banzai" Tells How Japs Can Whip United States

Just to prove how easy it would be for the Japanese to invade this country and lick Uncle Sam out of his boots, somebody has written a novel of the yellow terror sort. According to the book, we are at the mercy of the Japanese, who may begin to shout their banzais of victory all over this country whenever the Mikado takes the notion, says The Brooklyn Eagle.

"Banzai" is the title of the novel which tells how American arms go down in disgraceful defeat. The author has hidden his identity behind the pen name of "Parabellum", which perhaps is wise, if he is in this country, for some patriotic American might not wait for anyone else to begin hostilities, if the author's name were known.

Kaiser Wilhelm himself has been suggested as the author, Mr. Hackett, manager of the Baker & Taylor Company, the American publishers, says he doesn't believe that the Kaiser actually wrote the novel, but he thinks the Kaiser might have inspired it. Anyway, Mr. Hackett is sure it was written by a high authority on military matters and on the relations between Japan an dthe United States. Mr. Hackett says the author is better acquainted with conditions here than are the Americans themselves. "Banzai" was published first in Germany, and more than 300,000 copies have been sold. It was translated by Professor Rudolph Tombo of Columbia University.

The book is of particular interest in view of recent reports from California, to the effect that Japanese in large numbers are being smuggled over the Mexican and Canadian borders. It is justified to a certain extent by the following quotation from a report made yesterday by the army general staff to congress:—

"Recent study discloses the fact that assuming there was no effective naval opposition, a certain Oriental power could, within a month of the time its hostile intentions began to be even strongly suspected (a formal declaration of war would no doubt come a good deal later), land on our Pacific coast an expedition of an estimated maximum of about 100,000 men, and that such a force could be augmented by the end of two months more, to a total of possibly 300,000. The case with which San Pedro harbor, unfortified, and through it the entire Los Angeles country, could be seized is apparent."

The novel is written in the past tense, but in a foreword the author gives the cheering information that it hasn't happened yet. He is simply warning us of what may happen any day. One thing is certain: If things happen in reality the way they happen in "Banzai", the United States has the most hopelessly incompetent soldiers and sailors in the world. Those sailors on the United States battleships who have been breaking world's records at target practice go all to pieces in a real battle, and have great difficulty in hitting the Pacific Ocean. The Japanese, on the contrary, plant their shells in vital parts of American battleships every time they shoot.

General McArthur should be court-martialed right away for the way he fell into General Nogi's trap in the battle of Illgard, in the Blue Mountains our Oregon way. He rushed blindly into a trap laid by the wily Jap, and the Americans lost on land the laurels they had already lost at sea.

The Americans did not know there was any war until they had been almost overwhelmed by the Japanese. Before the government knew what had happened the Japs had seized the entire Pacific coast and had started toward the east with an army that stretched from Canada to Mexico. The army suddenly sprang up out of the ground. For years Japanese coolies had been coming to this country to work on railroads, farms, public works and as cooks and servants. Every one of these coolies was a trained soldier, and many of them officers of high rank. Gradually they smuggled in rifles of the latest make and piece by piece they brough in artillery disguised as porch columns. Many of the Japs came over the Canadian border. Thousands hid themselves in the underground dives of San Francisco's Chinatown. About 100,000 of them scattered across country and formed a line from north to south a few hundred miles this side of the Pacific.

One day, in May of this year, the appointed time arrived, and simultaneously the Japanese began to seize railroad trains. They let all westbound trains go by, but stopped all east-bound trains, so that eventually they had practically all the rolling stock of the railroads to bring them east.

At the same time, American possessions all over the world were attacked. Cables were destroyed. Manilla was blockaded. Short work was made of Hawaii by the 6,000 Japanese there. The Japs fled silently out of their underground dives in San Francisco and before the policemen knew what was happening, the troops at the Presidio were prisoners and the city was in the hands of the Japanese. When the people of San Francisco waked up next morning they found the whole town placarded with notices from the Japanese, and every department of government was closed, even to pumps at the water works was being run by the Japs. Seattle, San Diego and other places fell into the hands of the Japs just as easily. The ships which the Japs had brought over to shell San Francisco were not needed, though they were there on the spot. They sailed right by the fort in the fog.

It destroys all pride in the American navy to read about the battle of Magdalena Bay. In fact, that calamity shouldn't be called a battle. It was so one-sided. Admiral "Perry" in command of the fleet, was having naval manoeuvres at Magdalena Bay. He had divided his fleet into two divisions. The yellow squadron under Admiral Crane was to attack San Francisco, and the squadron under Perry was to defend. Poor Perry and his officers couldn't tell the Japanese warships from the warships of Admiral Crane's squadron, and naturally they were somewhat astonished when the Japanese ships under Togo began to pour shimose shells into the vitals of the good ship Connecticut and th eother good ship Connecticut and the other men-of-war. The Americans were in a pitiable state of confusion, but finally they got so far out of their stupefied state that they were able to attempt some shooting on their own account. After a long time they managed to get the ammunition rooms open, and after much work they got the ammunition hoist to work. But the gunners couldn't hit anything. The shells were rotten and, though they were percussion shells, they burst in the air soon after leaving the guns. Admiral Perry went down on the flagship, and the other vessels were sunk. The wiping out of Crane's squadron was so easy for Admiral Kamimura that it wasn't even interesting.

The American government showed the extreme of incompetence in meeting the emergencies placed before it. Patriotism ran high, but no intelligent use was made of the men who were

SEASON FOR CROUP NOW AT HAND

WOMAN WHO KNOWS BEST CROUP REMEDY IN DEMAND.

Goose Grease No Longer Depended Upon Because Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Is Better.

[From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.]

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. Geese are not very good to eat, but they are in great demand because of their grease, which is good to put on a cloth and tie around the neck of croupy patients. Jewish families nearly always have goose grease on hand. Most children, when they have croup, refuse to take the remedies offered them. The only thing to do is to hold their noses and make them take it. There used to be an old fashioned remedy for croup, known as hive syrup and tolu, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time.

A New Cure for Tuberculosis Discovered

Paris, Feb. 1.—For the last week the sensation in medical Paris has been a new "cure" for tuberculosis which is being demonstrated at one of the municipal hospitals.

Five deathbed cases of paupers in advanced stages of consumption were selected by the physicians, and after permission had been given by the municipal Board of Charity the moribunds were turned over to the experimenter. The most remarkable thing about him is that he is neither doctor nor scientist and came to Paris a few weeks ago virtually unknown, while his cure is a secret which he refuses to disclose.

In spite of all these handicaps he has convinced the leading physicians that he has a marvelous cure for consumption, and that after only three weeks' treatment the five paupers are on the way to health. He is Orlando F. Miller, who was once famous for a rupture cure, which he advertised from one end of the country to the other. Later he had a home for inebriates at Chicago, which burned down, resulting in a dozen deaths, one being that of an alderman—blind "Billy" Kent.

MILLER'S PICTURESQUE CAREER

Indeed, few men ever had a more picturesque career than this handsome healer whose picture with flowing side whiskers appeared in every newspaper. Miller had been an evangelist, a Bible reader, and so brilliant a financier that he was once indicted for kiting twenty million dollars of checks and wrecking five banks in Denver in the panic of 1893. Convicted by a Denver court, he was afterwards fully acquitted by the United States Supreme court.

The patients on whom Mr. Miller is working were all wretched creatures, condemned as hopeless. Their entire care developed on Miller and a nurse he had brought from Chicago, Mrs. Roberta Parsons. As neither Miller nor the nurse were permitted to remain in the hospital at night, the patients were deprived of the cure for nearly ten hours. In spite of this fact their progress is so amazing that physicians came from other hospitals to study the results. The paupers had of course been bedridden for months.

The hospital charts show that their temperature has dropped to practically normal, and their respiration to only slightly above normal.

At the end of the third week the physicians at the hospital are optimistic, though not ready to pronounce definitely that the Chicago man has found the long-sought-for cure of tuberculosis until two months longer have elapsed, when it is probable that Miller's discovery will be taken before the French Academy of medicine.

"OXOL"

The veterinary preparations as well as the compressed bales of fodder placed on the market of the world under the name of

Charity Board's Increased Demand

The following letter was received from the secretary of the Central Charity Board by the City Council;—

I am directed by the Central Charity Board to say that owing to the increased demands upon the board, owing to the increased population of the city and the higher price of wood and other articles, the board is not able to meet the demands with the grant they have received. They therefore ask that a grant of $2000 be made for this year, and that the repayment of $400, a balance of an advance to purchase wood, be remitted.

Yours truly,
S. R. ARMSTRONG.

Last year the board was granted 1700 so that they asked for an increase of $1300. The board has only had one increase since organization in 1904, and that was for $200. The original grant was $1500.

Mr. F. W. Miller, relief officer for the Charity Board, was present, and stated that the board was organized some 12 years, when there was a population of about 10,000 people. He also gave a list of statistics showing the money spent by the Charity Board during those years. Last year was the heaviest yet. Some of the reasons for an increase is that the population is larger, wood is nearly double the price, other articles are also higher. Now, the board has also to take care of contagious diseases while the hospitals used to take them. The past month the board has taken up two cases of scarlet fever among the needy people. These cases are very heavy on the board. The board also has seven people in the Protestant Home and two in the Home of Providence.

On motion the city assumed the $400 overdraft which had to be advanced for the purchase of wood for the year.

On motion this sum was assumed by the council.

CURLING.

A ministerial game was played yesterday afternoon in which Rev. Robt. Pogue met Rev. E. A. Pearson. The game attracted a great deal of attention and was watched with interest. The result was as follows;—

Proposed New Dam

propose the low water pond level to be maintained at elevation 78.50 to 78.75, or, at least, one foot higher than the present dam crest level, which, with a further gain of, say, nine inches in tail water, as given by Mr. Henderson for October 1908, or from, say, present head 10 feet, to 11 1-2 foot proposed head. This 15 per cent. or over extra head will give a net gain in results, or output of power to pumping or electrical machinery, of 29 per cent. or over, at the new dam.

I expect we will do better than this, but the exact gain can only be determined by actual tests under varying water conditions.

2 What number of horse power will it give?

The horse power will vary in proportion as the variations in river flow from low to high water, but at ordinary low river flow of 65,000 cubic feet per minute (figures obtained by Mr. Henderson, superintendent) and 11 1-2 feet head, the power will be 1132 h.p., allowing 80 per cent efficiency on water wheels, increasing as above stated with river flow, or probably 1300 horse power during a great part of the year, increasing to 2000 hp. easily at good flow.

3 Provision for raising the water. Provision is made in the design of the new dam to permit of raising the water four feet, or more, higher than the crest of the old dam, this being an advisable precaution to take care of extreme floods, but to maintain his extreme height would raise the pond so as to injure the turbines at the Nassau dam, and would not be allowed.

With the new dam and the proper use of the stop logs, the pond level may be maintained to the greatest permissable height under all conditions.

Sensational Captures of Three Alleged Hold-Up Men

Phoenix, B.C., Feb. 2.—Sensational captures were made on Sunday by Chief Bunbury and Constable Decksteader of this place, assisted by the deputy sheriff of Okanagan county, Washington, in rounding up three alleged bandits at Oreville, Washington, 70 miles west of here. The Canadian police were unable to make the arrest, but the deputy sheriff arrested Bill and Cleve Newman, lodging them in the county jail. Both carried revolvers.

By a ruse the third of the alleged bandits, Ben Hart, believing he had only American officers to deal with, headed across to the Canadian side, where he was captured after a little gun play, and landed in Green jail. He was armed with an automatic Colt pistol. Hart confessed to participating in the Bridesville hold-up and implicated the Newman brothers, and has offered to turn King's evidence.

HAVE BAD RECORDS

The trio have all bad records and the police believe that they are the desperadoes who held up a hotel at Midway on August 25, and Charles Thomet resisting, shot him, and he, staggering wounded into an adjoining apartment, was followed and again shot, dying shortly after.

Shortly before that affair an hotel at Anaconda was held upp, and the three men are under suspicion in connection therewith.

G.N.R. OFFERED REWARD.

The affair to which Hart confessed was the sticking up of the storekeeper and Great Northern Railway agent at Bridesville hamlet on the boundary on Jan. 2.—A large reward was offered by the G.N.R.

Did the Bear See His Shadow Yesterday?

Doubt exists as to whether the bear and the ground hog came out and saw their shadow or not yesterday. Persistent inquiries failed to locate anyone who had seen a bear or a ground hog yesterday morning.

No returns at all have been received regarding the ground hog.

If the bear was up with the roosters and went out he would not see his shadow, but if he was a laggard and did not come out of his winter boarding house till about 11 o'clock then he could see two shadows if he wanted to, for the sun was out looking for the bear.

The popular supposition is that if the bear and the ground hog came out yesterday and saw their shadows they say taid ta ta to the broad daylight and embarked upon a six weeks' snooze while in the meantime the weather is to keep cold.

Ice Bridge at Falls Smashed to Pieces

People Ran for Their Lives----Threatened the Iron Bridge----One Man Lost

St. Catharines, Feb. 2.—The ice bridge at Niagara Falls broke loose and went down about noon today, and reports which have reached St. Catharines state that a man went down with it. The man, whose name was not known, it is reported, was seen standing in the middle of the ice bridge just a few minutes before the tremendous crash, which signalled the collapse.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 2.—One of the greatest sights in ice jams probably ever seen occurred in the chasm below the American and Horse Shoe Falls about 10.30 o'clock this morning, when the great ice bridge of 1909 was carried away, and with it the half dozen refreshment and souvenir shacks, the occupants of which barely escaped being carried down the river on the ice floe.

The ice from Lake Erie for the last few days has been flowing over the Horseshoe Falls in millions of tons, filling the river from the ice bridge almost to the base of the Horseshoe Falls, the falling waters of the falls pounding it down under the ice bridge with such irresistible force that finally the great ice impact, which was from 30 to 400 feet in depth, was rent like ribbons with the force of the jumping waters.

Great fissures first appeared with reports like the explosion of cannon, reverberating down through the gorge, piling the ice in mountains fifty feet high, slowly moving down the river.

As it passed under the upper steel arch bridge at the falls the ice ground against the steel girders of the American side of the arch of the bridge, making it tremble from end to end.

Those who witnessed the great sight of the mighty moving mountains of ice feared it would carry the bridge with it, but the handiwork of man in steel withstood the great force of Nature.

When the millions of tons of water mastered the ice impact and found its way through the fissures it soon took it into its grasp and crushed it like so much glass, and carried it down stream through the whirlpool rapids.

The river at present is covered with a moving mass of ice from the Grand Trunk Railway steel arch bridge to the Horseshoe falls.

The ice bridge will again re-form when the pent-up water finds its normal flow as it passes over the falls.

Strict Enforcement of the License Law

Peterborough, Jan. 31.—The chief of police here believe in the strict enforcement of the license act.

Saturday, Chas. N. Nixon, of the Grand Hotel, was charged before the police magistrate with selling liquor during prohibited hours on Saturday, the 16th instant. The evidence showed that Bert Bowden, with two others entered the hotel bar just as the town clock had finished striking 7 p.m., each had a glass of liquor and immediately left the bar room. As Nixon was closing the bar the two men with Bowden did not hear the clock strike and thought it was before 7 p.m.

The police magistrate thought the drink had been given after 7 p.m., but that there had been no intention to violate the law and that there had been a sufficient compliance with it and dismissed the charge.

Nixon then pleaded guilty to a charge of selling liquor on Sunday, the 23rd inst., to Bowden and a fine of $50 was imposed. Nixon stated Bowden pleaded illness to obtain the liquor and stated that Bowden had deliberately planned to catch him.

Nixon was compelled at the same sitting of the court to answer a charge of selling to a minor, Wallace Irwin, who, by the way, is a brother-in-law of P. C. Meharry, on the 19th inst. Irwin went into the bar and bought a glass of liquor and a flask of whiskey for a cold. Police Officer Newhall, who by phone, knew there was a young man in the bar room, met him as he came out and asked him his age. He asked because Irwin, although 16, appeared much older, and he wished to make sure he was the person referred to. The bartender had no recollection of having seen Irwin or of having sold him any liquor. He said he would have sold the liquor on the appearance of the young man as he was not apparently under 21.

Police Magistrate Dumble, on viewing the young man thought that on a careful examination he appeared under 21, but that to the bartender with his opportunity of judging in the ordinary conduct of his business he might very well have appeared over 21, and dismissed the charge.

Mr. Haverson, K.C., defended Nixon.

BOARD OF EDUCATION PASS REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Regular Session Held—Two More Societies Get Permission to Use Hall in New Collegiate

ACCOUNT GOES TO THE LEGAL COMMITTEE

The regular session of the Board of Education was held last night when a lot of routine business was put through. The board also granted permission to the Y.W.C.A. to hold their closing exercises in the Collegiate hall and the Historical Society may use it as a regular meeting place.

Those present were, Chairman Hayes, Messrs. Crane, Fair, Hill, Nelson, Mason, Ackerman, Dumble, Dr. Morrison and Dr. Burnham.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

Mrs. Maud E. Stevenson, secretary of the Board of Management of the Y.W.C.A., wrote the Board asking for the use of the hall in the institute for their closing exercises next March. They charge a small admittance fee but it is open to the public. Request granted if they pay the cost.

Mr. C. Rutherford wrote the board complaining about the settlement; the board made of his account. He claims he made an agreement with the late Mr. Principle whereby the board was to pay $8.50, and he would hand back $50. He did give back $50, but learned from his brother that the board had only paid $-01 in the first place. Now Mr. Rutherford wants his $50 returned.—Legal Committee.

W. J. Dunlop, secretary of the Peterborough Historical Society sent the following letter to the Board;—"I have been instructed by the Historical Society to ask the Board of Education for permission to use one of the rooms in the Collegiate Institute for the meetings of the society.

These meetings will be held once a month during the winter, will be educational in their character, and will be free to the public.—Request was granted if they pay the cost of the hall.

LONGBOAT VS. SHRUBB

Longboat and Shrubb were both on the road over in New Jersey yesterday, and crowds of persons watched them. Shrubb ran fifteen miles at a great rate and pulled up as fine as silk. Longboat was out for a walk, and when he was rubbed down the Indian said he never felt better. There will be a world of betting on this race. Longboat will have to run as he never ran before to win.

Paper talk about Shrubb being down "too fine" is poppycock. Weight is in his favor, and his legs are in good condition.

There will be a big delegation from Montclair to cheer Shrubb. Shrubb is now without a scratch.

Japs Cancel All Old Treaties

Tokio, Feb. 2.—Count Komura's important speech in parliament today had the following reference;

"In view of the new international conditions assigned to Japan it has become necessary that our people instead of scattering in foreign lands shall concentrate in the Far East, thus securing an united effort looking to legitimate activities and avoiding everything likely to obstruct the development of international commerce and industry.

"These considerations have led the government to follow an avowed policy with respect to emigrants to Canada and the United States enforcing in perfect accord and good faith the restrictions placed on emigration."

Count Komura concluded his speech by announcing that the imperial Government had decided to notify the various powers next year of the termination of existing commercial treaties, to be effective one year after such notice was given. He said that it was the intention of the government to negotiate new treaties "unhampered by any unequal engagements." The new compacts, he continued, will be based entirely upon the principle of reciprocity with a view to the free development of international commerce.

All the United States to be Under Prohibition in Twenty-Five Years

Birmingham, Feb. 2.—"The whole South will be prohibition territory within five years, and the entire Union in 25 years. It will not be many years until we will as soon think of returning to slavery as to the open saloon."

This was a sentiment expressed this night by Rev. E. E. Folk of Tennessee at the Southern Anti-Saloon League conference. Alluding to the work of the league in Tennessee, Rev. Folk said; "I hasten to given to give credit to the man who did more than any other for the cause in the South, the lamented, the noble, the true, the brave E. W. Carmack. They killed him to get rid of him, but they forget that out of martyrs is the seed of the church. The Tennessee Legislature carried out that for which he lived and died."

The conference will continue until Thursday.

Shrubb takes last trial Spin

Montclair, N.J., Feb. 2.—Shrubb ran about twelve miles yesterday with J. Daly, a cross-country runner. Daly is impressed, and will back Shrubb.

Alfie's toe is all right. The condition of Shrubb for his last run today, considering the short time of training for the Marathon, couldn't be better.

Cobourg Proved a Light Lunch for the Local Intermediates

The local intermediates had an easy time beating the Cobourg seven at Brock street rink last night. The score was 13—1, with the half time figure 5—0.

The visitors were never dangerous, the team being composed largely of juniors. Peterborough had a strong line-up. Harry Morgan was back in the game at center, and made a big hit. He was the best goal getter of the team, showing up exceptionally well alone in on the nets. The other members of the team were all good, but never had to exert themselves.

About five hundred saw the game and enthused over the victory of the home team. Referee F. C. Waghorne, of Toronto, had very little to do, the players showing little tendency to mix it up.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

Lindsay Rinks Win the District Cup from the Peterborough Curlers

The district cup goes to Lindsay this year. The games were played off yesterday by four towns, viz;—Lindsay, Port Hope, Keene and Peterborough. In the first draw Port Hope was pitted against Lindsay, and Keene against the city. The primary was begun at half-past one o'clock in the afternoon, and the finals wound up at about 11.30 last night. The play was watched with great interest by a great many people from start to finish.

The finals created great interest and many good ends were played, although Peterborough was never in the running at any time. Pete Laing however made a sensational play in the 14th end. Lindsay was lying three when Pete came down with a running shot, took the guard and jammed it against the other three shots and knocked them all out while he remained shot. The end was lost, however, by Mr. Matthews sending a hard luck stone and allowed Lindsay to come in ahead of Lang's.

The rinks and scores were as follows;—

County Pupils Desire to Attend Collegiate at City Pupil Rates

A deputation from the County Council met the Board of Education last night in reference to having Collegiate Institute thrown open to county pupils.

The deputation consisted of Warden Scott, Councillor Stewart, Messrs. Lees, Brown and Elliott.

Warden Scott opened the discussion and stated that the deputation had been appointed for the purpose of endeavoring to rearrange the fees charged by the Collegiate Institute so that county pupils could attend without it being too expensive.

Mr. J. Coyle Brown said it was the object to get the Board to allow county pupils to attend the Collegiate at the same rate as those from the city. He said he understood the fees were $10, and if 400 pupils attended, it would mean $4,000. If the county pupils were allowed to attend on the same basis the county would pay $2500, and thus make the burden upon the city materially less. He also claimed that the presence of county pupils would influence the intellectual standing of the school for the better as the county people always take every advantage of the opportunities offered, while the city boys and girls were somewhat indifferent. The institute was a school for the poor and not for the rich. The Government makes a grant of $2000, the fees amount to $100, making a total of $6600, so the balance must be raised by the citizens. If the board opens its doors to the county pupils the county council is called upon to pay 60 per cent. of the total cost.

Mr. Lees read the section in the High School Act bearing on this question. The act requires the county council to pay 80 per cent. of the total cost of the maintenance less the amount of fees. Mr. Lees also pointed out that it would be a long time before another teacher would have to be engaged, and the cost would be increased very little.

Mr. E. M. Elliott stated that there was a high school in the county but it was not within reach of all the county pupils. The county helps pay the cost of maintenance and the government grant is very liberal, so the institute should be opened. All the board has to do is to notify the county clerk that the doors are opened and then the county pupils are sent. This applies to all counties.

Mr. W. H. Hill said this question was up last July and it was decided not to open the school to the county until it was seen whether or not the city pupils would fill the school. At present they do take up most of the room and if many more were admitted another teacher would have to be engaged. Mr. Hill thought it would be well to open the school to the county on the 1st of September next.

Dr. Morrison said he had always felt that the Collegiate should be available for all the people from the city and county. The present school should be large enough to accommodate all the pupils who want to attend. He thought all barriers should be taken down and all admitted to the school.

The matter was referred to the committee of the whole board to consider with the principle.

It was moved that the principal be instructed to report fully at the special meeting as to the capacity of the school and how many more pupils may be taken in without inconveniencing the staff.

Heating System Poor at Two of the Schools

When the list of accounts to be paid were presented to the board Mr. Dumble moved that Mr. Smart's account for the heating system in the west ward school be paid.

Dr. Morrison said no. He understood that the pupils of that school had to sit with their wraps on on cold day. He did not know whether it was the fault of the furnace or the janitor. But the heating was not satisfactory, and he said the account should be held over until the furnace proved to be up to the guarantee.

Mr. Dumble said he was at the school yesterday, and the principal told him it was satisfactory.

Mr. Crane remarked;—Mr. Dumble you are the father of that system, and you had better see that it is all right. The same system was installed at the King Edward school and yesterday with 12pounds of steam the thermometer was only 45 degrees.

Proper Burial was Given Him

Warden Robt. N. Scott has received the following letter which will be of interest to all county ratepayers interested in the House of Refuge;

Lakefield, Jan. 29, 1909.

Mr. Scott,

Warden of the County;

Dear Sir,—I notice by the papers that Mr. J. J. Crowe of Dummer, has been finding fault in regard to the funeral of the late Henry Argue, who died at the House of Refuge last July. I might say that I knew the old man all the time he was at the Refuge and officiated at his funeral. He always seemed to be contented and happy during his stay there. I do not now remember as to what notice I received of his death, which is itself proof that there was no unseemly haste, but I assure you and the council that I was perfectly satisfied with the arrangements, and that the old man received a respectable burial.

Yours sincerely,

W. J. CREIGHTON,

Rector of St. John's church, Lakefield.

Sunday School Convention will be Held in May

A meeting of the City Sunday School Association was held last night in the Y.M.C.A. parlors with Rev. H. J. Keith in the chair. The meeting was called for the purpose of considering the advisability of holding a county Sunday school convention in the city. After due deliberation it was decided, with the concurrence of the county association to hold a convention here on Monday and Tuesday, May 3rd and 4th. It is expected that Canon Sweeny, president of the Provincial Association, will be present as well as a number of other prominent workers.

If sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

THE NEW CANADIAN LOAN

Some of the Conservative critics of the Minister of Finance would appear to have been animated more by attention to the facts in their criticisms of the loan just issued in London. According to these gentlemen, the loan is "a confession of weakness," a proof that "Canada's credit is weakening in London," and "an improvident bargain". Unfortunately for them, however, those who know the facts take an exactly contrary view. A cable despatch from London says:—

Speaking generally, the new Canadian loan has been accorded a friendly and favorable reception by the press. The Economist speaks of it as the "Fielding loan", describes the Minister as Chancellor of the Exchequer and is highly complimentary to him, to Canada generally, and to the loan in particular.

A special feature of the issue is the opportunity afforded to small investors of subscribing small amounts of £10 and upwards, a step which it is considered in many quarters the Imperial Government should have taken long ago. The terms of the loan are commended practically in all quarters and the Government of Canada and its financial advisers are to be congratulated in securing terms which under present financial conditions are fair and reasonable, particularly in view of the considerable amount of the loan.

On the other hand, the rate of interest, 3 1-4 per cent., and the option of conversion into 3 per cent. stock at 110, makes it attractive to all classes of investors.

It would thus appear that instead of being a proof of Canada's failing credit, the new loan in on the contrary a proof that the credit of the Dominion stands as high as ever it did. The "blue ruin" wing of the Opposition will have to try again. Better arguments than they have yet advanced are necessary.

THE WATERWAYS TREATY

The official summary of the treaty just negotiated between the Governments of Great Britain, on behalf of Canada, and of the United States, shows that it is a very fair compromise of the disputes between the two countries both as regards the development of electric power and in respect of the free navigation of international waters.

There will, of course, be opposition to it from the standpoint of certain interests, among them the power users on the American side, who do not relish the idea of having their supply controlled, and on the Canadian side the extremists who claim that all the power which flows over the Canadian falls should be available for Canadian use. The first objection can be disposed of by the argument that private interests must be outborne by those of the public. The second is effectively met by the Canadian Government to prohibit the export of a single unit of power generated on the Canadian side so long as there is any demand dfor it.

The plea that Canada should act as a dog in the manger and decline to allow the export of power, says the Ottawa Free Press, is ridiculous in view of the fact that the demand on the Canadian side hardly equals one-third of the amount of power produced. Whenever Canadian manufacturers or railways are ready to consume the Canadian-generated power it will be at their disposal. That is perfectly clear from the wording of the Canadian statute. Meanwhile the energy generated on this side of the border gives employment to Canadian workmen and brings in revenue to the Canadian treasury.

Although no decision is likely to be reached by the Canadian Government as to the British commissioners to be named under the treaty until after its ratification, there is reason to hope that they will select the gentlemen who have done such good work on the former commission, the work of which is terminated by the signing of the treaty. These gentlemen—Messrs. G. C. Gibbons, of London, Louis Coste, and W. J. Stewart, the Dominion hydrographer—are perfectly familiar with the subject involved, and, while not electrical experts, are in a better position to represent and defend Canadian interests than would be strangers to the work.

A GREAT SEA STORY

Many a noble ship lies at the bottom of the sea. Of some the last known is that they went forth, that they did not return, that they never reached the haven where they would be. Upon them the ocean closed so devouringly as to leave no trace of them afloat, so suddenly as to prevent the cut-off people on board from casting a random message to the world from which they were snatched. Of other ocean tragedies there have been survivors to give a faithful account, and moving are the tales these chroniclers of woe, of heroism and of Christian fortitude have had to tell.

Authentic and extremely graphic though many of the stories of bygone shipwrecks are, and though they stir human feeling to its very depths, none of them has the range and variety of interest of The Mail and Empire's story of the disaster to the White Star liner, The Republic. The tremendous agency of wireless telegraphy adds an almost supernatural element to the story of a modern ship in distress. It immensely expands the drama by its inclusion of far-away personae, and greatly heightens the interest as it raises the hopes of the endangered people and stimulates efforts for their succor. In the story of the Republic were recounted acts of heroic behavior on the part of officers, seamen and attendants; instances of high courage and rare unselfishness on the part of passengers. We had the account of the shock of the collision, and the dismay it caused. These and like things are the outstanding features of former tales of shipwreck. But the matter of really engrossing attention in this one was the rescue force set in motion through the wonderful medium of wireless telegraphy. From out of the deep came the cry of the Republic's distress, and from New York and from the chief ports on the New England coast vessels hurried to the sinking ship. The signal for help thus mysteriously communicated from the high seas was responded to with headlong haste by vessels enough to make a good sized fleet. This rush to the assistance of imperiled fellow-men should make misanthropes think better of their kind. In the hands of the hero Binns science placed a power greater than the magic wand that Shakespeare puts in the hands of Prospero. As in "The Tempest" Prospero was able to use his airy spirit, Ariel, as a medium of instant communication with the shipwrecked men, so in this real drama, Binns was able to transmit through the pathless air the message that brought help to his shipwrecked company.

The Mail and Empire has been much complimented on its version of this story. We are rather proud of it. It is one of the most animated narratives ever filed at a despatch office. We do not over-praise the writer when we say that Kipling himself, master though he is of the style in which that story was written, never gave us fiction more brilliant than this newspaper man's striking record of fact. The Mail and Empire feels some natural pride in the fact that in this country its readers had the exclusive privilege of reading that story in the morning paper of last Monday.

LORD KITCHENER'S VICTORY

The victory of Lord Kitchener over Lord Curzon in India is said in cable despatches to have resulted in the practical transference of the question of defence from the Governor's council to the military authorities. This is true, But something else, according to close observers, has taken place as a consequence of the military reign of Lord Kitchener. To-day revolt in India is impossible. This result has been brought about by careful administration and a thorough appreciatino of the local situation.

In the first place, the condition of the native army has been carefully examined, and all caused of discontent have been removed. The Sepoy is treated as never before. His allowances have been increased, and a generous scheme of pensions has been instituted. He is given a regular furlough. His visits to his home are facilitated through the granting of transportation. The soldier, under the new policy, is firmly attached to the colors and to the Government which pays him, and provides his pension. While the natives are enlisted in the cavalry and infantry branches of the service, they are not taken into the artillery, save in a few exceptional cases. The guns are served mainly by Britishers more than in the past. The artillery, moreover, has been quietly strengthened, so that were trouble to arise the British would be masters of the most forceful of the weapons employed in war. The distribution of the army has also been changed. As the troops are now stationed they can be brought to bear upon any district with the utmost ease. The means of transportation have thus been utilized to the best advantage. A rifle factory, a gun carriage factory, and a cordite factory have recently been established, that in the event of trouble munitions of war could be produced. Finally the means of transportation by sea have been carefully improved, with the result that in a month or six weeks 150,000 men could be landed in India were they needed there.

India is now said to be proof against invasion and proof against revolt. But the measures that have been taken are not designed for the oppression of the people. On the contrary, they are determined upon in order that peace may be maintained while the problem of self-government is being solved. Of late, important concessions have been made to the Indian people, and there can be no doubt that as time progresses, and as the popular view of constitutional administration is enlarged, the liberty enjoyed by India will be widened. Odly enough, freedom comes in this case through militarism.

CONSCRIPTION IS GAINING GROUND

Lord Roberts' campaign in favor of compulsory military training has received an impetus from the production of a melo-drama that embodies his arguments, and points his moral in a very dramatic way. Though he is an old man, Lord Roberts may live to see conscription established in Great Britain. The trend of informed opinion is strongly in that direction. The head of the army, nine out of ten army officers of all ranks, associations, leagues and clubs numbered by the hundreds, leading papers in London, including Punch, which is supposed to reflect more truly than any other paper in England the opinion of the average Englishman, and thousands of men not classifiable as experts are talking and working in favor of universal military training.

The propaganda gains ground steadily. Even Mr. Haldane, the Minister of War, said recently that if the people would not voluntarily serve in his territorial force, the only alternative was compulsion. Mr. Barrie, the novelist and playwright, said he was sorry he could not claim to be the author of the conscription drama that has proved so successful in London. The Bishop of Chester has made a speech in which he declares that compulsory training would have a beneficial effect on national physique and national character—"which is much in need of discipline". The London Express, which was about the first important London paper to affirm that Tariff Reform meant Protection, and to champion it under its true name, now declares itself in favor of conscription, and refuses to be ashamed of using so forbidding a word.

As the Express points out, the word "conscription" exerts a sort of tyranny. When it is mentioned, the minds of most people turn at once to compulsory service in its most stringent form. They think of young men, whose parents have skinted and sacrificed themselves to give them a good education, dragged away to barracks, there to be treated as inferiors by brutal officers; to be abused, and debased; to forfeit many civil liberties, and finally to be shipped out of the country and die in a foreign wilderness because their King wishes to make a name for himself as a military genius. It is not to be wondered that the mind revolts at such a ghastly picture. People who cannot be reached by dispassionate statements and calm arguments are susceptible to the appeal made by "An Englishman's Home". The play has been criticized as crude. So it should be, for it is addressed to crude minds, and is intended to correct crude ideas on the subject of conscription.

The Swiss military system is the goal toward which British army reformers are pressing, and it was been pretty thoroughly discussed in this column. Moderate as it is in its demands upon the time of the soldiers and in other respects, it might be improved for British use in some respects. It contemplates sixty-five days' training for infantry, whereas in Norway the longest stretch is 48 days. In Australia 18 days is considered long enough in which to lay the foundations for training. As the Express points out, there is no necessity for the British conscript to live in barracks at all. He can remain at home, where the same influences will surround him as exist at present. One of the first essentials of the scheme, in the opinion of a writer in the Express, is that every teacher in public, private and Government schools should be able to instil the spirit of true patriotism into the minds of the scholars, and from the age of ten upwards teach them drill and gymnastics.

On leaving school, the boys should be taught, until they reach the age of seventeen, by Government instructors. The training of this period, carried on after business hours, would not interfere with work, though it might, as the author of "An Englishman's Home" suggests, have an unfavorable influence upon the attendance at football matches. Three years of musketry practice, once a week or so, would follow; and then, on reaching the age of twenty, the boys would be ready for conscription. Perhaps a month's steady drill and instruction would be necessary, at the end of which time they would be free for another twelve months, when another week's drill would furbish them up. The idea is that the body being maintained in good condition by the gymnastics and sports of school days, and the principles of military training having been grasped by the month's drill at the age of twenty, thereafter a few days a year is all that is needed to make a man a good soldier should the emergency arise.

It is calculated that the adoption of this system would give England 160,000 embryo soldiers a year, after allowing for those who would enter the regular army, join the navy, those who were the eldest sons of widows, and those who were physically unfit. In ten years there would be in England a million young men between the ages of 20 and 30 capable of doing soldiers' work in defence of their homes. The regular army, of course, would continue to serve abroad; and it is important to remember that conscription is being advocated for defensive purposes entirely.

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided Into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia, Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont, Sec-Treas.; Charle Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C. Ritchie. Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 868, containing acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

One of these rich veins crosses this fraction and forms the discovery of same. With a total of 163 acres, 40 acres of which are in the rich Cobalt field, 63 acres in the new Bonanza district, with 200,000 shares in the treasury, for development purposes, with no purchase price to be charged against same, it would seem that this proposition, based on a capitalization of $150,000, was the very thing you have been waiting for.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 16th December, 1908, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. Levecomte, 20 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., Solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties in consideration of 350,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 200,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $ 000; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 5000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 16th of December, 1908.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

J. COLLINS DAVIES, Secretary, Orillia, Ont.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

FOR all that the way was hard, rough with stones and choked by a tangle of rank growth the three in the coulee made fast progress over the first two miles. Charley led. After him came Marylyn, to whom the loathed split in the plain was become a place of refuge. In the rear, covering her sister against possible attack, followed Dallas.

The strain told first on the younger girl. Before three miles had been traveled, as she sank in a shallow pool to wet her lips her strength utterly failed her. She could not rise and pleaded faintly for rest.

"Just a minute, Dallas, please. I can't go My side hurts."

Dallas helped her through a hindering weave of pond weeds and lilies and laid her upon some marsh grass beyond. Meanwhile Charley stole back a short distance. But the respite was [illegible] be returned straightway and [illegible] at their dresses, when the [illegible] ed the younger to her [illegible] g encouragement.

[illegible] they pressed forward. The lightning had ceased. With a last grumble and a scatter of drops the clouds were pulling apart. Here and there a few stars shone. These thinned the darkness considerably, and at a point where the coulee shallowed Dallas was able dimly to see the tolling shapes ahead. Marylyn was wavering.

"Spunky little girl!" urged the older girl. Lifting the rifle to her left shoulder, she came alongside to give the support of an arm.

"Where's the cartridge belt?" she whispered.

"Heavy," panted the other. "Dropped it."

And now despite Dallas' aid Marylyn straggled weakly. Another mile and with scarcely a sigh of warning she sank again exhausted.

"Charley," called Dallas. The Indian joined them. "You take one arm—that's it." She took the other. Thus they proceeded.

Finally Dallas stopped. "Hide, hide," she counseled between breaths. "A dark place"—

Ignoring the advice, the outcast thrust his bow and arrows into her hands, then, squatting before Marylyn, he seized her wrist, drew her, limp and half dead, upon his back and staggered on.

"Hold to Charley, dear," begged Dallas. "He's carrying you pickapack."

The younger girl murmured gratefully and locked her hands beneath the Indian's chin. This left his arms free to part a path through the thickets of burweed and plantain that choked the defile, and for fully a half hour he kept a good jog. But, well worn and hampered as he was, he began then to wabble.

Dallas gave him the weapons and received Marylyn upon her own shoulders. Notwithstanding the long way her vigor remained splendid. And when there came a tendency to lag she fought it stoutly. Not until her limbs refused their service did she drop down.

Under her wild rye made a cool, stiff couch. She reached through it and dug her fingers into the wet earth. Marylyn toppled over back and lay beside her, prone. Charley leaned on an elbow, breathing hard, watching—

When, far behind, down the shadowy crack through which they had come, sounded wild whoops.

They scrambled up, terror stricken. Like hunted deer they whipped away again, knowing that in their wake, instead of the one man they had seen, was a horde!

Once more, though after brave effort, it was Marylyn who compelled a halt. Dallas strove to rouse her. "Try a little longer, honey. Come on, come on!" But the other only sobbed hysterically until Charley put his hand upon her mouth.

"Can't we crawl out?" demanded Dallas. "Quick, they'll pass!"

The outcast shook his head, coming close that she might see his answer.

"No use?"

He shook his head again and signed that their pursuers had horses.

It was a moment of supreme despair. She laid her arms upon her knees, her face upon her arms. Their puny human power had failed. Where else could they look for succor? Would Lounsbury or the troopers come—in time?

Then, tearfully, prayerfully, in this utmost need, she raised her eyes to the sky. "It's not for me," she faltered. "It's for Marylyn."

That upward glance was set in vain. In front of her, lifting their plumelike tops against the heavens, she saw the clump of burial trees. Instantly she took heart, for her quick brain devised a plan—to hide in the cottonwoods!

But all three might not stay, for however much the Sioux avoided the laden boughs they would stop to search them if there were not those ahead to draw them past. And one of those ahead must be a woman.

So she decided. Bending to her sister, she lifted her to a sitting position. "Honey," she said firmly, "you see the big trees there? The Indians are afraid of 'em, remember. They'll go by. We'll put you up on a limb, and you keep quiet. You'll be safe. We'll go on for help."

"Yes, yes, Dallas, only I can't walk."

"Charley!" The elder girl bade him assist. Without understanding fully he obeyed. Together they carried Marylyn toward the cottonwoods, out of which several lank, gray bodies shifted into view and shot away. Dallas chose a tree that grew close to the steep bank. Here in the narrow space between trunk and rooty wall she ordered Charley to get down on all fours. Then, taking Marylyn upon her shoulders as before and steadying herself with both hands, she stood on the Indian's back. Little by little, bracing with legs and arms, he raised his load. Marylyn was now below a thick branch. By reaching up and summoning the remnant of her strength she was able to clasp it, to put a foot over, to get astride.

CORRECT COURT DRESS

DRESS FOR ROYAL LEVEES RIGIDLY LAID DOWN.

Official Book on the Subject Has Been Issued to Secure Uniformity in Gorgeous Trappings of Those Who Surround His Majesty — Six Buttons Instead of Seven Is Now the Rule in Men's Coats.

Not the least important of the duties performed by the Lord Chamberlain's Department is that of instructing the ignorant as to the correct dress which should be worn by the different ranks and professions at the royal courts, levees, and state parties. So many different styles of dress are permissible, and such are the details to be attended to if one desires to be absolutely correct, that even the best court tailors are sometimes in doubt, and the result has been a want of uniformity which has often caused annoyance to His Majesty.

In consequence, an official book, entitled "Dress Worn at Court" has been published, which forms an authoritative guide for those attending His Majesty's court. From this book one learns, for instance, that there are two styles of court dress which may be worn by gentlemen who have no special uniform. In the coat of the new style one must be careful that it is of black silk velvet, single-breasted, and with stand collar. It must have plain gauntlet cuffs, with pocket flaps and three points on the waist seam. There must be two buttons at the waist behind and two buttons at the bottom of the tails, the body of the coat being lined with black silk, while the tails are lined with black.

There should be exactly six buttons and button-holes in the new style of coat, whereas the old style had seven. The latter also had three notched holes and buttons on the gauntlet cuffs, with six buttons behind instead of four, as in the new style. Often a civilian who has attended court has erroneously worn a coat combining features of the two styles.

Special attention must also be paid to the waistcoat that should be worn with both styles of velvet court dress, as these have hitherto often been of the wrong material. They should be of white satin or black silk velvet, not of white corded silk or black Marcella, these last two materials being only permissible with the cloth court dress.

Then, again, mayors often make mistakes in regard to their chains of office. These should never be worn with a military uniform; but a mayor who is also a clergyman may attend court in full canonicals, wearing his mayoral chain over his gown. With court suits, by the way, plain gold or pearl studs should be in the shirt front, and watch chains should not be worn. The black silk fob with seals, if worn, should hang from the fob pocket on the right side.

The ladies must observe the following rules amongst others: "Feathers should be worn so that they can be clearly seen on approaching the presence, with white veils or lappets. Colored feathers are inadmissible, but in deep mourning black feathers may be worn. White gloves only are to be worn, excepting in case of mourning, when black or grey gloves are admissible.

"The King has been pleased to permit that a high court dress, according to the following description, may be worn in future at Their Majesties' courts, and on other state occasions, by ladies to whom, from illness, infirmity, or advancing age the present low court dress is inappropriate—viz., bodices in front, cut square or heart shape, which may be filled in with white only, either transparent or lined; at the back, high, or cut down three-quarter height. Sleeves to elbow, either thick or transparent. Trains, gloves, and feathers as usual. It is necessary for ladies who wish to appear in 'high court dress' to obtain permission through the Lord Chamberlain, unless they have already received it."

Prof. McLean's Career.

Simon James McLean, whom the Dominion Government has appointed a railway commissioner, is still a young man, but has had a very brilliant and creditable career.

He is about 38 years old, and was born near Ottawa, and received his early education in the Ottawa schools and Collegiate. He graduated from Toronto University in 1894 in political science, and took his LL.B. in 1898. He then went to Columbia University and received his M.A., and from there went to Chicago University where he took the degree of Ph.D.

He was appointed an associate professor in the University of Arkansas, and from there went to Leland Stanford University, of which he was acting head of a department for a time. Lastly he came back to Toronto University, and for three years has been associate professor of political sciences there. Prof. McLean was well liked by the students, and was especially well up in his work. For such a young man he has done a great amount of research work, and has written much for various journals on railway and transportation problems as well as on banking and finance.

Rejects Undesirables.

Thomas Robinson, the recently-appointed immigration officer at Windsor, has started in to conduct an aggressive campaign against the cheap alien labor which for some time has been flooding the western part of Ontario. He turned back a batch of 25 Poles who crossed over recently with dinner baskets, hoping to get work at the Windsor end of the tunnel. No attempt is being made to conduct retaliatory tactics as against the United States' head tax, which continues to be imposed upon Canadians going into the United States for the first time, but a strong effort will be made to keep out the objectionable class of foreigners which for some time past has been invading the country in ever-increasing numbers at border points.

Meets Five Bears.

Roy Coon, of Apsley, came across five bears in a field of marsh hay near his home a few days ago, and, having taken his gun with him, shot two of them. The other three disappeared in the woods near at hand, one of them carrying in his hide a shot that had failed to reach his vitals. Coon had with him only a few cartridges, as he did not expect to meet any game. The bears he killed were the mother and a well-grown cub.

FACTS ABOUT COUNTIES.

Some of Them Are Larger Than Many of the States.

The county is a territorial division that the United States derived from Great Britain, where the counties correspond to the provinces or departments of other European countries and in a limited sense to the states of the American Union. An Englishman addresses a letter to "Parkinton, Hants," as we address a letter to "Columbus, O.," or "Elmira, N.Y."

One state, which derives its usages from French and not from English originals, has no counties at all. In Louisiana these subdivisions of the state are still called parishes, both officially and in ordinary speech, though they are now divided into many real parishes of the church.

There are about 3,000 counties in the Union, with an average size of about 1,000 square miles, but this average is enormously exceeded in many instances and is also frequently fallen below. Leaving out certain great unsettled counties in the west, the average county would be about 500 square miles in extent.

In much of the western part of the country the size of the county is regulated mathematically. It consists of sixteen townships, each composed of thirty-six square miles, making 576 square miles in all. In other words, each township is six miles square and each county twenty-four miles square.

In Iowa there are thirty-nine counties that were formed in this way, each one of which has exactly 576 square miles. Such divisions were possible in the newer west, where these minor political divisions were made in advance of settlement. In the older parts of the country the territorial arrangements were largely accidental.

The largest county in the United States is Yavapai county, Ariz., which has an area of almost 30,000 square miles. Nine states of the Union are each smaller than this county. It is larger than the whole of West Virginia and almost as large as South Carolina.

The sixteen counties of Montana average a greater size than the state of Massachusetts.

Among the other great counties of the Union are San Bernardino and San Diego, in California, which are not only vast regions, but contain a great productive territory; Humboldt and Lincoln counties, in Nevada, which are only sparsely populated, and Lincoln county, N. M., which bids fair in time to have a large population.

Although the New England states are small, the average size of the counties is greater than in most of the middle, western and southern states. Worcester county, in Massachusetts, is an example of an eastern county that is at the same time large in area and very populous. It is larger than the adjoining state of Rhode Island.

The smallest state in the Union has the smallest county as well, Bristol county, R. I., has only twenty-five square miles. At one place it is not more than two miles in breadth.

Thread in Surgery.

Are you aware that the modern surgeon employs in his work dozens of different kinds of thread for sewing up cuts and wounds? Among them are kangaroo tendons, horsehair, silk, and very fine silver wire. Many of these threads are intended to hold for a certain number of days, and then naturally break away. The short, tough tendons taken from the kangaroo, which are used for sewing severe wounds, will hold for about four weeks before they break away. Silk thread will remain much longer, sometimes six months, while the fine silver wire is practically indestructible.

With the entire outfit a surgeon is able to select a thread that will last as long as the wound takes to heal, and will then disappear completely. To accommodate this assortment of threads, special varieties of needles are required. Besides the needle curved in different segments of a circle, surgeons use needles shaped like spears, javelins and bayonet points.

Queer Auction Custom.

"Candle auction" is an ancient custom which still survives in Somersetshire, England. A valuable piece of meadow land in the village of Tatworth was sold recently by auction while the candle burned. The ceremony consists of the burning of an inch of candle, the last bidder before the candle's final flicker becoming the tenant for the ensuing year. Previous to the auction freeholders assembled for a supper of bread and cheese, beer and pickles, the funds for this being provided from the "colting" of the new tenant. Fines are also imposed for speaking, nose blowing, laughing out loud and moving, other than bidding, while the candle is burning.

The Last Straw.

She was one of those women who always present a woefully untidy appearance during the early part of the day. In vain had her husband remonstrated with her on her unfastened blouse and unkempt hair. It was not until aid came from an unexpected quarter that victory was his. They had removed to a new house on the previous day, and when she answered the summons of the front door bell a humble looking woman awaited her.

"Oh, I see it's too late!" sighed the woman. "I called to see if the missis wanted a charwoman, but I see she's suited."

Her Ears in Danger.

PRISON LABOR FOR REFORESTRATION

The people of Oshawa contribute annually $2500 a year as their share of the cost of running the public matters presided over by the county council, says The Oshawa Vindicator. Year by year the amount continues to increase, possibly for good and just reasons. It is remarkable how skillfully each succeeding body of men can devise schemes by which the annual toll can be increased. It is remarkable how seldom a public man can arise and demonstrate how expenses can be reduced. It is a common practice for the public to fawn upon the individual who adds to their burden and to take very little heed of the stray man who endeavors to economize. At the risk of securing considerable blame, and possibly earning public ostracism, we propose to show, not only how the county can economize, but to show how their entire obligations can be absolutely wiped out. There are thousands of acres of land in the north of this country which is annually being sold for taxes at the county council chambers in Whitby. Let us assume that the total of these wild lands amounts to 10,000 acres. The county council should not dispose of a single acre. It should be held by them in perpetuity as a birthright of the people. A large share of our direct taxation comes from maintaining prisoners in Whitby, who spend their time cracking stone and whitewashing cellars at a direct loss to every ratepayer in the county. These men should be transported and camped out, under guard, upon these lands during the months of May and June. Here they should be set to work at planting suitable trees upon the lands held for arrears of taxes. In the short compass of a single generation these lands, subjected to reforestation at no cost for labor, would be worth $50 per acre. The 10,000 acres would be worth $500,000 to the county. This sum, placed at interest of 5 per cent., would yield $25,000 a year, which amount should cover the full cost of running the county without any further resort to direct taxation. If repeated a second time the county could soon begin to pay a dividend to the minor municipalities. The possibilities of reforestration to a young county such as we possess can scarcely be imagined.

From another aspect of the case let us present a few possibilities. There are 1567 miles of highway in the county, 1000 miles of which are suitable for trees, with a tree planted every 50 feet on each side of the road, would give 200 trees to the mile, or 200,000 trees in the county. In 15 years a second tree should be planted midway between the other two. In 30 years each tree of the first planting would be worth $2.50, for firewood, if harvested with prison labor, showing a total value of $500,000 for the first crop. In 15 years afterwards another $500,000 could be reaped from the second crop. As each tree is removed subsequently a new tree should be planted in the place.

In this way the county can secure $500,000 from prison labor every 15 years.

As yet we are only infants and have not learned to look ahead any further than just to see clearly where our next meal is to come from "to cast our bread upon the waters". Undoubtedly some slight amendments to the municipal Act will be required before the county can launch out upon a scheme such as we have outlined. At present, the act permits only the sale of lands in arrears for taxes, but a very little twist can make it fit into other requirements. Here is a chance for Gibson and Sinclair to inaugurate something new at the county seat.

Bright Building Prospects in the West

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 1.—The new and much needed collegiate institute for the city will be built this year and will probably be completed and ready for use late in the fall. This has been decided upon by the school board and active negotiations are already under way to secure a site. The new collegiate will contain 30 rooms and will cost about $300,000.

The railway interests concerned in the building of the new Union Stock yards at Winnipeg have assured the St. Boniface council that their initial expenditure would aggregate $400,000. The chief engineer and the general superintendent of the C. P. R. will leave at once for the south and will make a most careful inspection of the largest and most modern stock yards in the United States, including those of Chicago, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Mo., Omaha and South St. Paul. The new stock yards at Winnipeg will be second only to Chicago in capacity and equipment. The live stock industry of the west will have made a substantial advance in the completion of this great project at Winnipeg.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn teary youths back to flesh again. That is impossible, but I can now apply kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it unfailingly cures all curable cases of this heretofore most dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular deposits found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer with this help. We call, and in confidence recommend

"The Attack on Fort George" the Subject

The Peterborough Historical Society has another treat in store for its members and for the public generally. On Thursday evening, Feb. 11th, Mr. Barlow Cumberland will deliver an address on "The Attack on Fort York, April 27th, 1813." Mr Cumberland, who is president of the Ontario Historical Society has been very active in the agitation for the restoration of the Old Fort, Toronto, and of course, equally active in opposing all attempts to detract from its historic value. He has delivered this address at many meetings in Ontario and Quebec, and it has always been much appreciated.

Regarding the attack on Fort York, Clements' History says;—"American historians gravely assert that the American troops found hung up over the speaker's chair in the Legislative Assembly Chamber a human scalp, which so incensed them that they proceeded to burn a number of public buildings."

Many intensely interesting details never printed in school histories are brought out in an address such as Mr. Cumberland will deliver. The Historical Society hopes that the public will take advantage of this opportunity of hearing real history. The meeting will be held in the Collegiate Institute.

Will Address Young Conservative Club

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, M.A., headmaster of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, has very kindly consented to deliver an address before the members of the Young Conservative Club on Saturday evening next Feb. 6th. His subject will be "Caesar." The great Roman general, who conquered Britain, and left perhaps the greatest name in history ultimately yielded up his life to what the Romans thought was his dangerous desire to rule them as king and dictator. He is best remembered, however, by the average man as the author of "The Commentaries," which begin with the oft-quoted statement that all Gaul is divided into three parts. The club has been very fortunate in securing Mr. Kenner for one of its series of educational lectures. Members only are entitled to attend. This provision has been found necessary in order to preserve the privileges of the club to members. A short musical program will also be presented. The chair will be taken at eight o'clock sharp.

New Tax Slip to be Issued Soon

One of the best resolutions passed so far this year, so far as the aldermen, personally are concerned, was the one introduced and moved by Ald. Bradburn, to the effect that the tax slips this year be made out for the different purposes for which the money is used. The resolution was contained in the report of the committee of the whole and was as follows;

That the tax bills for this year be made out so as to show the amounts collected for general city purposes, Public school purposes, Collegiate Institute purposes, and Separate school purposes separately, and that if this causes such extra work that the collectors' rolls cannot be made out in time the mayor be authorized to procure assistance to do the work.

By this means the ratepayers will see at a glance what they have to pay for general city taxes, and what they have to pay for schools and other purposes. In a large measure it will reduce the amount of blame that is usually placed on the aldermen for spending so much money and increasing the taxes when they are not always responsible.

This week we are selling a line of books at 23 cents. Be sure and see these values. Best yet. Times Bookstore.

WEDDING BELLS

ANDERSON-PORTER

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, Jan. 27th, at 5.30 p. m., at the home of Mr Joseph Porter, of Halleboro, when his eldest daughter, Miss Eva Josephine, was united in marriage to Mr. Edmund Anderson.

The drawing room was very prettily decorated with evergreens and flowers for the occasion.

The bride was given away by her father and entered the room to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march which was played by Miss Vina Moncrief, of Hensfort.

The bride looked handsome in a gown of white silk with garniture of point lace. Her veil was surmounted by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower of bride's roses.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Fannie Porter, and the groom was supported by Mr. Fred Anderson. Miss Roberta Anderson and Miss Helen Porter were ribbon girls. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. A. McKenzie.

After congratulations guests to number of sixty partook of a dainty dejeuner. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and valuable gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have the best wishes of a large circle of friends for their future welfare.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. So he publishes, broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies formulas said. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements, giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied, oftimes, with a debilitating, pelvic, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nervine and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

THE RING

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 1.—Joe Gans, the former lightweight champion, who has scheduled to fight Young Erne at the Washington Sporting Club of Philadelphia on Feb. 10, has called the bout off. Gans is suffering from neuralgia of the heart, and is confined to his room at the present time. Gans stated that he acted upon the imperative command of his physician, and that he hoped to arrange another date for the meeting.

Reports from the West credit Cyclone Johnny Thompson with being hot on the trial of Battling Nelson. The latest one from the land of the setting sun is that the Chicagoan has offered $5,000 to the battler if he can stop him in forty-five rounds. Furthermore, Thompson has stated that he will post the money thirty days before the contest in the event of the champion agreeing to the match. Failing in his attempt to bait Nelson into a battle, Thompson declares that he will wager the $5,000 on himself in a contest with Packy McFarland or Freddie Welsh. Close observers of the doings of knights of the padded mitts say that the "Cyclone" has made this offer with a view to regaining some of the prestige lost by a recent defeat at the hands of Peter Sullivan. Furthermore, others have been cruel enough to say that the $5,000 is a myth, the foundation of which can be traced to the shrewd mind of a capable press agent.

Battling Nelson, who is east at present, has been bothered so much of late by promoters who are trying to induce him to enter the ring in a short-distance go with his many challengers that the lightweight king has issued a statement which he hopes will still for a time the continual clamor. Nelson has stated that he will not meet McFarland or Welsh in a ten-round match, declaring that he is not a ten-round fighter, and that as long as he is champion he will dictate the terms for contests with his rivals and will not be forced into any short-distance bouts. This decided stand on the part of the battler may bring about the elimination fights that he suggests between McFarland, Welsh, Cross, Thompson, and other aspiring glove wielders.

Bronchitis

SCIENTIFICALLY TREATED

The best authorities agree that bronchitis is treated most scientifically by Catarrhozone, which goes right to the root of the trouble.

Bronchitis can be treated successfully only by a remedy carried direct to the affected parts along with the air breathed.

Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic and is inhaled at the mouth, and afterpassing through all the air passages of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, is exhaled through the nose.

The healing vapor of Catarrhozone goes wherever the air you breathe goes, and reaches every part that is affected. No matter how deep-seated the bronchial irritation may be, Catarrhozone is sure to reach it.

Catarrhozone protects and heals the mucous membrane, stops the cough, heals up the sores, and is guaranteed to bring speedy relief and sure cure.

By means of the inhaler Catarrhozone treats the local symptoms of bronchial trouble very effectually. The poisons and impurities in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone, which is a wonderful tonic and stimulant for the entire system.

Ferrozone is a muscle and tissue builder, increases the appetite aids digestion and makes the body so healthy and strong that bronchitis goes away for good.

A prominent steamboat owner, well known throughout Eastern Ontario, Captain Dunlop of Kingston, was perfectly cured of Bronchitis by Catarrhozone. The Captain had suffered for more than 20 years, and says that Catarrhozone is the best cure for Bronchitis on the face of the globe.

Mr A. J. Calhoun, a prominent citizen of Neepawa, Manitoba, speaks very appreciatively of Catarrhozone as a specific for Bronchitis, and states that his wife could not get along without it.

Everyone that has used Catarrhozone is satisfied that it is superior to all other remedies. It is delightful to inhale, simple and convenient to use, and relieves from the first breath taken through the inhaler.

Better try Catarrhozone. All druggists sell and recommend it. Complete outfit, price $1.00; trial size 25c. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Margaret Cox Home for Girls Discribed in Ups and Downs for January

In the Ups and Downs issue for January appears a number of cuts of the Margaret Cox Home for Girls, and an excellent cut of the donor, Hon. Senator Geo. A. Cox. Among the views shown are one of the exterior showing the new wing, the interior view of the infirmary, a domitory, the dining hall and school room. Speaking editorially of the Home's benefactor, Ups and Downs says;—

SENATOR COX.

We have the privilege of presenting our readers with a portrait of our generous benefactory, the Hon Senator Geo. A. Cox, who has lately completed the construction of a large additional wing to the Girls' Home at Peterborough, as well as a thorough restoration and refitting of the original building. No expense has been spared by Senator Cox in making the Institution complete in all its appointments, and providing everything necessary for the comfort and convenience of its inmates. The gift is a princely one, and again, on behalf of the Council of the Homes and on behalf of all our boys and girls in Canada and friends of the work everywhere, we offer Senator Cox our heart-felt and grateful thanks for his noble liberality.

CHRISTMAS AT "HAZEL BRAE."

How did we spend Christmas, 1908, at Hazel Brae? Why, just in the old way—with a difference, and the difference may be summed up in two words—more and better. More room, more people, both girls and grown-ups, more kind gifts towards the good cheer of the day, and a better hall for the various functions, a house re-decorated and repaired, prettier Christmas decorations and a better program.

Such a number of girls wrote asking invitations for the week end, but Miss Kennedy steeled her heart against all but those from "old-timers" who by long, faithful service had won a right to consideration. Even so, about seventy-sat down to the Christmas dinner in what has for so long been the staff dining room, but will hereafter be used as an office. With us, sharing and assisting in the entertainment, were Miss Phyllis Bayley Miss Grace Reazin and Miss Adams. The Christmas tree a programs for afternoon and ev g were this year in charge of Mrs Crowther, to whose industry and careful preparation the success of all was largely due Miss Adelaide Pearse had, with of old trained the children in singing sweet Christmas carols, some of the old ones that we always want and other pretty new songs, one being sent us by our friend, Mrs. Lakeman, of Aspdin.

We had hoped to have the company in the afternoon of a very old friend to Hazel Brae and Hazel Brae girls, Mrs. F. Haultain, but we were disappointed in this owing to the stormy weather. Canon Davidson came up, as in past years, to distribute the gifts from the tree, and in his subsequent talk to the children remarked on the great change in the appearance of the home and expressed his appreciation of all that has been so liberally done for us by Senator Cox. The canon also referred lovingly to the old friends of former years, some of whom would be with us in thought that afternoon.

Now and then steps turn involuntarily to doors which are—not there any longer! And we looked across the lawn to a little old wooden school room, standing dark and silent now, in which there had been so much good fun and simple, kindly pleasure on former Christmas Days. Never mind, it is going to be very useful still, and school will be held there when the children begin lessons again.

Quite a number more guests came in during the afternoon, and it was well we had our new hall in which to receive them. Pleasure and gratitude, and, I am afraid, a good deal of pride, filled our minds when we looked around the spacious room, well lighted, airy and lofty, and which lent itself so well to the decorative effects planned by Miss Crowther and her helpers.

The evening's program, besides singing and recitations by our girls and visitors, included a series of tableaux vivants, illustrating the old fairy tales, Cinderella, Bluebeard, etc., and it was wonderful what good effects were obtained with colored lights and so forth. The dresses also had been very carefully arranged, and much credit was due to those who had spent so much time and thought in preparing for the evening's pleasure.

I have been asked, on behalf of those who took part in this very pleasant Christmas Day at Hazel Brae, to express thanks to Miss Pierce for her untiring efforts to promote the pleasure and comfort of all. It was remarked, as the children went off to bed about ten o'clock, that there had really not been one "hitch" in carrying out the arrangements for the day. All had gone smoothly and happily. We looked upon the day as to some extent an "opening" of our new quarters for the church, and the visitors were much interested in going through the house, admiring especially the nice, airy dormitories with their rows of pretty little white beds. What comfort they will offer hereafter to the crowds of tired little seafarers for whom we had formerly such inadequate provision. So our thoughts turn backwards and forwards with gratitude and hope.

Catholic Bride of Montreal Crossed Border to Get Married to Protestant

Special Train Carried a Hundred Guests to New York, Where Rich Montrealer's Daughter was Wedded

COULDN'T GET A DISPENSATION IN CANADA

Plattsburg, N.Y., Feb. 3.—In the rectory of the Catholic church of this city was celebrated yesterday the marriage of Miss Mabel A. Slater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Slater of Montreal, and Charles W. Moffitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moffitt of New York.

Mr. Slater is a wealthy shoe manufacturer, and the elder Mr. Moffitt is a real estate operator of New York city.

The bridegroom is a Protestant and the bride a Catholic. Failing to obtain a dispensation in Canada, they brought the bridalparty and a hundred guests over the line in a special train and had the marriage performed here.

After the ceremony the train returned to Montreal, where a dinner reception and dance for 300 guests were given by the parents of the bride in the Hotel Windsor.

A ROMANTIC STORY.

Montreal, Feb. 3.—The father of the groom in the romantic Slater-Moffitt marriage is a millionaire real estate operator, whose residence in Manhattan is next to that of Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate.

HOW IT BEGAN.

Today's event is the culmination of a romance begun three years ago, when the youngpeople met in crossing the Atlantic en route for the Mediterranean—she fresh from a school, and he a student at Princeton. The acquaintance begun on shipboard opened rapidly into love among the ruins of Egypt. The youth cancelled his passage for the return trip, lost all thought of the class rooms in the old New Jersey town, and followed the young lady and her family through the capitals of Europe and back to the States.

SENT BACK TO SCHOOL.

Here the parents of the young man and the girl took a hand in the affair. He was sent back to college, and she returned to her school. Mr. Moffitt was bent upon having his son take his degree before entering business. He told the youth he was too young to marry, and to forget it. So he kept him at his books, and during vacations encouraged the youth to take up yachting and automobiling, hunting and travel. Having accumulated a fortune, Mr. Moffitt was able to gratify his son's every wish.

This evening, in the banquet hall of the Windsor Hotel, the parents of the bride will give a wedding supper to the members of the family and intimate friends, followed by a reception to over 300.

A SIX WEEKS' HONEYMOON.

The bride and groom will leave Montreal, Wednesday evening for Palm Beach on a tour of six weeks, going by way of Quebec, St. John and New York.

On their return in the spring they will occupy the residence erected in the village of Islip on the south shore of Long Island at a cost of $25,000, a wedding present from the parents of the groom, and adjoining the Willowbrook estate, a beautiful country home.

Here's a Chance for Peterborough Girls

Toronto, Feb. 3.—Mr. F. G. Morley, secretary of the Board of Trade, has received the following letter from Thomas Fitzgerald, 1412 Main avenue, Spokane, Washington, dated Jan. 27th, 1909: "I wish you would give me the address of some matrimonial agency, or send this to them. I am interested in the best district in Western Canada (in Alberta), and there is in that district several men of different ages, mostly young men, who are in good circumstances, owning from 160 to 640 acres of as good land as is on this continent, and are single, and all need good women, and nowhere in my broad and lengthy travels over this continent do I know of a better class of women than are to be found in Ontario, the birthplace of my mother. This may be a new one to you, but it is a necessary one wishing information on this matter at your earliest convenience.

Cricket Club Annual Meeting and Election of Officers was Held

The prospects for the good old game of cricket for 1909 are very bright and should be the most successful in the history of the club. Last year was very satisfactory and the members are well pleased with their showing. The annual meeting was held in the Y.M.C.A. parlors last night when there was a large and enthusiastic attendance. Reports of the various committees were presented and adopted. The financial statement showed a small balance to the club's credit while the property report showed the material on hand to be all in good shape.

One of the features of this year's club will be the active part Mr. C. Hill will take in the game. He is an enthusiastic cricketer, and was elected president.

A very interesting feature of the meeting was the presentation of the medal for the highest batting average for the season to Mr. Geo. Marshall. His average was 20 runs per innings, which is indeed good average. Marshall is one of the best men on the team.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The following officers were then elected;—

Hon. President—Dr. Burnham.
Hon. Vice Pres.—Mr. Matthews.
President—Mr. C. Hill.
Vice-Pres.—Mr. Dela Fosse.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. C. Poussette.
Patrons and Patronesses—Mr. J. R. Stratton, M.P., and Mrs. Stratton, Messrs. A. P. Poussette, R. R. Hall, T. F. Matthews, Montizambert, Dr. Young and T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P.

Another meeting will be held in about six weeks when the players will begin to get into shape for the season's fun.

Mr. Dumble is Not to Blame

In yesterday's issue The Times referred to two heating systems in the public schools being unsatisfactory, naming the West Ward and the King Edward schools. Mr. Dumble had nothing to do with the King Edward school as he was not on that committee, and as a system used there. He was connected with the West Ward school and had a hot air system installed and he claims it will be all right.

Brown and Clegg Curled a Tie Game Last Night, Each Took Eleven Shots

There were two hard fought battles at the curling rink last night which attracted a lot of attention and which created a lot of enthusiasm. One was between J. Connal's rink and H. R. H. Kenner's rink. From beginning to end the score was in favor of first one side and then the other. Kenner's rink started off with a lead of three, but latter on Connal's men got together and took a couple of ends which brought them up. The final score was 11 to 12 in favor of the scholastic profession.

Messrs. E. B. Clegg's and C. N. Brown's rinks played a tie game by Brown taking three shots in the last end. He tried hard for the fourth but his last stone did not come just right.

A peculiar thing is the way Mr. T. F. Matthews' rink hangs to the number 13. His rink number is 13 and last night his score was 13. While on several other occasions he has made 13, and the best of it is the number has usually been a lucky one.

There were seven games last night. The rinks and scores were as follows;—

C. James	C. D. Biggs
W. S. McIntosh	W. Adamson
J. D. Collins	J. A. McCone
C. N. Brown—12	J. E. A. Fitzgerald—7
J. Davidson	J. F. Gross
W. Hall	J. R. Barber
G. Ferguson	D. Dennison
W. M. Lang—12	J. H. Ferguson—5
F. R. Poyser	R. Beat
N. McWilliams	S. J. Stubbs
Dr. Wightman	A. Mowatt

Port Hope Needs a Smallpox Expert

Council Wants Provincial Board of Health to Send a Man--One Guard for All

Port Hope, Feb. 3.—That the storiea which are current as to prevalence and danger of smallpox are exaggerated seems certain, but while there is no one willing to come out and back the insinuations which have been made to the effect that certain local physicians are not taking sufficient precautions to check the to check the spread of disease, there seems to be unrest among the towns people because more care is not being paid to the epidemic, and matters are not being dealt with more strictly. At present there are nine cases of the disease, and these are located in different parts of the town. The houses where the patients are have been placed under quarantine, but this only applies where those quarantined see fit to allow it.

For the entire town there is but one guard, and he makes his rounds twice a day, leaving the inmates of the homes which have been placarded to shift for themselves.

Speaking to a newspaper representative of the rumor which was in circulation that some of the doctors of the town were going from houses where the disease existed to houses which were perfectly free from it. Dr. W. F. Clemensha stated that he did not think there was a single case where a practitioner had done anything which could spread the epidemic, nor did he know of one patient who had taken smallpox after having been brought into contact with a physician who had been with a smallpoxpatient.

"We are doing what we think is advisable under the circumstances," was the way in which Mr. George N. Patterson, chairman of the Board of Health, spoke of the action of that body.

Coming "To Put the Finishing Touches On"

Probably the fastest and most exciting game ever played on Peterborough ice will be played on Friday night when the local Midgets will clash with the Peterborough seven for the district honors. The midgets are practicing hard for the struggle and will be in the pink of condition when they step on the ice. If the ice is in good condition the Midgets will show the Quaker City a thing or two. A special train will be run from town and a big crowd is expected to take in the game. If the Midgets win they will have the district won without a loss. The fare for the trip will be one dollar.—Lindsay Post.

The Lindsay Midgets on Friday evening next will meet the Peterborough fast seven in Peterborough for the district championship and for the large crowd which will follow the team, the managers have arranged with the Grand Trunk Railway to pull out a special from the local depot, leaving at 7 o'clock sharp. Fare $1.00, return. The special will again leave Peterborough after the game at 11 o'clock sharp. A large crowd should be in attendance at the game to assist the blue and white socks of the old Lindsay burg to put the finishing touches on the blue and white of Peterborough.

The game, above all doubts, will be fast and exciting and will be clean hockey if the Midgets know what they are doing.

If the Peterborough seven play hockey, and not shinny, the locals will give them a chas even on their own ice.

The Midgets have had successful practices, and all that is needed now is a sure "coon" which counts in clean hockey.—Lindsay Free Press.

Montreal Has Another 'Quake or Another Attack of Nerves

Montreal, Feb. 3.—A great many Montrealers were startled by what was believed to be another earthquake shock early this morning.

It came at two minutes after four o'clock, and those who felt it say that it was as severe as the shock of Monday morning. The declare that it seemed as though there had been a big explosion close by.

Though a large number of people declare that they felt the shock, local scientists are inclined to be skeptical, and say that Montrealers are evidently suffering from "nerves."

There was no record of the alleged movement on the seismograph at McGill University.

ITALIANS EXCITED.

Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 3.—Fearful that an earthquake was about to occur, six hundred Italian children at Our Lady of Mount Carmel school were thrown into a state of great excitement at ten o'clock this morning, but through the strict observance of the fire drill no one was injured. The skies darkened with the fall of snow, and a little girl who had heard of the death-dealing quake shrieked, and a panic almost resulted.

The report was circulated that the school was on fire and that children were burning up, and hundreds of frantic fathers and mothers rushed to the school to get their little ones.

Championship Game in City League Tonight

Brock street rink should be crowded tonight to see the big game in the City League between Lakefield and last year's champions, the Strathconas. Neither of these teams have lost a game this year. They are both in fine condition and both are confident of winning. Lakefield will bring a bunch of rooters down with them and there promises to be a merry time. The game is the most important of the season, as the winner, bar accidents, will be the best team and will no doubt take the championship honors.

Judging from the exhibitions of the two teams in previous games the Strathconas appear to be a little the best, and they are picked to win, although they will have to play the best kind of hockey they know how. They have, however, a pretty evenly balanced team and a very strong man at point in McWilliams.

Lakefield have a fast bunch and they will play to the last minute in an endeavor to take the City League honors to Drytown.

The teams will line up as follows;

STRATHCONAS—
Goal—Wilson.
Point—McWilliams.
Cover—Dusty.
Rover—Dobson.
Center—Long.
Right—Seymour.
Left—McMillan.

LAKEFIELD—
Goal—W. Croft.
Point—Mc Sabatini.
Cover—Quinn.
Rover—Simpson.
Center—T. Sabatini.
Right—Moran.
Left—Quigley.

The referee has not yet been decided on, but will likely be an outside man.

The championship game starts at eight o'clock, and will be played first. The Belmonts and West Ends will play afterwards.

Horse Drowned in Rice Lake

On Friday last Mr Southworth of Harwood, had the misfortune to lose a horse by drowning. He was driving across Rice Lake from Bewdley to Harwood, where he owns the butter factory. As he was passing Pine Tree Point he drove into an air hole in the ice and the horse and cutter disappeared immediately and never came up again, while Mr. Southworth had great difficulty in getting out himself. Some time afterward the horse and cutter were recovered in 15 feet of water.

It was at this point where Miss Johnston of Harwood lost her life eight years ago. She was with a party of young people driving home from a party when the team and sleigh disappeared under the ice at this point. The rest of the occupants of the sleigh escaped but Miss Johnston went into the lake, and although she was recovered she afterward died from shock and cold.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Tom Longboat, the Canadian Indian, easily won his race against a team of three men running in relays over a fifteen-mile course here to-night.

Longboat's opponents were three of the best middle distance runners of Washington, but he easily kept step with the fastest pace they could set.

PALACE A HOT BED.

London, Feb. 4.—A special despatch to The Times from Pekin declares that since the death of the Dowager Empress it has become increasingly evident that the Government is in the hands of the Regent and the Manchus and that the palace is becomin a hotbed of party faction. This, the despatch says, is reflected in wholesale impeachment by censors whose accusations seem to be indiscriminately levelled against any official person whom they choose to attack.

The Murray Street Baptist Congregation Want a New Church

A largely attended and very enthusiastic and harmonious congregational meeting was held in the Murray street Baptist church on Tuesday night when the question of providing greater accommodation for the church and Sunday school was taken up. For some time it has been felt that a new church was necessary and there is a large sized agitation on foot for a larger building. The congregation, under the pastorate of Rev. J. R. Webb, has grown very rapidly, and there is not at the present time comfortable accommodation, while the future will undoubtedly see a continuance of the church's development.

The matter of a new church or enlarging the present one was discussed, and as a result there will very probably be something doing in the building line during 1909. A committee was appointed to go carefully into the question and to secure estimates on the proposed building. This committee will have a report ready to present to the congregation at another meeting to be called early in March.

Hams Took Two From the Belmonts

The Hams took a fall out of the Belmonts last night and got away with two games out of the three. They are playing a new man named Rickey, who rolls a pretty fair ball and is a strength to the team.

The Iroquois also took two games from the Midgets, but strange to relate, both the loosing teams had the highest aggregate score.

Wareham, playing against the Hams was very irregular. Had he bowled up to his average in the second game the Belmonts would have won out and their progress up the ladder to fame would have been much brighter. He bowled 135 in the second and in the third rolled 241, but his high score was no good at the tail end.

The scores were as follows;—

Knights of Columbus Held Annual Banquet

The Knights of Columbus held their annual "at home" in their rooms on George street last night, and about 150 to 175 guests were present. The first part of the evening was spent in euchre, and there was a keen but friendly rivalry for the prizes. Messrs. Coleman Bros. were the caterers and they served a very appetizing luncheon, after which a musical program was rendered and a dance enjoyed. The affair was most enjoyable and everyone had a good time.

IF YOU HAVE

Catarrh

Remember the Best Catarrh Medicine that Money can Buy is Catarrhozone; it cures quickly and permanently when all others fail.

The remedy doesn't exist that will cure Catarrh as quickly as Catarrhozone. It relieves the most stubborn cases in a short time, and drives the disease so thoroughly from the system that it never returns.

Druggists boldly recommend Catarrhozone in preference to other remedies, because they know it is the best, and every progressive doctor prescribes it for the same good reason.

Catarrhozone is a rational, commonsense treatment that finds favor with everybody. It cures by the inhalation of medicated air, which comes into contact with the mucous surface of all the breathing organs. It gets at the source of the trouble, kills the germs and drives every vestige of catarrh right out of the system.

It doesn't matter how deep-seated or chronic your case may be, Catarrhozone can cure it. Even though a thousand other remedies have failed, don't give up hope till you have used Catarrhozone. It has cured other cases probably worse than yours, and will cure yours if it gets a chance.

Mr. Dutcher Law, a prominent citizen of Italy Cross, N. S., says: "I experimented with hundreds of Catarrh remedies and found the majority to be worthless, dismal failures. Catarrhozone was the first to give lasting relief; it cured me and I am with pleasure testifying to its merits as a cure for Catarrh of the nose and throat."

(Signed) DUTCHER LAW.

You are sure to derive the most pleasant results from Catarrhozone. It has been tested many times and never found wanting. Every druggist in Canada sells it. Complete two months' treatment, guaranteed to cure costs $1, or a trial size 50c. By mail from N. C. Poison & Co., Kingston, Ont.

CALIFORNIA AND JAPANESE

At the time of the amplified legislation against Japanese immigrants to California being mooted some weeks ago, we expressed anxiety lest hasty action at Sacramento should precipitate a situation similar to that which caused considerable friction recently between Washington and Tokyo. It required no spirit of prophecy to anticipate the storm of protest which has been evoked on the other side of the Pacific now that the proposed legislation is virtually before the California Assembly, nor the quandary in which the Federal authorities of the United States find themselves in endeavoring to maintain international harmony with Japan and national harmony with the Golden State. As we surmised, Mr. Roosevelt has begun to put into operation the executive machinery at his command to prevent the passage of the obnoxious bills, but in doing so he will satisfy only one side of the equation. The feeling in certain sections of California against the Japanese immigrant may be gauged by the expressions made use of in the draft legislation, and though this animus is not, we believe, general, it is sufficiently marked and finds enough support in influential circles to make it a very real danger. We do not believe in attaching undue gravity to a situation the chief peril of which lies in an exaggerated estimate by those affected, but we can understand the need of forceful action being taken before discontent develops into concrete friction. For the sake of our neighbors and—for the issue is one from which our interests are far from being divorced—for the sake of ourselves as citizens of the empire which is an ally of Japan, we trust that the Washington Administration may evolve a solution of the problem. We are fortunate in that the question as affecting us has been delegated for settlement to officials whom we believe to be in a position to shoulder the burden and that the people of the Canadian Pacific Coast have sufficient common sense to avoid placing obstacles in the way of expert efforts to negotiate an egress from a situation which, maladroitly handled, might well exhibit unpleasant features.

If you would have a safe, yet certain Cough Remedy in the home, try Dr. Shoop's—at least once. It is thoroughly unlike any other Cough preparation. MURDERERS DON IDIOT'S MASK

Both in Canada and the United States there is forming a public opinion on the allied subjects of crime and insanity that would make short shrift of the tragical absurdities of the law bearing upon them if it were given an opportunity to declare itself. An epigrammatic writer recently summed up the situation in Canada by saying that in this country if the present tendency went much farther no one would be sane enough or healthy enough to hang. This humorous exaggeration has too much truth in it to be passed over with a smile. In a recent Toronto case the supposed weak-mindedness of the victim of an outrageous assault was urged as a reason why her assailants should not be too strictly dealt with.

SANE ENOUGH TO HANG.

A very important decision bearing on the plea of insanity has been given by the Supreme Court of New Jersey. It takes the ground that a murderer need not be wholly sane to pay the extreme penalty of his act. The Court of Errors and Appeals has sustained this decision. The case in point is particularly interesting, in view of the fact that the alleged insanity of the murderer was not discovered until after his conviction. When the lawyers sought to save him from the gallows, but the Supreme Court has held that convicted murderers, unless proved insane at the time of their trial, are not to be judged by the same manly standards as other persons. All that is necessary is that they comprehend their impending fate. If they can understand that they are to be hanged, then hanged they will be. Even if a murderer's mental condition were such as would justify sending a free man to an asylum, it should not save his neck as long as he is sane enough to realize that he has been convicted of murder, and sentenced to be destroyed.

THE MATTEAWAN RECORD.

How the sanity plea is overworked in New York State was described in a paper read to the state Lunacy Superintendent of the Matteawan State Hospital. He showed that of thirty-four patients released from Matteawan on court orders, twelve had committed homicide. Of the same thirty-four, fourteen ultimately returned to asylums or to prison for subsequent crimes. Eleven were either useless or troublesome members of society; two committed suicide, six disappeared, and only one became partly self-supporting. That is to say, out of the thirty-four released inmates, only one should have been given his liberty. As the New York Tribune remarks, it has been altogether too easy to get prisoners into Matteawan, and too easy to get them out.

DURING HIS MAJESTY'S PLEASURE.

Just the reverse is true of the criminal who is sent to an English asylum. In the first place, it is hard to convince judge and jury that the murderer in whose defence the insanity plea is advanced should not pay the ordinary penalty for his crime. If he does escape the gallows, and goes to an asylum, his warrant for committal reads that he is to be held "during his Majesty's pleasure". The words give an erroneous impression that his detention is to be of a casual nature, and that he is apt to be released as soon as a few red-tape formalities have been undergone. But the prisoner soon finds that, to use a descriptive English phrase, he is as badly scalded as burned. Generally speaking, it is impossible for him to ever again become a free man. Not even a dozen medical certificates that the convict has recovered his mental balance will unlock the prison doors for him. There is little doubt that in the English prisons for the criminally insane there are many men and women to-day of perfectly sound mind. They are in the same position as a man who has been buried before death.

THE STERN ENGLISH LAW.

They have little or no chance of escape. The result is that the plea of insanity is not so frequently put in as in similar cases in the United States and Canada. A murderer figures out that if he tries to prove an alibi or justifiable homicide, he has, first of all, a chance of escaping altogether; then he has a chance of a ten or fifteen year stretch, and a speedy death at the worst. Even a sentence of life imprisonment carries with it the likelihood of being mitigated by good behavior to twenty-five years or so. A plea of insanity, on the other hand, means literal life imprisonment. The iron grip that English law keeps on its murderers in strong contrast to the workings of the jury system in the United States. The jury that trims the accused gives him "the benefit of the doubt", and so sends him to Matteawan, instead of to Auburn. Then, in a couple of years, another jury yanks on his sanity. Here, again, he gets the benefit of the doubt, and so becomes a free man.

The Tribune protests against the farce of juries investigating such matters as insanity, and urges what in the opinion of many, is a greater farce—trial by a medical commission of experts. The jury system may have failed in many celebrated cases, but the expert system has broken down utterly. An expert can be found to swear against any other expert on any given point. Several experts could be collected in twenty-four hours to prove that the earth is flat; but no jury could be got together to give a verdict in favor of this theory.

Dorando will not Race J. J. Hayes

Chicago, Feb. 4.—After a two hours' session with Dorando Pietri and his brother Ulpiano yesterday afternoon, J. J. Callahan and L. M. Housman, the local Marathon promoters, practically concluded to drop negotiations with the Italian runner, and endeavor to secure the winner of the Longboat-Shrubb race Friday night at New York to meet Hayes.

Johnny Hayes, Dorando's prospective opponent was the only person heard from, a telegram to Callahan in response to the announcement of Dorando's refusal reading:

"Will bet Dorando thousand on side to stiffen backbone. Have written."

Dorando yesterday reiterated all his previous objections to meeting Hayes, and that he was not afraid. He also had two more reasons for declining to meet Hayes.

"He fouled me twice in New York", the runner declared through his brother, "and if I run him again I want a revolver in each hand. I also want the infield cleared so Hayes' friends cannot yell at me or try to trip me. Some of Corey's friends tried that here."

"I am not afraid of this man Hayes," declared the Italian. "I lost the London race to him by a fluke, as you call it here. I beat him decisively in New York? Why should I run him again? Let them bring this Indian, Longboat, here, the man who beat me twice while I was out of condition."

Whether Harry Pollock and Pat Rowers, Dorando's American backers, will tolerate the Italian's refusal to carry out their contracts remains to be seen. It is not impossible that Pollock may come here to enforce the contract through the courts.

THE RUNNERS COMPARED.

New York Sun: After waiting impatiently to have the question of supremacy settled, athletic enthusiasts will see Alfred Shrubb, the English long distance professional, meet Tom Longboat, the Canadian Indian, in a Marathon race, 26 miles and 385 yards, in the Garden next Friday night. This event bids fair to be one of the most sensational episodes in American sporting history. Ever since Longboat defeated Dorando at the Marathon distance it has been maintained in many quarters that the Indian is not the greatest long distance runner in the world, and that he cannot defeat the Englishman, Shrubb.

In comparison as to build, weight, and stride, Longboat has it on the Briton. He is 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighs 143 pounds, has a stride of 6 feet 6 inches, and is 20 years old, whereas Shrubb is 5 feet 7 inches tall, scales at 138, has a stride of 5 feet 2 inches, and is 26 years old. Shrubb's best performances include 5 miles in 24.38 2-5, 10 miles in 50.40, also 51.33 2-5 and 53.00. He has covered 20 miles in training inside of two hours, but has never taken part in a race over the full Marathon distance. Longboat won the Boston Marathon, 25 miles, in 2.24.24, which is a record. He defeated Pomps. Shrubb is a wonderfully fast Dorando at 26 miles 385 yards in a man for ten or twelve miles, and it is believed that he can run away from the Indian at that distance. But the Englishman has rather weak underpinning, which may cause trouble in Friday's race.

LIKE LONGBOAT IN NEW YORK.

New York, Feb. 2.—The race which Tom Longboat ran Saturday night against four soldiers of the National Guard in Washington has boomed the Indian's stock, for his Marathon race with Alfred Shrubb, the English professional, in Madison Square Garden, on Friday night.

The Indian won easily, and ran the fifteen miles in 1.20.30. At no time was Longboat extended, and pulled up as sound as a gold eagle.

As the track was not a particularly good one, the Indian's performance has caused much speculation among the running sharps.

Praise Radium as a Cancer Cure

Paris, Feb. 4.—The impetus given in England in the last few days to the development of the uses of radium has drawn attention to the great work that is being done by the Paris Radium Institute, where Mme. Curie superintends the extraction of the wonderful substance from pitchblende and other materials.

The Institute now possesses 15 grains of radium, valued at $83,000. Experiments in the hospital connected with the Institute have been so extensive in the last three years that Dr. Degrais, in charge, says:—"We in France are no longer in a period of expectancy. We are now in a period of confirmation."

The Institute reports 94 cures of surface cancer out of 98 cases treated. Hundreds of cures have been made of cutaneous affections, including tumors, some of great size. Thousands of birth marks and scars have been removed and remarkable cures of chronic rheumatism, eczema and tuberculosis have been recorded. It is expected that during the present year the laboratory will provide six times the quantity of radium above mentioned.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional treatment, Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting a constitutional disease, requires nothing in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

THE TIMES' FINANCIAL PAGE---OF INTEREST TO THE CANADIAN INVESTOR

Maple Leaf Mines, Limited

No Personal Liability

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided Into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia, Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont, Sec-Treas. Charle Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C. Ritchie. Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 668, containing [illegible] acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

One of these rich veins crosses this fraction and forms the discovery of same. With a total of 163 acres, 60 acres of which are in the rich Cobalt field, 60 acres in the new Bonanza district, with 200,000 shares in the treasury, for development purposes, with no purchase price to be charged against same, it would seem that this proposition, based on a capitalization of $150,000, was the very thing you have been waiting for.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 26th December, 1908, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. LeVeaccate, 20 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties, in consideration of 300,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 240,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 8 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $600; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 6000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 16th of December, 1908.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

J. COLLINS DAVIES, Secretary, Orillia, Ont.

....The.... Plow Woman

"Lie down," continued Dallas. "They won't stop. Don't speak."

Hurriedly she and Charley resumed their way up the wolf haunted bottom, over rocks, through puddles, into pigmy forests of cherry and plum. But now, careless of lost time, Dallas ran with backward looks and frequent haltings, giving strict heed to the whereabouts of those behind.

They had traveled a good distance when she judged that the savages were nearing the burial place, that the time for her ruse was come. Letting the outcast go on, she paused for breath; then lifted her voice and sent back through the night a long, inviting call.

Down the wind came instant answer, a great howl of glee. And as if her presence ahead was unexpected, as if it tempted to a better speed, a jargon of cries swelled hideously and drew on.

"She's safe!" shouted Dallas exultantly. "Charley, she's safe!"

Another yowl from a score of throats.

And they began a race.

From the start it was unequal and the gain on the side of the pursuers. Gradually but surely the rods decreased between quarry and pack.

The sweat dreening from their faces, Squaw Charley and Dallas strained forward. A little while and she whispered, "Can't go—stop—can't"—

Every breath was sawing at her sore lungs. She tottered, pitched forward and went down.

It was then that Charley pointed to the front and as if to a vantage place, Dallas looked and saw at the end of sheer walls an oblong opening of grayish light. She hailed it dumbly. There was where the coulee narrowed until a man standing in its bed with arms outstretched could place the tips of his fingers against either rocky wall. There a last stand might be made. The Throat!

One helping the other, they dragged themselves on and into the opening.

The time had narrowed. Close behind, crashing through a thicket, were the warriors, announcing themselves with shrill whoops.

Dallas waited, propped against a stone. The words of the old Texas song began to run in her mind:

"We saw the Indians coming.
We heard them give a yell.
My feelings at that moment
No mortal tongue could tell."

She was spent. She had no hope of being spared from death. Yet she was strangely calm and unafraid.

"Marylyn 'll be happy," she said. "I know John Lounsbury well enough for that."

She became conscious of thirst. A branch of wild roses shining with raindrops bobbed above her. She bent the flowers to her mouth one by one and sucked their moisture. The gray of the sky was turning to pink. There was a lifting foreglow in the east.

"See, Charley," she said, "there'll be good light to fight in. But—but there's just one charge."

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

As each man of the rescuing party splashed out upon the sandy beach before Shanty Town he headed for the open level. There was no waiting for commands, no attempt at order—only the sound of labored breathing, of frantic urging, of the plying of heel and fist.

Crossing the bend the company was strung to a long, bedraggled line. It was slow going. Already the horses had stood hard usage—the detour with Matthews, the return and the severely trying swim. Fraser, given the lead, still kept it, dinging hoarse persuasion into Buckskin's flattened ears.

So far the troopers had kept silent through fear for the girls' safety—fear that the hostages if aware of pursuit would wreak instant death. But now, as their lieutenant advanced to the shack, the men behind, while trying their utmost to gain, sent forward yell upon yell to startle the Indians into dropping their captives and seeking cover.

No whoops replied, but from the doorway, unheard, the voice of a man: "Oliver, Oliver! Here!"

As the line swung up and by in a circle Fraser, weapon in hand, was down and pressing forward.

He found Lounsbury seated on the sill, from which he rose unsteadily.

"Lounsbury! Lounsbury!"

"Quick! The coulee! They went that way! Give me a lift!"

His hand was wet. Fraser caught him about the waist.

"Oh, you're wounded!"

"Too—glancing blow. But I tied it up."

"Lounsbury! Wounded!" It was Oliver.

"Up the coulee, captain! Give me a horse!"

The captain turned, shouting orders. The other tried to follow, Fraser supporting him.

"Here, somebody, a horse for Lounsbury!"

A third man dismounted—Jamieson. He put a rope in Fraser's hand.

"Take my horse," he said. "I'll stay. Ride like the devil, Lounsbury, and soak 'em one for me!"

They helped the storekeeper mount. The command had gone. He and Fraser followed.

Half the troopers were traveling the farther brink, half the near. The two caught up with the latter detachment.

Progress was slow. The men were tired from the fire fighting. The horses were all but blown.

Nevertheless not a moment's halt was taken until, after six wearisome miles, the troopers came opposite the cottonwoods where the Indian dead were lashed.

By now the darkness had lifted considerably, and a scout, who was riding the southern side, advised a hunt for tracks.

No tracks were found on the near brink. The horses moved forward again, Oliver and Fraser waiting behind to hear from the opposite side.

All at once as they waited Fraser began peering down into the coulee. "What's that?" he whispered. "What's that? Hark!"

A NATIONAL MUSEUM

RESTING PLACE FOR CANADIAN RELICS PROPOSED.

Movers of New Institution Favor a Repository at Montreal in View of Demolition of Old Chateau Ramezay—Many Valuable Treasures Are Available For Preservation in Proper Building.

Now that the Chateau de Ramezay, at Montreal, is about to be demolished, and its historic collection transferred to the Monument Nationale, the auspicious time has arrived, it would seem, for establishing a National Museum. The proposal to build a national museum in Westmount Park has already been endorsed by one of the founders of the Chateau de Ramezay.

There are many historical treasures in the vicinity, at "Temple Grove," for instance, which should be taken over and cared for in a national museum. In the library of this wonderful old place, the residence of Mr. D. R. McCord, K.C., are cases and shelves full of old leather-bound volumes and precious historic documents, gathered as a labor of love from all parts. A letter of Nelson, giving his impressions of Quebec, together with the signature and official seal of Wellington. Also the signature of Dollard and three others of the sixteen heroes who saved the colony from the Iroquois in 1660; as well as those of nearly all the heroic band of Jesuits, who, with death staring them in the face on every hand, penetrated the forest wilderness, and carried the story of the cross to the Indians. Casot—the last of the Jesuits—is there (1783), alongside of the signatures of Frontenac and of Maisonneuve, the founder of Montreal, is that of Laval de Montmorenci, the first Catholic Bishop of Quebec, and of saintly Bishop Stewart. On the table is a Dollond telescope, which could tell many a tale of stirring scenes beheld from the slopes of Mount Royal in the early part of the nineteenth century. Then there is an Eolian harp, nearly one hundred years old; a fine old barometer, presented by the Royal Society of England to one of Mr. McCord's ancestors; the cross of old Bonsecours Church; an ancient arquebus, and other curious relics. In a closet are shelves loaded with portfolios of valuable drawings and engravings by the thousand, all representing celebrated scenes and incidents in the annals of Canada. One, a velvet mezzotint of the Marquis of Townshend, is a veritable work of art, and is only one of many such.

Here on the walls, are swords, blunderbusses, guns, bayonets, daggers and other ancient weapons of war, in galore, the most interesting being the sword of Gen. Brock. Nearby is a glass case containing the war-bonnet of eagle feathers of Tecumseh, together with his bow and arrows. There is a fine example of the complete armor of a knight of the time of the War of the Roses—with marks of battle-axe cuts in the helmet. In another corner is a piece of the ash tree under which the first Superior of the Ursuline Sisters of Quebec taught the Indian children. On one part of the staircase walls are to be seen thirty-nine paintings in oils, representing historic scenes and places in Canada; interspersed with trophies of the warpath and the battlefield.

A Murderous Weapon.

Not content with the smaller knife affected by his less blood-thirsty countrymen, an Italian now in Parry Sound jail has exercised his ingenuity on making a "murderers' tool," out of a file, and he has done his work well, for when the knife, sent by a magistrate from that northern district, arrived at the Attorney-General's Department the Toronto detectives who viewed it said they had never seen its like.

This knife was made from a file 9 inches long, and 7 1-2 inches is utilized as a blade. It tapers from an inch in diameter to a needle point and carries a keen cutting edge on both edges. The shank is set in a piece of small maple branch, with the bark still on in some places to ensure a perfect grip.

In the hands of an assassin such a knife would go through a victim as easily as a bayonet on the end of a heavy rifle; and it is a good thing the knife was taken away from this sanguine native of sunny Italy before he had occasion to use it.

The King's Powers.

In the matter of conferring titles, the King's power is practically unlimited, and there seems no reasonable doubt that he could make everyone a peer if he so desired. Certainly, no subject to whom the sovereign offered a title could refuse to accept it without breaking the law.

Many small perquisites come annually into the possession of the King. The Dukes of Marlborough and Wellington each present small reptiles of the French flag and Royal Standard on the anniversaries respectively of Blenheim and Waterloo. The six Cashmere shawls of the kind which Queen Victoria treasured so highly are also sent annually, whilst various and quit rents to the crown take many forms, among the more curious being milk-white greyhounds, horseshoes, and red roses.

Tennis Court In Two Counties.

Two British members of Parliament played a lawn-tennis match the other day under novel conditions. The court upon which it was played divides the two constituencies, the county boundaries running through the Nevill ground, familiar to cricketers as the venue of the Tunbridge Wells week. It was arranged that each member of Parliament should play in that half of the court in his own constituency. The competitors were Mr. A. Paget Hedges, M.P. for the Tonbridge Division of Kent, and Mr. G. L. Courthope, M.P. for the Rye Division of Sussex.

Man Who Saved 25 Lives.

Henry J. Thame, lock-keeper at Marsh Lock, Henley, Eng., who already possesses four certificates of the Royal Humane Society, and has saved 24 lives, recently rescued an 11-year-old boy, who had fallen into the weir stream.

Quiet.

Patience—Did you have a quiet time up in the country?

Unique Testimonial to King of Operators

Philadelphia, Feb. 4.—That relentless foe of the veriform appendix, Dr. John B. Deaver, chief surgeon of the German Hospital, will soon have a remarkable tribute paid to him by 136 medical men from whom his famous knife has banished all danger of appendicitis. Having been relieved of their appendices by him, they are going to express their appreciation of the good done them by his surgery by tendering him a dinner on the evening of Feb. 15 next, at the University Club.

Besides these appendixless physicians and surgeons about forty others of Dr. Deaver's profession upon whom he has operated for other maladies will toast him at the dinner. From nine States many of these medical men will journey here to be present at the prospective feast. The others are practitioners in this city.

The dinner will be one of the strongest tributes ever paid a noted surgeon by members of his own profession who have benefitted personally by his surgical instruments.

Dr. Deaver, who was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1879, has perhaps performed more operations for appendicitis than any other surgeon in Philadelphia. He has performed 460 such operations in a single year, while his knife has been kept busy in thousands of other surgical cases.

Claim to be Heirs of Vast Estate

Chatham, Ont., Feb. 3.—A number of Rothwell citizens, near here, believe they stand at the wake of enormous fortunes, being numbered among the heirs to an estate roughly valued at $750,000,000.

They base their claims on the fact that in 1830, Henry Page died in Marble Arch, Middlesex, England, leaving a large and valuable tract of real estate. The direct heirs being widely scattered, the estate was never wound up. No clear deed to the property seeming to exist, attempts to dispose of it proved futile. Later, however, the land was leased for 99 years, the lease having still 21 years to run.

Some months ago the first move towards winding up the estate was made when an Australian laid claim to the entire property as the heir of Henry Page. Then the law's machinery started moving, and a Boston lawyer unearthed Canadian and American claimants. So far they do not exceed fifty.

As the law stands, the estate will be divided equally. An important point for Canadian heirs to establish is the Christian name of their grandfather Page, who died and was buried in St. Thomas in the old English cemetery, in 1850. A search of the church records is now being made. Some declare his name was Jonas Page, others that it was William.

Those believed to be heirs, as now located, are: One named Page, residing in Saginaw, Mich.; others live in St. Thomas and London, and quite a few in Rothwell. The St. Thomas heirs include Mary, widow of the late Luke Page; Joseph Knight and daughter, Valerie; Byron Knight, two sons and a daughter. The Rothwell heirs are: Mrs. Stephen Sussex, Mrs. Alex. Ellwood, Mrs. Chas. Galloway, Wm. Ellwood, Mrs. Minerva Sussex, Clayton B. Sussex, Mrs. Samuel Marcus, Arthur Sussex, Wesley Sussex, Alfred Sussex, Mrs. L. McColl, Miss Verna Sussex, Miss Ethel Galloway, Miss Delia Galloway, Miss Lottie Galloway, Mrs. N. K. Cornwall, of Thamesville; Mrs. Thos. Reynolds, Chas. Galloway, Jr.; Geo. Galloway, Mrs. Lafe Young, of Essex; Roy W. Young, Frank Young, Miss Helena Young, Mrs. Hannah Burr, of Detroit; Oran Ellwood, of Detroit; Mrs. Archie Patterson, of Bothwell; Mrs. William Pope, Mrs. Wesley Ellwood, Miss Hattie Ellwood, Miss Maud Ellwood.

Other heirs are: Mrs. Wm. Frank and Mrs. D. D. Campbell, of Fillmore, Sask.

Miss Maloney Re-Weds Osborne

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 3.—Miss Maloney, of this city, and Arthur Herbert Osborn of New York, were married to-day by Rev. Stephen M. Lyons, in St. Catharines Roman Catholic Church, Spring Lake, N. J., where Martin Maloney, father of the bride, has a summer home.

The formal announcement of the marriage was made by Mr. Maloney to the Associated Press in the following statement.

"Mr. and Mrs. Martin Maloney announce the marriage of their daughter, Helen, to Mr. Arthur Herbert Osborn, of New York. The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. Stephen M. Lyons, pastor in St. Catharines Church, Spring Lake, N. J., on Tuesday, Feb. 2nd, at 8 a. m., in the presence of the family."

Miss Maloney formerly married Osborn under an assumed name, as a joke, while they were attending college. They never lived together, and last year Miss Maloney eloped with a young Englishman named Clarkson, going to Montreal and sailing for England on the Empress of Britain. It is denied that they went through a marriage ceremony in Montreal, in London, Eng., Father Vaughan separated the couple who were kept apart by their relatives. The United States civil courts finally annulled first Osborn marriage, but the Church refused to do likewise until Miss Maloney agreed not to wed Clarkson. This she positively refused to do, but she has apparently surrendered now.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. For truly, not one weak heart in a hundred is in itself actually diseased. It is almost always a riddled tiny little nerve that really is all at fault, this obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have their same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first grappled the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is no popular prescription—it is not intended to please minds and weaken nerve centers. It feeds strengthens; it calms real, genuine heart pain. If you would have strong Hearts, strengthen the nerves—nourish them as needed, with London, Feb. 1.—Burglars yesterday broke into the Van Pier gallery on Jermyn Street and stole thirty of Van Pier's best paintings, valued at $50,000, and also a number of international diplomatic orders.

Montreal, Feb. 1.—Montreal was shaken by what is believed to have been an earthquake shock at 11.45 o'clock last night. People in all parts of the city were awakened by the shock, which was so sharp that it was believed to be an explosion. Men were sent out from police stations to investigate. While the shock gave a scare to the inhabitants, no damage is reported.

Hamilton, Ont., February 4.—The police commissioners held a special session to consider the charges made by Mayor McLaren, that some members of the force did a lot of drinking and also took an active part in municipal elections. The Mayor said he would give his information to Chief Smith, who was instructed to investigate and put a stop to tippling.

McPherson, February 4.—Premier Fisher, speaking at the Foundation Lay luncheon, said the question of defence was whether the people were prepared to pay or not. He was hopeless about naval defence without an Australian navy co-operating with the Imperial fleet. He entirely favored compulsory training. Mr. Deakin hoped a middle course could be steered between setting apart a portion of the people only for national defence and crushing the country under a huge expense.

HOW TO TELL

If the Kidneys and Liver are Not Acting Well.

Thousands die every year from aggravated kidney distress that could have been saved if they only knew.

Your back may ache, you think it's tiredness or physical weakness.

You grow irritable and nervous—it's put down to loss of sleep.

Joints ache, muscles get sore,—that's all put down to bad weather.

Then digestion gets poor, appetite fades away, color bleaches, spirit droop.

Can't you see it's all from your over-worked kidneys, which can't keep the body clear of poisons that are now surging through the whole system.

Cure your kidneys with Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"When I was so stooped and back weary, so lame and sore with kidney and bladder trouble, I cured myself quickly with Dr. Hamilton's Pills" writes C. C. Ferrier, a well known merchant in Plainsville. "Dr. Hamilton's Pills touched the spot, at once, gave my back ease, lifted depression and weariness, made a new man of me. I can also say for a good spring medicine to clear and enrich the blood Dr. Hamilton's Pills have no equal."

The housewife whose aching back makes every little duty a burden, the working man who is tired all day and can't rest at night, whose back aches, and whose feet swell—these people have kidney trouble. Women whose kidneys are sick, suffer continually from blind and sick headaches, faint and dizzy spells, bearing down pains, sharp twinges when stooping, distressing urinary troubles, aching muscles, and joints lack of appetite, and loss of sleep. Reach the cause. Cure the kidneys. Use Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills, which have cured thousands, 25c. at all dealers.

Want Liquor Licenses Reduced

Brockville, Ont., Feb. 4.—The question of liquor license reduction was brought before the Town Council last night, in the form of a petition presented by the Ministerial Association. Clergymen appeared in person and a delegation addressed the Council, urging that the number be reduced from nine to six, and that a by-law be submitted for the approval of the people before any action was taken. The matter will not likely be voted upon by the ratepayers until the next municipal elections, and there will be no license reduction, if any, until 1910.

Child Saved

By Simple Change to Right Food

When a little human machine (or a large one) goes wrong, nothing is so important as the selection of food which will bring it around again.

"The doctor, and I also," writes an Ills. woman, "consider that we owe the life of my little four year old niece, to Grape-Nuts food.

"From the time of her birth her stomach was weak she could not digest milk or any food we could think of, although we tried about all the infant Foods known. The doctor gave me no hope—called the trouble Intestinal consumption.

"At 18 months the child could barely sit alone, her body was so weak, and her brain did not seem to be properly developed.

"One day, having some trouble with my stomach, I brought home a package of Grape-Nuts and started to use it. The thought came to me that a very little of the food made soft in some cream might be good for the little one.

"I gave her some Grape-Nuts thus prepared and she soon became so fond of it that she would reach out her little thin hands and cry at the sight of a saucer with a spoon in it.

"She ate Grape-Nuts ent only in the morning, but at night also and since the first has never missed a day. She is now at four years, a strong, healthy child with a good straight back, fine bones, and firm muscles. Her mind is bright also.

"We stopped all medicine, so we know that it was Grape-Nuts and not medicines that saved her."

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative directly to those failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

Local Option Campaign

Copy Furnished by the Campaign Committee

Local Option Petition Largely Signed

Enthusiasm ran high Monday evening in the committee rooms of the City Temperance League, 173 Simcoe street. Temperance workers have been busy during the past week securing signatures to a petition asking the city council to introduce a by-law providing for the taking of a vote on local option next January. The campaign committee met last evening. Workers were present from every polling subdivision in the city. After they had presented their reports it was found that already over twenty five per cent. of the ratepayers have signed the petition. In some divisions over fifty per cent. of the ratepayers have attached their signatures. The workers reported that ratepayers in all parts of the city are enthusiastic about the approaching contest and confident that it will carry by a large majority.

It was found last evening that considerable of the ground had not been covered. It was decided unanimously to press the canvass vigorously. Those ratepayers who were away from home when the workers called at their places will be visited again.

Chapped from Fingers to Elbows

Boy's Agony Relieved by Zam-Buk

If you are suffering from badly chapped hands you will be able to comprehend a little of the agony which Henry Walker, of 14, Manufacturers Street, Montreal, endured before Zam-Buk gave him relief. His mother, telling of the case to a Press representative, said:—

"Henry works with his shirt sleeves rolled up above his elbows, and passing from a warm room to the biting cold, as he was obliged to do, he got the worst case of chapped hands and arms I have ever seen. From his fingers to his elbows was one mass of raw flesh, with bad cracks here and there. Whenever he washed, it brought tears to his eyes, the pain was so acute. He tried several kinds of salves, but nothing relieved him really until he tried Zam-Buk. This balm seemed to take away the burning and smarting almost at once. The cracks began to heal, and a few applications of the balm cured him. His hands and arms are now smooth and soft.

"We have also used Zam-Buk for other emergencies. I sustained a burn on one of my fingers. Zam-Buk took the fire out and healed up the sore. It really seems a wonderful household preparation.

"On one occasion my son Harry had his foot frozen. It was very swollen and discolored, but Zam-Buk both relieved the swelling and removed the discoloration. Zam-Buk is so handy and so effective that we shall always keep a supply handy."

Miss Hattie Bertrand, of Salisbury (Ont.), says:—"Every winter I suffer from chapped hands, but I have found a cure in Zam-Buk. Applied at night, it heals the cracks by morning, and takes away all the soreness."

Similar effects follow its use for eczema, scalp sores, blood-poisoning, ulcers ringworm, children's sores, cuts, burns, and bruises. It also cures piles. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. a box; or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the unlettered Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests afford in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases. If we would properly investigate them and in confirmation of this conviction, he publishes with pride to the utmost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, or indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action. The reason why it cures these and many other affections is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of grateful testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by its use of various forms of female weakness, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements, caused by weakness, aggravation of severe and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

Demers' assistance in time only to avert a possibly horrible tragedy as the culmination of the crime.

When they arrived they found the outbuildings in flames and a box of inflammable material in the coal shed, to which a burning fuse had been attached, and which had burned down almost to the exploding point. Had this not been discovered when it was, the lives of Mrs. Demers and four little children would have been menaced, if not sacrificed, as all five were asleep in the house at the time. Strong circumstantial evidence connected the Driscoll's with the crime, and the men have been sent for trial.

Chas. Mitchell was Remanded for a Week --Pleaded Not Guilty

"Not guilty!" was the plea of Chas. Mitchell, the mail carrier, who was arrested late Wednesday afternoon on a charge of taking money from letters he was delivering from the post office.

Mitchell was given a preliminary hearing before Magistrate D W. Dumble yesterday morning, and upon the evidence produced the prisoner was committed for trial.

In the afternoon Mitchell was taken before his Honor Judge Weller, but upon the advice of his solicitor, Mr. F. D. Kerr, he pleaded not guilty. Mr. Kerr asked that he be allowed a few days to prepare his defence. This the judge granted, and the prisoner will remain in custody for one week, when he will be again taken before the judge.

The charge is a serious one and the lightest sentence that can be given is three years in Kingston.

The story of the case is that Postmaster Rogers has received several complaints of letters containing money going astray. He decided to investigate and see whether any of the staff was retaining letters. Post Office Inspector Henry Merrick of Kingston, was consulted and together with the postmaster prepared two decoy letters. One, containing three one dollar bills, was postmarked Toronto, and addressed to Miss Arthur Head, 257 Bethune street, and the other was postmarked Rochester, and addressed to Mrs. Robert Martin, 55 Dalhousie street. It contained three one dollar silver American certificates. Both the inspector and the postmaster kept memos of the bills enclosed and produced them in court.

Postmaster Rogers returned to Peterborough and posted the two letters. He saw that they went into Mitchell's route and he saw Mitchell take them out of the post office. Then Mr Rogers went to the home of Mrs. Head and Mrs Martin, and informed them that they would likely get letters and for them to hold them until he called again. He remained at Mrs Martin's house and saw the prisoner pass by. Mitchell called at several places nearby, but he did not call at either Mrs. Martin's or Mrs Head's.

Col. Rogers returned to Chief Roszel's office, and the arrest followed in the afternoon and Mitchell was lodged in the police cells where he remained until the court opened in the morning. He was removed to the county jail where he will await his trial next Thursday.

Mr. F. D. Kerr for the defendant, argued that there was no evidence that the letters had been posted and he did not think that they were the property of the postmaster-general. It is on this point that Mr Kerr asked for the delay.

LAKEFIELD WON CHAMPIONSHIP CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE FOR 1909

The Strathconas Defeated by Eight Goals to Six---Lakefield Scored Four in the First Ten Minutes

THE GAME WAS FAST FROM START TO THE FINISH

It was Lakefield's night at the Brock street rink, and they carried off with them the championship trophy of the City League for 1909-10. The Drytown boys bumped the Strathconas to the tune of eight goals to six, and they were never in danger except for a few brief minutes in the last quarter of the game. The score was seven to six with only eight minutes to play. The Straths plugged hard and did their utmost to tie the score, but Lakefield still had some steam in them and kept the puck away in fine style. Then with just three minutes to play, Morin broke through and from center ice to the nets he had no one to pass and he scored an easy one, making the game solid for Lakefield.

Brock street rink held the largest crowd last night that has been at a hockey match this year. The attraction was the final game for the championship of the city league between the Strathconas, champions for the past three years, and the game little team from Lakefield. The latter boys had a big bunch of rooters from home and the greatest portion of the Peterborough people, cheered for the visitors, who played a good, clean game and deserve the victory they won.

The Strathconas have held the cup for two years and had they won it again this year the trophy would have been their property. As it is it will remain in the league for at least two years more. Then Lakefield has proven their good sportsmanship by coming down here to play all their games for years and they are welcome to the honors they won it by grand work and fast hockey.

From the drop of the bat the visitors dug in and for the first fifteen minutes had the Straths up in the air. They could not get settled down and were playing the man instead of the puck. The pace was a hot one and Lakefield simply had the game in their own hands. Morin scored the first goal in one minutes. Then two minutes later Quinn took a crack at the nets and made good.

Premier Whitney

Who declares that law reform will be enacted for the future good of the community.

Simpson was caught tripping and was given a rest but T. Sabatino got the rubber and in two minutes hit the nets for number three. By his time the crowd was wild and the game was furious. It was mixing up pretty well, and men were falling on all sides, but a Lakefield man once more got the puck and with a long shot scored No. 4.

Up to this time the Straths were unable to find their bearings. They had no combination and Lakefield broke up every individual rush that was started. After the fourth score, however, the locals seemed to touch ice by again, and McMillan got away and landed safely. This was a relief to the Strathcona supporters and they actually smiled a little. Four minutes later Long got the puck and he scored the locals second, and then the Straths men took hope and began to feel that the game was won. Such was not to be, however, for Morin once more broke loose and in five minutes made the score 5 to 2 in Lakefield's favor and the half ended that way.

Strathconas Tried Hard To Overcome the Lead in the Last Half when the Score was 7 to 6

FIRST DEFEAT FOR THE STRATS. IN THREE YEARS

With a big lead ahead of them the Strathconas came back with every confidence of pulling out a victory. The management gave the boys a curtain lecture about their rought stuff and told them to get down to business. At first it looked as if the second half would be clean. The locals went out and in three minutes Long found the nets. He got the puck from Dusty's pass and shot from in front of the goal. This put some ginger into Lakefield and after five minutes of hard work T. Sabatino made the score 6—3. McMillan scored for the Straths in two minutes and Morin scored for Lakefield in four minutes. Total 7—4. It was at this point the Straths got down to business and put forth every effort to win. They plugged and shot and did everything, with the result that Long scored in six minutes and another was scored from a scrimmage in three minutes. It only needed one more to tie the score and get extra time to win in. But Lakefield was right there with the goods and although their goal keeper was put off for falling on the ice the locals could not tally. As soon as Crawford got back Quinn.

Bowlers Selected for Two Toronto Teams

Tomorrow afternoon a party of 15 Peterborough bowlers will take the C.P.R. for Toronto, where two five-men teams will meet the Toronto bowlers. There will be one picked team consisting of Messrs J. B. Hay, W. McIlroy, Geo. Cairns, Graham Ferguson and Herb Morton to go up against a picked team from Toronto. The latter will contain the best men in the city, all men who have represented Toronto. They are Messrs Bert Nott, international fame, Geo. Yorke, T. Ryan, of the Toronto Foresters, and H Gillies who was on the team that defeated Bulleid's crack team recently, and who will also be on the team to meet the Brooklyn bunch.

The other team will be from the newspaper offices, and will compose H Lacheur, C. Barker, D. B McRae, H. Lillie, and in case they are short a man there will be Bert Hus on and C Hempson, who are now living in Toronto, to be picked from. They will play the Mail & Empire pinners league team, and the locals should hold their own.

The boys fully expect to have a rare time in Toronto, and hope to make a good impression upon the Queen City bowlers.

The Pacifics Won Three

The Pacifics took three straight from the Examiner A team last night and now are at the head of the list in the ten pin tournament. Wm McIlroy for the Pacifics was in great form the second and third games and rolled 236 and 185 respectively. If he is as good tomorrow night as he was last night he will make the Toronto bowlers take notice. The Examiner A bunch are now in third place with the Bankers second. The score was as follows;—

PACIFICS—
Lillie	148	196	181	525
Connors	180	159	150	489
McIlroy	148	236	185	569

The London Graphic and Grand Trunk Pacific

It is little the average person realizes what the railway companies of Canada are doing towards advertising and building up this Dominion. It is safe to say that one-half of the advertising this country gets comes direct or indirectly from the railway companies. As a sample take the Grand Trunk Pacific, the new company which is constructing a transcontinental road from Moncton, N.B. through to Prince Rupert on the Pacific Coast, a stretch of 3500 miles. The fact that the undertaking is one of the greatest in the world is sufficient in itself to attract attention to the Dominion. But the Grand Trunk Pacific is not satisfied with that. The best English papers and magazines are constantly being used for the purpose of spreading information of Canada among the people of Great Britain. The latest scheme that has been adopted by the company that has been received by Times is a copy of the Graphic of London, England, for December. In this number are used two full pages by the Grand Trunk Pacific. The space is occupied by cuts from photographs of Prince Rupert, the Pacific terminal of the road, and also the new station at the town of Nakonlas. The cuts are all excellent ones and each one tells a story in itself.

"The great transcontinental railway which the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company is constructing across Canada, from Moncton, N.B to Prince Rupert on the Pacific Coast, will have a total length of 3,000 miles, of which 670 are already laid and in operation. The all-Canadian continental will be another link to the chain of empire which Britons have drawn round the world, for by its means Liverpool will be brought two days nearer the far east than it is by the shortest route today, which the portion of the railway passing through the prairie section will open up a wheat-growing area four times as extensive as that of the United States.

Prince Rupert situated in British Columbia, 550 miles north of Vancouver, and within 50 miles of the southern extremity of Alaska, is doubtless designed to be a great Pacific port and city, its harbor being unsurpassed on the whole coast, and offering ideal facilities for ocean shipping. There is plenty of activity there at the present moment, gangs of men clearing the town site by burning and cutting away the timber, and houses springing up on every hand. Prince Rupert is most picturesquely situated, the scenery in the neighborhood being strongly reminiscent of Norway.

CURLING.

The two Peterborough rinks which went up to Cannington to take part in the first bonspiel in that town that the curlers have held, were shut out of the primary competition. The locals understood before they left here that the draw would be made with them in, but as they were the last to arrive the other visiting teams acted with a high hand and insisted that Peterborough be excluded from the primary, and the draw was made before the locals got there. When the condition of affairs was learned the Peterborough curlers decided to return home in the morning, but afterwards decided to play one game in the consolation and they got home last night. The rinks were skipped by Messrs. R Hicks and David Hall. They were greatly disappointed and would not have gone had they thought they would be shut out of the primary.

Mount Royal was a Volcano

Many people connected the quake at Montreal with the fact that ages and ages ago old Mount Royal was a volcano.

It was, but it seems that it has been quiescent so long that it is in no sense to blame for rousing Montrealers from their peaceful slumbers the other night.

"It's so many millions of years since that mountain was in eruption that it is quite certain the volcano is not the cause," said Professor Coleman, of Toronto University.

"What would cause it?"

"Some little adjustment going on underneath. There is a little rising of the earth in progress in the eastern part of Canada, and this is probably part of it.

"Canada has never had a serious earthquake—at least not since the days of the French in early Quebec," said Prof. Coleman.

Mr. J. B Tyrrell, the eminent engineer and geologist, told The Star the same story.

Fiendish Work of the Police in Newark, N.J.

Newark, N.J., Feb. 4.—Mrs. Mary J Wilhelm, the widow of Frank Wilhelm, who was murdered in his home last Monday night, is in a condition of complete nervous collapse today after an unusually severe application of the "third degree," including a midnight visit to the morgue, where she was suddenly confronted with the body of her husband.

The police had evidently expected to obtain some knowledge of a statement from her, but they were unsuccessful, for when the sheet which covered her husband's body was suddenly removed she became hysterical, fell to her knees, and frantically declared her love for her husband. As her hysteria increased, Mrs. Wilhelm became incoherent, and the detectives who were watching her and listening could make nothing of what she said. When she was taken back to the police station again she was in a state of utter collapse. The midnight visit to the morgue was planned as a complete surprise to Mrs. Wilhelm.

TRY IT ON SICCA.

An hour or so later the detectives endeavored to make use of a similar strategy to obtain a statement from Nicholas Sicca, who has been in the custody of the police since the murder.

Before Sicca reached the Wilhelm house the body of the murdered man had been conveyed there from the morgue and placed in the position in the basement, where it was found after the murder. Sicca was first led through the rooms on the first floor, the detectives disarming his suspicion by attracting his attention to various objects. Sicca was cheerful and was showing the detectives about the house when suddenly one of them from the basement called the others to come down and join him in a lunch.

The other detectives with Sicca ran down stairs, and at the foot of them in the dark hallway a light was suddenly flashed up and there before him Sicca saw the murdered body of Wilhelm. For a long moment the prisoner gazed down at the body of the dead man. Involuntarily his knees wabbled, his hands stiffened, his eyes became glassy and white.

HAD TO BE CARRIED.

"Sicca, what do you know about that?" asked one of the detectives. Sicca made no response. Losing control of his legs, he was fast sinking to the floor when one of the officers caught him and carried him from the house and into the carriage. Then he reached his cell he was in a condition of nervous collapse and for that reason the arraignment of him and Mrs. Wilhelm was postponed today. He was not fit to leave his cell.

Two Continents Excited Over the Shrubb-Longboat Race To-night

They Have the Athletic World Guessing—Both Men Apparently Ready for the Big Race

New York, Feb. 4.—When I left Toronto I was completely convinced Tom Longboat was a five to one shot in a two horse race. In other words, I thought that Shrubb would win in a walk.

I don't think so now.

Neither do I believe that the odds are in favor of Longboat. It is a good race to leave alone. Not that Shrubb has deteriorated seriously during the two weeks' lay-up, but that Longboat has improved. The Onondaga comes back to form fast.

LESSON TO THE INDIAN.

The Indian somewhere and somehow has been taught a valuable lesson, and is minding his P.'s and Q's. He has a black eye and a split lip. How he got them I know nothing. He won't say himself, but it looks to me as if Jimmy Defarest, his trainer, has found him obstreperous, inveigled him into a glove contest, and right then and there taught him that he was master. Since then the redskin has done absolutely as he was told.

The Indian is now in Allenhurst under care of Defarest, Harry Pollock, P. T. Powers' right bower, and a physician. They have perched him up, and will start him in this race in pretty fair shape considering all things. He is far from being at

Colored Fortune Teller Foresaw the Tragedy

Jerseyville, Feb. 4.—A story on everyone's lips in this district is that a fortune-teller turned away in horror when he looked into Harry Van Sickle's tea cup while telling his fortune, about a week before last Saturday's tragedy. The negro, Smith, who lives with Seth Van Sickle, is the fortune teller, and owing to the accuracy of his predictions has achieved a reputation throughout Ancaster county. He started to tell Harry's fortune, as the story goes, but when he looked into the cup he put it down, and turned his head away. When asked what was the matter he said it was too dreadful to tell. Some time ago, he also told Seth Van Sickle's fortune, and foretold that he would be wearing mourning in less than a year.

"I hope none of the children will die," said Seth.

"No, answered the seer, "it will be some one on the other side."

260 Children March Calmly Out of the Burning School

Sydney, N.S., Feb. 4.—St. Joseph's school was badly burned this morning. The cause of the fire was a defective furnace.

Two hundred and sixty children when the alarm was given, marched out of the building like veterans, without a sign of confusion, and in perfect order.

The building burned very rapidly and damage to the extent of $2,000 was done before the fire was put out.

The building cost about $6,000, and was erected two years ago by the Catholic congregation.

The insurance will cover the loss.

HOCKEY

The Lindsay Post says;—

Peterborough is anxious to have Waghorne referee the game in the electric city Friday evening, but Hancock will likely handle the bell.

Three Peterborough intermediate players figured on the electric city junior line-up in the game with Port Hope a few days ago.

Addis Abeba, Abyssinia, Feb. 4.—King Menelik, who has been ill for a long time past, is sinking fast, and it is believed that his death is not far off. All the Ethiopian chiefs and their armies, including the Negus artillery, have gathered here in anticipation of the proclamation of Menelik's successor.

For Thirteen Years

Mr. Geo. Warner, publisher of The Masonic Register, Toronto, was almost totally deaf in both ears for a number of years. He experimented with a thousand different remedies, and only got relief by using Catarrhozone, and it cured.

Mr. Warner says:—"For the past thirteen years my hearing has been badly affected. The streets were as quiet to me as if I lived in the city of the dead. I could neither hear the noise of street cars or sound of horses' feet on the pavement. Before I had used Catarrhozone Inhaler three days I was able to notice a great change in my condition, which gradually improved until now I can hear a whisper across the room. I cannot tell you how much I appreciate Catarrhozone or the wonderful results I have derived from using it. Catarrhozone has my strongest endorsement and I am quite willing that you should use it."

Mr. Warner's unsolicited testimonial furnishes abundant proof that deafness can be cured, even in old age, if Catarrhozone is used. This remedy scientific in its application and meets with the endorsement of prominent ministers and doctors all over Canada. Our best equipped health institutions always keep it on hand, and cases are recorded where it has been used with great success in the Government deaf and dumb institutions where other means proved futile.

If your hearing is poor, if you have head noises, or ringing in the ears, be sure and use Catarrhozone. It is a regular miracle worker and is sure to help you. Complete outfit costs $1; trial size 50 cents. Sold by all druggists and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

ARE WE BEING AMERICANIZED

"The Canadian problem is a cause of grave and increasing and well justified anxiety to all thoughtful Imperialists. The Dominion is literally saturated with American influence, and in spite of Lord Grey's splendid and devoted efforts, the Imperial sentiment is weakening in the absence of any vigorous effort to promote it on the part of the Mother Country."

This is one of a number of astonishing sayings that have been printed in some of the English newspapers of late. None of us have heard or seen Earl Grey working at his task of keeping American influence out of Canada, and it is doubtful whether any man, however great his capacity and energy, could withstand the influences of close and constant intercourse between two nations.

This intercourse is a fact, and sensible men will recognize it and make the best of it. Its influence is not so much political as social. American periodicals. American plays, American pastimes, American slang, American styles of dress, American household devices, come over the border and would climb over a Chinese wall if we built one. The people of the United States are wrestling with national problems similar to our own—conservation of national resources, playgrounds for children, abolition of level crossings, fighting tuberculosis, reforming the criminal, curing the insane. We must exercise our common sense, accepting what is good in our neighbors' civilization, rejecting what is bad, taking warning by their errors.

The safeguard against a weak imitation of American manners and characteristics is the cultivation of a strong Canadian type of character. Canada also could learn much and broaden her outlook by a better knowledge of the problems of England, of India, of Egypt, of South Africa, of Australia. One can hardly read Lord Morley's great speech on India without longing to understand a little more of that wonderful aggregation of humanity. Unfortunately, unless one takes very special pains to inform himself, he obtains only partial and fitful views of the life of the other parts of the empire. He does not obtain a steady, broad view of the working of British institutions under diverse conditions, a study well worthy of the pen of a Bibaud.

Perhaps with improved means of communication we shall obtain this knowledge in larger measure. Its educative influence would be of the highest importance. To understand the British empire is to be almost cosmopolitan in knowledge and sympathy, and especially to have an insight into the working of free institutions. To understand the United States, is an additional advantage, not a drawback. The Canadian who applies himself earnestly to the study of social and political institutions in his own country, in the other parts of the empire, and of the United States, is giving himself a liberal education.

In this connection we are glad to draw attention to a series of articles beginning in the Standard of Empire of January 23 upon "the governance of Empire". The first article is by Sir Frederick Pollock. It is a rapid survey of the subject, describing the general features of the British Empire, and comparing it with the Roman Empire and others which have passed into history. The first merit of the Empire, says Sir Frederick Pollock, is that it keeps the peace over a great part of the world, benefiting not only Britons, but many other communities with whom they have relations. Its next merit is that it maintains, with varied forms of jurisdiction and institutions, a government of justice and law. A third is that the duties and responsibilities of empire "are a training in civic virtue for all British citizens who will use it, and an antidote to selfishness and parochialism." The next article will be by Mr. Sidney Low, author of "the Governance of England."

KEENE

The Sons of Rest held their weekly meeting on Wednesday evening, January 28th. President Minnie Whale in the chair. The minutes were read by the Secretary, Pony Moore. The first order of business was applications for membership. The following were received:—Flamer Elmhirst, Bunny Esson and Sandy Patterson. They were then balloted for and received into the order. There were also two members from No. 62 joined by certificate; they were Professor Montgomery and Limber Jim Morrow. After these initiations the president threw the meeting open to discussion by the brethren. Bungy Esson arose to his feet and unfolding a large sheet of brown paper he read the following:—

To the President and brethern of this Lodge.—

I hereby take my affa-jimmy that Winnie Wedlock has started a dancing school for the benefit of Engineer Mack. He also has engaged the services of Professor Montgomery and Lumber Jim Morrow to help him, and I think you ought to act in this matter.

(Signed) Timmer S'Ilman.

Minnie Whale Jonas sprang to his feet, kicked over his chair, and called Engineer Mack to the platform. Engineer Mack went forward with his head down. Minnie Whale said, "Engineer, this is certainly a painful moment for me, to think, you my right hand bower, would be guilty of such an offence. I certainly feel like hitting you on head-top and putting you away. Engineer Mack said Winnie coaxed him to learn, and Minnie Whale let him off with a warning, but fined Winnie Ten thousand dollars to be paid at once. The fine was immediately paid.

Raiser Dixon arose and laid a charge against Boiler Roach for bathing his feet in the Lake and killing all the fish. Boiler arose and said he was very sorry, but as he had broken out with boils he thought he was punished enough. Minnie Whale let him off with a severe warning and told him never to let this occur again. Boiler took his seat, but had to ask the president to allow him to retire, as the boils were bothering him. Chittery Gall got up and asked to be allowed to read two applications, he had in his pocket. The President asked why he didn't do this before, but Chittery said he had been asleep. He said he had spent the most of Tuesday evening in Hiawatha. Minnie Whale said never mind Hiawatha, read the names of the two who wished to join. Chittery said they were Skater Smith and Pedagogue Smithson. These two were accepted and their names entered in the roll book. Skater Smith asked if he might say a few words and Minnie Whale said "yes, sir. Skater said, Mr. President and Brethren, I am certainly glad to know I am a member of this grand society. I will give all the time I can to furthering its good work. I might say my highest ambition is realized, and I hope to have a new member for next meeting; in fact I might say Ink-pad Gillett will be sure to join. With these few remarks I will take my seat. As Skater took his seat he sat on Yankee Mark's sore foot and Yankee swore and gave him a shove on to Fighting Archie. The trouble was just beginning when Constable Howden Davis appeared with a handspike and silenced the irate members. Pedagogue Smithson then arose and thanked the brethren for accepting him as a member and said, "I will do all I can to help you to further this grand cause. I will teach any of the members anything they wish to know." Munchey said he guessed they knew all that was required to see them through this week, and objected to any new member trying to show his learning before a large number of older brethren. Pony here laid a charge against John B. for giving singing lessons. Minnie Whale asked John B. who was in the class and he read the following names—Hosier Roach, Hickory Campbell, Huff Quinn, Gold Dust Reid, Dead Shot Elmhirst and the District Organizer De Caltsy. The president told John B. to go ahead and if he could make a singer out of any of them the lodge would pay him seventy-five cents. Minnie Whale fined Pony one dollar, to be paid in five years. Pony asked for an extension of time, but Minnie Whale was obdurate. Bob-tail Pue said he moved the meeting be closed, so Minnie Whale called on Ginger Ale Kennedy and Fanny McFarlane to sing the closing Ode. While the brethren were rendering the ode By Hearn Doris, who had been peacefully sleeping fell on to the floor. The roll was called and twenty members answered to their names. The meeting adjourned until next week. Receipts of the evening four cents. At this moment Tarmaher Cassels appeared and asked to be allowed to attend. He will be notified at next meeting.

The Keene Hockey Club annual ball will be held in the town hall on Friday evening, February 5th. Tickets $1.00. All are cordially invited.

Appleby will Race Longboat or Shrubb

Toronto, Feb. 4.—Things are certainly warming up around here anent the Shrubb-Longboat race. The race is again the talk of the town.

Tom Flanagan left last night at the urgent request of Pat Powers, who says his presence gives the Indian confidence, and that he wants him to be on the track with him in the race.

Flanagan, however, still insists that he is through with the Indian for good, and that he will watch the race from a box seat.

From both training camps this morning come reports saying that their men are in the pink and ready for the big race. How much of this is absolute truth is hard to tell from here, but the fact remains that Longboat, sick or well, will face the starter, unless something decidedly serious develops between now and the race.

On top of this comes a Canadian Associated press cable from England saying that Fred Appleby, Shrubb's conqueror at 15 miles, will sail for Canada on February 11, to run the winner of the Shrubb-Longboat race. With Duncan threatening to come over and Fred Aldrich turning "pro" in England, it begins to look as if there would be lively doings in long-distance running on both sides of the water all summer.

It looks from here as if the reports of Longboat's good condition are all inspired by P. T. Powers' good side-de camo. Harry Pollock. No one from Toronto seems to have seen the Indian personally, or to have been at his training trials. He may be patched up for racing purposes, but it does not seem reasonable to suppose that he can beat such a cracker-jack as Alf Shrubb unless he is at concert pitch.

Public opinion here is backing and filling on the proposition. The fact is that to-day there is considerable Longboat money floating around at even money.

Those who are backing the Indian are "wise guys" who claim that these reports of the Indian's poor condition were circulated for the purpose of influencing the betting.

CHILDREN'S COLDS AND THEIR RESULTS

COLDS NOT SO HARMLESS AS MANY PRESUME.

Some of the Most Serious Diseases Have Their Origin in a Common Cold.

Children are particularly susceptible to colds and often serious diseases of after life have their foundation in early colds. A child catches cold but unless it is very severe no attention is given the matter. It has had colds before and always recovered and if is not until the little one alarms the household in the dead of night and scares its mother into hysterics by having croup, that serious consequences are feared.

Another child catches cold and before it fully recovers takes another cold and perhaps before that is over contracts a fresh one. This succession of colds or even the neglect of the first attack causes inflammation of the mucous membrane, which was at first acute, to become chronic and the doctor will tell you that the child has chronic catarrh from which he will never fully recover.

Another child catches cold, which could easily have been cured by proper treatment, but being neglected develops the most fatal malady of childhood, pneumonia. The doctor is called and pronounces it lung fever, and if the child is lucky enough to live it has developed weak lungs, making it susceptible to all lung diseases.

Still another child catches cold, a stubborn cough is developed which lasts all winter, sapping the vitality and weakening the system, thereby paving the way for the germs of other diseases. Diphtheria, whooping cough, scarlet fever and similar diseases could often be avoided if each cold received proper attention.

Every one of these children could have been cured by the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. A few doses and the child's cold is gone. It is a certain cure for croup and has never been known to fail. When given as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attack. It also counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia, quickly dispelling all fear of that dangerous disease.

Don't wait until the child is sick and then send to the drug store for this remedy but keep it on hand ready for instant use when needed. It is perfectly harmless and should be kept in every home where there are young children.

Cosgraves Beer

Words of praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

THE TIMES' FINANCIAL PAGE---OF INTEREST TO THE CANADIAN INVESTOR

Maple Leaf Mines, Limited

No Personal Liability

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided Into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia' Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont, Sec-Treas Charle Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C Ritchie. Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Clifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 668, containing 40 acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

One of these rich veins crosses this fraction and forms the discovery of same. With a total of 160 acres, 40 acres of which are in the rich Cobalt field, 40 acres in the new Bonanza district, with 300,000 shares in the treasury, for development purposes, with no purchase price to be charged against same, it would seem that this proposition, based on a capitalization of $100,000, was the very thing you have been waiting for.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 26th December, 1908, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. LeVesconte, 28 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties, in consideration of 200,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 20,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $600; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 5000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 26th of December, 1908.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

J. COLLINS DAVIES, Secretary, Orillia, Ont.

....The.... Plow Woman

"Lie down," continued Dallas. "They won't stop. Don't speak."

Hurriedly she and Charley resumed their way up the wolf haunted bottom, over rocks, through puddles, into pigmy forests of cherry and plum. But now, careless of lost time, Dallas ran with backward looks and frequent haltings, giving strict heed to the whereabouts of those behind.

They had traveled a good distance when she judged that the savages were nearing the burial place, that the time for her ruse was come. Letting the outcast go on, she paused for breath; then lifted her voice and sent back through the night a long, inviting call.

Down the wind came instant answer, a great howl of glee. And as if her presence ahead was unexpected, as if it tempted to a better speed, a jargon of cries swelled hideously and drew on.

"She's safe!" shouted Dallas exultingly. "Charley, she's safe!"

Another yowl from a score of throats.

Now it was a race.

From the start it was unequal and the gain was on the side of the pursuers. Gradually but surely the rods decreased between quarry and pack.

The sweat dreening from their faces, Squaw Charley and Dallas strained forward. A little while and she whispered, "Can't go—stop—can't"—

Every breath was sawing at her sore lungs. She tottered, pitched forward and went down.

It was then that Charley pointed to the front and as if to a vantage place. Dallas looked and saw at the end of sheer walls an oblong opening of grayish light. She hailed it dumbly. There was where the coulee narrowed until a man standing in its bed with arms outstretched could place the tips of his fingers against either rocky wall. There a last stand might be made.

The Threat!

One helping the other, they dragged themselves on and into the opening.

The time had narrowed. Close behind, crashing through a thicket, were the warriors, announcing themselves with shrill whoops.

Dallas waited, propped against a stone. The words of the old Texas song began to run in her mind:

"We saw the Indians coming.
We heard them give a yell.
My feelings at that moment
No mortal tongue could tell."

She was spent. She had no hope of being spared from death. Yet she was strangely calm and unafraid.

"Maryiya 'll be happy," she said. "I know John Lounsbury well enough for that."

She became conscious of thirst. A branch of wild roses shining with raindrops bobbed above her. She beat the flowers to her mouth one by one and sucked their moisture. The gray of the sky was turning to pink. There was a lifting foreglow in the east.

"See, Charley," she said, "there'll be good light to fight in. But—but there's just one charge."

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

As each man of the rescuing party splashed out upon the muddy beach before Shanty Town he headed for the open level. There was no waiting for commands, no attempt at order—only the sound of labored breathing, of frantic urging, of the plying of heel and fist.

Crossing the bend the company was strung to a long, bedraggled line. It was slow going. Already the horses had stood hard usage—the detour with Matthews, the return and the severely trying swim. Fraser, given the lead, still kept it, dinging hoarse persuasion into Buckskin's flattened ears.

So far the troopers had kept silent through fear for the girls' safety—fear that the hostages if aware of pursuit would wreak instant death. But now, as their lieutenant advanced to the shack, the men behind, while trying their utmost to gain, sent forward yell upon yell to startle the Indians into dropping their captives and seeking cover.

As the line swung up and by in a circle Fraser, weapon in hand, was down and pressing forward.

He found Lounsbury seated on the sill, from which he rose unsteadily.

"Lounsbury! Lounsbury!"

"Quick! The coulee! They went that way! Give me a lift!"

His hand was wet. Fraser caught him about the waist.

"Oh, you're wounded!"

"Yes—glancing blow. But I tied it up."

"Lounsbury! Wounded!" It was Oliver.

"Up the coulee, captain! Give me a horse!"

The captain turned, shouting orders. The other tried to follow, Fraser supporting him.

"Here, somebody, a horse for Lounsbury!"

A third man dismounted—Jamieson. He put a rope in Fraser's hand.

"Take my horse," he said. "I'll stay. Ride like the devil, Lounsbury, and soak 'em one for me!"

They helped the storekeeper mount. The command had gone. He and Fraser followed.

Half the troopers were traveling the farther brink, half the near. The two caught up with the latter detachment.

Progress was slow. The men were tired from the fire fighting. The horses were all but blown.

Nevertheless not a moment's halt was taken until, after six wearisome miles, the troopers came opposite the cottonwoods where the Indian dead were lashed.

By now the darkness had lifted considerably, and a scout, who was riding the southern side, advised a hunt for tracks.

No tracks were found on the near brink. The horses moved forward again, Oliver and Fraser waiting behind to hear from the opposite side.

All at once as they waited Fraser began peering down into the coulee. "What's that?" he whispered. "What's that? Hark!"

THE BERKSHIRES.

A Farmer Tells Why He Prefers Them to Other Breeds.

Writing of Berkshires in Rural New Yorker, F. D. Squires says: After trying nearly all of the various breeds I am thoroughly convinced from a business standpoint, in dollars and cents, that the Berkshires are the most profitable animals I ever tried. There are just four reasons why I should choose the Berkshires for the business farmer's business hog. And when I say the business hog I don't mean a hog for show, as I don't believe in show animals for the average business farmer. If by chance he should produce a show animal my advice would be to sell it for a show animal to a show animal man and invest it in an animal for profit.

First, activity, combined with strong digestive and assimilating powers, returning a maximum quantity of flesh for food consumed.

Second, their pigs are strong, active and vigorous at birth.

Third, their flesh is of the highest quality of pork, and their loins are much sought by butchers as being of finer quality than any other breed.

Fourth, they can be fattened at an early age on less feed than any other known breed.

The brood sow should be long and deep bodied, with ribs well sprung, jowls full and heavy, running well back on neck; shoulders smooth and even on top and in line with side; ham deep and thick; legs and feet short, straight and strong, set wide apart with hoofs nearly erect, and, above all else, she should have at least twelve well developed teats.

Treat her kindly and give her plenty of nourishing food, but not fattening, during farrowing season, and she will present you with a fine sample of her progeny, and at filling time you will never be sorry you selected the Berkshire for profit.

Pasturing Sheep on Alfalfa.

Every now and then the statement is made that sheep may be successfully pastured on alfalfa. In some instances they can. In other instances they cannot. Under some conditions they can. Under more conditions they cannot. In a very dry atmosphere sheep may be safely grazed on alfalfa when accustomed to it. If fed dry food early in the day, such as grain, they may safely graze on it.

But the fact remains that there is usually some danger that sheep will be lost through bloating more or less while being thus grazed. Moreover, the further fact remains that the sheep graze so closely that under many conditions they injure the alfalfa plant and shorten its period of growth. When the alfalfa grows with grass crops, the element of danger from bloat is practically eliminated.—Professor Thomas Shaw.

A Great, Many a Simple Spooner.

I was lately told a delightful story of a great statesman staying with a humble and anxious host who had invited a party of simple and unimportant people to meet the great man. The statesman came in late for dinner and was introduced to the party. He made a series of old fashioned bows in all directions, but no one felt in a position to offer any observations. The great man at the conclusion of the ceremony turned to his host and said in tones that had often thrilled a listening senate: "What very convex lust jugs you have in your bedrooms. They pour well." The social frost broke up, the company was delighted to find that the great man was interested in mundane matters of a kind on which every one might be permitted to have an opinion, and the conversation, starting from the humblest conveniences of daily life, melted insensibly into more liberal subjects.—Arthur C. Benson in Putnam's and the Reader.

An American Admirer.

In a small way an American figures in the journal kept by Rosalie Lamerliere during the revolutionary days of 1793 in France and published under the title, "The Last Days of Marie Antoinette."

Rosalie Lamerliere, a girl of Picardy, was servant to the queen in the conciergerie. "One day," Rosalie has recorded, "M. de Saint Leger, the American, who was coming from the register's office, noticed that I was carrying a glass half filled with water.

"'Did the queen drink the water that has gone from the glass?' he asked.

"I answered that she did.

"With a quick gesture he uncovered his head and drank the water that remained with every indication of respect and reverence."

Sun and Earth.

The sun's greatest distance from the earth, about July 1, is nearly 94,500,000 miles; his least, about Jan. 1, rather less than 91,000,000 miles; his mean distance is about 92,383,000 miles. It may serve to give some idea of the vastness of this distance to say that a ball fired from a thirteen inch gun at the sun would require thirteen years to reach its mark, supposing its velocity to remain unchanged throughout the journey. The sun's diameter is 860,000 miles, exceeding the earth's about 109 times. The sun exceeds the earth in surface 11,780 times and in volume 1,280,000 times.

Rice Culture.

The best of all rice known in the market for size and quality is that grown in South Carolina. The year 1694 is the earliest in which rice is known to have been grown in this country. Rice culture is as old as history, having been known in India from time immemorial. The wild rice, still plentiful in the marshy, tropical countries of southern Asia, is undoubtedly the plant from which all forms of cultured rice have been Offer of Power to Brookville, Ont.

Brockville, Ont., Feb. 3.—M. W. Beach, a manufacturer and controller of water power at Iroquois, accompanied by Mr. Gilmour, a Toronto electrical engineer, laid before the heads of the municipal organizations to-day a plan to transfer electrical power from that village to Brockville. He is willing to build the transmission line, and his business here is to ascertain if enough consumers could be secured to make it a paying investment. He informed the Board of Light Commissioners that he would sell to them the sole right of distribution here, or that he would be willing to take charge and sell to manufacturers, provided they took a sufficient amount. It is also proposed to supply the water department with electrical energy. The matter is being taken up by the Board of Trade and the commissioners.

Mr. Beach's line would pass through Prescott and Cardinal, and negotiations are being conducted with these municipalities.

Back to the Land Tried in Sheffield

DRINK TRADE PROFITS

From figures which have been compiled by a reliable authority it appears that the will of 149 persons connected with the wine and spirit trade were proved in the United Kingdom during 1908, showing personalty amounting to £3,465,000, or an average of £23,255 During the preceding year the number of such wills proved was 168, and the net personalty £3,966,000, or an average of £23,607.

TAIL OF THE EARTH.

For alleged libel arising out of a comment on an advertisement of an astronomical weather almanack which he produced.—Mr. Benjamin George Jenkins sued the Daily News, Limited. The advertisement in question began "Have you seen the Gegenschein, believed to be the tail of the earth?" Judgment was given by Mr Justice Sutton for the defendants with costs.

"BACK TO THE LAND."

A successful experiment has been tried in Sheffield of sending a number of the unemployed into the agricultural districts of Lincolnshire, where situations have been found for them. Nearly 100 men, most of whom had some previous knowledge of farm work, have been in regular agricultural employment, and many of them, having decided to make the home definitely "on the land," have sent for their wives and families. The experiment was initiated by the Sheffield police court missionary.

News Nuggets

Winnipeg, Feb. 1.—The retail trade of the Canadian West during the past six months has been much more largely a cash trade than ever before. Trade conditions as a whole are on a more substantial basis than they have been for years and it is believed that during the coming year every man who conducts his business properly and with a view of gradual improvement, developing and expanding of sound economic lines will be able to make more money than ever before in the history of the Canadian West.

When Theodore Roosevelt, sr., goes on his hunting expedition to Africa next spring among those who will accompany him, if present plans are carried out, will be J. Alden Loring, noted as a hunter and a naturalist Loring has made numerous collecting trips in British America, Mexico, the United States, Switzerland, Germany, and Belgium. He is an athlete, inured to open-air life and hardships, is a crack shot, jovial and companionable, a thorough scholar, and is a man of some means. He is about 30 years of age.

Washington, Feb. 4.—An important immigration case was decided to-day by Secretary Straus, of the Department of Commerce and Labor. Ethel Wright, a Canadian woman, 25 years of age, applied for admission to the United States in order that she might enter the Nurses' Home, at Chicago, to study nursing. In common with other student nurses at the institution, she was to be allowed a small compensation.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two prejudices must be combated. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important. Both combated.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is for the mucous membrane supposituory remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal drug tonic. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, toning the organs of all nerves, all tissue, and all blood elements.

The Night Cure, as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed membranes, while the Restorative, upon arising, gives renewed vigor and quickly builds up wasted tissues, bringing natural vigor, strength, vigor, good color. Ask Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—for a personal trial to the system. For positive local help, use the Night Cure.

Reconsideration of Waterways Treaty

Washington, Jan. 30.—The senate committee on foreign relations today resumed consideration of the Canadian boundary waterways treaty, which was reported to the senate several days ago for ratification. The reconsideration is due to objections made by Senator Smith of Michigan, against the treaty on the ground that it takes from his state certain rights connected with the waters of the St. Mary's river.

Chandler Anderson of New York, who was special counsel for the state department in the preparation of the treaty, was before the committee at today's meeting.

The various objections to the treaty, including the question of the St. Mary's River, and Senator Nelson's criticism, that it might interfere with certain irrigation projects in his state, were submitted to Mr. Anderson. Members of the committee took the position that many of the protests were prompted by senators not having a full understanding of the provisions of the treaty.

While no amendments have been offered, it is expected a number will be presented when the treaty is taken up again in the senate, about the middle of next week.

Goods Taken from Cutter

Mr. McManus, of Douro, had the misfortune to have a pair of rubbers and socks to match, also a demijohn of syrup, stolen from his cutter while he was absent about ten minutes. This happened on Tuesday at one of the local hotels, and Mr. McManus had to buy another pair before he left for home.

Weary, Worn Out, Tired

If You Feel Poorly this Spring this Article is worth Considering.

Nothing in life keeps people from advancement like poor health. If the nerves are weak, if the stomach, liver, bowels or kidneys, fail to work properly, healthy surely suffers. Spring is the hardest time on health—the season when the system calls for active cleansing medicine.

The best plan is to entrust your condition to a physician of reputation like Dr. Hamilton, who has had years of experience in compounding tonics. For the ills and tired feeling of spring Dr. Hamilton says nothing is better than Mandrake and Butternut Pills, and this is well proven in the case of James Burton of Lewistown. "I had grip and it left me very weak. The disease settled in my back and side, which ached day and night. I had a nagging cough. My appetite was all gone. My nerves unstrung. I could not sleep well. I struggled against growing page, thin and weak—but it was no good. Spring brought depression, overpowering weakness and bad headaches. But my life was spared, simply because I learned of the wonderful merit in Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. The result was marvellous, I gained rapidly, became strong, ruddy, vigorous, perfectly well. I urge every man and woman to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly.

You'll brighten up, have cleaner blood, stronger nerves, better spirits after using Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c at all dealers. Guaranteed safe, sure helpful for old and young.

Simpson Going South

It is stated that Tom Eck, Fred Simpson's manager, will have the Indian train in Georgia for his coming race with Dorando. The idea is to get the Hiawatha man working in a congenial climate and it is thought that a month's workout in the southern state will put him good and fit for his contest with the Italian.

It is expected that word will be received from Eck in a short time concerning the Indian's doings.

Children's Aid Officer in the City

Mr. S. M. Thompson, of Brantford, provincial inspector and visitor of the Children's Aid Society was in the city this week and called upon the officers of the local society and was also shown over the shelter by Mr. Geo. Cochrane. To The Times he expressed himself highly satisfied with the work being done in this city. The Peterborough society he said was regarded as one of the best in the province.

Mr. Thompson has gone to Perth and Smith's Falls and from these places will go to several towns in the northern part of the province. He will likely return to Peterborough in the near future to given an illustrated address on the work of the Children's Aid Society. Mr. Thompson is said to deal with this subject in a most interesting manner.

A Good Thing

Sure to Win When People Know It

The marvelous growth of the sale of Postum is principally due to the fact that when a man or woman learns that tea or coffee is hurting them and that there's relief by changing to Postum, they are pretty sure to find out for themselves by trial.

"For six or eight years I had suffered from indigestion," writes a Va. lady, "until I was nothing but skin and bones. I tried nearly every patent medicine for stomach trouble, and several physicians, but without relief.

"Two years ago I was nervous and weak when my last boy came, and couldn't nurse him. I had an attack of bilious colic one day and could taste nothing but coffee. I told my husband I would not drink any more coffee as I believed it caused my trouble.

"Having heard a lot about Postum I had him get some. I did not like it at first, but when we boiled it thoroughly according to directions on the pkg. I liked it, felt better, and the baby was better, too.

"At that time my husband was a slave to coffee, he had his coffee and I had Postum. One night he thought he was dying. I had had those attacks and told him he was only nervous from drinking coffee for supper.

"The next morning he told the cook not to make coffee, he would try Postum. When he came home that afternoon, he still wanted Postum, said he felt better than for a long time, and that night he rested better than for a good many nights.

"From that day till this he has been a Postum drinker and has better health than for years. I used to weigh 130 lbs. when I began to use Postum, now I weigh 158. All my children drink Postum and are healthy.

"Our grocer did not handle Postum but he got it for us. As our friends saw the good it had done us, they began to drink Postum, and now our grocer says he can hardly keep enough on hand.

"It is hard to down a good thing when the people find it out. I would not be without Postum for anything in reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich., read, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

"There's a Reason."

Kakefield Won

was a hard game for the Straths to lose as it is the first defeat in three years.

For Lakefield every man on the ice was a star. They were all out to win and were at the game every minute. Quinn at cover, however was particularly brilliant and broke up many rushes by the Strathconas. The Sabatino brothers were also shining lights, while Morin did the good shooting.

For the Strathconas, Wilson in goal was decidedly off color and missed several shots he should have had. McWilliams at point was very effective. He is a hard checker and very fast, but in the first part of the game he was unable to get away.

Seymour did not get settled down and played the man too much, consequently he spent some time on the fence as a spectator. The rest of the bunch however worked hard and tried to make it three consecutive years without a defeat.

THE LINE-UP

The teams lined up as follows,

STRATHCONAS—
Goal—Wilson.
Point—McWilliams.
Cover—Dusty.
Rover—Dobson.
Center—Long.

LAKEFIELD—

PENALTIES.

Shrubb and Longboat

concert pitch, but as near as I can gather he will start in this race with a fair chance of winning.

INDIAN HAS GOOD CHANCE.

The Indian in shape is Shrubb's superior at the Marathon distance. Even patched up he has a good chance to win out if he will hold his head and run his own race regardless of what Shrubb does.

Why have I changed my opinion of Shrubb? Well, simply because, I have discovered that Shrubb is a man of weak spots. If he holds together he will win, but it is an even break which will blow up first.

SHRUBB'S HANDICAPS.

Shrubb's left ankle is none too good for a grind of 26 miles, and that sore toe, while it has healed, is not completely sound, and may bother him. Shrubb is a man who, when he is right, takes a lot of beating, but at the same time he is a man who will break up fast as soon as anything goes wrong. He cannot or will not stick it out in the face of physical difficulties. He is not of that class of athlete who will halt by the roadside with a sick stomach, relieve himself, and go on again, and come from behind. Once things go wrong he will stop, unless he has the contest won beyond peradventure.

DIDN'T LIKE HIS TONE.

I talked to Shrubb today, and I didn't like his tone. He hasn't the same cocky confidence in his voice he had two weeks ago. He too may have healed, as he says, but the delay has not done his mental qualities any good. My opinion today is that one or the other of the two men will not finish the race.

The Indian is so closely guarded in his camp that I have no chance to find out exactly what training he has really done. I have to take what is given out. I cannot get behind that and my own powers of observation.

Tom Flanagan has switched, and now says that he thinks the Indian has a fair chance to win out. I think he will be one of the Indian's advisers in the race, and you can bet your last dollar Flanagan won't go behind a man he does not honestly believe has a fighting chance to conquer.

TALK WITH THE INDIAN.

Sol. Mintz of Hamilton, who is over with Tom Flanagan, was a welcome visitor to Camp Deforest this morning, and has a good opportunity to get the inside dope on the Indian.

"Longboat told me he was sure to win," said Mintz. "I am delighted with the condition of his feet. They are without a blemish. He looks strong and fit and he pranced around like a ten-year-old. Confident as I was that he would win on January 25th, I am twice as confident now. As far as I can judge he looks like a winner to me.

"Of course how much the doctors have accomplished towards relieving the lumbago and rheumatism in his knees, I cannot tell. On the surface he looks right. Whether they have got him patched up to go the whole distance at top speed if it is necessary for him to do so, I cannot tell. I know one thing Deforest has him completely in hand, and he has no complaints to make to me."

Lou E. Marsh.

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or overbusy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, as how can she, the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have quickly relieved the disease, thereby dispelling all those depressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skilful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made out native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked "shop girls," "run-down" debilitated teachers, sewing women, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in relieving and subduing hysteria, irritability, nervous exhaustion, prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, St. Vitus's dance and other distressing nervous symptoms commonly associated upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

North American Life

ANNUAL MEETING

Report for the Year 1908

The twenty-eighth Annual Meeting of the North American Life Assurance Company was held at its Home Office in Toronto, on Thursday, Jan. 28th, 1909, when the following report of the business of the Company for the year ended Dec. 31st, 1908, was presented:

The cash income for the year from premiums, interest, etc., was $1,937,-478.24, showing the satisfactory increase of $81,960.59.

The business has been conducted on a conservative basis, as is shown by a further reduction in the ratio of expenses to premium income, thereby placing the North American Life in the front rank of economically managed Canadian companies.

The amount paid on policy-holders' account was $654,991.05, and of this sum $368,831.76 represents payments for Dividends, Matured Endowments and Investment Policies.

The Assets increased during the year by the sum of $851,762.01, and now amount to $9,580,638.09. The Assets continue to be, as heretofore, invested in the best class of securities available; a detailed list of these will be published with the Annual Report for distribution.

After making ample provisions for all liabilities and paying the sum of $124,-771.36 for dividends to policy-holders, the net surplus was increased to $376,-214.15.

The policies issued during the year, together with those revived, amounted to the sum of $4,465,224.00, making the total insurance in force $40,311,091.00.

A monthly examination of the books of the Company was made by the Auditors, and at the close of the year they made a thorough scrutiny of all the securities held by the Company. A committee of the Board, consisting of two Directors, made an independent audit of the securities each quarter.

L. GOLDMAN, Managing Director. J. L. BLAKE, President.

The Annual Report, containing a detailed list of the securities, will be sent in due course to each policy-holder.

Stolypin Horrified by Work of His Own Spy

St. Peterburg, Feb. 5. —Eugene Asef is now being hunted by the government as well as by the fighting Socialists, the organization that has declared him a traitor and condemned him to death. He was for a long time one of the leaders of the Socialists, but at the same time he acted as a spy for the government. He is now a fugitive, and recently has been reported in Switzerland. The government has decided, owing to the revelations concerning his terroristic activity to withdraw its protection and makes every effort to apprehend him.

The secret police, deeply compromised in the Asef revelations, also will be thoroughly investigated.

Premier Stolypin, in a statement to his colleagues at a private sitting of the Cabinet, declared that although secret agents abroad were indispensable and the employment of renegades a regrettable necessity, the work of provocative agents as set forth in the records of the Asef case, would, under no circumstances, be countenanced. He expressed himself in favor of the ventilation of the affair in open court as the only way of vindicating the government and satisfying public opinion.

M. Lopukine, the ex-Chief of Police, who also is charged with treason, is being held in close confinement. He is not permitted to see a lawyer. It was discovered that he was sending letters to his wife through secret channels, and the director of the prison where he is being held was at once removed.

Whipped Until He Howled for Mercy

Vienna, Feb. 5.—The present session of the Austrian Parliament came to an end today after a scene of turbulence extraordinary even for an assembly where violent outbreaks are comparatively common.

The trouble which arose from the old racial feeling between the Germans and the Grecks, broke out during the debate on a Government bill the object of which was to reconcile these differences. The radical Czecch obstructionists, who have been hindering the debate on this measure for several days past, with a continuous din from drums and tin whistles, so exasperated the Germans today that the opposing deputies came to close quarters and a fierce scrimmage ensued.

One of the radical Czech deputies, a man named Specsek, who has been most violent in his obstruction, was captured and whipped until he howled for mercy.

Another Czech was bitten on the cheek by a German and sustained an ugly wound, and black eyes and sore heads were numerous.

The premier, Baron Von Biernerth, seeing the uselessness of attempting to pass legislation, closed the session and sent the deputies home.

The Minto Wedding was Made as Spectacular as Possible to Please Natives

English papers arriving this week brought the first details of the wedding of Lady Violet Elliot, daughter of the Earl of Minto, Viceroy of India, with Lord Charles Fitzmaurice, youngest son of the Marquis of Lanadowne, in Calcutta recently. It was the most brilliant ceremony seen in the East since the Cornation Durbar.

NATIVES LOOKED ON.

Thousands of natives witnessed the procession to and from the cathedral. The bride drove from government house in a state carriage, accompanied by the viceroy, and escorted by a full viceregal bodyguard in their striking uniforms of scarlet and gold. She wore a beautiful white dress with a long silver train, and her father was in military uniform, with the Star of India.

On arriving at the cathedral, she was attended by several little girls as bridesmaids. The Gordon Highlanders furnished a guard of honor at government house, the West Kent Regiment providing another at the cathedral.

TROOPS LINED ROUTE.

The whole route was also lined with troops.

The scene in the cathedral, which was profusely decorated and crammed with guests, was a memorable one. The bride-groom's regiment was represented by several officers a few men. The service, which was conducted by Bishop Copleston, was fully choral, valuable aid being lent by the viceroy's band. Among those who signed the register were Lord and Lady Minto, Lord Kitchener, and Lady Lanadowne.

At the reception held at government house after the wedding the health of the bride and bridegroom was proposed by Lord Kitchener, Sir E. Baker, the lieutenant-governor, who was to have done so, being absent on a tour. About 100 native noblemen and gentry were present

The wedding cake, which was over six feet high, was cut with the bridegroom's sword with the usual ceremony.

The first part of the honeymoon will be spent at the viceregal residence at Barrackpore, after which Lord and Lady Fitzmaurice will pay a visit to Debra. They leave for England in March.

Lady Violet was married in a robe which surpassed in splendor the gorgeous dress worn by some of the native princes who attended the wedding. It was of ivory satin charmeuse, fastened with ornaments of pearls and silver, the sleeves profusely jeweled. The very heavy train, which was carried by three little pages, was of cloth of silver, with pearls and crystals embedded in the needlework so as to form roses on a feather design.

Making Good.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good;" and Dr. Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity, are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made drunkards.

A good, honest, square-deal medicine of known composition like Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the "proprietaries" that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper — no secret, no hocus-pocus humbug. Storekeepers don't accept a substitute that the dealer may possibly make a little bigger profit. Insist on your right to have what you call for.

Don't buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for woman's special ailments. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its startling curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it placed over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine it is unequaled. It won't satisfy those who want "booze," for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the smallest pill of their kind in the market, still lead in sales, when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take as candy—one to three a dose. Much imitated but never equaled.

North American Life Company

On another page of this issue will be found the report of the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the North American Life Assurance Co. which was held recently at the head office in Toronto. Mr. G. B. Stevenson, whose office is on Water street, is the popular local representative. He has written a very large number of policies in this city and vicinity, and as a result the report will be of general interest. The company has enjoyed a substantial increase in business the past year and the results were beneficial to the policy holders who participated in the dividends. The increase during the year was $81,980.59. The North American Life now occupies a position in the front ranks of economically managed Canadian companies.

Peterborough Won a Great Game from Lindsay Midgets Last Night

The Score was Five to Two—Played in Water Before a Crowd of 2,000—Hardest and Best Game Seen Here for Years—Lindsay Special Brought 227 Supporters

The greatest game played in Brock street rink for several years was the Lindsay-Peterborough intermediate game last night. There was something doing every minute and the vast crowd was worked up to the highest pitch of excitement all the time. In spite of the condition of the ice the play was fast, although it lacked combination, but every time the com. was tried it counted, and it was only the water or a body check by the defense which prevented a score.

In the first half the ice was hard although there was water in some parts. As the game progressed and the heat from the immense audience the depth of the water increased until near the end there was nearly a half an inch and every time any one fell it was as good as a shower bath to those near. There was a good solid foundation however, which prevented the slush forming.

The doors of Brock street rink were thrown open at seven o'clock, and there was a bunch of people already waiting and from that time on till the game started there was a regular procession. The rink was taxed to its utmost capacity. Fully 2000 people saw the game and the great majority of those went home with a husky voice while 1999 were constantly cheering for their respective team.

The Lindsay special arrived soon after 7.30 with 227 stalwart supporters all sock sure they would pinch the district by winning last night's game and give the Petes a trimming on their own ice. Such was not to be, however, and the boys from the Scugog banks may be thankful the ice was not hard.

THE GAME.

The game was a little late i starting, but when Referee Sutherland of Kingston, lined the boys up and faced the puck, the fun started in earnest. Lindsay began to force things at once with the idea of securing a lead, but the Petes broke away once and made a successful rush with a pass to center where Morgan was waiting and he shoved it into the nets in four minutes. This was the signal for the Peterborough bunch to yell and they did it too. Still Lindsay tried to break through and the puck was chased up and down the ice time after time until eight minutes had elapsed when Taylor for Lindsay got a chance and scored, making it a tie 1—1, and this was the tally at half time. Derocher in the local nets did noble service and stopped many a hard shot as did also Newton in the Lindsay nets. Both these men were stars and won applause time after time. The half was not rough nor dirty although 21 men decorated the fence for two minutes each. The offences were all of a minor nature. The referee was very strict and there was nothing which escaped his eagle eye. He not only saw every attempt at slashing or tripping but he did not miss one offside. Nor did a single man kick the puck he did not catch. About the middle of this half Morgan got a cramp in the leg and had to retire for a few minutes, and Taylor went off with him. When the whistle blew for intermission both teams were glad. It was hard work and they were pretty well tired.

SECOND HALF.

After the rest and a rub down Peterborough came back fresh and strong with a determination to win or die. They went after the rubber in earnest and for the first few minutes played the visitors off their feet. Still they were not able to score until Glover got the puck when Lindsay forwards were away and after a brilliant rush landed the locals second goal in eight minutes. Then the game was won. The Petes took courage and played for all there was in them. Morgan got hold of the rubber and zig-zagged down the ice until near the nets where he passed to Moore and good number three was notched up. Still the locals were not satisfied. They kept right on and Morgan made it 4—1 in just four more minutes. The next thing that happened was a surprise to all for Lindsay, scored in half a minutes, the credit going to Koyle. The last goal was scored by Rae five minutes later, making the score 5—2.

The second half was inclined to be a little rough and about the middle Parnell and Randall got into a mix-up and were using their fists, but the referee and Hurtubise soon stopped the little side issue. Randall went back at it and as a result he got a ten-minute rest and Parnell five minutes. Taylor collided with Moore and had to retire for a few minutes and Morgan went with him. Then near the end Dusty got a nasty crack in the face, and Gene Hurtubise picked him and carried him off. Cotey also retiring. There were eleven men were given rests.

For Peterborough Ray, Glover, Dusty and Derocher were the stars. Ray is the makings of a whirlwind and while nearly every Lindsay man took a crack at him he was game to the last. In the second half the visitors laid for him and Morgan but neither were hurt. Glover showed old time form and in fact he is

INDIAN BEAT SHRUBB

Fatal Fire in Children's Home in Battle Creek

Battle Creek, Mich., Feb. 5.—The Haskell Memorial Home, a three and a-half storey brick orphanage located on the western boundary of this city was destroyed by fire early today.

Three of the 37 little inmates were missing when the roll was counted in a cottage on the orphanage grounds after the fire. The missing; Lena McFerney, 14 years old; Cecil Quotent, 13; George Goodenow, 8.

In the panic that ensued when the children were awakened by the first alarm, several little girls jumped from a third storey window, but it is not thought that any of them were fatally hurt, though Ruth Hoff, 12 years old, was seriously injured in the back.

James Armstrong, 12 years old, stood on a shed under the window from which the girls jumped, directing them how to make their fall as easy as possible, and catching two of the smaller girls in his arms.

Mrs. R. S. Owen, who, with her husband, was in charge of the institution, fought her way down the main stairway while it was a mass of flames, carrying a six weeks' old babe in her arms, and with two small children clinging to her skirts.

The fire started in the north wing, and spread rapidly through the entire structure.

Ladies Bitten By Vicious Canines

Lindsay is infested with a number of vicious canines which run at large about the streets biting and frightening people, besides doing considerable damage in other ways.

A few days ago a lady was bitten by a dog in the east ward and complaints have been made to the police by two ladies who were similarly attacked on Kent street.

A south ward youth is suffering from a painful wound inflicted by one of those wandering curs. The nuisance is becoming intolerable, and the merchants are also registering complaints against the depredations of these animals.—Lindsay Post.

The Toronto General Trusts Corporation Held Annual Meeting

One of the most gratifying statements that has been presented to the shareholders of any company this year is that of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation, the complete report of whose directors appear on another page in this issue. The twenty-seventh annual meeting was held in Toronto on February 3rd, and was largely attended by representative shareholders who were well satisfied with the results of the year's business. Mr. J. W. Langmuir, the managing director was complimented upon his wise, careful and yet progressive policy. He has proved himself a most capable man for the head of this large and thoroughly reliable financial institution, which is recognized on all sides as one of the best on the American continent.

During the past year business to the extent of nearly three and a half millions of dollars, besides doing trustee for the issue of bonds to a very considerable amount and holding the position of registrar, transfer agent, etc. The gross profits for the year were $275,150.69 or an increase over last year of $12,424.15. To the shareholders was paid in dividends $75,000 while the rest fund was increased by $50,000

In his very able and concise address to the shareholders the managing director, Mr. J. Langmuir, referred to the restrictions placed upon the company when it amalgamated with the Trusts Corporation of Ontario, so far as the paying of dividends was concerned. This company is not allowed to pay more than 7 1-2 per cent. per annum until such times as their reserve fund reaches the total of $750,000. No other company is under this restriction and the corporation is now applying to be put on the same footing as other companies.

One of the leading features of this company is that they neither invest their own capital money or the money entrusted to them by their clients, nor do they speculate in any way. They follow strictly the terms of the Trustee Investment Act.

The Board of Directors was elected and the directors again selected, Dr. John Hoskin as president, and Hon. S. C. Wood and W. H. Beatty as vice-presidents.

Longboat Ran Shrubb to Earth, He is World's Greatest Runner

Shrubb Collapsed in 25th Mile After the Indian Regained the Seven Laps and Began to Set the Pace—Shrubb was the American Favorite but He Could Not Stand the Pace

Hats off to Tom Longboat. He is the world's greatest Marathon runner. No one can dispute his title. He defeated Alfred Shrubb, the wonderful English distance runner by running him to the earth. Shrubb fully expected to get at least a mile lead in the first 15 miles, so that he could take a rest and come back for the rest of the distance. But the best he could do was to put seven laps between him and the Indian, and it took him all his time up to the 20th mile to do it. It was too much for the little fellow. He couldn't stand the pace for the distance, while Longboat and his supporters put all their confidence in the last five miles, knowing Tom's staying powers and wonderful reserve speed.

It was the greatest race ever run in Madison Square Garden, and was witnessed by the largest crowd that ever gathered in the big auditorium. The Englishman was the favorite in New York and the crowd cheered him incessantly as he paced off the first twenty miles. But then the Indian's backers took a hand in the applause, and made the rafters crack with their cheering.

Longboat will be given a great reception when he returns to his home in Canada, and all true Canadians were delighted with the victory, although Shrubb had many supporters in this country, too.

STORY OF THE RACE.

(Special to The Times.)

Madison Square Garden, N.Y., Feb. 5—Shrubb's running was a revelation to the spectators, who continually cheered the flying English, as he moved around the track with a machine-like motion that carried him steadily farther away from Longboat. The Indian sought futility to cut down his adversar's lead but Shrubb showed no traces of weariness and continued his fast pace undiminished. Unable to keep up Longboat dropped his sprint and fell back to his old pace with the result that Shrubb secured an additional lap, making seven laps in all at the 17th mile.

During the running of the 19th and 20th miles Shrubb put up a fine burst of speed, and though the Indian responded gamely he placed the eighth lap between himself and Longboat. The time for the 20-mile mark was 2 hours 1 minute and 25 4-5 seconds.

The Englishman's cheering admirers were given a heart thrill when Shrubb in the 21st mile suddenly stopped to change his shoes. During his brief absence from the track Longboat gained one of his lost laps, but Shrubb coming on the courage again started out at a lively clip with the evident intention of regaining the lost lap.

Tom Flanagan, the Indian's old manager, brought Longboat's wife out on the track to encourage her husband.

Pandemonium broke loose in the Garden during the 22nd mile when Shrubb came down to a walk for a few yards. It was apparent that he was in some distress, but he was soon off again with a swing stride though it could be seen that his pace had slowed perceptibly. Cheered on by his bride and the shouts of his friends Longboat increased his pace and soon began to rapidly cut down the lead of the now fast tiring Englishman.

The end of the 23rd mile found Longboat now only four laps behind Shrubb, who frequently broke his pace and walked, to rest himself. The Indian kept relentlessly on and in the first half of the 24th mile, brought forth a hurricane of applause by regaining another lap on his rival.

Shrubb was in evident distress, and it was only a game effort on his part that kept him struggling on. Longboat regained another lap at the end of the 24th mile, and was now setting the pace with Shrubb following him manfully. The thousands of spectators were now in a turmoil of great excitement. They yelled and cheered as the Indian slowly came up abreast of the Englishman, who was now a scant lap ahead as the pair moved on in the second lap of the 25th mile. Longboat ran without any seeming distress while Shrubb unable to run any further, fell back into a walk.

Longboat quickly took the lead, and the English unable to continue further, collapsed on the track, leaving the triumphant Longboat to finish the race alone a winner.

San Sebastian, Spain, Feb. 5.—A poor fisher boy of San Sebastian named Lojbeita, recently inherited a fortune under the most romantic circumstances.

Upon returning from a cruise in a fishing schooner, he was met on the wharf here by two strangers, who asked him if he knew who his parents were. The boy replied no. He explained that he had been brought up by the parish and that he always had been ignorant of his origin.

The two strangers then informed him that they were the executors of the will of his mother, an American woman, who died a few weeks ago in the village of Mundaca, near Bilbae, leaving him $600,000.

Doctors Grafted on Leg of a Dead Man

Washington, Feb. 5.—Doctors at the Georgetown University Hospital witnessed a remarkable operation performed there recently by Dr. George Tully Vaughan of this city on George A. Kelly, aged 29. The bones of Kelly's knee were so badly diseased that Dr. Vaughan decided on amputation.

In the hospital was a man about to die. Dr. Vaughan obtained permission from the dying patient's family to remove the left leg in case of death, and it was decided that the knee of the dead man should be grafted to the leg of the living sufferer.

The transfer was duly made. The bones were rivated together by slender, strong wire, and the most delicate phase of the operation, that of joining the ligaments, caused the surgeons to work as they probably never labored before. Every tissue, tendon and muscle was joined, and the bones fastened together. Kelly is said to be improving rapidly.

Who wouldn't give 25 cents to stop a pain 20 times? Just one little "Pink Pain Tablet"—Dr. Shoop's—will stop any pain in 20 minutes, sure! Read the formula on the box. Doctors say it can't be bettered. Checks womanly pains, head pains, any pain. 20 tablets 25c. Sold by all dealers.

This week we are selling a line of books at 25 cents. Be sure and see these values. Best yet. Times Bookstore.

THE SUFFRAGISTS

The Suffragette movement has, it appears, spread to Canada, though happily not in the form which it takes in England, and which is utterly subversive of respect for woman. The question is, of course, an open one. To serious and seemly discussion of it no one can take exception. Hitherto, by what seemed to be the decree of nature, the power has gone with the burden and the responsibility, says Prof. Goldwin Smith. Man has made the law, because he alone could uphold and enforce it; he alone could defend the commonwealth, on him rested the burden and the responsibility. Affection and identification of interest were trusted to guard the interest of the wife and family. Nor is it denied that woman has had privileges which it may be presumed she would not like to lose or impair. Before she exchanges privilege for power, let her weigh well the probable consequences of the change. What are the wrongs which for want of political power she has undergone? None, so far as we have seen, have been distinctly set forth.

A POLICE GOLDEN RULE

During the year 1907 in Cleveland there were 30,118 arrests by the police; in 1908 the number of arrests was 16,885. The peace of the city has not suffered. On the contrary, Chief of Police Kohler is able to report less crime and less property stolen than in the year before.

The decrease in arrests is due to the Chief's own "Golden Rule" policy with regard to first an minor ley with regard to first and minor offenders. These trespassers have a chance not to become repeaters. They are sent about their business with a kindly warning and without the black mark even of a fleeting punishment.

In effect Chief Kohler has carried into the first or police instances the method of probation generally practiced in practice to the police courts. Judge Ben Lindsay, in Denver, has made such a system work to great advantage among young prisoners. Judge Cleland in Chicago, has found apparently hardened subjects amenable to friendly words—with firm pressure—on self-respect and duty to hitherto neglected homes.

About the only complaints Chief Kohler hears come from the police court attorneys who were wont to thrives on fees collected from unfortunates. Who else should complain? Certainly no members of that public which saves money and gains character under the policy of common sense. The Cleveland example gives what should be a finishing blow to the superstition that police efficiency is to be measured by the number of people lugged to jail in a year.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

"A melodrama depicting a German invasion of Britain is highly popular in London. It should be remembered that the music halls were the chief influence in promoting the Boer war."—Toronto Globe.

Evings, what intellects Canada possesses on the Globe staff. It was also the London music halls which sent the contingents to the Boer war from Canada, and brought thousands of armed men out of Australia and New Zealand. We colonials keep our ears pricked for the London music halls.

Volcanic disturbances seem to be running round the Mediterranean. It did so in the case of the great earthquake of July the 21st, A. D. 365, in the reign of the Roman Emperor Valentinian. The sea then suddenly retreated, leaving the shores of the Mediterranean dry; but soon returned with the weight of an immense and irresistible deluge, which was severely felt on the coast of Sicily, of Dalmatia, of Greece, and of Egypt. The people, with their habitations, were swept away by the waters, and the city of Alexandria annually commemorated the fatal day on which fifty thousand persons lost their lives in the inundation.

HOW GERMANY HAS BEEN ISOLATED—GAP CLOSED

On New Year's Eve the Kaiser gave a dinner to his generals, and in the course of the evening he read to them a long article, written for the Deutsche Revue, by Gen. Count von Schlieffen. In its way the article is hardly less sensational than the famous interview of a couple of months ago, and has drawn out fresh protests against the Emperor's interference in foreign affairs. It has been translated and summarized in the London Daily Mail, and is now the subject of much comment in British, American and European newspapers.

How the present war of armaments began is explained by the writer, who dates the beginning of that competition to the close of the Franco-Prussian War. There was a feeling in both France and Germany that the Treaty of Frankfort put an end to only the appearance of war, and that the struggle would have to be renewed some day. So both countries began to prepare themselves, and the other nations of Europe realized that unless they were content to remain silent and ineffective in future alterations of the map they, too, must enter in the race. The result of this contest is that the quick-firing rifle has been perfected. Gen. von Schlieffen cannot see how it can be improved; and all countries have the best. Hence, as far as rifles are concerned, the hundreds of millions of dollars spent on improving them have not given any one nation the slightest advantage. They might as well all be armed with baseball bats. The development of the rifle has led to a revolution in tactics. The Napoleonic column has become obsolete. The attack in two ranks and volley firing have been abandoned. Armies must now approach each other as though they were advancing in siege form, throwing up cover for themselves as they go along.

The writer draws an imaginary picture of the next European war. No more will the commander appear on the field surrounded by his glittering staff. He a house far to the rear he will sit at a large table, a map of the battlefield before him. He sends his orders by wireless or telephone. Hlse messengers use motor cars. The battle will be prolonged and weary, but not more bloody than of old. Artillery will fight against artillery, cavalry against cavalry, infantry against infantry, and airship against airship. The writer then descends to fact, again, and speaks of the "armed ring" that has been drawn round Germany and Austria, leaving the two countries in suspicious isolation.

Immediately after the war France began the erection of a great barrier of forts along the Upper Moselle and the Meuse, which now covers the whole of her Eastern frontier from Switzerland to Belgium. The Germans retorted with the invention of a new shell that would demolish the forts. The secrets, however, leaked out, now France has the same shells, and the duel between artillery and engineering expert continues, probably to end as the long competition in musketry has ended. According to the General, France's next move was to fortify the passes of the Jura, on the assumption that Germany would attempt to attack her by passing through Switzerland or Belgium. The latter country evidently entertained the same suspicion, for she, too, began to fortify. Then Holland took alarm; and Italy, which owed France a grudge for a couple of lost provinces, feared that France might contemplate another hostile move and met fort with fort, battery with battery. Thus, before two decades had elapsed since the close of the war of 1870, a veritable Chinese wall of fortifications had been erected against Germany from the Zuyder Zee to the Mediterranean.

There remained a possibility that Italy might join Germany; and that the two allies combined might burst the barriers of France; but Switzerland intervened, and fortified all the passes. It was now Russia's turn to be alarmed. On the south and the west Germany's road had been blocked. Surely she would seek a pathway on the east! More fortifications were erected, and then Austria and Germany found themselves isolated, with one side only open—that of the Balkans. This aperture has now been closed by Turkey, Servia and Montenegro. Recent events have tied Austria's hands. She seeks hell from her ally, and can offer none. Adversaries have succeeded in forcing both Austria and Germany to fight on different battlefields from now on. Austria's front must be on the south, Germany's on the west. Rival disputes are fostered in both countries, and the Triple Alliance has been further weakened by overtures to Italy, which France is now assiduously cultivating.

Isolated and protected as she is, Germany remains too strong for France to attack alone. She has evidently determined that she must have a stout ally at her shoulder; and Great Britain has been spared. From across the channel comes the cry; The coalition is ready. That it will ever undertake actual hostilities is both doubtful and unnecessary. The position that the powers have taken up is so favorable that in itself it constitutes a menace, and automatically agitates German nerves, already jarred by commercial struggles and industrial crises."

How One Baby Was Cured of a Dreadful Cold by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

All the world loves a baby and everyone is more or less interested in their health and happiness. There probably never was a baby that did not kick off the covers and take cold; in fact, babies are particularly susceptible to colds and croup, and the favorite remedy for these ailments is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It always gives quick relief and is pleasant and safe to take, in fact, it contains nothing injurious. Mothers have become acquainted with this fact and do not hesitate to give it to their baby when such a preparation is required. Mrs. John D. Harmon, of Melfa Station, Va., says: "About two weeks ago our baby had a dreadful cold, and at one time I feared would have pneumonia, but one of neighbors told how Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had cured her little boy, and I began giving it to our baby at once and it cured her. I had tried other remedies they all failed to do her any good. baby is now well and we heartily Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, for it her. I cannot recommend it too highly too much in its favor. I hope all read this will try it and be convinced was."

Net Surplus

After making ample provisions for all liabilities and paying the sum of $134,-771.36 for dividends to policy-holders, the net surplus was increased to $376,-314.15.

Insurance

The policies issued during the year, together with those revived, amounted to the sum of $4,465,224.00, making the total insurance in force $40,341,091.00.

Cosgraves Beer

Wordsof praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But it's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

I am very grateful for my present health, and think Orange Lily is the greatest treatment for women the world knows. Its use in my case caused 12 tumors or growths of some sort to be expelled. Some were as large as a hen's egg, and others smaller down to the size of a walnut. You may use my case in your advertisement, for it is the solid truth, and pen cannot describe all the good it has done for me."—Mrs. Louis H. Bolteridge.

This letter gives an indication of the positive benefits that always follow the use of Orange Lily. It is an applied treatment and comes in direct contact with the suffering organs. It produces results from the start in all cases of women's disorders, including painful periods, falling of womb, leucorrhoea, &c

I will send a sample box containing 10 days' treatment absolutely free to any suffering woman who has not yet tried it. If she will send me her address. Address with stamp

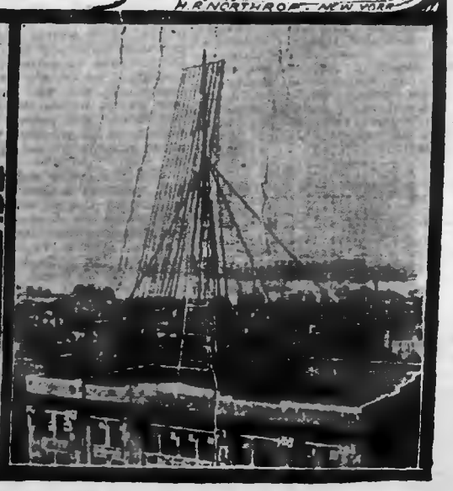
The "Soo" Canal—Vessels carrying 15,736 tons of iron ore passing through the locks.



Radio Wireless Telephone Tower—On the roof of the Terminal Building in New York.

WIRELESS telephony, that latest, and in many ways greatest, wonder of this electrical age, is on the eve of working a complete revolution in the methods of handling the enormous shipping of the Great Lakes.

Already, at scores of points along the lakes, the towering poles of the wireless telephone system, each with its antennae of wires, are being put in place so that by next Spring the system which already has made itself invaluable to the great Pacific fleet of our navy, as well as to the navies of Great Britain and Italy, will be in use from end to end of the chain of America's inland seas. By use of this system marine insurance rates will be reduced to a minimum, owing to the fact that all storm warnings may be transmitted immediately to lake vessels so that they will have ample time to make safe harbors and, used in conjunction with the enormous existing land system of wire telephones, will make it possible for persons either on the shores of the lakes or hundreds of miles away, to talk with officers of or passengers on any of the vessels engaged in the lake trade.

Without the enormous expense of wire maintenance that is necessary for the wire 'phone systems, and also without the expense of an expert operator as is necessary with wireless telegraph systems, the use of the wireless telephone will be within financial reach of the most modest sailing craft plying from port to port.

Few persons, even those directly connected with commerce on the Great Lakes, realize the enormous interests represented in that trade; therefore few realize the vast boon conferred by the latest electrical marvel. Eighty per cent. of all the water tonnage of North America is carried on the Great Lakes. Thirty thousand craft of all classes today are engaged in the lake trade, and the lake shipyards are from one to three years behind on their orders from lake ship-owners. Although one-half of all the vessels built in the Western Hemisphere in 1906 were for the Great Lakes trade, the need for more bottoms has become so acute that steamship companies engaged in the trade recently have been obliged to go to English and Scotch shipyards with orders.

An Enormous Fleet.

The freight conveyed over these waters during 1908 was more than seven times as much as the whole world carried through the Suez Canal in the same time. Four thousand freight steamers, 250 passenger steamers and about 25,000 barges and other craft comprise the enormous Great Lakes fleet, which uses upwards of three million tons of coal in a single year, or enough to heat every house in Chicago for three years.

The Pittsburg Steamship Company, which is merely the carrier of the United States Steel Corporation, alone owns ships with a combined capacity of 650,000 tons of ore during a single trip. If the ships of this company alone were placed end to end they would cover a distance of eight miles and during the eight months of the Great Lakes navigation each year they carry as much freight from Lake Superior to Lake Erie ports as all the vessels of the world take through the Suez Canal in a whole year. In weight of freight annually handled, Buffalo and Duluth are the world's greatest ports, while the tonnage handled at Ohio ports alone exceeds that of all the ports of France. During 1907 approximately 100,000,000 tons of freight were shipped in Great Lakes bottoms. This would be enough to fill 2,500,000 sixty-ton freight cars, or a train that would girdle the earth and extend from New York to San Francisco in addition. More than 90 per cent of this immense total consisted of 27,513,600 tons of iron ore, 14,000,000 tons of coal, 110,598,927 bushels of grain, 1,750,757 tons of flour, 14,868,000 bushels of flaxseed and more than 3,000,000 feet of lumber.

The greatest of all lines of lake traffic is that in iron ore, and some 300 giant steamers are engaged solely in its carriage. This ore commerce has doubled during the last six years and the steel men believe it will be doubled again during the next ten, for three little patches in the Great Lakes country produced in 1908 nearly half of the world's total supply of iron.

Total Tonnage for 1908.

During 1908 200,000,000 bushels of grain and 11,000,000 barrels of flour were shipped from Lake ports, the grain shipments from Port Arthur and Fort William alone being well over 80,000,000 bushels. At least 90,000,000 bushels of wheat, 60,000,000 bushels of other grain and 7,500,000 barrels of flour passed through the "Soo" canals and 50,000,000 bushels of grain, conservatively represent the total shipments from Chicago, Milwaukee and other ports whose eastbound commerce does not pass through these canals. The year's lumber shipments aggregated nearly 1,500,000,000 feet, or enough to build more than 75,000 houses of eight rooms each.

Taking the "Soo" canal as its center and drawing a circle having a radius of 250 miles, it would be found to include four of the world's greatest ports, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago and Duluth. Within the circle or upon its circumference are such other ports as Detroit, Toronto, Dunkirk, Erie, Conneaut, Ashtabula, Lorain, Sandusky, Toledo, Gary, Milwaukee, Ashland, Superior and Port Arthur. The eight states along the Great Lakes are in reality the heart and power of the nation. Within their borders dwell 35,000,000 people and upon their shores center the greatest industries of the world. Should the lakes disappear suddenly the industrial supremacy of the United States would receive a staggering blow from which it might never recover and more than half the population of the nation would be vitally affected. The steel industry would come to an untimely end.

With all the great shipyards straining every effort to meet the demands of the lake commerce, shippers agree that they never will be quite able to meet the requirements of the traffic. Everywhere from Duluth to Buffalo the shipping is crowded, in many cases dangerously so. The greatest ocean ports never have known such blockades as Duluth has seen on more than one occasion. During one month alone last year there were 1,221 arrivals and clearances at this port, an average of forty a day. Steamers pass through the Detroit River on an average of one every twelve minutes, night and day. Harbors and canals must be enlarged to facilitate the growing business and unless there is some means available for the protection of this vast shipping, the tragedies of this next decade will be greater than those of all the past. In the wireless telephone it is believed that protection has been found.

Storms Do Terrific Damage.

The Great Lakes are known as the most treacherous highway in the world. Great storms, coming up at a few hours notice, do enormous damage to shipping. Scores of vessels suddenly and mysteriously disappear each year, leaving no trace behind them. According to the records more than $15,000,000 worth of freight has been lost on the lakes, involving the wrecking of 16,000 vessels and the total loss of more than 2,000 ships. During the last thirty years, in which time the records have been practically complete, the wrecked vessels numbered some 5,000, nearly 1,600 of which were total losses, while the loss in cargoes alone has exceeded $12,000,000 in this same period. A notable case in point occurred in 1906 when the steamer "Flagg" went down with a cargo of metal worth $1,250,000, none of which ever has been recovered. One of the most horrible disasters in the whole history of the Great Lakes was the wrecking of the "Griffin" and her destruction near Cleveland, involving the loss of 226 lives. Thousands of other tragedies mark the history of the treachery of Great Lakes storms.

During the first week of October, 1905, a round dozen ships, valued approximately at $500,000 each, were wrecked during a severe storm. The net losses during this week were not far from $7,000,000. Warnings of the storm that caused this damage were posted by the United States Weather Bureau eight hours in advance and, had the lake vessels been equipped with wireless telephone apparatus at the time, every one would have had ample opportunity to have made port or a safe harbor. As it was, they had no warning of impending danger.

Another great peril to lake shipping is that of collision and conditions in this respect grow worse from day to day. During the whole eight months of the shipping season each year, scarcely a day passes without one or more collisions. These conditions, which of course are especially acute in time of fog, could be almost entirely obviated by wireless telephonic communication from ship to ship and, as all the dangers which surround the shipping interests on the lakes naturally compel the exaction of excessive insurance rates, this in turn reacts upon the freight tariffs so that the overcoming of the perils from storm and collision means a material reduction in cost of present lake transportation which, in spite of every existing obstacle, is exceptionally low.

Safeguard Against Extortion.

It is an admitted fact that the Great Lakes constitute the nation's chief safeguard against oppressive railroad rates. They are the regulators of our great commerce and the traffic on the lakes saves to the people of the United States $500,000,000 annually, or $6 for every man, woman and child of our population. Transportation over the lake waters in modern steamships costs from one-fifteenth to one-quarter of the prevailing railroad rates. It costs only two cents per bushel to ship grain from Duluth to Buffalo and only eighty cents to carry a ton of ore between these two points. This is exactly one-seventh the cost of railroad transportation for the same commodities between the same ports.

In passenger rates nearly a like difference is shown. During the season of 1908 the splendid passenger service of the Great Lakes was used by more than 16,000,000 people and the ratio of increase indicates that this total will be doubled in less than a decade. The railroad fare between Detroit and Buffalo is $7, but by steamer one can travel the 960 miles between these ports for $2.50, while one day each week a fare of $1.25 prevails.

The future of the Great Lake commerce is something so vast that none but the most venturesome would chance a prophecy. With the great Mississippi system to the southwest, soon to be connected with Lake Michigan by way of the ship canal which Chicago is building into the Illinois River, vessels will be enabled shortly to pass from the Great Lakes down the Mississippi to the Gulf. To the northwest lies the great wheat country of central North America, the focal point of which is the growing city of Winnipeg, located at the junction of the Assiniboine, now navigated for 300 miles, and the Red River of the North, up which steamers can go to the Minnesota, through the great wheat fields of the United States, thus bringing her sphere of influence south to Grand Forks and Fargo in the Dakotas.

Lake Winnipeg, which is as large as Lake Erie, now is being connected by locks with the Saskatchewan River system, navigable for nearly 1,000 miles into the very heart of the world's greatest grain fields. Soon this great inland water system, centering in Winnipeg, will have an outlet into Lake Superior by means of a canal running through the Winnipeg River, already navigable for 200 miles; Lake-of-the-Woods, Rainy River, Rainy Lake, Nemekan Lake, Loon Lake, Nequokan Lake and others, requiring only a few miles of actual canal building to bring down to Thunder Bay the product of a region which already is becoming the world's granary, although the Canadian grain trade is but in its infancy.

Projects To Relieve Congestion.

The congestion in the Detroit River is to be relieved by two Canadian projects giving free outlet over British soil to the shipping of the great Northwest. The first of these, the Georgian Bay project, is to take in the French River, Lake Nipissing and the Ottawa River, thus connecting Lake Huron with the St. Lawrence at Montreal. The second, the Trent Navigation project, now is open from Lake Simcoe to the head of Hailey's Falls, a distance of 135 miles. Nearly all the unfinished portion is under contract.

In a few years the movement of ore to feed the hungry furnaces of Pittsburg will be by an all-water route, as a canal from Ashtabula to the great city of iron and steel will do the work of fifteen railroads at the cost of one.

Today the Great Lakes hold the key to the commercial supremacy of America. Great capitalists, of course, are vitally interested in the traffic but most of the shipping on the Lakes belongs to the masses, the stock in the owning companies being held by hundreds of thousands. As the shares are among the most profitable and the safest investments in the world they have become the property of small investors such as farmers, mechanics and clerks and it is an interesting fact that one-third of the farmers in the lake counties of Ohio have money invested in lake shipping.

Of all the needs of Great Lakes ships and shippers the greatest is for an adequate and reliable means of communication from ship to ship and from ship to shore. It is to meet this demand that hundreds of artisans and mechanics now are engaged in the construction of wireless telephone stations along the shores of the Lakes and in installing instruments on the Lake vessels.

No sooner had the wireless telephone become a commercial practicability, through the perfected inventions of Dr. Lee de Forest, who previously had won distinction in the wireless telegraph field, than its adaptation became a matter of greatest concern to the shipping interests of the lakes. When the De Forest system was installed and successfully tested by the United States Navy with the result that Admiral Evans was able to be in constant vocal communication with all the officers and ships of the great Pacific fleet on its cruise from Hampton Roads through the Straits of Magellan and thence to San Francisco, there came insistent demands for an adequate wireless telephone system for the lakes. Although the American Navy was the first to utilize wireless telephony, it since has been installed on many of the ships of the Italian Navy, while the navy of Great Britain is following the same course with all possible speed.

What Wireless Telephony Has Done.

Already, from the station which the De Forest people installed at the top of the Eiffel Tower in Paris, tests have been made which carried the human voice clear and distinct to beyond Marseilles, 600 miles away. In this country successful tests have been made for a distance of 150 miles, but when the new station is completed in the fifty-second story of the huge Metropolitan Life campanile in this city, it is confidently expected by the wireless telephone experts that they can project the voice much further than at the Paris tests. In fact, the inventor, de Forest, has declared that within a short time he will be able to send messages between these two greatest stations so that the voice spoken in New York may be distinctly and immediately heard in Paris.

When one considers that thirty years ago the present wire telephone system was laughed at as being nothing more than a clever toy, and that Prof. Alexander Graham Bell nearly wore his heart and soul out trying to get the small sum of money needed to construct his small test line for three miles from Boston to Somerville, the suggestion of wireless talking from New York to Paris is not to be considered as a smile-provoking proposition.

In establishing its system of wireless telephony it already has been announced by the Great Lakes Radio Telephone Company, of Cleveland, which controls the De Forest system for the territory in question, that it will work in conjunction with all the existing wire telephone systems, whether Bell or independent. By a simple contrivance the wire 'phone system can be connected with the wireless system at any of the latter's central stations so that a person located at a regular long distance telephone in New York, for instance, can be connected through a wireless station at Cleveland and hold conversations with a business associate traveling as a passenger on a steamer out in the middle of Lake Erie.

Each central wireless station will have its apparatus attuned to a certain number of vibrations on the principle of a tuning fork. The attuning of an instrument can be changed by a switch, just as the switchboard of a central wire station can be regulated by the insertion of plugs. In this way when a Lake steamer, for instance, desires to talk with Cleveland, its operator will throw the switch to the number of vibrations called for by Cleveland. When the wire instrument on the steamer is in repose, it will drop back to a certain specific number of vibrations so that it can be reached by any central station calling its number, or, by means of an Aeriophone automatic signalling device, can be reached by any station sending out storm signals in darkness or fog. In this way each instrument can be so regulated that it can either take up general calls from any direction or only specific calls for its own number, as might be desired.

No Franchises Are Required.

One of the advantages of the wireless telephone is that it does not require a franchise right to operate or a right of way from any government, state or municipality. It talks through the air and is the only known method of vocal intership communication or of talking from ship to shore. In case of fog or storm the sound of the human voice, projected by this means, is as clear and distinct as at any other time, and the invention is therefore peculiarly adapted for safety signals and life-saving service. A distinct advantage of the wireless 'phone over the wire 'phone is that the buzz of the wire always is absent. As any ship's officer can talk by wireless 'phone as readily as by wire 'phone on shore, all expense of an expert operator is eliminated and the apparatus is placed within the reach of the most modest boat afloat.

The antennae wires of the apparatus are strung to the masthead of the ship by means of hempen rope, and are braced apart by a needle or spar of wood. The wireless telephone, just as the wireless telegraph, depends upon the projection of electric waves that pass through the atmosphere, and solid substances as well, with the velocity of light, which is 180,000 miles a second or more than seven times the circumference of the globe.

The mechanical principles upon which the wireless telephone depend seem to be simple enough, although there is a great difference of opinion as to the actual explanation of the phenomena of wireless telephony. Speech is the formation of very rapid complex and ever-varying series of vibrations of the air and their measurement by the nerves of the ear. Owing to the resistance of the atmosphere, these vibrations grow weaker and at last disappear as we get further from the source of disturbance. Telephony is the art of translating these vibrations of the air into vibrations of ether whose lesser resistance enables them to be carried to great distances for translation into air vibrations again, as only the air vibrations can be measured by the ear. In the wireless telephone the air waves are translated into the vibration of an electrical discharge which oscillates the ether.

One exceptionally valuable feature of the wireless telephone, which the United States Government is utilizing as rapidly as possible, is its adaptability to the lighthouse and lightship service. Because of the absence of wire maintenance charges it costs no more to talk from shore to a lighthouse or a lightship than it would cost to talk between two blocks of a congested city district, and the lighthouse keeper or lightship people need have no expert training in order to operate the apparatus.

Government Shows Its Appreciation.

At every turn the Government has shown its appreciation of the invention, which, in addition to having been installed on the thirty odd battleships, cruisers and torpedo-boat destroyers of the Pacific fleet before they started on their voyage around the world, has also been installed at Fortress Monroe, Mare Island and other army posts.

Still another feature of the invention, or rather the benefit that may be derived from it, is for the supplying of music and other forms of entertainment to passengers traveling on the passenger vessels. A service of this kind, aided by a huge receiver so that all of the passengers gathered in a large salon could hear the music or operatic airs simultaneously, should prove a most welcome innovation for steamship travelers. It is within the range of possibilities, at an early date, that the traveler by Great Lakes steamer may be able to spend his evenings listening to the voices of Caruso or Melba simultaneously with the audiences who see the singers in person at Covent Garden, London, or the Metropolitan or Manhattan Opera Houses in New York.

With the first great long distance wireless station nearing completion at Toledo, with twenty-five other long distance stations already contracted for construction along the lake front, with work going ahead on seventy-five smaller shore stations and with fifty odd more already projected, there is reason to expect that, by the time Great Lakes navigation opens in the Spring for the season of 1909, the wireless telephone system will be in full operation on the Great Lakes with nearly 200 stations in use.

The central station of the system will be located at Sault Ste Marie, a contract for its construction already having been let. Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Milwaukee, Duluth, Buffalo, Erie and Pittsburg are among the cities being provided with long-distance stations, while among other places for which minor stations are either planned or under construction are Sandusky, Lorain, Benton Harbor, Muskegon, Bay City, Cheboygan, Manistee, Mackinaw, Alpena, Port Huron, Ashland, Dunkirk, Superior, Eagle River, Marquette, Escanaba Bay, Menominee, Marinette, Green Bay, Sheboygan, Racine, Kenosha, Waukegan, Gary, Grand Haven, Traverse City, Petoskey, St. Ignace, Grand Rapids, Ashtabula, Charlotte, Oswego and Sackett's Harbor.

Trip Through Dives and Homes of Chinatown

When in New York I visited Chinatown. Climbing several flights of wooden stairs I found the Chinese joss house or temple, presided over by one of their priests, who explained in voluble Chinese what the different gods represented in their religion. I afterwards looked at the mysterious, and to me uninviting Chinese viands displayed in the shop windows, also admiring their fine Port Arthur restaurant; but, being alone, I did not penetrate to their opium dens, such an experience, strange to say, being reserved for our dear old London, which contains in its cosmopolitan population, nationalities as distinct in the customs as in their appearance.

DENS OF THE EAST END.

I will remember my first visit to these "dens" in the east end, reached by the up-to-date electric car running through one of the wide thorofares, such streets being a feature of that district.

On our way there we noticed over many of the shop doors such names as Augustman, Rosenberg and others equally familiar, proclaiming that we were passing through a Jewish quarter.

On getting down from the car I walked a little way, passing first Limehouse Church with its fine turreted tower, a familiar and welcome sight to home coming seamen—and then on my right hand and left the English, German and Asiatic homes for seamen, which must be a real boon to them when they are on shore.

I then came to the place I sought, an old, narrow, winding and ill lit street of two storeyed houses, which for very many years has been the refuge and temporary home of "John Chinaman," contenting myself with looking at the outside of their shops, which contain for the most part tobacco, etc., and the dried foods of which they are so very fond, but did not enter, as these shops being rented or owned by Chinese proprietors who know little, if any English, I could not have made myself understood, or if understood should most likely have been lied to, as it would, of course, be purely an act of courtesy on their part to show me anything inside their houses.

When afterwards told of the peaceable, inoffensive character of the Chinese I immediately thought of a scene I witnessed on my first visit to that neighborhood, namely a fight between an English and Chinese youth. The former was thrown heavily to the ground, but the Chinaman, lithe and agile as a cat, flew to the refuge of his countrymen lounging round the doorsteps of their lodging house. The usual crowd quickly gathered round, but I hurried away and so did not see the sequel, but the memory of the grinning faces of the Chinese at the sight of the Englishman's defeat still remains with me.

UNDER GOVERNMENT INSPECTION.

All the Chinese lodging houses are now under government inspection, so my next visit was under the wing of a kindly official, who, of course, could go in and out at will, as he was well known in that quarter.

On entering the first house, we were greeted with a strange smell—which had a curious effect on me—and I was told that the large copper pan, placed over a bright fire, and nearly full of a dark brown fluid, was "prepared" opium. We are all aware that opium is a narcotic drug prepared from the juice obtained from the capsules of the opium poppy, which after different processes is then ready for the market, and is made as follows:—

The ball of opium is removed from the covering of leaves, etc., moistened with a little water and allowed to stand for about 14 hours. It is then divided into fans, two and one-half balls of opium and about 10 pints of water going to each pan. It is then boiled and stirred occasionally, the scum as it rises being taken away with a bunch of feathers, until a uniform mixture having the consistency of a thin paste, is obtained. This operation takes from five to six hours, the fumes arising therefrom, having no effect on an old hand, but on a novice creating a great desire for sleep. We were next shown a wooden basin containing a thick dark brown treacly extract, usually sealed up in small pots. This is the kind the opium smokers use. There is a commoner opium sold, and I was shown what looked like a lump of paste covered with poppy trash, but from the savage and broken English of the proprietor—himself a great opium smoker—I gathered that it was not appreciated by him.

AT GAME OF FAN TAN.

We next came to a group of Chinese gathered round a table playing fan-tan. At the head of the table sat a Chinaman, and before him lay a heap of glittering brass cents, out of the middle of each of which a crown had been punched. His right hand dhetd a long steel needle or opium dipper with which to draw back to the original heap four coins at a time from those he had put aside for the gamblers when ready to play. With his left hand he covered these coins as if he feared a raid upon them. At his right sat a man who was evidently the croupier, as a box containing English coins lay between them. On small strips of red cardboard English money at one end and what looked like buttons were laid on the other. Scarcely a word was spoken, as whether the players won or lost less or more than $5 they looked quite unmoved.

In the corner of another room a man sitting at a small table was painting a pale brown, some of the Chinese signs which covered a small sheet of paper, also painting more signs on the sheet's margin when applied to for one. These sheets of paper were lottery tickets, and by playing sixpence a man, if he were lucky, might win any sum from $1 to $20.

Another group surrounded a countryman of theirs, who being something of a scholar, and knowing English moderately well, was busy addressing envelopes, writing letters or reading same to their owners.

CHINAMEN GOOD COOKS.

We also looked at some of their food, just cooked. Little bits of fat meat placed in a high mould of thin hard looking paste, whether dainty (?) was a very moot cooking paste shaped like a small loaf, which contained some minced meat. It looked so smooth that one wondered how the meat was placed inside. Will "John Chinaman," as every one knows is a resourceful cook. Rice in, perhaps, their staple food, one and one-half pounds per day being allowed to each man. Two meals a day only being provided. Our board of trade now insists that all cook's be certified, and to obtain this certificate they must attend a school or cookery until proficient.

The new board of trade regulations also demand that all foreign seamen signing on, must either speak English or show that they are British born subjects, and as no Chinese—except those born in Hongkong—can show a birth certificate—much prized by its possessor—many of the Chinese over here are in a quandary, and doubtless there will be some difficulties to overcome before they can leave England. A ship captain does not dislike Chinese for part crew, and usually inquires if there are any opium smokers amongst them, and when men are actively employed, opium smoking appears to be no more injurious than the smoking of tobacco. Possibly, too, as the drug has a soothing effect on the smoker, it is more likely to make him contented with his lot, say, as a fireman.

LEISURELY SMOKING OPIUM.

We next had a look at the opium smokers. Each man was lying fully dressed on his side in a comfortable position on a mattress covered with a rug, with his face toward the tray—two men often sharing the same hard pillow and lighted lamp—a necessary adjunct of opium smoking, which was placed on a tray in company with a small jar of "prepared" opium, dipper and pipe. The pipe, which often costs as much as $50, is a hollow wooden tube some eighteen inches long, ornamented at either end with some silver work, and the bowl of polished stone—were placed in the centre of the pipe has a small orifice in the middle. The smoker then takes the dipper in his hand, and puts the sharpened end into the opium jar, twisting it around until he gets a large drop to adhere to it. Still twisting it to prevent its falling, he brings it to the flame and dexterously turns it round and round, care being taken not to burn the opium or make it too dry, until it becomes somewhat of the consistency of burnt worsted. Every now and then he takes it away from the flame and rolls it on the flat surface of the bowl. When it is roasted and rolled to his satisfaction, he gently heats the centre of the bowl, then quickly thrusts into the orifice the end of the dipper, twirls it round smartly and withdraws it. The smoker, assuming a comfortable attitude, lying down of course, at a proper distance from the lamp, puts the stem to his lips and holds the bowl over the lamp. The heat causes the opium to frizzle, and the smoker takes two or three deep inhalations, the smoke in sickly fumes coming from his nostrils and mouth, for it is first swallowed and then exhaled.

These preparations occupy from five to ten minutes, and the actual smoking thirty seconds. The other end of the dipper is then used to scrape away any residue there may be left round the orifice in the bowl. The same process is repeated over and over until the smoker is either satisfied and lays the pipe aside for a time, or continues at pleasure until he falls asleep.

SPOT BETRAYS SMOKER.

One would think it would be a difficult thing to make a Chinaman look any yellower, but it seems an opium smoker is betrayed by a large yellow spot appearing for a time near the mouth. Their frequent resort to opium smoking, as also gambling, is due no doubt to their lack of occupation whilst waiting here for a ship, and in part to a natural desire for companionship.

Used moderately, opium enables a man to endure great fatigue, and to go for a considerable time with little or no food, but in cases where opium has a hold on its victim, its effect is a loss of appetite, leaden pallor of the skin and a degree of leanness so excessive as to make him appear a living skeleton. His will power sapped, he loses all interest in life and is beggared. Years ago in England the poor used opium in large quantities; now it is used, chiefly in the form of morphia, by the well-to-do.

Opium is much cheaper in England than it is in China. In London a pound of opium costs $7.50, whilst in China its value is greater, because of the duty to be paid on its coming from India and other countries, for the China cultivates the poppy, it is not grown in sufficient quantities for the consumer's needs. At one time, however, it was cultivated in such quantities that the cereal crops were quite neglected, and there was a famine in the land.

We did not overlook the household god, a small image reposing on the floor in a recess by the fireplace, a lighted lamp burning before it, of the kind to be found in all Chinese homes.

SUBJECT TO STRICT SUPERVISION.

Given the choice, a Chinaman prefers the hard floor, which is well scrubbed every day, to a bed for his resting place, but the paternal L.C.C. will not allow that, nor more than a certain number of inmates to one room, surprise being frequently paid at night to see that their rule is duly carried out. The Chinese are clean in their habits, and each man brings his own bedding with him, some of the better class having very dainty linen. The proprietors of the Chinese lodging houses here are also very kind to their countrymen in helping them with money and clothes, if required, and if a man cannot pay them what he owes they will wait until such time as he can.

One of the Chinese "reformers" so often alluded to of late embraces the opium traffic, and the following extracts will show how far these people have advanced on western lines:

The history of opium is exceedingly interesting. From the first of the twelfth century the opium of Asia Minor appears to have been the only kind known in commerce. Probably the all-conquering Arabs in the thirteenth century first disclosed opium first into China, where it was commonly used as a medicine before the trade with India commenced.

REFLECTION ON BRITISH TRADE.

In India the opium monopoly was the property of the great Mogul, and the drug was regularly sold. The East India Company then came to the front, and increased the opium trade in China to such an extent that in 1799 the then Chinese Emperor tried to stop it by such severe penalties as punishment and death, but his efforts for the good of his people were unavailing, and more than a century elapsed before this national evil received a further check.

On Sept. 20, 1906, the late emperor and dowager empress issued the famous Opium Edict, and the regulations submitted by the council of government reform received the imperial sanction on Nov. 21, 1906.

The imperial edict received by the grand secretariat reads as follows:

"Since the prohibition of opium was relaxed, the poison has spread practically throughout the whole of China. Those who consume it waste their time, lose their livelihood, destroy their health, and break up their homes. It is the real cause of the poverty and weakness which has been daily apparent for these many years. The mere mention of it is enough to excite bitter indignation. At the present moment the throne is keenly bent on devising measures to render the country powerful. It is of the first importance that it should urge its subjects to reform, so that with one mind they may henceforth themselves, throw off this disease and tread the ways of health and happiness and tread the ways of health and harmony. We therefore ordain a limit of ten years within which the evils of the foreign and native drug alike are to be utterly abandoned. As regards the various steps which must be taken strictly to prohibit consumption and prevent the cultivation of the poppy, let the office of government reform devise and submit fitting rules and regulations."

SUBMITTED TEN REGULATIONS.

In response to this imperial edict the council of government reform presented to the throne a memorial which contains the following sentences:

"They have carefully prepared ten regulations which they submit to your majesties' consideration. Should these meet with approval, they would suggest that an edict be issued strictly enjoining their observance of the officials and people in the capital and provinces in order that, by exerting themselves to throw off this long-standing disease, they may respectfully lend their aid to the throne in its desire to renovate the national character and to devise measures for rendering the country powerful."

"The emperor and the dowager-empress in compassion for their people's distress have issued a special edict, announcing prohibition, and fearing too drastic measures have further allowed a term of ten years, thus uniting consideration for the sufferings of their people with vigor in eradicating a long standing vice."

"The measures to be taken for prohibition should consist in cutting off the sources of supply, and in restricting sales, admonition and persuasion should come first and afterwards an example should be made of offenders, what is past should be condoned, but fresh lapses should be dealt with severely."

The ten regulations submitted by the council contain the following suggestions:

1. Restriction of the cultivation of the poppy, in order to effect a root-and-branch reform.
2. Issue of permits, in order to prevent the further spread of the habit.
3. Allowance of time for the gradual reduction of the craving, in order to allay a chronic ailment.
4. Prohibition of opium dens, in order to cleanse the haunts of vice.
5. Enquiry into opium shops, in order to assist the work of investigation.
6. Prescriptions to be officially provided, in order to facilitate medical treatment.
7. The establishment of anti-opium societies to be permitted in order that good work may abound.
8. The local officials to be charged with the responsibility of taking the lead in the hope that genuine progress may be made.
9. Officials to be strictly prohibited from smoking that they may set a good example.
10. Negotiations for the prohibition of the importation of foreign opium in order to check the supply at its source.

EDICT MEANS ENFORCEMENT.

On the 25th of June, 1907, the throne issued another edict from which the following sentence is extracted:

"It must be understood once for all that this matter—the prohibition of the cultivation, sale and consumption of opium—must be put into force without fail."

When we remember that the Chinese have been for thousands of years a most conservative nation, the "reforms" in his particular instance shows a comprehensive grasp of the situation on the ability to take the necessary measures for the effectual stamping-out of one national evil, which, drug-like, has induced a lethargy affecting alike their moral and physical well-being to our own national sin.

LORD KITCHENER'S VICTORY

The victory of Lord Kitchener over Lord Curzon in India is said in cable despatches to have resulted in the practical transference of the question of defence from the Governor's council to the military authorities. This is true. But something else, according to close observers, has taken place as a consequence of the military reign of Lord Kitchener. To-day revolt in India is impossible. This result has been brought about by careful administration and a thorough appreciation of the local situation.

In the first place, the condition of the native army has been carefully examined, and all causes of discontent have been removed. The Sepoy is treated as never before. His allowances have been increased, and a generous scheme of pensions has been instituted. He is given a regular furlough. His visits to his home are facilitated through the granting of transportation. The soldier, under the new policy, is firmly attached to the colors and to the Government which gave him, and provides his pension. While the natives are enlisted in the cavalry and infantry branches of the service, they are not taken into the artillery, save in a few exceptional cases. The guns are served mainly by Britishers more than in the past. The artillery, moreover, has been quietly strengthened, so that were trouble to arise the British would be masters of the most forceful of the weapons employed in war. The distribution of the army has also been changed. As the troops are now stationed they can be brought to bear upon any district with the utmost ease. The means of transportation have thus been utilized to the best advantage. A rifle factory, a gun carriage factory, and a cordite factory have recently been established, that in the event of trouble munitions of war could be produced. Finally the means of transportation by sea have been carefully improved, with the result that in a month or six weeks 150,000 men could be landed in India were they needed there.

India is now said to be proof against invasion and proof against revolt. But the measures that have been taken are not designed for the oppression of the people. On the contrary, they are determined upon in order that peace may be maintained while the problem of self-government is being solved. Of late, important concessions have been made to the Indian people, and there can be no doubt that as time progresses, and as the popular view of constitutional administration is enlarged, the liberty enjoyed by India will be widened. Oddly enough, freedom comes in this case through militarism.

FACTS ABOUT COUNTIES.

Some of Them Are Larger Than Many of the States.

The county is a territorial division that the United States derived from Great Britain, where the counties correspond to the provinces or departments of other European countries and in a limited sense to the states of the American Union. An Englishman addresses a letter to "Parkinton, Hants," as we address a letter to "Columbus, O.," or "Elmira, N.Y."

One state, which derives its usages from French and not from English originals, has no counties at all. In Louisiana these subdivisions of the state are still called parishes, both officially and in ordinary speech, though they are now divided into many real parishes of the church.

There are about 3,000 counties in the Union, with an average size of about 1,000 square miles, but this average is enormously exceeded in many instances and is also frequently fallen below. Leaving out certain great unsettled counties in the west, the average county would be about 600 square miles in extent.

In much of the western part of the country the size of the county is regulated mathematically. It consists of sixteen townships, each composed of thirty-six square miles, making 576 square miles in all. In other words, each township is six miles square and each county twenty-four miles square.

In Iowa there are thirty-nine counties that were formed in this way, each one of which has exactly 576 square miles. Such divisions were possible in the newer west, where these minor political divisions were made in advance of settlement. In the older parts of the country the territorial arrangements were largely accidental.

The largest county in the United States is Yavapai county, Ariz., which has an area of almost 30,000 square miles. Nine states of the Union are each smaller than this county. It is larger than the whole of West Virginia and almost as large as South Carolina.

The sixteen counties of Montana average a greater size than the state of Massachusetts.

Among the other great counties of the Union are San Bernardino and San Diego, in California, which are not only vast regions, but contain a great productive territory; Humboldt and Lincoln counties, in Nevada, which are only sparsely populated, and Lincoln county, N. M., which bids fair in time to have a large population.

Although the New England states are small, the average size of the counties is greater than in most of the middle, western and southern states. Worcester county, in Massachusetts, is an example of an eastern county that is at the same time large in area and very populous. It is larger than the adjoining state of Rhode Island.

The smallest state in the Union has the smallest county as well, Bristol county, R. I., has only twenty-five square miles. At one place it is not more than two miles in breadth.

Thread in Surgery.

Are you aware that the modern surgeon employs in his work dozens of different kinds of thread for sewing up cuts and wounds? Among them are kangaroo tendons, horsehair, silk, and very fine silver wire. Many of these threads are intended to hold for a certain number of days, and then naturally break away. The short, tough tendons taken from the kangaroo, which are used for sewing severe wounds, will hold for about four weeks before they break away. Silk thread will remain much longer, sometimes six months, while the fine silver wire is practically indestructible.

With the entire outfit a surgeon is able to select a thread that will last as long as the wound takes to heal, and will then disappear completely. To accommodate this assortment of threads, special varieties of needles are required. Besides the needle craned in different segments of a circle, surgeons use needles shaped like spears, javelins and bayonet points.

Queer Auction Custom.

"Candle auction" is an ancient custom which still survives in Somersetshire, England. A valuable piece of meadow land in the village of Tatworth was sold recently by auction while the candle burned. The ceremony consists of the burning of an inch of candle, the last bidder before the candle's final flicker becoming the tenant for the ensuing year. Previous to the auction freeholders assembled for a supper of bread and cheese, beer and pickles, the funds for this being provided from the "colting" of the new tenant. Fines are also imposed for speaking, nose blowing, laughing out loud and moving, other than bidding, while the candle is burning.

The Last Straw.

She was one of those women who always present a woefully untidy appearance during the early part of the day. In vain had her husband remonstrated with her on her unfastened blouse and unkempt hair. It was not until aid came from an unexpected quarter that victory was his. They had removed to a new house on the previous day, and when she answered the summons of the front door bell a humble looking woman awaited her.

"Oh, I see it's too late!" sighed the woman. "I called to see if the missis wanted a charwoman, but I see she's suited."

The Red Ferns.

"Stop the auto!"

"But, sir"—

"I think I saw some red ferns."

"Better humor him, boss," advised the chauffeur earnestly. "Them red ferns is the local constable's whiskers."

The Open Window.

The best part of a modern house is its windows. To keep these open day and night and to make the air inside approach as nearly as possible the air outside should be the first business of the housekeeper.

Her Test.

"When a young man proposes you should always be careful and test his love," cautioned the conservative chaperon.

"But I go one better, auntie," twittered the pretty girl. "Do you see this tiny bottle?"

"Yes. Does it contain perfume?"

"No; it contains acid. I test the engagement ring."

VARICOCELE CURED

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I wanted hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got Their New Method Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $25 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

Maple Leaf Mines, Limited

No Personal Liability

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont., Sec-Treas Charles Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C Ritchie, Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 668, containing 40 acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

One of these rich veins crosses this fraction and forms the discovery of same. With a total of 160 acres, 40 acres of which are in the Rich Cobalt field, 80 acres in the new Bonanza district, with 200,000 shares in the treasury, for development purposes, with no purchase price to be charged against same, it would seem that this proposition, based on a capitalization of $150,000, was the very thing you have been waiting for.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 28th December, 1908, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. Levesconte, 20 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties, in consideration of 800,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid and out of which he has set apart 200,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $500; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 2000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 28th of December, 1908.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

J. COLLINS DAVIES, Secretary, Orillia, Ont.

Great Land Boom In Western Canada

Winnipeg, Feb. 5.—The past week in real estate enjoys a distinction in that though this is the slackest month of the year in this business, and two deals of great magnitude, involving centrally located property, have been put through. One of these was the purchase by J. D. McArthur of that most desirable site lying between the Osler, Hammond and Nanton block on the northern corner of Portage avenue and Main street, and the Queen's hotel, the price being $3,000 a foot for 61 feet, or $183,000. A magnificent office block, eclipsing the best Winnipeg now has—and Winnipeg has some good ones—is promised for this site. The other big deal was the purchase by T. D. Farmer, of Hamilton, of the site of the O'Connor hotel, on Main street, and like the other site, within a few yards of the city's pivotal, the corner of Main and Portage. This property was acquired for $2,000 a foot, or $196,000, and doubtless, is destined, when the present lease expires or is sold, to bear some splendid building. These large transfers in central Winnipeg property indicate that in the opinion of those who make a study of conditions that effect the growth of commercial development of cities Winnipeg property has had no slump in values, but on the other hand shows that a steady rise in values has taken place in the what was considered "off years" of 1907-08.

The License Law will be Enforced

Mr. George Morrison, Provincial License Inspector, who was in charge of the rounding up of outlawry in the northern Ontario districts, returned yesterday, and was in conference with Hon. W. J. Hanna. Mr. Morrison reported the collection of $985 in fines for the illegal sale of liquor at Cobalt, and $1,540 at Sudbury, during the past five days. Several terms of imprisonment have also been imposed, and two of the men accused were committed for trial.

Several gambling houses were raided, and one complete gamblers' outfit secured near Sudbury. Three merchants were convicted for selling obscene pictures and literature, and two were sentenced to jail. A hidden store of whiskey was discovered at Cranse Hill mines, and removed by the officers.

Mr. Morrison says the work will be continued until the law is observed. The government has decreed that the license law must be observed, and the instructions to the inspectors are to carry out the Government's mandate to the letter.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop the first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

Manitoba 'Phones Showed Surplus

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 5.—In the speech from the Throne to-day, the Manitoba Government has this significant paragraph on public ownership of public utilities:

After eleven and a half months' operation of the Government telephone system, a most substantial surplus has been obtained, thereby demonstrating that the purchase of the assets of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada by my Government was not only a wise measure, but from a commercial standpoint a good business venture. Extension of the telephone system in the province has been vigorously prosecuted during the past year, and it is the intention of my Government to continue its further development with all possible speed.

The Canada Life Announcement

An important change made during the past month in the Canada Life office was the promotion of Mr. C. E. Barnett, who has been for some time cashier of the Detroit office and latterly inspector of agencies for that district, to the position of district agent for Central Ontario district, with headquarters at Peterborough. This opening has occurred through the removal of Mr. S. E. Sills from Peterborough to Toronto. Mr. Barnett received his early training in the Toronto office, and the tribute of his former manager is that he is one of the most progressive young men in the Company's employ. He has gained considerable reputation as a producer of business, and his training particularly fits him for his new position, where he will have in his charge an important district comprising the counties of Peterborough, Northumberland, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, with the responsibility for several capable representatives of the company who have been devoting some time to its business and who will in future under the new arrangements, pay particular attention to the field which Mr. Barnett has under his management.

The Davis-Thompson Co., Limited, have assumed the Peterborough agency and necessary alterations are being made in their office at No. 433 George street to accommodate the business. A very vigorous campaign is being planned to keep the Canada Life before the insuring public and the district agent, as well as the local agents will give the best attention and most courteous consideration to all interested in the CanadaLife or wishing to do business with the company.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr Shoop's Headache Tablet—forces blood pressure away from pain centers. Is it not charming, plan simply delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's a painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, penniless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a combination for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop pain in minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the normal blood pressure.

Bruise your finger, and doesn't it get red, and swell and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion. Blood pressure. You'll find it where pain always is. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

STUART STRATHY, General Manager.

Toronto, 31st December, 1908.

The General Manager, having read the foregoing report, made the following comments:

From the statement submitted, it will be observed that the results of the year's operations have been satisfactory, notwithstanding the severe financial disturbance, which was felt, more or less, throughout the world during the period under review. The wave of depression is apparently lifting, and we face another year with good prospects of a general return to normal conditions in several lines of business. A brief consideration of the yearly statement will readily show how successful the Bank's business has been during the past year. The net profits, after making allowance for all probable contingencies, and crediting interest to all interest-bearing accounts, amount to $500,217.60. Adding to this the balance carried forward from Profit and Loss the previous year, with one or two small additional items, makes the sum of $525,681.89, which was available for distribution. This amount was apportioned to pay four quarterly dividends at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, amounting to $304,699.50. $20,000 has been written off Bank Premises and Furniture Accounts, and $10,000 has been added to the Officers' Guarantee and Pension Fund, leaving the substantial sum of $190,982.49 to be carried forward at the credit of Profit and Loss new account.

The paid-up Capital Stock of the Bank amounts to.....$4,353,592, and the Rest Account.....$2,000,000, nearly one-half of the Paid-up Capital.

The total deposits of the Bank now amount to over .....$25,000,000. Of this sum over $4,000,000 is non-interest-bearing, and the total deposits of the Bank have increased $2,000,000 during the year.

The assets, which are immediately available, amount to over nine millions of dollars, being about thirty per cent. of the liabilities to the public, a condition which places the Bank in a very strong position.

Attention should be called to the excellent character generally of the assets of the Bank, as set forth in the statement.

During the year, seven new Branches were opened and two were closed, making a total of eighty-one Branches open at the end of the year.

The Bank continued, throughout the year, to increase both in volume and character of its business. It is interesting to note its growth by comparison with the figures of ten years ago:

	1898	1908
Paid-up Capital	$ 700,000	$ 4,353,592
Surplus	50,000	2,000,000
Deposits	4,930,817	25,385,117
Circulation	997,680	2,000,995

The general depression of a year ago has resulted in a contraction of business throughout the Country. Now, that it would appear that the period of depression is passing away, and provided the incoming year is a prosperous one, it is natural to infer that more activity in commercial lines will ensue, followed by a more active demand for money. We find again this year, a considerably larger acreage will be ready for early seeding in the Northwest, consequent upon the continued flow into those lands of a most desirable class of settlers, principally from the Country to the South of us, the effect of which must benefit this Country at large. The greatly increased transportation facilities will also prove an important factor, not alone in the temporary large expenditure, which continues to be made on this account, but by this very large extension of our Railway System, making it possible to bring to the Seaboard the steadily increasing crops of our great Northwest, with the least possible delay. We have established several important Branches in this field, and, as the Country develops, extension in this direction, no doubt, will meet with your approval.

Before concluding, I wish to express my appreciation of the cordial co-operation of all the officials of the Bank in the work of the year. All the books and documents of the Bank have been carefully examined, and the affairs of all the Branches have been looked into, and reported upon in a manner permitting the Board to deal intelligently with all the assets of the Bank.

Mr. C. D. Warren, President, in moving the adoption of the Report, said:

I have much pleasure in moving the adoption of the Report which has been presented. The Management and shareholders may well congratulate themselves on the result of the year's business. The Report affords strong evidence of the prosperous condition of the Bank, and of a satisfactory increase in the general volume of business. The period of prosperity which Canada enjoyed until about a year ago, led to extensive, and in some cases, unsuccessful expansion on the part of many capitalists and business men, and the resources of all financial institutions were taxed to the limit of their capacity to meet the demands of this abnormal enterprise. Depression followed, bringing about conditions that caused a restriction of all financial enterprises, thereby resulting in a withdrawal of capital from business undertakings and an increase in the amount of comparatively idle money not yielding the average return of profits. Last year was, therefore, not to be regarded as one favorable to profitable financial operation, but the results have nevertheless been very satisfactory.

A growing country like Canada, with unbounded resources, naturally has great power of recuperation. Trade depression consequently affected Canada less than almost any other country, and as a result, commercial and manufacturing interests are rapidly recovering from the embarrassment which retarded their progress for the past twelve months. The probability is that in the immediate future, the limit of the available resources of our financial institutions will be reached by the requirement of various legitimate undertakings, which are already beginning to show renewed vigor and vitality.

The Agricultural returns from the Dominion for 1908 indicate a large yield of grain and other crops, and this condition tends materially to create business confidence. With the prospect of fair prices and an increase in the wealth of the country from its natural products, commercial undertakings must receive a great impetus, and manufacturing and all its branches will be greatly extended. The distribution of this increased wealth rests largely with Banking Institutions, and while the rate of interest may be somewhat lower than it has been for a year or two, the increased volume of business will, it is believed, maintain the earning power at the same level.

The lumber industry, one of the great National sources of wealth, is rapidly reviving, and increased activity in railway extension and incidental enterprises has given a new impulse to our iron and steel works. Our mining interests now call for large outlays for operation, and our trade, increasing at home and abroad, gives good ground for the hope that Canada in a short time will more than make up for the temporary delay in her course towards the highest point of commercial greatness.

The employment of money is absolutely necessary for current operations, and as these are now extending in all directions, it is not unreasonable to look forward to several years of prosperous development of a substantial character.

To meet the demands involved in the interests I have briefly mentioned, as well as others that readily suggest themselves, our Banking and financial institutions may expect a largely increased volume of business and a ready and safe outlet for all their surplus money during the present year.

The Northwest is extending its cultivated area, and is being opened to the people by means of great trunk railway lines, and many local extensions. Here we have the true source of wealth. The mere interchange or investment of money does not add materially to the general wealth of the country, but the products of the soil, the forest and the mine create new and additional capital, most of which finds its way into Banks, Loan and Insurance Corporations, and other similar Institutions. By keeping a constant and energetic lookout, we hope to obtain a fair share of the handling of this increased wealth, and with this object in view, we have already established Agencies in some of the more important Western points. Yet, without undue, extending the Bank operations, there is still room for other openings, and advantage of this fact should be taken as occasion arises and circumstances permit.

While the value of money chiefly depends on the conditions of the great financial centres of the world, there are many local demands which affect the money market here. It is true that municipal debentures principally find a market in Great Britain. Corporation bonds, such as railway, electric, etc., are largely sold abroad, but much of the cash resulting therefrom reaches our Banks eventually. To show the practical situation more forcibly, I might state that the value of Municipal and Corporation Bonds of this country sold in Great Britain in 1908, was over Nineteen Million Dollars, and that Canadian investors bought only Twenty-one Million Dollars' worth, but the total of over One Hundred and Ten Millions likely to find its way here, to be used for Local and National development. I view, therefore, of the growth of our transportation and transmission lines, and the development of Municipal works, in every town and city in the Dominion, and the large foreign capital which will be brought into this country for these purposes our Banks may anticipate, not only a large amount of money in circulation and on deposit, but a greater demand for those local needs which cannot be supplied through foreign Agencies. The great industries of the country must be carried on, and these look to our Banking facilities for assistance, and with the return of prosperity the avenues of investment will materially increase. Your Directors have availed themselves of every favorable opportunity to meet this demand, but always having in mind that prosperous times demand greater care and watchfulness than periods of depression.

Instead of increasing a sufficiently strong reserve to meet all probable demands and thereby locking up a large amount of unproductive money in the treasury, we have invested considerable sums in high-class municipal debentures and other bonds, yielding the Bank a profitable return, and being almost as available as cash if occasion should arise in the future. The price of these securities is not much affected by the local market, the purchasers in Great Britain practically controlling values, and it was felt that no better or safer investment could be made with surplus or reserve funds which must be constantly and immediately available in every well-managed banking institution.

In call loans, we pursue a very conservative policy, so that no large amount of any particular stock shall be held as security by the Bank at any one time. The margin of safety is always large, and the fluctuations of the ordinary market do not effect the security.

Your directors examine practically all credits and accounts in the books of the Bank. No advance of any moment is made without their sanction, and whilst this method entails a large amount of work, we feel it to be the only safe way to discharge our duty. The various agencies have been carefully inspected, the returns scrutinized, and the state and nature of investments thoroughly considered. In this work, we find the services of the Directors' Auditor, Mr. Willis, most valuable, and through him, important information regarding the Bank's transactions is readily available to the Board.

Our inspectors are competent and efficient officers, and it affords me much pleasure in being able to testify to the great care and ability which they bring to bear in the performance of their duties.

I am glad to be able to state that every part of the Head Office building is rented, yielding a good return, and there does not appear to be any doubt as to this condition being continuous. The same satisfactory state of affairs exists in regard to the Yonge and Bloor Streets Office.

We hope that before long, the result of the careful attention and efforts of your Directors and the management may reach the Shareholders in a substantial and gratifying manner.

I move that the Report be adopted.

The Vice-President, Hon. J. R. Stratton, seconded the motion and said: The ground has been pretty thoroughly covered by the remarks of the General Manager and the President; but I can at least re-echo the congratulations and repeat the expression of pleasure which the report warrants.

I have personal knowledge that the directors have all devoted themselves faithfully to the service of the Bank during their tenure of office. This was to be expected from their high standing, high sense of duty, and ability. Besides, they are among the largest holders of stock, and are, therefore, the most directly and largely interested. Any indifferent or perfunctory performance of service or duty on their part would naturally more prejudicially affect them than shareholders with less interest at stake. It is certain, therefore, that when the responsible officers of the Bank are so directly and personally interested, there exists a guarantee of careful and effective administration. The Bank has more than 1,800 shareholders, many of whom are prominently associated with important and industrial enterprises. The character of these shareholders, associated with the rapid increase of the paid-up capital of the Bank, testifies to the confidence which its stability, and excellent management inspire.

The business of the Bank is expanding in every direction; and it is the aim of the directors to keep the Traders Bank abreast of the great progress this Dominion is making. Of this, its past is a guarantee, which the year just closed strengthens. To see gratifying results achieved, to see business and profits satisfactory, to see securities strengthened, and assets increased, in the face of conditions such as have prevailed during the greater part of the year, seem to be indications of good and efficient management. A financial institution which comes so creditably through a difficult year, can, with improved conditions in every important national interest, reasonably anticipate a prosperous future.

It affords me great pleasure to second the motion for the adoption of the report.

The motion for the adoption of the report was carried unanimously.

The Scrutineers reported the following gentlemen duly elected to act as Directors for the ensuing year, viz.:—C. D. Warren, Hon. J. R. Stratton, C. Kloepfer (Guelph), W. J. Sheppard (Waubaushene), C. S. Wilcox (Hamilton), E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., H. S. Strathy.

The meeting then adjourned.

At a subsequent meeting of the newly-elected Directors, Mr. C. D. Warren was re-elected President, and Hon. J. R. Stratton Vice-President by a unanimous vote.

Art Exhibit will Open on Monday

Successful in every way as was the exhibit last year under the auspices of the Peterborough Branch of the Woman's Art Association there is every indication of the one this year being even more attractive. Practically all the pictures are here and have been placed by the committee in charge of the exhibition. The pictures are of rare value and recognized as masterpieces by the connoisseurs of art.

There were recently exhibited in Toronto and were brought out to Canada through the personal influence of the president of the Woman's Art Association, Mrs. Dignan, of Toronto. She personally met the artists who painted them while she was on a trip abroad, and they consented to having them exhibited in Canada. At the exhibition in Toronto one of Jos. Israel's works sold for $3,000, and the Dominion Government purchased some of Walter Crane's illustrations and designs for $500.

At the exhibition in Peterborough which will be open to the public all next week at the old Bank of Montreal building, commencing Monday at two o'clock. The admission will be 25 cents.

If you would have a safe, yet certain Cough Remedy in the home, try Dr. Shoop's—at least once. It is thoroughly unlike any other Cough preparation. Its taste will be entirely new to you—unless it is already your favorite Cough Remedy. No opium, chloroform, or any other stupifying ingredients are used. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its wonderful curative properties. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

American Consular Agency Closes

The American Consular Agency over 415 Water street closes today. All business of a consular character must be done through the consulate in Toronto hereafter. This decision has been reached by the American government owing to what it has said, is insufficiency of business although the amount of business here has grown since the agency was opened from $100,000 per annum to $722,000 per annum. Mr. F. J. Bell has given perfect satisfaction both to the American government and his customers. The closing will be a matter of serious inconvenience to the Ceral works and other shipping to the United States. An effort was made to close it once before but the strenuous efforts of the cereal people successfully opposed it.

A Woman's Sympathy

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women—I have been discouraged, too; but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. Said Farewell to Mr. Walter Snow

The Belmont Club said farewell Thursday night to one of its most popular members, Mr. Walter Snow, of the staff of the local branch of the Bank of Ottawa. He is leaving Peterborough shortly, and his fellow clubmen took the opportunity of expressing their regret at his departure. The occasion also served as a celebration of the club hockey team's victory, and as a result nearly all the members were present. A short musical program was enjoyed during which an address and presentation was made to Mr. Snow. Mr. O. Millburn read the address and Mr Harold Tuney presented Mr. Snow with a handsome pin. The latter made a very suitable reply, thanking the boys for their kind remembrance and expressing the desire that the club would meet with continued prosperity, and that it would always enjoy the splendid record it has already attained.

The rest of the evening was spent socially, refreshments being served and with music and song a pleasant time was the result.

Mr. Snow has won many friends during his stay in Peterborough and will be particularly missed from the Belmont Club.

OBITUARY

WM. JAMES GORDON.

A well known and highly respected resident of Peterborough passed away on Thursday evening in the person of Mr. William James Gordon 253 Stewart street, who for the last 36 years has been a citizen of Peterborough, where his many good qualities had made him liked by all with whom he had come into contact. The late Mr. Gordon was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, 78 years ago and came to Canada when forty-three years of age, taking up his residence in this city, where he has lived ever since. For twelve or thirteen years he was night watchman of the city and in that position he was naturally associated with the business men of the city who will regret to hear of his death. Afterwards he was an employee of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company for four and a half years as watchman.

The deceased had been in ill health for some time but was not taken seriously until about five weeks ago. Death was caused by Bright's disease.

The late Mr. Gordon is survived by his wife and one son, Mr. James Gordon of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company.

The funeral will take place this morning at 9 o'clock from the family residence 253 Stewart street, to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's cemetery for interment.

Says This Medicin Has Mystic Powers

It's in the spring that health gives out—that folks begin to feel draggy, weary, restless,—hate to eat, look pale, feel discouraged

If you've reached this state read what J. W. Jervell, well known in Morristown, has to say about the medicine that cured him. "Last winter I caught a heavy cold that settled in my back. My kidneys and liver were affected and my health failed. By spring I was in bad shape—couldn't sleep like I used to—felt tired in the morning—ate very little—was terribly depressed, pale and anxious looking. Twinges of rheumatism, frequent neuralgia attacks over the temples made matters worse. The doctor prescribed three times, but didn't help. Then I heard of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.—They possess mystic powers surely, for I gained and improved day by day and now am in perfect health again. I will praise and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills till I die."

The ingredients in Dr. Hamilton's Pills are pure and wholesome—come right from the storehouse of Nature in the form of vegetable juices and extracts,—consequently this gentle invigorating laxative tonic and blood purifier is safe for old and young alike. We assure you of enormous benefit from Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which revitalize delicate glands, search out the seat of hidden disease, flood the body with vigor and health that has caused thousands of broken-down, despairing men and women to join in a mighty song of praise for the beneficient aid that comes from this king of all tonics. PE-RU-NA CHEERFULLY RECOMMENDED FOR COLDS AND CATARRH.

A Prominent Canadian Gives His Experience With the World-Famous Remedy For Catarrh.

Chronic Catarrh Always Begins With An Ordinary Cold.

So Says Dr. Hartman, the Greatest Living Authority On Catarrhal Diseases.

THE first effect of a cold is a thickening of the mucous membranes of the nose and throat.

This gives rise to a discharge, or at least a stuffiness of the nasal passages. Sometimes fever accompanies the first chill, also a feeling of languor, dullness and aching of the bones.

If no attention is paid to it, the mucous congestion is liable to spread down into the larynx, producing hoarseness and into the bronchial tubes, producing a cough.

Even when this occurs, many people pay no attention to it.

Under such circumstances, the congestion is liable to become chronic, producing a condition of the mucous membranes known as catarrh. Catarrh lasts an indefinite time. Catarrh is essentially a chronic condition and does not leave except something is done to relieve it.

CURE COLDS—PREVENT CATARRH.

What should be done when a person catches cold is to take a few doses of Peruna.

Taken at the onset, Peruna would break up the cold and prevent all the train of symptoms which usually follow.

But, even in cases where the cold has been neglected and hoarseness or a cough has developed, Peruna can be relied upon to give prompt and permanent relief.

The frequency of coughs and colds in the winter makes Peruna a popular remedy for these ailments.

A number of the best people of various countries have given testimonials as to the value of Peruna in such cases.

Followed Dr. Hartman's Advice—Restored to Health.

Mrs. Samuelle Vigneau, Avre au Berd, Isle de La Magdaline, Canada, writes:

"I write to tell you that I am perfectly well. I took only three bottles of your Peruna according to your advice and the directions in your book and it restored my health."

C. H. Parker, Ex-Warden of Compton Co., Quebec, has been mayor of Scotstown for a number of years. He is an influential resident in Scotstown and widely known.

He writes concerning Peruna. Read his letter below:

C. H. PARKER.

"I had several attacks of colds from time to time and finally a severe attack developed into catarrh.

"I was advised to use your celebrated catarrh remedy, and after taking three bottles I find myself completely cured, and I no longer suffer from catarrh or colds.

"I can cheerfully recommend Peruna for colds and catarrh."

If Peruna had no other medicinal value than the promptness with which it relieves common colds, it would be well worth while for any family to keep it in the house constantly.

Increased Derelopment Predicted by Presicent of the Traders' Bank

It was a very satisfactory report that was presented to the shareholders of the Traders' Bank at their twenty-fourth annual meeting in the banking house in Toronto a few days ago, and a ful statement of which appears on another page in this issue. Among those present was Hon. J. R. Stratton of this city, who is the first vice-president of this well known banking institution.

The financial statement was, in spite of the depression existing during the past twelve months, an exceedingly gratifying one and reflected credit upon the system employed and won even greater confidence from the investing public.

The net profits for the twelve months ending Dec. 31st, amounted to $560,217.60, and of this amount $304,613 16 was paid to the shareholders in four quarterly payments at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum.

In his address the general manager, Mr. Stuart Strathy, expressed a very hopeful return for the ensuing year. He stated that the financial depression was now passing rapidly and if this year is a prosperous one, there will be a much greater demand for money for commercial purposes. He also looks to the West for increased business "as there is a continual stream of desirable settlers going into that country, and when the spring opens up there will be a much larger acreage ready for early spring seeding. He also points to the extensive extension of railway companies as an important factor in the development of the West where the Bank has already several good branches and intend to establish more when conditions warrant it.

President Warren in his address stated that while last year could not be regarded as a favorable one for profitable financial operations yet the report was a most satisfactory one. He predicted an material expansion in all lines of commercial enterprise to keep pace with the increasing wealth of the country from its natural resources, and he that Canada would in a short time more than make up for the temporary delay in her course towards the highest point of commercial greatness.

A Remarkable Animal

Mr. Wm. Snowden, the genial ex-proprietor of the Snowden House, once owned a horse that ran away with him on more than one occasion. He finally decided to sell the animal, and wrote a prospective purchaser as follows:—"Dan is a terror to go, and has little regard for the driver behind. He is not afraid of street cars or anything else. He has heaps of life and courage. To a man that does not fear death in any form he would be a bonanza. At present he is very much attached to his stable by a logging chain fastened around his neck and hitched to a beam in the manger. He is a strawberry plush color, and is one-fourth thoroughbred and three-fourths hyena. I will also throw in a double-barreled shot gun free as an extra inducement." It is needless to say Mr. Snowden did not make a sale.

Threatening feverishness with children is quickly and safely calmed by Preventics. These little Candy Cold Cure Tablets should always be at hand—for promptness is all-important. AUDITORS' CERTIFICATE.

We, the undersigned, beg to report that we have made a full examination of the books, accounts and vouchers of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation to the 31st December, 1908 and find same to be correct and properly set forth in the above statement of Profit and Loss and Assets and Liabilities. We have examined and find in order all the mortgages, debentures bonds and scrip of the corporation as well as those nominated for the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario and Trusts, Estates and Agencies in the Corporation's hands and have checked same with the Mortgage and Debenture Ledgers and Registers. The Bankers' balances after deducting outstanding cheques agree with the books of the Corporation.

We have also examined the reports of the Auditors of the Winnipeg and Ottawa Branches and find that they agree with the Head Office books.

MANAGING DIRECTOR'S ADDRESS.

The Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Langmuir, in presenting the voluminous statements showing the operations of the Corporation during the past year said:

I feel confident that the results of the year's work as set out in the statements which I have just read will be accepted by the Shareholders as satisfactory. The Profit and Loss Statement so plainly sets out the operations of the Corporation during the year that I need not take up your time in commenting on the various sources of revenue as given in that statement. Suffice it to say that the gross profits of the year amount to $275,150.69, and after paying the entire expenses of the management of the business. At Head Office and the Ottawa and Winnipeg Branches the net profits amount to $131,181.88, to which has to be added $22,168.78, brought forward from last year, making the total amount at credit of Profit and Loss $153,350.66. Out of these profits your Directors have paid the Shareholders a seven and one-half (7 1-2) per cent dividend for the year, amounting to $75,000; have written off $5,933.50 from vault equipment and office furniture being balance at debit of this account; have placed $50,000 to Reserve Account increasing that fund to $450,000, and have carried forward to the credit of Profit and Loss Account $22,417.16.

Included in our Capital and Reserve funds are our buildings at Toronto and Ottawa. The former is taken in at $150,000, including vaults, vault fixtures and safe deposit boxes, which alone cost over $50,000. The Ottawa building which stands at $175,000, is situated in the very best part of that city and, as some of you may know is one of the finest buildings on Sparks street. The net rents from these buildings including a very moderate charge for our own occupation and also including the rents received from the safe deposit vaults amount to $22,988.50, being equivalent to a return of a fraction over seven (7) per cent on the $325,000 at which amount our buildings stand on our books. You will therefore see that this portion of our $1,450,000 of Capital and Reserve is well and permanently invested. I think that these buildings at a very conservative valuation and having regard to the net rents received, are worth somewhat over $400,000, and even if increased to that amount would yield a return of nearly 5 3-4 per cent thereby increasing our Reserve Fund to over half a million dollars instead of $450,000. You will also observe that, in addition to the $325,000 of our capital so well invested in real estate we have over $900,000 invested in mortgages on real estate, all of which have been carefully selected.

Regarding the dividend that we pay I am frequently asked why it is that it is fixed at seven and a fraction, instead of an even amount. The Shareholders are perhaps, not aware that when we amalgamated with the Trusts Corporation of Ontario the Act of amalgamation restricted us to the payment of a dividend not exceeding 7 1-2 per cent until the Reserve Fund reached the sum of $750,000. No such provision exists in the charters of any other trust company in Ontario; nor is it provided for in the general Act respecting trust companies; nor indeed, in any joint stock company of which I am aware. If such a law is necessary in the working of trust companies it should have been incorporated in the general Act and made applicable to all companies but as this was not done it is obviously unfair to the Corporation that it should be bound by this provision. Application has therefore been made by petition for the issue of Supplementary Letters Patent with a view to placing this Corporation on the same footing as all other trust companies in respect to the payment of dividends.

Another question that is frequently asked—chiefly by investors in the stock of the Corporation and Shareholders in banks—is;—Why is it, with the enormous mass of business under the care of the Corporation aggregating over $35,000,000, that the net profits are only about $130,000? I have endeavored to answer this inquiry when addressing the Shareholders at previous annual meetings, but will again do so: With the exception of the investment of our capital funds and of moneys given to us for investment under the Guaranteed Investment Principle, this Corporation is simply a Corporate manager of estates, trusts and agencies committed to its care and for such management and care we receive a moderate compensation fixed by the courts. We do not speculate with our capital funds or with any funds and even when we accept moneys for investment under the Guaranteed Principle we do so strictly within the terms of the Trustee Investment Act. We do not underwrite or invest in any industrial issues. Under these circumstances our profits may be smaller than they otherwise might be, but in strictly adhering to this rule the investment of our capital money and that of our clients is as safe as human care can make it.

After all, while our profits do not, perhaps, equal those obtained by banks, or even long-established loan companies with large reserves, still we have from the origin of the company paid our Shareholders good dividends and, in addition, have accumulated, almost entirely out of profits, a reserve of $450,000. I think, therefore, that I am warranted in saying that the statements I have just read, and have commented on, should be satisfactory to the Shareholders. So much for the Shareholders' point of view in the Corporation's operations.

Coming now to the general work and utility of the Corporation, I have very little to add to what has been said at previous annual meetings. It will be seen on reference to our statement of Assets and Liabilities that the Corporation has now under its control and management assets to the extent of over $35,000,000, showing a net increase over 1907 of approximately $2,250,000. This, together with the fact that over $3,000,000 of new work exclusive of Trusteeships for Bond issues, etc, etc, has been placed under our care during the year notwithstanding the increasing competition that exists between Trust Companies, shows that the Corporate Executor, Administrator and Trustee continues to gain in public favor. And why should it not, with the great advantages it offers over that of individuals acting in these capacities! An unchanging and undying trustee—a Board of Directors drawn from the best ability in the community, comprising presidents and directors of banks and loan companies, railway directors, lawyers, merchants and capitalists—methodical and systematic bookkeeping and a continuous audit of estates accounts and securities—careful selection of mortgages and other investments for estate or trust funds, inspected by competent appraisers and passed upon by a competent Board and the setting apart and earmarking of the securities to the estates or trusts to which they belong. All of this is done at a minimum of expense, the charges of the Corporation as fixed by the Courts of the Province being no greater than the compensation allowed to individual Trustees, indeed, if anything, rather less.

I might point out that of about $17,000,000 of Trust and Guaranteed Funds invested by the Corporation (exclusive of the unrealized original assets of estates), nearly $12,500,000 is invested in mortgages on real estate, indicating that the Corporation, while strictly keeping within the terms of the Trustee Investment Act, thereby safeguarding the Capital of the estates is obtaining the largest possible revenue return for its clients. It will be seen therefore, that, in addition to being the pioneer and largest Trust Company in Canada, we also take place as the second largest Mortgage Loaning Company.

In conclusion I wish to thank the members of the Advisory Boards at Ottawa and Winnipeg, and the staff of the Corporation both at Head Office and Branches, for the interest and efficiency manifested in the discharge of their several duties during the year.

The President, Dr. John Hoskin, K.C., in moving the adoption of the report, said:

On former occasions, in moving the adoption of the annual report, I have dealt at some length upon the various functions of this Corporation, its aims and objects and the advantages resulting to the public all which matters have been discussed and their particulars published, and are now well known; therefore, reference to them may, for this year, be dispensed with.

The Managing Director has in his remarks, gone into the details of our year's operations which I need not repeat. The report is shorter than usual, but not the less interesting, and not the less satisfactory and I am sure it will commend itself to the Shareholders. A glance at the figures will give you some idea of the volume of business under the control of the Corporation to manage which entails upon your Directors and the staff much anxiety responsibility and labor and the results, as shown in the statements together with the increasing confidence of the public speak for themselves. It is, therefore with confidence I now more the adoption of the report, which motion will be seconded by the Hon. Mr. Wood.

The Report of the Directors was adopted as was also the Report of the Inspection Committee, as presented by Sir Aemilius Irving, K.C.

The following Shareholders were elected Directors for the ensuing year:

W. H. Beatty, W. R. Brock, John L. Blaikie, Hamilton Cassels, K.C.; Sir William Mortimer Clark, K.C.; Hon. W. C. Edwards, Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C., M.P.P.; Hon. J. M. Gibson, K. C.; A. C. C.M.G.; Samuel Nordheimer, E. B. Osler, M.P.; J. G. Scott, K.C.; B. E. Walker, D. R. Wilkie, Hon. S. C. Wood, Frederick Wyld.—Carried.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board of Directors Dr. John Hoskin, K.C., was re-elected President, and Hon. S. C. Wood and W. H. Beatty, Vice-Presidents.

There are doings in hockey circles in this district and Peterborough and Lindsay citizens will see two more great hockey matches. It is very probable that Cobourg will default to Peterborough to-night's game. In that case the locals and Midgets will play home and home games, the first to be here on Wednesday night, and Peterborough in Lindsay on Friday night. That means another special train will be run from Lindsay, and a special will go up to Lindsay on Friday night to witness the return game. The total goals will count.

The Peterborough club have secured a certificate for Quinn, the young fellow who has been playing such a star game in the city league. He will turn out to practice with the intermediates tonight and Tuesday night and it is expected that he will be a strength to the line-up.

The Brock street rink will be crowded again Wednesday night. The people are now thoroughly aroused to the old time pitch, and they will give the boys every possible assistance to capture, not only the district but the intermediate championship. If rooting and finances will be any good the locals will get the high honors. It is up to the boys themselves. All they have to do is to keep on the ice and chase the puck for one solid hour. One man on the ice is worth a hundred sitting on the fence.

Evangelization of the World This Century

There was a large congregation in St. Andrew's church yesterday morning to hear Rev. Mr. Anderson, late of St. Andrew's church, Sydney, N.S., now secretary of the Young People's Missionary Movement in Canada, deliver a sermon on the results of the missionary movements. The reverend gentleman is a good speaker and he is well acquainted with his subject. The Young People's Movement is interdenominational and the secretary will address a rally meeting in the Murray street Baptist church this evening. His subject in the morning was taken from Matthew 28.16; and Mark 161.15 and 20. He stated that the 19th century was the awakening of the christian church to its duty to missions and in this connection he told the story of the first missionary that went out to work in Christ's vineyard.

The twentieth century, if the modern missionary movement is carried out as there is every reason to believe that it will be, will see the evangelization of the world. In other words the gospel will be delivered to every nation and ministers and missionaries will be working in every part of the world.

New Western Terminal of the Canadian Pacific May be at Hardy Bay

Vancouver, Feb. 6.—At the north end of Vancouver Island there are two large inlets on opposite sides, leaving only a narrow neck of land between. On the east side, in sheltered waters, is Hardy Bay, and on the west, facing the Pacific, is Quatsino Harbor.

Inside of a year from now Hardy Bay will be heard from in more ways than one. Next to Prince Rupert it is destined to be one of the most important points on the coast as a coming place. When the Grand Trunk Pacific settled on Prince Rupert as a terminus it stole a march and obtained an advantage over the Canadian Pacific that will be hard, if not impossible, to remove. There is reason to believe the C.P.R. will establish a new terminal on the neck of land, using one port during the winter, and the other for the summer traffic.

NEARER TO ORIENT.

If anyone looks at a map of the Pacific Ocean he will notice that the Alaska-British Columbian coast line on the one side and the Asiatic coast line on the other form practically two sides of a triangle, with the position of Vancouver as the base line and the Behring Sea as the apex. Naturally, the farther north one goes the shorter are the lines across to the other side of the triangle. It will also be noticed that the Island of Vancouver juts out at the north away into the Pacific, putting it into almost the same parallel as that of Prince Rupert, which latter place is over 600 miles nearer China and Japan than Vancouver. Now the Canadian Pacific has spent millions of dollars in developing the Oriental trade, and it is not the style of that gigantic corporation, according to past history, to calmly sit down and watch a rival road pull a sweet morsel like that out of its jaws.

REDUCES G.T.P. ADVANTAGE.

By the establishing of a terminus, or rather a commercial port, at Hardy Bay, the Canadian Pacific at once reduces the advantage the Grand Trunk has obtained by half, or perhaps better. Not, let us see what is really being done towards this object, and being actually accomplished quietly, with no flourish of trumpets, and with scarcely anyone the wiser, except those that are doing the work, and probably most of these do not know to what end they are working.

PAVING THE WAY.

About three years ago the Canadian Pacific purchased from Mr. James Dunsmuir the railway line running from Victoria to Nanaimo, about 70 miles in all. Then it acquired by gift from the Victoria city council several acres of newly-made land situated at the head of James Bay for the purpose of erecting a monster tourist hotel, since called the Empress. There were plenty of people who owned property in Victoria, who thought that the C.P.R. was only doing all this out of affection and love for their pretty city, that at last its merits were going to be recognized, and so previously the city had received nothing but cold snubs they felt quite happy. Other people somewhat wiser in their generation, pondered deeply over the purchase of the little railroad, and commenced to spell the word "terminus," to be situated somewhere on Vancouver Island.

RAILS ARE LAID.

Some thought it would be at Alberni and others at Quatsino, on the west coast, and lots of land was taken up at both these places, but the C.P.R. said nothing, and made no sign beyond sending out survey parties in all directions. Even today very few people are aware of the fact that a survey line has been run from Nanaimo clear through to Hardy Bay, and that the rails are laid beyond Campbell River, considerably over half way. It must be remembered that the west coast of Vancouver Island is too unprotected and too exposed to the wintry gales of the Pacific to establish a successful commercial port to act as a rival to Prince Rupert, although perhaps Quatsino Sound might be used as a summer port, especially as only a few miles separate it from Hardy Bay on the north-east side.

FLEMING'S OLD ROUTE.

When Sandford Fleming, the great engineer, surveyed the line through to the Pacific coast thirty years ago, he advised the bridging of Seymour Narrows and placing the terminus upon Vancouver Island. He estimated the cost then at $26,000,000, but the C.P.R. was in sore straits then, and could scarcely raise the money to get through to Vancouver. Today the estimate for that bridging is only $11,000,000 and it is more important now than it was then, if the C.P.R. wishes to maintain its position. One has only to go over the line of the C.P.R. through British Columbia and watch the strenuous efforts being made to reduce the grades, to know that this great line is making ready to put up the fight of its life to maintain its supremacy. At Mount Hector, the highest point and steepest grade on the line, gangs of men are working night and day, and miles of tunneling is being driven.

The Intercolonial Railway

One of the important questions before the people of Canada at the present time, is the future of the Intercolonial Railway. As every one conversant with Canadian affairs knows, the Intercolonial Railway was built in order to bring about confederation. It was not expected that it would be a paying investment for years to come, and the question to be considered at the present time is as to whether or not the time has arrived when this railroad should be expected to be on a paying basis. The matter has been pretty fully discussed in the newspapers of the country, and the general impression appears to be that the Intercolonial Railway could be made pay if it were removed from political influence. Others argue that it will never pay, that it would be better to sell it to some private corporation, or to lease it. It is quite certain that the road will not be closed down. If a private corporation were to purchase the road, they would do so with the expectation that it would be placed on a paying basis and there is no doubt that they would place in charge, a good, live, responsible man, with a view to making it pay a revenue. If a private corporation could do this, why could not the government do likewise?

We do not think that the people of Ontario desire to see the Intercolonial Railroad pass out of the hands of the government. In fact sentiment is very strongly against that. As before stated the road was guaranteed at the time of confederation, and is a sort of bond between Ontario and the Maritime Provinces, and it must still remain as that. But to continue on under the present management leaves the government open to adverse criticism. The only arrangement that would appear to be satisfactory to the people of Ontario would be to place the railroad under the management of a commission. It is also suggested that this commission should consist of only one man. The question then naturally arises as to who that man should be. Our answer to that question is, that in our opinion there is only one man in sight who should be acceptable to the people of Ontario, and no doubt equally as acceptable to the people of the entire Dominion, and that is Mr. M. J. Butler, C.E., the present Deputy Minister and Chief Engineer, of Railways and Canals of Canada. If there is one man in Canada who could successfully manage this road, if given absolutely a free hand, it is Mr. Butler.

We know that this matter is almost entirely in the hands of the Minister of Railways and Canals, Hon. George P. Graham, and that, perhaps, no one in Canada knows the situation better than he. Mr. Graham also knows Mr. Butler's qualifications and we will leave it with the honorable minister to work out, feeling confident that what he will do will be for the best interests of the Dominion.

The Lindsay Press on Friday Night's Game

What the losers say of Friday night's game;—

Peterborough stole a march on Lindsay in sending up the information that the ice was in splendid condition. They knew their chances were good for winning the game on soft ice, and events proved they were not far astray in their conjectures. The game should never have been played on such ice. Before the game the surface was covered in spots with water, and before half time was finished the rink was a miniature lake only fit for aquatic sports. These conditions told on the locals, and while we given Peterborough due credit for their victory, still we maintain that on keen ice the Midgets, to use a Rooseveltian term, would have beaten them to a frazzle.—Lindsay Post.

In about two inches of water on the Peterborough rink the locals met their first defeat at the hands of the Quaker Town seven before one of the largest crowds ever witnessing a game at the Brock street rink. The ice was in very poor condition, even worse than that on which both teams met here, there being water in places over two inches deep while on the higher parts very little water was found, but in its place there was much slush.—Lindsay Free Press.

Any one at the rink know just exactly how close to the truth the above excuses for the Midgets' defeat comes. The ice here was in far better shape than in Lindsay where the board floor actually showed through the ice in places. The slush the Lindsay press talks about was all in the reporters' eyes and in the eyes of their supporters. The next games will very likely be on hard ice.

Peterborough Cereal Company's Wall was Blown Down Saturday

With a crash that could be heard for a considerable distance the south gable wall of the Peterborough Cereal Company's main building on Simcoe street, was blown over by the terrific gale at 1030 Saturday morning, and in its fall carried away the top storey of the small storehouse at the rear, the debris of both buildings spreading over the yard behind. McIntyre Bros., contractors, are at work upon the building, the roof of which is being raised so that it was clear from the south wall. Saturday morning the heavy gale proved too much for the unsupported gable and it gave way without the slightest warning, crashing down upon the roof of the building beneath. This structure was formerly used as a chop mill, but recently had been converted into a storehouse. The wall came down with such force that the roof and walls of the second storey of the smaller building were literally carried off from the lower storey.

Fortunately no one was hurt in the accident, but several men had narrow escapes. Two employes of the company were just about to enter the storehouse when the crash came, and had they been inside when the wall fell, might have been seriously injured. A team of horses had been standing just outside and were driven away a few moments before the accident. Had they been there at the time they would have been buried beneath a pile of debris.

The damage is not as serious as one would fancy from looking at the ruins, and will not interfere with the operations of the mill.

Will Bore Six-Mile Tunnel Through Nevada Mountains

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 6.—The Southern Pacific Railway Company has just established at Bowman, a few miles from Auburn in this State, a base from which it will construct improvements to its right of way over the Sierra Nevada Mountains, costing $25,000,000. The contemplated improvements will give the company two lines from Roseville to Truckee, and a lower grade by 1,000 feet than the present line traversed.

Among the great engineering feats involved in a construction of a tunnel six miles in length.

Four years will be allowed for the completion of the tunnel.

As headquarters for the work the company has leased the ranches and is now erecting on them $50,000 worth of buildings for the accommodation of the men who will be employed in the task.

Shop Early and Save the Clerks

In St. John's church yesterday, Rev. Canon Davidson announced to the congregation that he endorsed the resolution passed by the Ministerial Association, recommending the citizens to do their week end shopping before Saturday if possible, if not to do it during the day, and not leave it until night, and keep the clerks working until all hours. Rev. Canon Davidson strongly advised his congregation to abide by this resolution. Late work Saturday night incapacitated the clerks for attending church on Sunday morning. They were unable to get up in time. It would not hurt the citizens to shop early in the day and let the clerks get home in decent time.

Toronto Would Expel Loafers

Toronto, Feb. 8.—The Board of Control is starting in on an earnest campaign against what the members of the board regard as an imposition on the city by lazy loafers, and the first step being taken is toward deporting several old countrymen. Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, will be requested to send an agent from his department to this city to arrange for the deportation of undesirables.

Refuse to Marry This Young Couple

Denver, Feb. 6.—There are two sad hearts in Denver—all because wedding bells refuse to ring for them. They belong to Genevieve Hyatt, a pretty little American girl from Pueblo, and Sam Hinare, a young Japanese from the same city.

They spent two days in trying to get married, but failed because they could find no one to tie the knot.

The two hearts that are trying to beat as one have made all necessary arrangements for their wedding, such as the securing of a marriage license, but they are having a merry time getting a minister that will assume the responsibility of tying an American girl to an almond-eyed husband.

According to Hinare, he and his bride tried their best to get married in Pueblo. Meeting failure, they decided that they would try Denver. They appeared at the office of the marriage license clerk. There being no law to prevent the union of a white girl with an Asiatic, the license was issued.

Believing that they had overcome opposition the couple went to the office of Justice De Lappe. The justice, while appreciating that such a marriage was within the law, refused to perform it, on the grounds that it was against public policy.

Undaunted by this rebuff the two went to Justice Gavin. There they met with the same kind of treatment.

"Not only am I against it," declared the justice, "but I refuse to do anything that Justice De Lappe has already refused to do."

From Justice Gavin's court the two went to the office of Justice Carlin. He was not present, but when Clerk Linton learned of the circumstances he told them they might as well go elsewhere, as Justice Carlin is as much opposed to such alliances as the other justices. The couple then sought various ministers, always meeting with the same kind of a turndown.

Look to Churchill to Bring Order Out of India's Chaos

London, Feb. 6.— That Winston Churchill may be appointed Viceroy of India is the interesting piece of gossip in circulation in political circles.

It is a well known fact that Lord Minto, the present holder of the office, is seeking an early retirement, and in some quarters it is said that his resignation will be almost immediate. It is certain that the Liberal Government, in the event of Lord Minto's retirement, will want to appoint his successor before dissolution, and Mr. Churchill's name is said to have received favorable consideration by the cabinet.

The need of an energetic, ardent, sympathetic statesman to handle the critical affairs of India is regarded as an imperative necessity, and a survey of the ranks of eligible Liberals reveals no one who would fill the bill as well as Mr. Churchill.

Appointment to the viceroyalty would mean the abandonment of his political career, as the fate of other pro-consuls has been to be placed on the political shelf after their return home. At the same time it would give Mr. Churchill an unequalled opportunity for statesmanship in extricating Indian affairs from the dangerous tangle in which they have become involved.

Whatever may be Mr. Churchill's own inclination, it is considered certain that if offered the position he will accept. His wife, in addition to being beautiful and clever, has great ambitions for her husband. She is said to feel that India would give him the greatest scope for his talents of administration, while the pomp and power of vicereine would be extremely pleasing to her.

In connection with the rumor it has been noted that since the marriage Mr. Churchill has lived in comparative retirement. This sudden love of obscurity by a man previously so conspicuous, is now placed not to the passion for domesticity, but to the training Mr. Churchill is giving himself preparatory to the acceptance of the viceroyalty.

An Early Morning Blaze

Serious damage was caused by fire at 4.40 Saturday morning in the block of buildings at the corner of George and Sherbrooke streets. The alarm was rung in by Nightwatchman Finnie.

It was owing to some defect in the wiring it is stated, that the fire was caused, and the flames broke out in different parts of the building through which the wires ran. There is a dwelling at the rear with an upstairs and Goselin's butcher shop and a cobbler shop in the front. These with their contents were destroyed with the exception of the butcher shop, which for some reason or other, escaped from the ravages of the flames. Some of the meat was badly tainted by smoke, but the damage was not very heavy.

A man by the name of Downer with his wife and family, were occupants of the tenement and narrowly escaped being burned to death. None of the contents were saved. The loss on them is estimated at $250. In the cobbler's shop there was a total loss $80 worth of new stock being amongst that destroyed. The loss on the building is placed at about $1,000. It is not known whether there was any insurance.

The flames spread to the residence of Ald. Duncan and had broken out when the brigade arrived. Chief Howard directed the fire fighters to turn the hose on the building and it was saved with but little damage, some due to water in the cellar.

Four lines of hose were used in the battle against the flames.

This morning the firemen pulled the ruins down so there would be no damage done to passersby by the high wind.

Mock Parliament will be Organized

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner's lecture on Julius Ceasar, proved to be a good drawing card at the Young Conservative Club rooms on Saturday evening. There was a large number present who listened to Mr. Kenner with wrapt attention and appreciated his talk immensely. It was very forceful and presented that excellent manner that is characteristic of the speaker. At the conclusion a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Kenner.

It was decided at this meeting to inaugurate a mock parliament, and the following committee was appointed to make all arrangements:—Messrs. Geo. Benton, Harold Grabam, R. J. Martin, J. G. M. Wilson. This committee will report next Saturday night when a general meeting of the club will be called. At this session a parliament will be organized. The club at the present time is in a flourishing condition and is an excellent place for young Conservatives to amuse themselves.

TERRORIZES TOWN.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 8.—The contents of two fine farmhouses wrecked and one of them partly burned; a big barn, filled with hay, livestock and agricultural implements, razed to the foundations by fire; a woman seriously cut and the entire village of Bloomfield terrorized as he ran through the streets shooting a revolver; are the results of a visit of Frank Sheeran, a farmhand, to the neighboring town of Tariffville. He was captured by a posse and brought here in an automobile. He attempted to set fire to his clothing when put in his cell.

Sheeran broke everything in his brother Joseph's house, it is said, and set fire to James Jameson's house and barn, and cut an innocent pedestrian, Miss Belle Moody. He will be charged with arson and murderous assault in addition to intoxication.

The Young People to Hold Rally

Preparations are well in hand for a large gathering of young people from the various churches in Murray street this evening. The occasion is the annual rally of the Young People's Guilds. The speaker of the evening is Rev. F. W. Anderson, M. A., of Toronto, secretary of the Young People's Missionary Movement of Canada. Rev. Mr. Anderson is the first Canadian secretary and recently was released from a large pastoral charge to assume the important work of the office he now holds. He is a forceful, eloquent speaker and will receive a hearty welcome on this his first official visit to Peterborough. The success of the Missionary Institute last year and the rallies in Knox and St. Andrew's churches are promises of a very large gathering this evening. Officers will be elected and in addition to the address and other features of the program, an offering will be received for the Young People's Missionary Movement.

Great Activity in Railway Construction in West

Immense Sums Being Spent by the Big Railways

Winnipeg, Feb. 5.—All of the three great railway companies will be busy in western Canada on new lines during the present year, which will mean that the west will have 12,000 miles of railways by the end of 1909, and an extra 450 miles of double tracking, which will practically serve the same purposes as that much more mileage on another road.

In round figures the three big roads will end the year with the following mileage in the west: The Canadian Pacific, 6,000 miles; the Canadian Northern Railway, 4,000 miles; and the Grand Trunk Pacific 2,000 miles and in the carrying out of this proposed mileage it will make the year one of the busiest in this line that the west has ever experienced. In construction work three points seem to occupy occupy strategic positions and all three roads are turning their efforts toward linking these points together, these being Winnipeg as the pivot, with Port William in the east and Edmonton in the west, and by the time the 1909 grain crop is ready to move it will see all three places bound together by a triple band of railway tracks.

Alberta will be the scene of considerable activity, as the government of that province, realizing the need of more railroads, are assisting materially in the building of new lines by the granting of subsidies or the guaranteeing of bonds. No less a vigorous policy will be pursued in Saskatchewan than in Alberta and the two governments are working together for greater railway development. The present net work of lines in Manitoba will be further increased and all three lines will help in the added mileage in the province during the year.

Winnipeg will naturally be the scene of a tremendous development as the result of such work going on in the west. At present the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific are rushing to completion their magnificent union passenger station. The Great Northern is now ready to go ahead with the necessary improvements upon their $2,000,000 terminal site, and the Canadian Pacific is pushing the plans for a big union stock yards and abbatoirs. Taking all parts of the west into consideration the year 1909 will be a remarkable one in railway building circles and many thousands of men will find employment for the entire year.

SECRET STOLEN.

Chatham, Ont., Feb. 6.—The carefully guarded news leaked out this morning that the Oddfellows' Temple, King street, was broken into on Tuesday night by burglars, who got the combination of the safe and robbed it of many of the costly jewels and ornaments. Skeleton keys must have been used to gain admission to the lodge room.

It is not the theft of the valuables which is worrying the local Oddfellows. The thing which has caused the most consternation was the discovery that copies of the secret work of the order, kept in one of the inmost shelves of the safe, were taken by the thieves, who, it is feared, will sell them to the first publishing concern that will buy. It is understood that the passwords, grips, and other signs recognized by the order were all contained in the books which were stolen.

Peterborough Bowlers Lost Games in Toronto

The Peterborough bowlers met defeat in Toronto on Saturday night at the hands of some of the best bowlers in the Queen City. The boys did not expect to win as it was their first break into fast company and the first time many of them bowled on strange alleys. However, their showing was very creditable, and they made a good impression. The picked team from here was composed of Messrs. J. S. Hay, W. McIlroy, Herb Martin, Geo. Cairns and Graham Ferguson, and this bunch had the pleasure of winning the second game from five of the best bowlers that could be gathered together in Toronto. To take one game out of three is no small trick when one remembers that the locals are nearly all, in fact all but one, only new players who never bowled until Mr. Hay started his alleys here. They were also playing on strange alleys and amid strange surroundings which makes a big difference. Geo. Cairns was in good form and rolled up a total of 557 for the three games. McIlroy also bowled well in the first two games.

The printers' league team of the Mail & Empire defeated the locals three straight but the Peterborough boys played a good game.

After the match the visitors were entertained at the Printers' Club, where a most enjoyable time was spent. Most of the boys returned home Sunday night on the midnight, and are well pleased with their outing.

PRINTERS COMING.

The Mail & Empire team will visit Peterborough next Saturday night, and will give the locals a return game. On the Peterborough alleys the result should be somewhat different although the Toronto men are good bowlers.

COLD IN THE HEAD

What's the Sense in Sneezing and Sniffling. Dosing with Purgatives, or Bothering with Atomizers?

CATARRHOZONE.

A Convenient Inhaler Treatment is the Proper Remedy to Cure Quickly and Pleasantly.

Some people long ago abandoned the idea of "working off" a cold by means of laxatives and purgatives for the simple reason that the cure is as bad as the disease itself.

To cure a cold in about ten minutes time use Catarrhozone. It is aromatic, delightful to inhale, clean and very simple to use.

Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic and perfectly safe and harmless. Even children and infants can use it. The vapor is inhaled at the mouth, and after passing through the respiratory organs is inhaled slowly through the nostrils.

Catarrhozone never disappoints. It stops sneezing, coughing and drumming at the eye, by a few inhalations. Inflammation congestion and all irritation disappear under the influence of Catarrhozone more quickly than can be told.

C. B. College, of Clarence Street, London, says:—"I had a continuous cold in the head for years and never used anything with such quick results as I derived from five minutes' use of Catarrhozone. I am delighted to find a remedy that cures colds in a few minutes. Catarrhozone cures every time."

To carry a Catarrhozone Inhaler in the pocket means you won't have colds, catarrh or any lung or throat trouble. It keeps these diseases away and is warranted to protect you against all the ills of winter. Complete outfit, with Hard Rubber Pocket Inhaler costs $1.00. Small size, 50 cents. Druggists or N. C. LAW REFORM

Vigorous efforts are being made by a number of lawyers in Toronto to block law reform in this province. Of course, they do not admit that such is their idea. They claim to be anxious for reform. Reform which would not interfere with law costs and lawyers' fees would be quite welcome to them no doubt. The trouble is that any reform of legal procedure in Ontario can be reform only by shortening and cheapening legal procedure, and so reducing law costs and legal fees.

A vital point of the reform which Attorney-General Foy is recommending to the Legislature is lessening of the possible number of appeals. A deputation of lawyers protested against this, arguing that justice was liable to be defeated by a limitation of the number of umpirings. Quite likely, justice will be defeated in an occasional instance. Still, more likely is it that greater injustice is done at present by the numerous possibilities of appeals, the resultant chances, delays and costs. Human judgment at best is fallible. If large amounts of trouble, delay and money can be certainly saved by having two successive umpirings in disputes between man and man rather than three or half a dozen umpirings with little certainty of a better final decision, the lay community is justified in preferring the simpler choice.

Mr. Foy told the lawyers he proposed to go ahead. More power to his elbow. The Whitney government is not in office for nothing.

CHINA IN EARNEST

The recent imperial Chinese decree reaffirming the intention of the government to establish a constitutional system in the empire, and commanding unwavering persistence in the preparations for that achievement, is a noteworthy manifestation of good faith and constant resolution. It will be remembered, not with great pleasure, that at the first proclamation of the constitution doubts of China's sincerity were widely expressed, and these were repeated many times during the lifetime of the late Emperor and Empress Dowager; and when the new sovereign came to the throne there were many who instantly and confidently assumed that there would be no more heard of a constitution in China. But the course of events has shown that the late Emperor and Empress Dowager were entirely sincere in their professions and intentions, and that the new Emperor, or rather the new Regent, is equally sincere in maintaining them and proceeding with their execution. There is a fine characteristic touch of patriarchal in the decree, which is worthy of remembrance. "From ourselves down to the officials and people," declares the sovereign, "all must sincerely obey the excellent decree previously issued. The eighth year of Kwang Tung is the limit of time. Let there be no reabsorption of power in this matter."

In undertaking the reorganization of the whole governmental system and the adoption of a constitution on the Western plan, as in the suppression of the opium traffic and other affairs, China has moved with much deliberation, but with inflexible resolution. It is a familiar, and largely a true remark that the Chinese ways are not as our ways, and perhaps it has never been more strikingly exemplified than in this present case. It would be difficult to imagine a European or an American nation as setting a specific date, ten years in advance, for such a transformation of its governmental system, and then deliberately but persistently working toward it and preparing for it step by step. "This act shall take effect immediately" is our usual formula. In China there is not so much a revolution as an evolution; not a change, but a growth. Her passing from absolutism to constitutionalism is not a sudden and arbitrary upheaval, such as has been attended with so much disturbance and so many untoward incidents in Russia, but resembles rather one of the deliberate processes of nature.

We have said that this reaffirmation of imperial intention is noteworthy. It is, but still more is it reasonable and natural, and it would have been more creditable to the world at large not to have regarded it with so much surprise. There is by far too great an inclination toward doubt and skepticism in international affairs, particularly among Western nations in their attitude toward the nations of the East. We would not say, of course, that every national promise is always to be implicitely accepted. Yet the fact is that the breaking of national faith is a rarity. There has appeared to us no reason for doubting the good faith and earnest resolution of China in her movement toward constitutionalism.

ALEX. MCDONALD, "THE BIG MOOSE"

From Dawson City comes the news of the sudden death of Alexander McDonald, the most celebrated of the Yukon's pioneers, and picturesquely called the "King of the Klondyke". He was also known familiarly as "Big Alec" and "The Big Moose", for he was a man of tremendous physique, and leaves behind him a record for generosity and enterprise that is on a scale of equal magnificence. His death was sudden, for, apparently in the best of health, he had left his shanty to cut a little wood. As the temperature was about 60 below zero, the other miners who lived with him became anxious when he did not return in a few minutes. A search revealed McDonald lying lifeless in the snow. The trip from the claim on the Stewart River, where McDonald died, to Dawson was made by dog train, the body being brought to that city for burial, not without great hardship on the part of the men who undertook it.

A LIFE-LONG MINER.

Alex McDonald was about 60 years old. He was born in Antigonish, Nova Scotia, and became a miner when a boy. Until he was 30 years old he worked in various Nova Scotia properties, then going to Colorado, where he put in several years at Aspen and Leadville. In the 80's he went to Alaska and worked in the Treadgold Mines. The rough experiences he underwent there stood him in good stead later on when the famous Klondyke rush occurred, and McDonald found himself one of the first men on the spot. In 1895 McDonald crossed the Chilkoot Mountains and headed for the Forty-mile Diggings. There he went to work on wages, until he could save enough money to buy a claim of his own. The property was not a rich one, but by dint of hard work he was able to scrape together $500 when news of the great gold discoveries in the Klondyke were flashed round the world.

THE MIDAS TOUCH.

Alex. joined the stampede to Dawson and got in on a claim on the Eldorado. The ground panned well, and McDonald invested every dollar he could wash out of the soil in other claims. He became the leader of the "bulk" movement on the spot. Right and left he bought, and added to his good miner's judgment was the necessary touch of luck. He soon owned claims scattered over many of the best parts of Eldorado and Bonanza, and six or seven on Upper Dominion. McDonald did not buy to sell again, but bought to hold and work. In a year he was a millionaire, and his fortune kept piling up. His revenues, however, were promptly re-invested, and he received all offers to sell.

THE DEAL THAT FAILED.

In 1898, however, he determined to realise on his holdings, if he could get the right price, and so went to London. With him went Ren. Morrison, who helped get the Klondyke King in touch with the British capitalists. Just how much money McDonald asked and was offered for all his holdings is unknown, but both sums were somewhere between $15,000,000 and $18,000,000. According to the Dawson News, all that prevented the huge transaction from going through was a difference of opinion between McDonald and Morrison as to the value of the services of the latter. At any rate the deal fell through, and McDonald returned to the Yukon. He continued to be a plunger but did not confine his operations to mining properties. He established the McDonald Trading Company, one of the largest wholesale concerns that ever did business in the country. He also formed the McDonald Iron Works, and the McDonald Development Company. From the latter he got half a million dollars for some of his Bonanza claims.

THE WINGS OF RICHES.

At the time of his visit to London McDonald met Miss Margaret Chisholm, whom he married soon after. Mrs. McDonald visited Dawson, but has spent most of her married life in Paris and London. Her husband's plans contemplated a retirement from active work, and with this in view he bought a fine residence in Tacoma, Wash. He is understood to have taken out two life insurance policies, one for $30,000 and the other for $50,000, but whether premiums have been paid of late years is uncertain. In McDonald's name are some coal lands in Alberta, besides many mining claims in the Yukon, but it is not clear that he died a rich man. Indeed, the inference to be drawn from the story in the Dawson News is to the contrary; but what has become of the millions he owned at one time is left to the imagination of the reader. The probability is that he made a mistake in refusing to take profits when the Klondyke boom was at its height. His holdings were so extensive, and he was "spread so thin" that when the flattening-out process began he was gradually dispossessed.

A MAN OF PUBLIC SPIRIT

McDonald was undoubtedly a great force in the Yukon. He built houses and did much to interest outside capital in the place, apart from mining claims. He was a handsome contributor to local charities and was a devout Roman Catholic. The ecclesiastical title of Sir Alexander McDonald Knight of St. Gregory, was bestowed upon him by Pope Leo XIII. His funeral services were the most ornate yet held in the Yukon, and over his remains was delivered an eulogy that should long remain in the memory of those who heard it.

"What?"

Just then came a shout, "No tracks, captain."

Oliver kicked his boots into his horse's side. "Come on, come on," he said and went hurrying after his men.

"But, captain"— Fraser was holding back. "There was a cry, I heard"—

"Come on, Fraser." Oliver's horse broke into a trot.

"Captain!"

A third time Oliver called sharply. Behind he heard the cayuse following.

Farther along, however, he turned to address his lieutenant and saw that Buckskin carried no rider.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

AND now through the dusk of the coulee the Indians advanced toward the Throat. Single file they came, their leader a stalwart brave who ran unsteadily.

But of a sudden they brought up and retreated, tripping back upon one another over rubble and bowlder and giving out startled oaths. Then they halted, a score of dim, crowding figures.

Beyond the Throat showed a patch of sky, swiftly brightening with the dawn. Against that patch, thrust up by a ragged arm, was a twirling gun.

There was a parley, while the oaths became a jumble of protests, haranguing and threats.

Presently Standing Buffalo could be heard above the rest. "They are only women. Let us take them and be off."

At this all started forward, but warily. As sudden as before they stopped.

Against the light for a second time a ragged arm had shot up. Now at its top was a sinew backed bow.

The Indians were amazed. One of their kind defending the women? They snorted in rage.

As they jostled, stretching this way and that, the arm began slowly to brandish the bow and in a manner to announce that the holder desired single combat.

Standing Buffalo went forward in a bound. "I clear the way," he cried vauntingly to his brothers. To the one before: "Who fears? Come out." He loosened the arrows in his quiver.

The challenger came—a stooping figure in squaw's dress.

The sight of him fairly rooted the young chief. "The Squaw!" His voice was furious.

Behind a great laugh went up. And as though there was no longer a need either to respect or fear the signals of the one who barred their path the whole band charged.

A little to one side of the Squaw a gun spoke—right into their midst. A brave screamed, catching at his thigh. The others wavered and fell back beyond rifle reach, taking him with them.

The stooping figure in squaw's dress signed once more for single combat.

Lame Foot addressed his brethren. "It's delay too long," he explained. "Striking Buffalo, go forward and slay the she drunk and let us hasten."

Standing Buffalo waved his bow aloft. "I do so," he promised. "But you, Medicine Giver, must hold me clean of shame for fighting a squaw." Then, to the outcast, "Come out, coffee cooler, and die!" He halved the distance between him and the Throat.

Squaw Charley approached him watchfully, setting a shaft in place. His face seemed all eyes—eyes burning with a fierce joy. Standing Buffalo fitted an arrow. Both raised their bows.

Behind the chief came cries of derision and execration. Behind the outcast came a voice, clear and steady, "Careful, Charley, careful!"

To and fro the contestants wove stealing, noiselessly, on the alert, each striving to get the other in a favorable light.

A minute, another—then Standing Buffalo bent his knees, drew and shot. But the arrow veered a trifle from its intended course.

The Squaw drew. The cord sang. The shaft whistled to its mark.

It drove the chief backward a few paces like a wounded buck. Then stopping himself with effort, he lurched forward again. As he came he raised his bow and sent a second arrow that cut the bushes on the canyon side.

The shaft was his last. His face went suddenly livid, his eyeballs started. Dri'valing, he clutched at the air.

Desperate Battle with a Negro

Middletown, N. Y., Feb. 3.—In a desperate battle with a negro whom he had arrested for stealing coal, William Kane, of the Erie Railroad police, was forced to-night to shoot and kill his prisoner in order to save his own life. Lieutenant Kane was walking along the railroad near this city, when he came on the negro taking coal from a car and arrested him.

The negro walked along quietly for a short distance. Then he suddenly jerked away and knocked the policeman down jumping on him and beating him with a stone. The officer managed to get his revolver half out of his pocket and shot the negro in the stomach.

Maple Leaf Mines, Limited

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia Ont., Pres. ; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont., Sec-Treas Chas Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C Ritch , Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 668, containing 40 acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Caloite Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

One of these rich veins crosses this fraction and forms the discovery of same. With a total of 166 acres, 40 acres of which are in the rich Cobalt field, 40 acres in the new Bonanza district, with 200,000 shares in the treasury, for development purposes, with no purchase price to be charged against same. It would seem that this proposition, based on a capitalization of $150,000, was the very thing you have been waiting for.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information :

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 20th December, 1908, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. LeVesconte, 20 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties. In consideration of 600,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 200,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $5,000; allotted has sold at 10 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 5000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 30th of December, 1908.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and your ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are conveniently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

TRAPS FOR MARINERS

Some Points of Peril That Are Dreaded by Seamen.

MERCILESS KENTISH KNOCK.

This Real Davy Jones' Locker Is a Vast Cemetery For All Ships That Are Gripped by Its Relentless Sands. Sable Island's Fingers of Death.

The exact location of Davy Jones' locker is not shown on any ocean chart extant, principally because it is a state and not a place, but if any one ocean death trap deserves the title it is the Thames estuary. The British naval department has a chart upon which it marks the position of wrecks with a black dot. On this chart the Thames mouth tract is a solid black spot. So numerous have been the wrecks that the dots run together. The point where the black dots actually pile one on top of another is the Kentish Knock, and this is the place among all of the ocean's danger spots that deserves the title of Davy Jones' locker.

At the Kentish Knock it is not keel shattering rocks of piercing points of coral that wreck the ocean travelers. It is sand, treacherous, clinging sand, that grasps the doomed ship with a grip of steel and holds it firmly while the angry sea beats it to fragments. Many a vessel posted at Lloyd's as missing would be duly accounted for if the Knock sand would give up its booty. There is no hope for ship or man when Father Neptune asks toll at the Kentish Knock, for the nearest land is twenty miles away and the nearest lifeboat at Margate, thirty miles away.

The sands of the ocean are far more dangerous than the rocks. The sand banks extend over more space, therefore offer more points of contact than the rocks, which usually rise in one slender pinnacle. The waters flow over them in smooth waves, and there are no warning breakers.

Next to the Thames mouth tract in point of danger is the Hugli, the salt water river on which Calcutta stands. The most trying part of a large vessel's voyage from New York to Calcutta is the last few miles of this calm river. In this strange river in windless weather and flat, calm water vessels have been lost, dashed to pieces on the ever shifting sand banks by the force of the tides. The sands grasp the keel of the marked vessel, and she stops, but the tide moves on with relentless force, and the helpless ship is carried over on her beam ends. She careens over and found all with all on board. One of the worst shoals in the Hugli bears the name James and Mary. It was the name of a great Indian merchant shipwrecked on the sunken sand banks.

Another danger point dreaded by the master mariner has neither sand nor rocks, but a great submarine waterfall. In the English channel there is a point just beyond the Shambles banks where there is a sudden drop in the sea bottom. The channel tides sweep over the banks and down this sudden drop, creating rapids equal in fury to those of Niagara. The American ship Georgian foundered in Portland race, the name by which this danger point is known, and all hands went down with her.

Ships bound to New York from Europe pass quite near a deadly hidden shoal which runs out from Sable island, lying off Sable cape, in Nova Scotia. The shoal runs out for miles in five directions like the fingers of a great hand reaching out for what it can destroy. When the gales blow, heavy seas boom upon the shoals with sufficient force to shatter the stanchest vessel afloat, and when the wind ceases the beaches are strewn with wreckage and the bodies of those who have perished. The distance from the shore is too great and the surf too heavy for the life savers to reach a struggling vessel, and few lives are saved at this point. Ten vessels have been wrecked in this trap in a single day.

The rocky danger points in the ocean have nearly all been tagged, and lighthouses have been erected on the most dangerous—all except one. There is no lighthouse on the Virgin rock, and there never will be. Out in the mid-Atlantic a giant pinnacle rears its head up from the ocean floor and endeavors vainly to reach the surface of the sea. It is too short by about eighteen feet. There it stands with its sharp point hidden by the ocean waves, waiting to pierce the bottom of some unsuspecting vessel and send it down to join the pile of ships' ribs and dead men's bones that litter the floor around its base. The waves seem to be in league with the rock, for if a vessel of light draft tries to pass over its head the waves shoot it down into a trough at the bottom of which the point of the rock is waiting to rip out her keel.

These danger spots, however, are but annexes to the real Davy Jones' locker, the Kentish Knock, that cemetery of ships and men where dripping ghosts of master mariners and their men sit over the ruins of their vessels.—B. R. Winslow in Los Angeles Times.

Bridge Builders.

We read of the heroes of the battlefield, the ocean and various other callings, but there is another class of men whose work is also heroic, but who are seldom heard of—men who face death high in the air. They are what the engineer calls "riggers" and are the creators of the world's big bridges and the huge skyscrapers of American cities. Without their bravery and skill the towering structures which span the world's great rivers and gorges could not be put together.—Wide World Magazine.

FACTS ABOUT COUNTIES.

Some of Them Are Larger Than Many of the States.

The county is a territorial division that the United States derived from Great Britain, where the counties correspond to the provinces or departments of other European countries and in a limited sense to the states of the American Union. An Englishman addresses a letter to "Parkinton, Hants," as we address a letter to "Columbus, O.," or "Elmira, N.Y."

One state, which derives its usages from French and not from English originals, has no counties at all. In Louisiana these subdivisions of the state are still called parishes, both officially and in ordinary speech, though they are now divided into many real parishes of the church.

There are about 3,000 counties in the Union, with an average size of about 1,000 square miles, but this average is enormously exceeded in many instances and is also frequently falls below. Leaving out certain great unsettled counties in the west, the average county would be about 500 square miles in extent.

In much of the western part of the country the size of the county is regulated mathematically. It consists of sixteen townships, each composed of thirty-six square miles, making 576 square miles in all. In other words, each township is six miles square and each county twenty-four miles square.

In Iowa there are thirty-nine counties that were formed in this way, each one of which has exactly 576 square miles. Such divisions were possible in the newer west, where these minor political divisions were made in advance of settlement. In the older parts of the country the territorial arrangements were largely accidental.

The largest county in the United States is Yavapai county, Ariz., which has an area of almost 30,000 square miles. Nine states of the Union are each smaller than this county. It is larger than the whole of West Virginia and almost as large as South Carolina.

The sixteen counties of Montana average a greater size than the state of Massachusetts.

Among the other great counties of the Union are San Bernardino and San Diego, in California, which are not only vast regions, but contain a great productive territory; Humboldt and Lincoln counties, in Nevada, which are only sparsely populated, and Lincoln county, N. M., which bids fair in time to have a large population.

Although the New England states are small, the average size of the counties is greater than in most of the middle, western and southern states. Worcester county, in Massachusetts, is an example of an eastern county that is at the same time large in area and very populous. It is larger than the adjoining state of Rhode Island.

The smallest state in the Union has the smallest county as well. Bristol county, R. I., has only twenty-five square miles. At one place it is not more than two miles in breadth.

Thread in Surgery.

Are you aware that the modern surgeon employs in his work dozens of different kinds of thread for sewing up cuts and wounds? Among them are kangaroo tendons, horsehair, silk, and very fine silver wire. Many of these threads are intended to hold for a certain number of days, and then naturally break away. The short, tough tendons taken from the kangaroo, which are used for sewing severe wounds, will hold for about four weeks before they break away. Silk thread will remain much longer, sometimes six months, while the fine silver wire is practically indestructible.

With the entire outfit a surgeon is able to select a thread that will last as long as the wound takes to heal, and will then disappear completely. To accommodate this assortment of threads, special varieties of needles are required. Besides the needle ensued in different segments of a circle, surgeons use needles shaped like spears, javelins and bayonet points.

Queer Auction Custom.

"Candle auction" is an ancient custom which still survives in Somersetshire, England. A valuable piece of meadow land in the village of Tatworth was sold recently by auction while the candle burned. The ceremony consists of the burning of an inch of candle, the last bidder before the candle's final flicker becoming the tenant for the ensuing year. Previous to the auction freeholders assembled for a supper of bread and cheese, beer and pickles, the funds for this being provided from the "colting" of the new tenant. Fines are also imposed for speaking, nose blowing, laughing out loud and moving, other than bidding, while the candle is burning.

The Last Straw.

She was one of those women who always present a woefully untidy appearance during the early part of the day. In vain had her husband remonstrated with her on her unfastened blouse and unkempt hair. It was not until old came from an unexpected quarter that victory was his. They had removed to a new house on the previous day, and when she answered the summons of the front door bell a humble looking woman awaited her.

"Oh, I see it's too late!" sighed the woman. "I called to see if the missis wanted a charwoman, but I see she's suited."

Restlessness.

Mere restlessness is not a matter for which physicians are often consulted. It is on the face of it an unimportant malady, but when it exists in sufficient intensity to form the subject of complaint and to induce the sufferer to seek advice it is usually found to be the superficial indication of a grave underlying condition.—Hospital.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

HOW TO BREAK UP A BAD COLD

A REMEDY WITHIN REACH OF ALL.

Pleasant and Safe to Take---No Loss of Time---All Danger of Pneumonia Avoided.

It may be a surprise to our readers to learn that a severe cold can in many instances be completely broken up in one or two days' time. To do this, however, prompt action is necessary. The first symptoms of a cold are a dry, loud cough, a profuse watery discharge from the nose, and a thin white coating on the tongue. When Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is taken in double doses every hour after the first appearance of these symptoms, it will counteract the effect of the cold and restore the system to a healthy condition within one or two days' time, in almost every case, and when the cold is not completely cured in this time, its severity will be greatly lessened and a complete cure insured in a very short time. When no action toward curing the cold is taken, the dry, loud cough is followed by a profuse watery expectoration, and that by a difficulty in breathing, a peculiar tightness of the chest and a slight expectoration of very tough and tenacious mucus. Few persons pay any attention to a cold until in this condition, that is, until the cold has become settled in the system. The first action should be to relieve the lungs. This is best accomplished by the free use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This remedy liquefies the tough mucus and causes its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs, produces a free expectoration, and opens the secretions. A complete cure soon follows. In some cases, however, several days are required, but the experience of thousands of persons in the use of this remedy has been that it will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment, and that it leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition. This remedy also prevents a cold from resulting in pneumonia. Price 25 cents, large size 50 cents.

$2,000,000 Worth of Flashing Gems

In the now famous tableaux vivants given by New York society women at the Plaza Hotel, the most magnificent appearance was made by Mrs. Benjamin S. Guinness as Semiramis, Queen of Nineveh.

Mrs. Guinness wore not less than $2,000,000 worth of gems. Among her ornaments were practically all the most gorgeous and costly pieces of jewelry belonging to the women of New York's 400, and, as most people admit, they possess the finest jewelry in the world.

Mrs. Guinness borrowed a crown from one social leader, half a dozen strings of pearls from another, a huge rope of pearls from another, a diamond breastplate from another, and beautiful rings from everybody. In this way she was able to do justice to the most gorgeous and powerful Oriental Queen that ever lived.

A $100,000 CROWN.

Upon her proud head the Queen bore a splendid jewelled crown that Mrs. John Jacob Astor sometimes wears at the opera. It is worth probably $100,000. Between the Queen's dusky eyebrows hung a $20,000 emerald, also from the collection of Mrs. Astor.

Over the ears and depending from the crown were great disks of jewels belonging to Mrs. Waldorf Astor, and worth at least $30,000. Still further depending from these disks Mrs. Guinness were no less than nine strings of beautiful pearls, belonging to Mrs. Wm. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and valued at $150,000. The back of her head was similarly covered with a network of jewels, belonging to Mrs. Payne Whitney, worth $100,000, while other strings of pearls, belonging to Mrs. Henry Rogers Winthrop, were entwined in the red-bronze tresses and gleamed and scintillated in soft shimmer below the waist-line.

Over her right shoulder the Queen displayed three gorgeous necklaces, belonging to Mrs. George Gould, each in itself calculated to attract envious admiration to any one who should wear it at a ball or opera.

FINEST RUBIES IN WORLD.

The left arm and hand, uplifted toward the background, were wreathed with a massive gemmed snake, golden, and set with diamonds and rubies, from the collection of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, valued at $50,000. These are among the finest rubies in the world. On the left wrist was a single bracelet of brilliantly white diamonds, owned by Mrs. Frederic O. Beach. The rings on the Queen's graceful white fingers were the treasured ornaments of half a dozen society leaders, and were worth a fortune in themselves.

The front of the corsage glittered and sparkled with an unbroken sea of jewels. The gold tissue of the frock was woven into a barbaric chaos of gold, diamonds, rubies, pearls, and emeralds, worn singly along the edge of the corsage and massed together lower down into a single sheet of flaming color and light.

At the waist line in front was a gorgeous bowknot of diamonds, almost five inches across, which helped to hold the robe in place. It was borrowed from Mrs. Clarence Mackay, and was worth $125,000. Outside all these jewels was a longer and heavier string of pearls, belonging to Mrs. John R. Drexel, and perhaps the most famous of its kind in the world. It is worth at least $300,000.

IS AN ENGLISH WOMAN.

Mrs. Benjamin S. Guinness is an English woman who has been in New York for some years. Her town house is at 8 Washington square. She is a niece of the Duchess of Wellington, and her husband belongs to the celebrated Dublin family of which Lord Iveagh is the head.

She is of very distinguished appearance with a statuesque figure, Titian bronze hair, and deep sapphire eyes.

S. S. Anniversary

Yesterday was the anniversary of the George street Methodist church, and a special sermon was delivered to the children in the morning by Rev. Mr. Wilson of Lindsay. The church was crowded to the doors. The Sunday school children occupied the center aisle of the church and the morning service was given up entirely to them. Rev. Mr. Wilson preached in the evening when another large crowd was present.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned men not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good!! Some day, for this very reason, millions and more, will thank us for having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Opium pacifies, yes, but stupefies—and none in the profession, also in front by any law on the label. And We not only make, but it is sold to be by those that know it best, a truly scientific cough remedy. Take no chances then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

Board of Trade

It was learned from Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine, secretary of the Board of Trade that the annual meeting would be held on March 9th. A special meeting of the board will be held on Tuesday night next when the question of "the Peterborough Radial Railway Extension" will be discussed. A good attendance of members is expected.

Scarlet Fever

Last week another scarlet fever card was taken out from the police station and placed on a house on Simcoe street. This makes the fifteenth case that has been recorded since the new year. On contagious diseases the only other recorded by the police department is one case of diphtheria. There has been more or less of a feeling around the city that an epidemic of scarlet fever existed, but these figures hardly uphold the belief.

Leg Amputated

Mr. B. Cooney underwent a successful operation at Nicholls Hospital Saturday morning. He had a leg amputated just above the knee, this being necessary as a result of an attack of gangrene. Mr. Cooney is getting along as well as can be expected, although the shock was a very severe one.

If you would have a safe, yet certain Cough Remedy in the home, try Dr. Shoop's—at least once. It is thoroughly unlike any other Cough preparation. Its taste will be entirely new to you—unless it is already your favorite Cough Remedy. No opium, chloroform, or any other stupifying ingredients are used. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its wonderful curative properties. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

Young People's Day

Yesterday was Young People's Day in all the Presbyterian churches in the city and special sermons were delivered to them. In St. Paul's church Rev. Mr. Keith preached in the morning, and Rev. Mr. Thompson of Hastings, in the evening. In Knox church Rev. Mr. Thompson preached in the morning and Rev. Mr. Anderson in the evening. In St. Andrew's Rev. Mr. Potter delivered the special sermon and there were very large congregations present at all the churches.

Canadian Club

The next meeting of the Canadian Club will be held on Friday evening, February 12th, in the National Hotel. The speaker of the evening will be John S. Ewart, Esq., K.C., of Ottawa, who will give an address on "The Munro Doctrine." Mr. Ewart is an eminent writer, an excellent speaker, and bears the reputation of being one of the leaders of the Canadian Bar. The committee are pleased to announce him as the speaker and it is expected that a large attendance of the members of the club will be the result. Dinner will be served at 7.30 o'clock sharp and an enjoyable evening is promised.

Trolley Wire Broken

The Jackson Park line of the Street Railway was put out of commission Saturday morning by a tree falling across the street in front of Mrs. A. Elliott's residence, Park street. It fell in front of car No. 12, and had barely struck the ground when the car coming south ran into it before Motorman Jarvis had time to stop it. A second earlier and the tree would have fallen on the car. As it was No. 12 pushed the tree a short distance and the weight of the limbs broke the guide wires and snapped the trolley wire. The other car ran between Central Park and Smith street while the wire was being repaired.

Lindsay Man Performs An Unusual Operation

The Cleveland Plain Dealer of January 29, contains an interesting account of a wonderful surgical operation performed in St. John's hospital of that city, by Dr. Alf. A. Scully, an old Lindsay boy and cousin of Mrs. T. Brady.

Frank Kuderna, of Cleveland, was seriously injured in a street car collision, and in order that he might regain sufficient strength to permit the amputation of one of his feet, which was deemed imperative to save his life, his brother-in-law parted with some of his blood to replenish the injured man's failing supply. He lay on the operating table while the physician opened an artery in his arm and sent the blood coursing into the veins of Kuderna, who was lying at his side.

"It is only what I believe any relative should do for another," said Gabelack Thursday night. He has a wife and five children of his own and sympathized deeply with Kuderna's wife and four small children.

Should Kuderna's condition permit the amputation of his other foot will take place Friday. All signs pointed to a successful outcome of the operation for both men, said hospital authorities Thursday night. — Lindsay Post.

A Great Revival Sweeps Boston City

Boston, Feb. 8.—The Chapman-Alexander evangelistic movement is sweeping over greater Boston. Nothing like it has ever been known before in the history of New England. Simultaneous meetings are held three times a day in the twenty-four largest buildings of the city, and scores of thousands throng the downtown streets where Dr. Chapman holds his personal meetings. They are jammed for blocks hours before the time scheduled for the meeting.

Dr. Chapman said to-day that he and his workers stood appalled at the magnitude of the increasing movement. "In all my experience I have never seen anything like it," he said.

Thomas W. Lawson was one of the most conspicuous figures among the business men who filled the lower floor of Tremont Temple at the Chapman-Alexander noon meeting to-day. He listened with keen attention to a sermon on "Judas Iscariot", preached by Dr. Chapman.

"It was worth fighting that crowd outside to get in," said Mr. Lawson, who was in his seat at 10 o'clock and waited two hours to hear the sermon. "It made me shudder. I can't account for it; but with such meetings as these going on, I don't wonder at the religious wave sweeping over Boston. I can't account for the power."

To Lose Both Feet from Gangrene

James Knyvett Estcourt Howard, brother of the Earl of Suffolk, who is lying at the Waldorf with his hands and feet badly frost-bitten, must suffer the amputation of both feet. He arrived in this city from a hunting expedition in the frozen wilderness of British Columbia.

Gangrene has set in, and while at first it was thought necessary to amputate only one foot, Mr. Howard's physician, Dr. J. S. Nagle, has decided that the amputation of both feet is imperative. This operation will be performed in about a week. While Mr. Howard suffers intensely, there is no immediate fear for his life. The physicians say that they will be able to save his hands. Mr. Howard, who is the only brother of the Earl of Suffolk, whose wife was Miss Daisy Leiter, is twenty-two years old.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative directly to those failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

A New Telephone Company for Beaverton

The Beaverton Express says: "Why could not the township of Thorah and the village of Beaverton also find it greatly to their advantage to go into a telephone arrangement. This village is situated about the centre of the township, and both municipalities are mutually interested in each other and always will be. Neither municipality is encumbered with indebtedness, but is in a financial position second to none in the province. Let the two municipalities build a system out of the common funds, and it would be so general that every farmer and villager could have a 'phone at minimum cost. Any profits from rentals would go to the general funds of the municipalities in proportion to their respective interests. The service would be of real practical benefit to users, which the partial service now given by the Bell people can scarcely be said to be. I throw out this suggestion to the enterprising farmers of Thorah as an example of what is being done elsewhere."

TO CAPTURE LINER TRAFFIC.

Details are published of a scheme for the construction at St. Just, in Falmouth Harbor, of docks sufficiently large to accommodate the biggest liners afloat, and for the laying down of about thirteen miles of railway to connect with the G. W. R. main line. It is claimed that the scheme, which is estimated to cost £887,500, has many advantages over the Wembury Bay proposal, which involves an expenditure of two and a half millions.

Body of Max Roberts Found About 5 O'Clock, Was Drowned in Creek

One of the most deplorable accidents which has occurred in this city for a long time was the drowning of young Max Roberts in the creek yesterday afternoon. The little fellow was only four years of age, and was the son of Mr. Walter Roberts of Stewart street, who has been confined to his room for the past two years. He with a number of other little boys were playing along the bank of the creek, which is just now several feet deep in places and running very fast. It was about half-past two o'clock when the deceased and another little chap walked out on a beam which extended over the water several years. When the boys got nearly to the end they lost their balance and both fell in. A lady passing by pulled the one youngster out, but Roberts was caught by the current and carried under the ice, out of sight, and his remains were not recovered until about five o'clock, after a number of men had broken up all the ice for some 40 or 50 feet down stream.

As soon as the other children on the bank realized what had happened they gave the alarm and soon many willing helpers were gathered at the scene no trace of the missing boy could be found.

City Engineer Hay was notified and he went down at once with a couple of men and as soon as he sized up the situation he telephoned to Chief Howard of the firedepartment for assistance. The chief ordered out the hook and ladder truck and with a couple of men hurried to the scene. He and the scaling ladders thrown across the creek, and the men with crow bars and axes set to work breaking up the ice as that was the only way to discover the body.

The job, however, was not an easy one and it was necessary to break the ice for a distance of forty or fifty yards. The body was discovered at that distance down stream from where he fell in and was close to the shore where the water was shallow. The body was discovered by the boy's uncle, who had done noble work in breaking the ice.

When the news was learned by the father and mother they were heart broken. It was a hard blow to them as the boy was a particularly bright chap. The whole city will sympathize with the bereaved parents.

The body when recovered, was placed in charge of Undertaker Comstock.

Fred Simpson Hot After Tom Longboat

Fred Simpson, the Canadian Indian, is paid a high tribute by the sporting editor of the New York Tribune. He saw Simpson run in his recent relay race against Shrubb at Madison Square and remarks on his breaking the fifteen mile record. "When I saw him in action," he writes, "I at once sized him up as a great strider for a long distance. Besides covering the ground with great ease he runs true and with great speed. His stride is an ideal one for a Marathon distance and with proper handling I think he should be able to defeat the hitherto invincible Tom Longboat. This is quite a lot to say but the Ojibway has run some wonderful races in Canada and always finished like a lion. They say his weak point is the fact that he doesn't show early speed. But there's no reason why he shouldn't if he's properly advised. That he has it is proven by the way he ran against Shrubb. Look out for Simpson. He's soon to loom up on the long distance horizon."

Isle of Hope, Ga., Feb. 3.

To the Sporting Editor.

The Peterborough Times:

Dear Sir,—I see by the papers that there is to be an International Marathon race at Madison Square Gardens, New York, March 17th, in which it is stated Longboat, Dorando, Shrubb and Hayes are to start. But it does not mention Fred Simpson, the Ojibway Indian, of Hiawatha, Canada who ran sixth in the English Olympic Marathon, when he defeated Longboat and Dorando, and he defeated Hayes in Canada and Shrubb did not gain anything on Simpson in their relay at the Garden.

I am willing to match Simpson to run Longboat, Dorando, Shrubb or Hayes any distance from 15 miles to the full Marathon distance, 26 miles 385 yds. over any good track, on the turf or hard board floor, or Simpson will run in the International Marathon on the 17th of March and run for the money to be divided in three shares, or no money to him if he does not run one, two, three, and further more Simpson is willing if the Marathon record is not broken he does not want a dollar of the gate or purse money.

Simpson has a large following in Canada and is conceded to be equal to Longboat by a good many of the best judges in Canada and he should be given a fair chance in this International Marathon race.

Simpson is training here on the Automobile Road which is the finest road in the world. He is improving every week and will try for Dorando's 15 mile record this afternoon. Feb. 7th, 1 28 34 1-5.

Yours truly,

Hero Stuck at Post, Saved 100 Lives

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 8.—One hundred lives hung in the balance for a fraction of a second last night while Engineer W. Baldwin, of a Santa Fe train, hesitated as to whether he should follow his fireman's example and jump, or stick by his engine and pilot it over the fast settling bridge at Avenue 55 and the Arroyo Seco. The ArroyY was a raging torrent from the heavy storm and the water had cut under the concrete piling of the bridge, and it began to sag. Then came the train of five cars slipping down grade from Pasadena. Several hundred persons were out watching the stream, and when they saw the train coming they attempted to warn it.

Engineer Baldwin saw the danger, but as he was unable to stop the train before it was on the bridge, he opened the throttle and let the engine run across. Had he hit the bridge at high speed, cars and passengers would have gone into the roaring waters.

Later the first section of the inbound Los Angeles Limited was hailed just north of the damaged bridge, and the passengers found their way into the city on electric cars. The second section was sent around by way of Riverside.

Today the Arroyo still relentlessly is grinding its path to the sea, tearing away all obstructions to its course. Four bridges, numerous fences, outhouses, and building, a dozen bulkheads, and heavy mattresses have been taken as toll by the stream that but a day or two ago was a purling brook.

Terrible Tragedy Roused the Whole Countryside

Shelburne, Feb. 8.—"I had to do it." This is the only statement that George Ernest Stewart, the man who murdered John Spanhouse, James Spanhouse, and seriously injured George Beaumont and others near Shrigley yesterday morning, will make when questioned about his crime. He was taken to Orangeville this morning by Constable Joseph Thompson and Special Constable J. Brundig, being driven the eight miles from here to Orangeville.

Before he left and while in the lockup here he was questioned about his crime. He seemed very much disturbed, and said over and over, "I had to defend myself."

MRS SPANHOUSE MAY RECOVER

Mr. Stoutenberg of Collingwood, a son-in-law of John Spanhouse, who was murdered, returned from the scene of the murder this morning. Seen at Shelburne by a reporter, he stated that Mrs. Spanhouse, though terribly bruised, is improving, and will probably recover.

TRIED TO SAVE HUSBAND

It has transpired that Mrs. Spanhouse made a most heroic effort to save her husband. She was awakened, it seems, by the knocking, and heard her husband upon the door. Then she heard the sound of crashing blows, and her husband's cry "Polly, she." She sprang out of bed and rushed to the door. Staggering beneath the blows, which his assailant rained upon him, and shielding his head with one arm, with the other he shoved the wife back into the room. There he fell. Mrs. Spanhouse sprang forward, and, with cries of entreaty, covered her husband's body with her own, and the murderer beat her as she lay.

CRAWLED UNDER THE BED

Then the son came downstairs, and the madman's attention was distracted for the moment. Before the mother's eye the son was murdered, and, frantic and almost senseless with terror she fled to her room. There, after having battered the son's body beyond recognition, the murderer sought and found her, and made an attempt to complete his deadly work. She had crawled partly under the bed, and thus her head was protected, but her body was terribly beaten by the insane man. When he thought he had killed her he made a tour around the house, and finding no one else on whom to wreak his thirst for vengeance, said loud enough for the frightened maid, Grace Christian, to hear in the room where, terror stricken, she had locked herself upstairs, "Well, I've killed the ——." Then he left.

A TERRIBLE SIGHT.

It was not till an hour later that the maid ventured downstairs, where a sight met her eyes which she will remember to her dying day. On the floor lay the bodies of the two murdered men. Mrs. Spanhouse was conscious, but almost dead. It was then the maid ran and telephoned for help.

Mrs. Spanhouse is perfectly conscious today, and remembers every detail of the terrible affair. The above story is the one which she related to Mr. Stoutenberg this morning, and it was related by him in

Great Rally of Young People's Union in the Murray St. Baptist Church

There was a very large attendance at the young people's rally in the Murray street Baptist church last night. It was a mass meeting of the Young People's Union and nearly all the young people's societies in the city were largely represented. President Rev. H. J. Keith presided and after the opening exercises the following officers were elected:—

President—Rev. J. R. Webb.
Vice-Pres.—Rev. J. G. Potter.
Secretary—Wilfrid Shriner.
Treasurer—R. W. Cox.

The feature of the evening was the address by Rev. F. W. Anderson, secretary of the Young People's movement in Canada, and he gave an excellent and very instructive and interesting talk. His subject was the proper investment of life. He pointed out that the modern idea was to gather together as much of this world's goods as possible, and then to invest it as profitably as possible. There was so much selfishness in the world and too great a desire to possess worldly goods. This is not the true life. This is not the true life. He quoted from scripture:—He that saveth his life shall loose it; but he that looseth his life for My sake shall regain it in heaven." The first thing to remember was that, "I am a soul, not a body." He urged his hearers to remember that the soul came first and to lay up treasures in heaven. All that is necessary in this life for the body is sufficient to keep it together. In conclusion, Rev. Mr. Anderson referred to the great work that is ready to be done in the mission fields and the large share which the young people's societies can do.

Signet Ring and Address for Mr. R. M. Jones

There was a very interesting ceremony at the regular meeting of Sherwood Forest Camp, W.O.W., No. 50 last night. After the regular business had been put on and five candidates were initiated, a presentation of a beautiful signet ring and an address were made to Bro R. N. Jones, the present counsel commander. The ring was handsomely engraved and bore the emblem of the order with the letters W.O.W. to R. N. Jones. The gift was in recognition of the valuable service the recipient had rendered the lodge in the past in the way of securing new members.

Mr. A. A. Haskill, clerk, read the following letter from the head clerk of the order, which is presented with the ring to Mr. Jones:—

London, Feb. 6th, 1909.

A. A. Haskill, Clerk.
Peterborough, Ont.

Esteemed Sovereign:—I enclose herewith recognizing the good work done in your camp in the past year, by Sov R. N. Jones.

It is certainly gratifying to see the members take such an interest in our Order, and I feel that we must make some recognition of the good work done by such members as Sov. Jones, and I wish we had more members in our subordinate camps like Sov Jones. I am sure the order would go ahead by leaps and bounds.

I take the liberty of asking you to present Sov Jones with this signet ring, as a token of the appreciation to the head office of the Canadian Order of the Woodmen of the World, and trust that Sov Jones may long be spared, and take the same interest in your camp as in the past.

Wishing your camp every success for the coming year, I remain,

Yours fraternally,
W. C. FITZGERALD,
Head Clerk.

Minister Riddled with Buckshot as He Prepared Sunday Sermon

Houston, Miss., Feb 8.—The body of Rev. W. T. Hudson, pastor of the Baptist church at this place, and one of the most prominent ministers in this State, was found riddled with buckshot in a pond near Houston late last night.

Mr. Hudson left the Houston Hotel early yesterday, and when he did not return at nightfall search was instituted, which led to the discovery of the body. It was his custom to prepare his Sunday sermon seated under a tree near the pond, and it is evident that he was shot from ambush and killed while thus engaged. As to the motive or the person who committed the crime, nothing could be learned.

Fat is Out of Style

To paraphrase Cæsar's remark, the directoire gown craze—was seen—and has conquered. So fat ladies are reduced, so to speak, to the necessity of either reducing on a very rapid rate or eliminating themselves from public view until the fashion dies flat. Otherwise they risk being ridiculous.

Since many fat ladies will not eliminate themselves, however, but, per contra, will insist on wearing the curveless gown, no course is open to this well-meaning scribe other than to tell them how they may eliminate the fat.

What is there, then, that reduces fat safely? What pleasant inexpensive articles a there on druggists' shelves that can reduce a pound a day without causing wrinkles or stomach ache? What can the pharmacists offer as an improvement over scanty victuals or ten miles walks without breakfast? Is there anything pleasant to take and inexpensive to buy that will reduce one uniformly, quickly and innocently thirty pounds a month? Here is the answer; Either write the Marmola Company, Detroit, Mich., or ask your local druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets, and for 75 cents they or he will give you one large case of these safe fat reducers, containing so generous a quantity of tablets that sometimes one case only is needed to produce the desired results. Can you match that for a simple solution of your problem.

"Attack on Fort York 1813" Subject of Next Lecture

On Thursday evening the second address of the winter series will be delivered before the Peterborough Historical Society. The subject is "Attack on Fort York, 1813," and will be delivered by Mr. Barlow Cumberland. The assembly hall in the new Collegiate Institute is the place for all these lectures, and it is hoped that the seating capacity will be fully taxed. The last lecture by Mr. G. A. Cornish, B.A., on volcanoes, was very well attended and everyone was well pleased with the talk they heard. The objects of the society are to encourage a study of Canadian history, science and literature; the collection and preservation of Canadian historical records and relics, the building up of Canadian loyalty and patriotism and the maintenance of a museum. There is no doubt, but that those who avail themselves of the opportunity offered will be greatly profited.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative directly to these failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

Special Meeting of Board of Trade

A special meeting of the Board of Trade will be held this evening for the purpose of discussing the expenditure of $120,000 on the proposed new waterworks dam, power house and pumping plant. All those who desire fuller information on this matter which is so important to the ratepayers, are requested to be present and hear the discussion, a lot of valuable information will no doubt be forthcoming as well as several suggestions from outsiders. The meeting will be an important one and all the members are requested to be present.

Apsley People Want Electric Road Run Through Their District

A meeting of the Manufacturers' Committee was held yesterday afternoon when all the members were present with A.H. Gillespie in the chair. Among other matters which came up was a letter from Wm. Gallon of Apsley, in reference to having an electric line run from Peterborough to Apsley, a distance of 40 miles. The letter pointed out the many advantages of such a road, not only to the farming community through which it passes but also to the city itself.

Mr. Gallon stated that he had seen in the Peterborough press the announcement of the proposed electric road from Cobourg to Stony Lake. He thought it was a good thing and asked why not continue it through to Apsley. He referred to the large amount of money spent by the people in the farming communities in Toronto, principally at Simpson's and Eaton's. He had referred to the large quantities of provisions bought into the stores all through the district. All this might be diverted to Peterborough retail and wholesale stores, while the freight traffic on the electric road would be considerable and the passenger traffic would soon develope.

Mr. Gallon suggested that if the people of Peterborough would take the matter up the Apsley people would be glad to co-operate with them.

The committee considered the matter and instructed the city clerk to reply to Mr. Gallon's letter and also to send a copy of it to Mr. J. H. Larmonth, manager of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company.

French Tariff will Keep Out U. S. Goods

Washington, Feb. 7.—American tariff experts do not view with complacency the probability that the French government within the next year will put into operation a revised tariff which it is believed will have the effect of very seriously discriminating against imports into France from the United States. The United States is at present compelled to pay the maximum rate and is met at the French frontier with a schedule of duties often many times higher than those paid by other nations on precisely similar goods.

A very pertinent fact to be considered in this situation is the new French-Canadian Treaty, which is now being concluded. Under this treaty, it is said, Canada is to receive all of the minimum rates of the French tariff. Even under present conditions this will be sufficient to cause many Americans to build factories across the Canadian line so that their product may be sent to France with the benefit of the low tariff.

Mitchell Committed for Trial for Stealing

Chas. Mitchell was committed for trial by Magistrate Dumble yesterday afternoon on a charge of stealing a parcel of silverware belonging to Mr. A. J. Perkins of King street. Mitchell is the letter carrier, who is awaiting trial on a charge of robbing the mails. The last charge is in connection with the former one.

Only two witnesses were heard, A. J. Perkins and P. C. Newlands. Their testimony was that the silverware had been found in Mitchell's house. Mr. Perkins identified the goods and stated that they had been sent out from England early in January.

The case will come before his honor Judge Weller at eleven o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Chinese Are Now Protesting

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 8.—With the re-opening of the fight over the anti-Japanese bills in the lower house of the California Legislature today, it is expected that the struggle this week will be even more intense than it was last week, when it was terminated by the dramatic appeal of Speaker Stanton for delay.

The latest complication in the controversy which has two nations by the ears is the preparation by the local Chinese of a statement complaining that President Roosevelt is discriminating against their countrymen in favor of the Japanese. The memorial drawn by representatives of the Six companies, which is the Chinese Benevolent Association of California, makes a comparison of the governmental treatment of the Chinese and Japanese, and the claim is raised that the latter are clearly favored by the authorities in Washington.

Attorney O. P. Stidger, who drew up the Six Companies telegram to President Roosevelt, says that it contains a strong protest against the president exerting his power to prevent the segregation of Japanese children in the public schools, while he makes no complaint against the common practice of excluding Chinese from the white schools.

Kikuo Kiyose, the correspondent of the Asahi, of Tokio, announces that two parties of Japanese royalty, planning to visit the United States this year, will encircle most of their itinerary. Included in the parties will be the Prince and Princess Nashimoto and Prince and Princess Kuniyo Shi. The members of both parties are middle aged, and this will be their first trip away from Japan.

"There's a Reason"

GRAVEYARD COUGHS AND COLDS

Cured Quickly by Catarrhozone.

A cough or cold this season of the year paves the way for pneumonia or consumption. The best remedy is "Catarrhozone". It eases a cough in five minutes, and colds cannot exist but a few hours where it is used. Mrs. H.L. Chenowith, residing at Glendive, Montana was worried by a "graveyard" cough. In the following letter she tells how Catarrhozone cured her in one week:

"I had a bad cough for several months last fall that settled on my lungs. I was worried very much to think that nothing I used could shake it off, but reading in the Halifax 'Presbyterian Witness' of the wonderful cures Catarrhozone was effecting, I decided to try it. The irritability and soreness was taken out of my throat in a few days, and in less than one week it entirely cured my cough.

"It is with great gratitude and pleasure that I recommend Catarrhozone. I am sure it will benefit and cure all who use it."

(Signed) Mrs. H. L. Chenowith.

The reason Catarrhozone always cures is that it goes right to the sore spot, which it heals and makes well quickly. It is an aseptic and destroys disease germs in every part of the system. For Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis, nothing compares with Catarrhozone. It is very pleasant and simple to use, contains no injurious drugs, and is warranted perfectly safe to use. Catarrhozone Inhaler is suitable to use in a street car, theatre, church, any place, at any time. Complete outfit costs but $1.00 and is guaranteed to cure or your money back. Trial size 50c., sold by druggists, or by mail, from N. C. Poison & Co., Kingston, Ont.

WANTED, FAIR INTEREST

The Ottawa Journal has a timely article in which it says that to oblige the banks of Canada, which wanted more cheap money to lend, the Dominion Government some years ago cut down to 3 per cent. the interest allowed on deposits in the Post Office Savings Banks. The government at one time paid 4 per cent., and later 3 1-2. The banks would not allow over 3 per cent. to their customers. Result, the people preferred to put their savings into the government's hands. The banks attacked the government, representing that savings deposited in the banks went straight into the commercial business of the country in loans and discounts, and that the government should not therefore offer a bigger inducement to deposits than the banks did. The government gave way.

Then, in times of tight money, came the ugly spectacle of the banks raising their rate of interest to the business public, while sticking to the 3 per cent. rate upon the public's savings. The commercial rate charged by the banks to their best customers would go to 6 and 7 per cent. on the plea of scarce money, the banks would gain larger profits through the very existence of har dtimes, yet when every inducement both of good business and fair play calls dupon the banks to increase the interest allowed upon deposits—so as to attract more money—the banks stolidly sat tight upon their 3 per cent. allowance.

The Dominion Government was to blame as well. By raising its rate of interests upon deposits in the Postal Savings Banks, the government could have forced the banks to at once increase their rate. The government did nothing. Now it has another chance. It is borrowing money in Europe at 3 3-4 per cent. It is paying outsiders, London capitalists, and possibly foreigners, 3 3-4 per cent. upon borrowed money, while continuing to restrict to 3 per cent. its payments upon money borrowed from thrifty Canadians.

Wake up, Mr. Fielding. Do the decent thing and the sensible thing by your own country and your own people.

If you would have a safe, yet certain Cough Remedy in the home, try Dr. Shoop's—at least once. It is thoroughly unlike any other Cough preparation. Its taste will be entirely new to you—unless it is already your favorite Cough Remedy. No opium, chloroform, or any other stupifying ingredients are used. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its wonderful curative properties. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

A CRIMINAL GOVERNMENT

The crimes of Russia's secret police are an old story and always a new one. If a mere fraction of the charges in the case of Azeff, who while known as head of the Fighting Socialists was really a Government spy, are capable of proof, ministers of the Czar are guilty of some of the most serious crimes laid to the revolutionaries. Murder as a Government industry for the purpose of creating political effect and justifying repressive measures is about as refined a degree of crime as even St. Petersburg has yet produced.

There can be no doubt as to the complicity of certain prominent officials in the operations of the Black Hundred. In Moscow and Odessa this "patriotic" was directly inspired from on high. In Moscow a wholesale system of brigandage and murder was carried on with the connivance of high-placed officials who shared the booty. It was by such instruments as these that reaction and martial law were made to appear necessary for the safety of the country.

What must discredit the Government the more in the eyes of civilized people is that when exposure comes it is not by the efforts of the Government to purify itself, but as the result of the vigilance of orderly defenders of the right of the Russian people to constitutional liberty who in effect are outlaws under the Czar's later policy of restricted despotism.

SOME "UNFITS" WHO HAVE MADE GOOD

Marked difference of opinion exists among Canadians as to the result of the Salvation Army's work as a colonizing agent. About the army as a moral force there is only one opinion; but the organization has had to bear many a hard knock from the tongues and tens of those who believe it is filling this country with undesirables. Only the other day a newspaper bluntly said that the sooner the army got out of the emigration business the better. The loud roars of the unemployed Englishmen who swell the ranks of the workless in Toronto do not have the effect of exciting more pity than disgust on the part of the general public, and the erroneous conclusion is reached that most of the local out-of-works were brought here by the Salvation Army.

If the Army is making a failure of its colonizing scheme, then Miss Agnes C. Laut, for one, has been grossly deceived. Of course, Miss Laut does not pretend to speak as an expert of the situation in the larger cities, but she has been through the Canadian West, and knows the army there. She is also familiar with the general plan of its emigration enterprise, and writes with enthusiasm of it in the January number of the Review of Reviews. On the Saskatchewan River, at a point fifty miles from a settlement above and twenty-five miles from a neighbor below, she came to a mud-wattled log house. It looked like an Indian's habitation, but she found to her surprise that it was occupied by half a dozen young Englishmen. They were typical English factory hands, "warped of body, dwarfed of brawn and brain, with the spindly limbs and bulging forehead that came from only one thing—years of emaciation, underpay and poor food, and sometimes no food at all."

The first impression was surely about as unfavorable as could be imagined. There was no bed in the house only a pile of rugs, a few chairs, a stove and a week's accumulation of dirty dishes. The bro here had come from London, four years before, with a joint capital of less than $1,000, and as they were of that most unlikely class—the English unskilled laborer—it is a wonder where they got the money. At the time of Miss Laut's visit each of them owned a quarter-section land, worth $10 an acre, and, among them, fifty head of cattle, and some twenty horses. The total value of the land and stock was about $10,000. That is to say, six of that class called unemployed had fought a four years' battle on the Canadian prairies, were ten times better for it, physically and mentally, and increased their original capital tenfold. In four years they have become secure from want; an dif they marry and have children their offspring will, in all probability, be sturdy Canadians, with a better start in life than any of their paternal ancestors for generations. The case may be an exception, but it is worth noting, and strengthens belief in the statement so often made about even the Englishman of the London slums—"These Londoners have good blood back of them."

Miss Laut was interested to learn the opinion of these boys on the question: "Why do so many Englishmen fail in Canada?"

"Why," I asked the youngest of the family of boys on the Upper River, "why do so many Englishmen fail in Canada?"

"The free soup kitchens in the Old Country spoil them," he answered. "The free soup kitchens and the labor union hours. A fellow can't succeed in a new country on labor union hours. He has got to work harder when he's his own boss, work till his job is finished, and he has to finish quick in these short seasons or he will be out of hay and lose his stock, or he won't get enough potatoes in in spring to save buying food in winter. You see," he repeated, "it's the free soup kitchens. They get a man in the way of not depending on himself. Then, when he has work, he spends his wages foolishly, in the grog-shop, and doesn't look ahead. When he comes out here there are not any soup kitchens; and if he does not look out for himself he can't get on. He drifts away from the land to town, where there's help; and then he goes back to England and curses the country."

"Perhaps lonely," I suggested.

"Lonely! There's no time to be lonely out here . . ."

Miss Laut, like everyone else who has paused to reflect upon the figures, is appalled by the cold figures that reveal the lack of employment in England. There are said to be in England to-day 7,000,000 people in want from lack of work. There is $30,000,000 spent annually to relieve distress in the British Isles, and Miss Laut remarks: "One cannot but wonder if half the $10,000,000 annually spent to relieve the distress of poverty in England were applied to such (the Salvation Army's) systematized colonization whether there would be any unemployed question at the end of five years, for if there is one thing more than another that modern investigation has proved it is that while charity may be cheaper than justice, the necessity for charity is, in the long run, the most wasteful extravagance any nation can have."

Up to date, the Salvation Army has brought about 55,000 emigrants to Canada, and the country could hold a thousand times as many more without crowding, and, according to the army's figures, not one per cent. has failed to make good. Moreover, it cannot be said that the Army tempts settlers here with alluring pictures of a land flowing with milk and honey, for into the hands of each emigrant, as he arrives on the Army's chartered ships, is placed this card from Gen. Booth:—

"God carry you safely to your new home. Fearlessly calculate upon hard work. Bravely meet difficulties. Do your duty by your families. Help your comrades. Make Canada a home that will be a credit to the Old Land. Put God first. Stand by the Army. Save your souls. Meet me in heaven!"

FACTS ABOUT THE CROUP

THE FIRST SYMPTOMS AND TREATMENT.

Some Interesting Information for Young Mothers---How to Guard Against the Disease.

The great danger from croup is fully realized by most mothers of young children. There are many, however, who do not know that an attack of croup may be prevented by proper treatment as soon as the first symptoms appear. The first indication of an attack of croup is hoarseness. The child becomes quite hoarse; this is followed by a rough cough that has something of a metallic sound and has been compared to the crowing of a cock. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to the printed directions with each bottle as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, and it will prevent the attack. It is, in fact, a certain cure for croup, and has never been known to fail, but it is better and safer to give the remedy before the attack of croup is fully developed. It then saves suffering for the child and anxiety for its parents. There is no danger in giving this remedy freely, as it contains no opium or other narcotic. It is the standby and sole reliance in many thousands of homes and never disappoints those who depend upon it. There are women who took this remedy in childhood, now giving it to their grandchildren, and with the same uniform success. It always cures and is pleasant to take.

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided Into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont, Vice Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont., Sec-Treas Chars Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C Ritcher Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Blooms.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 668, containing 40 acres, situated about 80 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1869, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

One of these rich veins crosses this fraction and forms the discovery of same. With a total of 160 acres, 40 acres of which are in the rich Cobalt field, 40 acres in the new Bonanza district, with 200,000 shares in the treasury, for development purposes, with no purchase price to be charged against same, it would seem that this proposition, based on a capitalization of $150,000, was the very thing you have been waiting for.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 10 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 26th December, 1908, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. LeVoccomb, 20 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties, in consideration of 300,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 200,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $ 000; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 200 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 2000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 26th of December, 1908.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are excellently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

MAGISTRATE'S ECZEMA CURED

AFTER 20 YEARS OF SUFFERING.

Zam-Buk's Healing Power Proved by School Commissioner and Baptist Deacon.

ONE of the most recent converts to the Zam-Buk method of treating and curing disease is Mr. C. B. Sanford, of Weston, King's Co., N.B.

Mr. Sanford is a Justice of the Peace for the County, and a member of the Board of School Commissioners. He is also Deacon of the Baptist Church in Fairville. Indeed, throughout the County it would be difficult to find a man more widely known and more highly respected. Some time back he had occasion to test Zam-Buk, and here is his opinion of this great balm. He says:—

"I never used anything that gave me such satisfaction as Zam-Buk. I had a patch of eczema on my ankle, which had been there for over twenty years. Sometimes, also, the disease would break out on my shoulders. I had taken solution of arsenic, had applied various ointments, and tried all sorts of things to obtain a cure, but all in vain. I was advised to give Zam-Buk a trial, and as I am a firm believer in Nature's remedies, I did so. From first applying it I saw it was altogether different to the ordinary ointments and embrocations, and it soon began to show signs of clearing away the eczema on my ankle. This was so gratifying, that I persevered for some time with it, and I am glad to say it had the desired result. I am now cured of the disease which defied every other treatment for twenty years.

"This is not the only direction in which I have proved the merits of Zam-Buk. I suffered for a long time from piles, and I found a perfect cure for this painful ailment in Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk soothes the pain, relieves the congested veins, and so restores the elasticity to the tissues that the piles gradually but surely disappear."

Zam-Buk is a positive and certain cure for cuts, burns, bruises, ulcerous piles, festering sores, ulcers, scalds, blood-poisoning, eczema, rashes, chapped hands, skin cracks, chilblains, ringworm, scalp sores, bad leg, diseased parts, and all other skin diseases and injuries. Rubbed well into the parts affected, it cures neuralgia, inflammation, and sciatica. All druggists and stores sell at 50c box, three for $1.25, and post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse the harmful imitations sometimes represented to be "just as good."

A Free Legacy for the Children

Here is a wonderful legacy for children and all who can use it—a legacy which all should try to hand on to the children's children that are to be "till the end of time.

This is the quaint testament of Charles Lounsbury,, who, having nothing to leave, executed a somewhat elaborate will, bequeathing the world to those who came after him, concluding thus,

"Item, I leave to children inclusively, but only for the term of their childhood, all and every the flowers of the fields, and the blossoms of the woods, with the right, to play among them freely, according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thistles and thorns.

"And I devise to children the banks of the brooks and the golden sands beneath the waters thereof, and the odors of the willows that dip therein, and the white clouds that float high over the giant trees.

"And I leave the children the long, long days to be merry in, in a thousand ways, and the night, and the moon, and the train of the milky way to wonder at, but subject nevertheless to the rights hereinafter given to lovers.

"Item, I devise to boys jointly all the useful, like fields and commons where ball may be played, all pleasant waters where one may swim, all anowelled hills where one may coast, and all streams and ponds where one may fish, or where, when grim winter comes, one may skate, to have and to hold the same for the period of their boyhood; and all meadows with the clover blossoms and butterflies thereto, the woods and their appurtenances, the squirrels and birds, and echoes and strange noises, and all distant places which may be visited, together with the adventures there found.

"And I give to said boys each his own place at the fireside at night, with all pictures which may be seen in the burning wood to enjoy without let or hindrance and without any encumbrance of care."

If you would have a safe, yet certain Cough Remedy in the home, try Dr. Shoop's—at least once. It is thoroughly unlike any other Cough preparation. Man They Couldn't Hang is Married

London, Feb. 6.—John Lee, of Babbacombe ("the man they couldn't hang") was married quietly the other day at Newton Abbot, Devonshire.

Lee was released from prison a little over twelve months ago, after serving twenty-two years penal servitude for the murder of Miss Emma Keyse, by whom he was employed as butler at Babbacombe. Lee was sentenced to death, and three attempts were made to hang him, but the gallows mechanism failed on each occasion, and after the unparalleled ordeal the prisoner was granted a respite.

The bride is Miss Jessie Augusta Bulled, chief nurse of the female mental wards of Newton Abbot Workhouse.

Every care was taken to ensure that the ceremony should be kept secret.

The report of the wedding soon spread, and when the newly-married couple left the church a large crowd which had gathered outside showered confetti over them. Mr. and Mrs. Lee drove directly to the railway station, and entrained for Durham, where the honeymoon will be spent.

Serious Floods Occur in German Cities

Berlin, Feb 8.—The floods in Germany, arising from several days of heavy rains and a spell of warm weather are to-day taking on a most serious aspect in many parts of the country.

The first fatalities are reported from Nordhausen, where many bridges have been swept away and ten people drowned. Along a number of the small streams, however, the freshets are subsiding.

At Nuremberg the Pegnitz rose twelve feet last night, and this morning it is raging through the lower streets of the city.

The water is higher than it has been for thirty-three years. The newspapers of Nuremberg have suspended publication, and enormous damage has been caused.

Frankfort-on-the-Maine reports the highest water in fifty years in some of the streams in the Odenwald. The town of Herdecke is flooded, and a number of dams in the vicinity of Hagen have been carried away.

At Dortmund the floods are increasing, and the fire department was called out last night to rescue a family from the second storey of their dwelling. Several railroads over the Confluents of the Rhine on the north side have been swept away.

At Giessen the River Lahn is sixteen feet above the normal, the highest in thirty years. The valley between Giessen and Wetzler appears as an immense lake. The Rivers of Silesia also are very high, and many miles of territory are flooded.

A special signal service has been put in operation along the Rhine, where it is expected that the danger point will be reached in a day or two.

Jeff's Return to Ring His Bout with Berger

Jim Jeffries has lost none of his box office drawing qualities despite his four years' absence from the ring, judging by the tremendous crush yesterday at the Wigwam Theatre, where the undefeated heavyweight champion did a little training stunt at all four performances in conjunction with the usual vaudeville entertainment. The crowd was so big on the exterior that it resemble dthe main entrance of a fight pavilion on the night of a big championship match. The fans were hungry to get a glimpse of the only man they think is capable of whipping the ebon-hued swiftest artist who now poses as the greatest of all heavyweight pugilists, and they could hardly wait until he made his appearance. Jeff's act is the last on the programme and there wasn't a single person who left before the big fellow pranced into the glare of the spot light attired in his red and black gymnasium suit. Sammy Berger, the "haberdasshery kid", was a picture in a pale blue suit, but the clever Fillmore-street lad displays all of his old-timed friskiness and science in his little set-to with the hairy giant from south of the Tehachapi.

Announcer Billy Jordan was on the job and the manner in which he introduced the celebrities gave the bout all the appearance of a genuine scrap, especially as popular Eddie Smith, the Oakland referee, was on the stage to see that the men fought fairly. Jeff was introduced as "The great and only undefeated and retired heavyweight champion", while Berger was styled "The haberdasher-kid of Fillmore-street and one of the cleverest heavyweights in the business."

A few minutes at skipping the rope served to open the $3000 act of the crusher of championship aspirations, and the lightness with which the 260-pound human mastiff skipped around the stage was a revelation to the members of the fair sex, who watched with amazement how easily the big fellow did the school-girl pastime. Then the medicine ball was brought into play. With Berger as a partner Jeff tossed the leather-covered sphere around for a few minutes, every once in a while making a wild pitch in an effort to soak the veteran Billy Jordan, who was standing in close proximity to Berger.

The wind-up was a three-round boxing exhibition an dfor the first time since Aug. 26, 1904, when he knocked out Miner Jack Munroe in two rounds, Jeffries donned a pair of boxing gloves and indulged in a little playful exercise with his clever opponent. While Eddie Smith cut the rounds a little short, the fans were able to get a good line on Jeffs condition. It was only natural that he should blow a trifle, but he was just as fast as ever on his feet and his judge of distance and accuracy in punching was remarkable, considering that he hadn't done a particle of boxing since he retired from the ring. There was quite a bit of steam behind the blows of both men, especially in the final round, and the whole affair had a real fighting aspect.

It was the consensus of opinion that with sufficient exercise Jeffries could easily round into excellent condition and give Jack Johnson the time of his life in a 24-foot roped enclosure. Eddie Smith, in commenting on the big fellow's form, said: "I was really surprised at the manner in which he boxed and skipped the rope. He is practically as good as he ever was and by a systematic course of training would have no trouble in making the surplus fat ooze off. He is still the daddy of all the fighters."

Berger was very enthusiastic in his praises of Jeff. "He's a wonder. Why with all of his weight he moves around with the ease of a lightweight," said Sam. "I worked as fast as I could with him and feinted and ducked and did lots of footwork and always found the big fellow right there every second of the journey. He can still lick all the Jack Johnsons that ever lived."

The crowd wasn't satisfied with seeing Jeff spar and applauded so vociferously at the conclusion of the entertainment that he was obliged to make a short speech, but if they expected to hear him state that he had finally decided to go back to the ring, they were sadly mistaken, because he never touched on that question at all. He simply thanked the audience for their kind reception and said that Berger had knocked all the wind out of him, which prevented him from making a longer speech.

Berlin Prepares to Welcome King

Berlin, Feb. 7.—If elaborate preparations for the lavish adornment of streets and buildings, enormous competition for window places at high prices, a great influx of visitors and other outward evidences of interest are indicative of appreciation of the visit of King Edward and Queen Alexandra to this city, their entry into Berlin on Tuesday should produce a display of hearty good will. Probably never heretofore has there been such a display of the British Union Jack as to-day in Berlin. It not only floats on buildings, but is the most conspicuous feature of the street decorations, where it is entwined with the German colors in loving embrace. Street decoration is well understood here and many artistic results have already been achieved, although the full scheme has not yet been carried out. Unter den Linden is a wealth of evergreen leaves and fluttering bannerettes in red, white and blue. It was thronged Sunday with unwonted crowds, who admired and criticized the decorations. A spell of clear sunshine following recent dismal weather is encouraging high spirits.

For Berliners far the most interesting episode of the Royal visit and one unprecedented here will be the function at the Rathaus, where the King will meet the civic dignitaries and receive hospitality corresponding to that given Royal visitors at the London Guildhall. This ceremony, apart from its novelty, will make a deeper impression upon the popular mind than dozens of State banquets and gala performances of opera, and may tend to remove the long existent feeling that King Edward has persistently slighted Berlin.

Among the minor innovations in connection with this new departure will be the discarding by the Burgomaster, the municipal authorities and their attendants oft he uniform which is always worn on State occasions, and the adoption of frock coats.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Pimples, Backaches, and Indigestion as real diseases; they are symptoms only of a certain sort—Nerve sickness—nothing else.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. He has published, broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and vouches it under oath. This he feels he can well afford to do because the exact the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements, giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied, oftimes, with a debilitating, pelvic, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nervine and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

CLEAN Up INSIDE

Blood and System Cleansing in the Spring Makes Good Health all Summer.

In spite of all your careful habits safe to say that in the spring you feel poorly—have a throbbing sensation in the head—skin is pale or yellow, with dark rings under the eyes. If not absolutely bilious the system is so full of bile that you feel heavy and tired all day long.

Clean up, work off the winter's accumulation of waste, purify your blood. Do this and you'll feel fresh as a prize-fighter. "For ten years," says W. B. Sangster, of Concord, "I suffered greatly from impure blood, which made me feel debilitated and unfit for work. I had no appetite suffered from indigestion and gas, had some pains in the back, caused by poor kidney action. Spring was the hardest time of all, and many a time I felt despondent and languid enough to throw up the sponge. I was impressed by the marvellous work done by Dr. Hamilton's Pills and tried them. They suited me exactly. In one week I felt like new. I was braced up, got rid of blood weakness, gained in flesh, got back my old time appearance and spirits. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will clean all the sickness out of a man in short order and I urge young and old to use this grand tonic medicine."

Getting Ready for the Big Game

The intermediates had a great workout last night at the Brock street rink. There were eight players in uniform, viz., Drocher, Glover, Moore, Morgan, Rae, Quinn Rose and Dusty. The ice was hard and in fine shape and quite a bunch of fans were there to see the practice. Quinn was in good condition, and he gave promise of doing good work in the blue and white uniform. He and Rose were the two new men who were being given a tryout, and the team tomorrow night will be picked from the above bunch. There will be another practice tonight.

There is great interest in tomorrow night's game between the Peterboro and Lindsay Midgets and the rink will be crowded again when the referee rings his bell. The local boys are in good condition, and will go on the ice to win and to put up as big a fight as possible. They realize the significance of this game and will not be caught napping.

A great game of hockey is promised for tonight between the Knox and St. Andrew's church league teams. This is a championship game and will be played on Knox rink where doubtless a big crowd will gather to see the sport.

The whole country around here is in a wild state of excitement over the affair. Hundreds of people drove out to the scene of the murderer's depredations yesterday, and an immense crowd is expected at the inquest this afternoon.

NO DOUBT OF INSANITY

Crown Attorney W. J. L. McKay went to Shelburne this morning from Orangeville to investigate the affair. Mr. McKay first learned of the affair at ten o'clock yesterday morning.

"Dr. Smith called me up from Shelburne and gave me the particulars," said Mr. McKay to a reporter. "There's no doubt that man was insane; at least that is what Dr. Smith states. I suppose it will be necessary to establish that fact before a high court judge and a jury however.

The Spanhouse family had a sawmill at Shrigley. They were one of the most respected families in the county. The family consisted of three sons and seven daughters.

Board of Trade Meeting Favor the Proposed Extension of G.T.R.

There was, or was to have been, a meeting of the Board of Trade last night for the purpose of discussing the proposed extension of the Grand Trunk Railway to the Lakefield wharf and also for more dockage at that point. The board was also to take up for consideration the proposed new dam and power house for the waterworks. While the attendance was small it was representative. The president, Dr. M. E. Morrison, occupied the chair, while Secretary T. Q. Quartermaine was ready to call the roll. The industrial and commercial interests were represented by Mr. J. H. Larmonth, the legal profession by Mr. A. P. Poussette, the retail merchants by Mr. Jas. R. Bell, and the City Council by Ald. Duffus, while the press was out in force. Mr. Lillicrap of Lakefield, was present to represent the interests of that village.

Owing to the attendance being less than is required for a quorum, no real business could be taken up, but on account of the presence of Mr. Lillicrap, it was deemed advisable to have a motion passed supporting the proposed extension of the Grand Trunk. It was therefore moved by Mr. A. P. Poussette, and seconded by Mr. Jas. R. Bell, that the president and secretary be authorised to prepare a motion along the lines of those passed by the City Council and the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association.

As there were only four present and as the mover and seconder would support the motion and the president was in favor of it, it was declared carried without a showing of hands.

Owing to the lateness of the hour, it being nearly nine o'clock, the meeting adjourned for two weeks, and the press representatives attended the moving picture show at the Royal Theater.

Defence Begins in the Blythe Case--Medical Evidence Given

Toronto, Feb. 9.—Further evidence of the terrible manner in which Mrs. Amelia Blythe met her death in the little Agincourt home on January 3rd last, was given by Dr. Gideon Silverthorne during the trial of Walter Blythe for the murder of his wife, in the criminal assizes before Mr. Justice Riddell and the jury this afternoon.

He described the multitudinous wounds in much the same manner as the medical men did this morning.

He added the additional fact that when he examined the prisoner he found a partially healed wound on the index finger of his right hand.

"How do you think that wound may have been caused?" asked G. Tate Blackstock, K.C., the Crown prosecutor.

"It may have been caused by the continued use of the poker, found in the house, in the hand of the prisoner," answered Dr. Silverthorne.

NEVER SAW WOUNDS LIKE THESE

"You have performed a number of post mortem examinations," said T. C. Robinette, K.C., counsel for Blythe. "Tell me doctor, in all your experience have you ever come across a death like this one?"

"It is certainly unique in my experience," answered the witness.

"Would you not say from the number of wounds administered that the man was in a frenzy?"

"I could not give an opinion on that."

"Would you say that he was not insane at the time?"

"I cannot answer that. All I can say is the number of wounds is unique in my experience, and cannot be accounted for."

"You were with the other three doctors who performed the post mortem. Was it not your unanimous opinion after you performed the post mortem that the deed was the action of a crazy man?"

LEAVE IT TO JURY.

"I don't think I can say that. I think the conclusion we arrived at was the case was a unique one."

"I don't think this is a case for the opinion of an experienced man," broke in his lordship. "I think the jury are quite competent to form an opinion as to whether the man was sane or not."

"Does your experience help you to say whether this man was insane or not?" asked the judge.

"Not at all, all I can give you is my opinion of the case."

"Do you think the jury can form as good an opinion of this as you."

"I think so."

"I quite agree with you."

Dr. Edward Coutts, who also examined the dead woman, reported that he found a number of bruises upon which scabs had formed in addition to the hundreds of others which were more recently formed.

"Do you think all those wounds could have been caused by this?" asked Mr. Blackstock, holding up the poker with which Blythe said he killed his wife, according to this morning's witnesses.

"I would not say it is impossible."

"Do you think it is possible?"

"I think it is possible in the hands of a strong man."

This closed the case for the Crown and Dr. T. H. McMahon went into the witness stand as the first defence witness.

First Annual Concert in Collegiate Institute

In spite of the storm that was raging last evening there was a very large attendance at the musical entertainment given by the students of the Collegiate Institute, in the assembly hall last night. It was the first concert given under the auspices of the athletic associations, and it was so successful that it has been decided to make it an annual affair. Both the boys and girls have athletic associations and they united in proving the program.

Mr. L. M. Hayes, K.C., chairman of the Board of Education, made a most acceptable chairman, and he kept everything running smoothly.

Among the audience were a large number of parents and friends of the school who thoroughly enjoyed the program. One of the features of the evening was the introduction of the Collegiate orchestra, and so favorable was the impression that it made that it will be heard more frequently in future. All the numbers were well rendered and reflected credit upon those taking part, and upon Miss Helen Davies, who instructed the girls in the chorus work.

The following is the program;

PART I.

1. Chorus—By the Girls under the leadership of Miss Helen Davies.
2. Instrumental selection by the school orchestra.
3. Solo—Miss Helen Davies.
4. Violin solo—Miss E. Palmer.
5. Reading—Miss Stinson.

PART II

1. Selection by the orchestra.
2. Boys' chorus.
3. Reading—Miss W. Blewett.
4. Violin solo—Miss K. Wallis.
5. Chorus by the girls.

WATER COMMISSIONERS' PROFITS WERE $9,259 DURING PAST YEAR

Financial Statement Presented Yesterday—Profits will More Than Pay Interest and Sinking Fund on $120,000 Debentures Business Has Been Greatly Increased and the Demand is Steadily Increasing

For a long time the citizens have been hearing of nothing but deficits, etc., in connection with the municipal affairs. First one body issues its annual report with a big overdraft, then another has an overdraft, there are demands for debentures which will increase the tax rate and create a greater burden upon the taxpayers. It will therefore be a great relief and a sense of joy to everyone to hear, read and digest the financial statement of the Peterborough Water Commissioners for 1908. This statement was presented at the commissioners meeting yesterday afternoon and was most gratifying. It shows increases in all directions. The number of consumers is greater, the number of hydrants is greater, affording better fire protection, the mains have been extended, and best of all the profits are much larger, while the rate for services has not increased a cent and will not increase in the future. This is one branch of the city's business which is a good revenue producer, and to the commissioners and Mr. T. F. Matthews as chairman, is due the credit for the success of the undertaking. They have labored well and their efforts are appreciated by the people.

Going over the report it will be seen that the profits for the year amounted to $9,259 13 over and above all expenses, and that sum has been placed to the credit of the profit and loss account. In addition to this the rates charged for services is originally low while the consumers receive a discount of 33 per cent. which makes Peterborough water as cheap or cheaper than that supplied any other town or city in the country.

The commissioners are now preparing to have a bylaw submitted to the ratepayers by the City Council asking for permission to issue debentures for $120,000 for the purpose of constructing a new concrete dam and pumping house and plant, which will be of the most modern style, so that they may increase their capacity and supply more and cheaper water.

The great feature of this proposition is that the ratepayers or the water consumers will not be called upon to pay one cent more than they do at the present time. The profits on the present business are sufficient to meet the interest and sinking fund on the debentures without the revenue increasing at all. But with greater facilities and a greater pumping capacity the revenue is bound to increase rapidly.

Figuring the interest and sinking fund on $120,000 for 30 years at seven per cent. the sum of $8,400 is required, while this year's profits were $9,259. It is one of the best propositions ever presented to the ratepayers.

FINANCIAL REPORT.

To the Water Commissioners.—

Gentlemen,—I herewith submit the financial statement of the Waterworks department for the year 1908.

The amount expended during the year in laying mains, setting hydrants, was $8,959 01, and in laying service pipes $3,282 91, making a total of $12,241 92 expended in construction work.

A balance of $7,520 43, which was at credit of the profit and loss account on January 1st, 1908, has been transferred to the contingent fund, bringing the amount to the credit of that fund up to $24,390 50.

The net water rates for the year amounted to $38,024.71, an increase of $2,940 77, including the special frontage rates. The expense accounts, including interest on debentures, sinking funds and amount written Murder Tragedy Due to Neglect of Advice Given by Dr. Barr, M.P.

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—"Just a little while ago I urged George Stewart's father to have him confined, as he was mentally unsound." This is the statement made by Dr. Barr, M.P., of Dufferin, whose advice, if followed, would have spared the county a tragedy which is the talk of his fellow members of parliament today. Dr. Barr gave this advice as a result of Stewart's own actions, and not knowing at the time that two uncles had been insane. He says that Stewart's trouble in the West in 1906 was always somewhat of a mystery. It was known that he did not make a success of ranching, and that his cattle died; but beyond the fact that the Mounted Police at one time had him in charge, little was known of his life there.

It is said that the notification of a doctor arose on the occasion of Stewart's viciously chasing school children away from a well, where they were drinking. His brother complained to Dr. Barr, who advised that the man was dangerous. The father brought him to Dr. Barr next day, and upon the father also the doctor urged the desirability of confinement.

The Big Game on Tonight

"Tonight's the night;" and "It looks like a big night tonight." Lindsay Midgets will be here to play the first game to decide the championship of the district. The ice at Brock street will be in great shape for very fast hockey and the winner will be the best team. The Petes and Midgets have not played on hard ice this season yet, and the outcome is looked forward to with interest. The locals will have a pretty fair line up with two new men on. They will likely face the referee as follows;—

Goal—Derocher.
Point—Glover.
Cover—Moore.
Rover—Quinn.
Center—Ray.
Right—Rose.
Left—Dusty.

The rink will be crowded to the doors, and the rooters will be out in force.

Mr. J. Moyes Fell Off the Bridge

Mr. J. Noyes, Munro avenue, Ashburnham, was the victim of a very painful accident Monday evening, while on his way home at six o'clock. He was crossing what is known as the short cut, a bridge built of ties, over the old race way in Ashburnham, and in some manner, while in the middle of the bridge, slipped and fell to the ground, a distance of twelve feet, striking heavily on the frozen earth. As a result he received a nasty wound on the head, which bled freely and he was badly shaken up.

Fortunately a man was closely following him and saw the accident. He hurried to Mr. Noyes' assistance and helped him to his home, where he is now doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

C. P. R. Rewards Fire Chief Howard

Fire Chief Howard received a cheque on Monday from Mr. W. S. Dodd, of the C.P.R., for services rendered by the fire chief at Owen Sound and Peterborough, in connection with C.P.R. wrecks. It will be remembered that at the time of the recent wreck at the foot of Parnell street, Chief Howard and his men turned out and did good work in extinguishing the blaze which sprung up among the wreckage. For this act and his work at Owen Sound he received a letter of thanks from the company, which has been supplemented by the cheque which Chief Howard will devote to the firemen's fund.

The Early Marriage of Healthy Young People is Advocated

Medical Health Officer Dr. Bingham advocates early marriages of healthy young people and a careful examination of the contracting parties' family trees before the marriage license is granted. This is he claims the only sure way of eventually stamping out that dread disease known as consumption. He is opposed to the immigration policy which permits the tubercular affected people coming to this country as they have in large numbers the past few years. He states that the present method of treating the disease is no good as it will only give temporary relief.

The annual meeting of the Board of Health was held in the city clerk's office yesterday morning. Dr. Geo. Burnham was again elected chairman.

The following members were present—Dr. Burnham, Dr. McNulty, Dr. Young, Mayor Rush, Messrs. James Marty and Dr. Bingham.

HEALTH OFFICER'S REPORT.

It becomes my duty once more to lay before you a brief notice of the sanitary condition, and the mortality report of the city during the year 1908.

The city council and the tax payers have nobly discharged their duties in laying the foundation of a model city on the most improved sanitary principles. This will be seen from the fact that Peterborough has now over 40 miles of granolithic sidewalks and about 13 miles of wooden ones. The city has been free from any fatal scourge of infectious diseases.

We had an outbreak of scarlet fever of a very mild type, and no deaths resulting therefrom. There were few cases of typhoid fever and only one case or two of diphtheria.

As usual the grim reaper has not been idle, and although the ratio of mortality has not been excessive, still during the year, many from among us have gone to the narrow house and the long sleep. Some so young that they seemed only to be born to weep and die. And some have been called away in the midst of a busy life, with their plans unfinished. Some of the aged too laid down the heavy burden of life to go where the weary are at rest. And yet there are still many among us in active life who have passed the chloroform period.

There were 273 deaths in the city during the year, some of these occurred in the hospitals, and should not be reckoned in with the deaths in the city.

THE WHITE PLAGUE.

That much dreaded disease tuberculosis caused 20 deaths in the city

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong, Dr. Shoop's Restorative directly to those failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of those failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

Nearly a Fight at the Irish Party's Convention

Dublin, Feb. 9.—The National Convention of the United Irish League was opened at the Mansion House today under the presidency of John Redmond. The attendance was immense, the delegates from all parts of Ireland and Great Britain aggregating about 2,000.

Messages of congratulation, encouragement, and good wishes from America, Australia, and elsewhere were read.

The greeting to the league from America announced that the sum of $25,000 was now on its way, and that another remittance for the Irish cause would follow speedily.

Opening the proceedings, Mr. Redmond explained the importance of the occasion. He said; "Ireland's good name is at stake, and Ireland's capacity for self-government will be judged by the conduct of this assembly. Therefore everyone who speaks should weigh his words carefully."

An attempt to tack on to the resolution pledging the support of the convention to the Irish party, an amendment instructing the party to "oppose and embarrass the Liberal Government by every means in its power" because of Premier Asquith's refusal to make home rule an issue in the general election, was defeated.

NEARLY A FIGHT.

It became apparent early that Mr. Redmond was in control of the convention, and the speeches of Sinn Feiners charging that the party was too friendly with the Liberals, was shouted down. Wm. O'Brien was given a distinctly hostile reception when he opposed Chief Secretary for Ireland Birrel's Land Bill. He was constantly interrupted. At one stage of his remarks one of his supporters, Eugene Crean, member of parliament from the south-east division of Cork rushed to the platform apparently with the object of assaulting Mr. Redmond, but after a sharp scrimmage he was hustled away.

Lindsay Object to Quinn of the City League

Quinn is a resident of Lakefield and plays with the team of that village. If the O.H.A. resident rule amounts to anything, he cannot figure on the Peterborough line-up.

The locals will go to Peterborough again tomorrow evening to play the first game in the home and home series for the district championship. It is expected that a large crowd will go to the Electric City and help the Midgets wipe out their defeat of last Friday. A special train will be run, leaving the G.T.R. station at seven o'clock sharp. A special car will be reserved for ladies.—Lindsay Post.

Weather conditions are propitious for the hockey game tomorrow night the colder temperature making the ice fast. The Peterborough team are banking on building up a substantial lead at home, and will extend themselves tomorrow night.

Lindsay supporters are still unconvinced that the Midgets cannot down Peterborough even on foreign ice. The game tomorrow night will decide this.

The team will be the same as usual, according to Manager Simpson, while it is reported that another change is being made in the Peterborough line-up.

It is just a question whether the last shake-up of the Peterborough seven was to the team's advantage, but that is Peterborough's lookout.

The special train will leave the G.T.R. station at seven o'clock tomorrow night.

Need of Defence Brought to the Front by War Talk

New York, Feb. 8.—A wireless despatch to the Times says; London is in the midst of an all-engaging excitement over the defence of the island against Germany. Germany is not mentioned—it is not necessary to mention the only possible invader.

At last the fervid appeals of Lord Roberts, and Mr. Haldane, the Minister of War, seem to have had their answer. It has been a week entirely devoted to recruiting an army of defence. The press, pulpit, platform and every agency of exhortation seems to have no other business than drumming up volunteers. Firms are offering bonuses and holidays to their employes who enlist in the territorial army. The Daily Mail, at the suggestion of Lord Esher, has turned itself into a recruiting office. Never before except in time of actual war has a people been in so seriously excited a state of mind over the safety of its homes and firesides.

DU MAURIER'S PLAY.

The cause of all this excitement is a young man at present in South Africa, Major Guy du Maurier, of the Third Royal Fusiliers, who happens to be the son of the man best described as the author of "Trilby." George du Maurier was a great illustrator, but it was when he wrote this book that he became world famous. Guy du Maurier is a good soldier, and has won his D.S.O., but it is through a play that he has not only made his name the most talked of in England today, but has succeeded where eloquent speeches and newspaper leaders have failed in awakening the nation to the actual danger of invasion.

BRING COMPULSORY SERVICE.

When compulsory service is enacted, as it is certain soon to be, and a great standing army is in existence, it will be du Maurier who has done it—or, rather, the play, "An Englishmen's Home." The subject is the ridiculous complacency of the English people—the absurd unmanliness of the "flannelled fools" who think themselves sportsmen because they follow football scores—the pitiable incompetency of the volunteer forces—the collapse of everything when England is invaded by a foe from the north. It is not a good play, as a play, but every man and woman who sees it sits shivering and saying to himself or herself; "It might really happen."

And, indeed, it might, as everybody knows perfectly except the complacent Englishman, and to him it comes as a shock, that the island lies at the mercy of an invader. There is only one assumption in the play, and that is unnecessary. It is that the country is enshrouded for three days in fog. Well, the very week the play opened England lay under a three days' fog. There was something uncanny about that coincidence. There is nothing in the play that is not perfectly possible—little that would not be inevitable in case of war.

Wyndham's theater is crowded every night. Cabinet ministers and army officers going repeatedly as if fascinated. Preparations are being made to produce it at other theaters in London and the provinces. The whole city is talking of nothing but the possibility of invasion and the necessity of raising an army for home defence. For the first time it has really come home to the English people what would happen if the navy failed to repeal an attack.

If you would have a safe, yet certain Cough Remedy in the home, try Dr. Shoop's—at least once. It is thoroughly unlike any other Cough preparation. Its taste will be entirely new to you—unless it is already your favorite Cough Remedy. No opium, chloroform, or any other stupifying ingredients are used. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its wonderful curative properties. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Longboat-Shrubb Race at Buffalo Feb. 25, for $7,500

New York, Feb. 9.—The managers of Tom Longboat, the Indian Marathon runner, announced today, that they had decided to accept the offer of a $7,500 purse for a fifteen-mile race in Buffalo, on February 25th, with Alfred Shrubb, the speedy Englishman, who was defeated for the Marathon distance of twenty-six miles and a fraction by the Indian in Madison Square Garden last Friday night.

Shrubb's friends are sanguine that he can defeat Longboat at the shorter distance.

Bronchitis Cured

For Fifteen years Mr. John Pearson of Melvern Square High School, in convincing evidence of the exceptional curative powers possessed by Catarrhozone.

Failed to Relieve but Catarrhozone Cured Quickly.

The remarkable recovery of Mr. Pearson, who for years was principal of Melvern Square High School, is convincing evidence of the exceptional curative powers possessed by Catarrhozone.

"For fifteen years," writes Mr. Pearson, "I constantly suffered from Bronchitis and Throat Irritation. Until quite recently I was able to keep up my teaching, but my bronchial trouble became so annoying that I was forced to resign.

"For months I doctored with different physicians and was not benefited. My trouble grew more severe and extended to the lungs, and I feared I would end in decline.

"Providentially I was advised to use Catarrhozone, and I believe it really saved my life. Its immediate effect was to relieve the throat trouble sufficiently to give me perfect ease in speaking. Within one short week all symptoms of Bronchitis had disappeared. I can fervently recommend Catarrhozone. I know it has no equal as a cure and speedy cure for throat trouble and bronchitis."

Every air cell and air passage, all parts of the breathing organs are reached and breathed by the antiseptic vapor of Catarrhozone. It moistens and heals the inflamed mucous surfaces stops the cough, clears the nose and throat, and drives every symptom of bronchitis right out of the system.

To purify the blood of all poisons, and to build up the system, Ferrozone Tablets, which are included in every Catarrhozone outfit, are very highly recommended. This local and constitutional treatment in Bronchitis, Catarrh and Consumption cannot be equalled.

Catarrhozone is endorsed by physicians and ministers and thousands it has cured. Two months' treatment costs $1. Small size, 50c. Sold by all Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

KING'S VISIT TO BERLIN

This week King Edward pays an official visit to the Emperor of Germany, his nephew, and extraordinary interest has been manifested in the meeting. That it is calculated to have a soothing effect on the somewhat agitated relations at present existing between the two countries is generally admitted, and that it will have this result is greatly to be desired. The Kaiser has protested on more than one occasion that his greatest desire is to maintain unimpaired the ties that unite his country and England, and so far did he go in an effort to show his good intentions a few months ago that he overstepped the bounds of discretion, and made a blunder that bitterly incensed his own people, and excited the mingled amusement and resentment of Great Britain. Being another sort of man, King Edward has not so openly sought to make a favorable impression on the Germans, but his reputation as a lover of peace is sufficient guarantee that he desires cordial relations with his nephew's house, and with the mighty nation over which William rules.

It is to be noted that the last time King Edward was in Berlin was 21 years ago. In view of the fact that both as Prince of Wales and King of England, he has been a great traveler, having paid frequent visits to Paris, Rome and Vienna, an dhas made longer, if less frequent, visits to St. Petersburg, Athens, Copenhagen, Lisbon, Stockholm and Christiania, his failure to pay a call to Berlin has been most marked. It has been emphasized twice in the past few years, when King Edward was on his way to Marienbad. His train stopped within a short distance of a place where the Kaiser was spending a few days, but the monarchs made no effort to see each other, although millions of people in Germany and England were looking for something of the sort to be done. The Kaiser has been in England several times, and has always been well received, but the best he has hitherto got from his uncle was a brief and formal meeting at Kiel some time ago.

King Edward's action, as has been said, was marked, and no doubt he meant it to be, for it is common talk that after his visit to Berlin in 1889 both he and Alexandra vowed they would never return there, on any account. Their private reasons for the decision were good, as a brief review of some of the incidents of the period will show. The Kaiser of Germany in 1889 was Frederick, whose wife was the daughter of Queen Victoria. His reign was a brief one of 100 days and had been embittered by the persistent but subtle opposition of Prince Bismarck. It was probably because he hated and distrusted his Emperor's English wife that Bismarck made Frederick's fitful reign a period of misery and humiliation for him. A man dying on his feet of an incurable disease, Frederick found himself unable to resent the brutality of Bismarck directed toward the Empress. It went so far that Bismarck refused to make any report or to allow his Ministers to report to the Emperor while his wife was in the room.

Dreading the implacable Bismarck, overwhelmed with sorrow by the sufferings of her dying sovereign, and fearing that she might prejudice the succession of her son the Empress wrote to her brother, then Prince of Wales asking him to come to her at Berlin and advise her in her great trouble. To accentuate the purely family nature of this visit, the Princess of Wales accompanied her husband, and together they went to the Empress Frederick. Bismarck seized on the incident as fresh proof of the treachery of "the Englishwoman," and gave orders designed to bring to naught the conspiracy of England to play a part in Germany's affairs. The Bismarck newspapers were given their cue, and simultaneously appeared with the most outrageous attacks upon the Prince of Whales. He was cartooned and lampooned as a mere "dead game sport" a heavy drinker, sunk in debt, and devoid of either military or statesmanlike qualities.

Even his gentle wife was treated with discourtesy, and when at length the pair departed. It is said they resolved never to return to Berlin. Indeed, it was only a knowledge that his action might critically affect the relations between Britain and Germany that induced the Prince of Wales to remain for the funeral of his brother-in-law. The Hohenlohe memoirs have a couple of references to this famous visit. An interview between the Prince of Wales and the younger Bismarck is described, and the Prince is reported as having expressed a strong desire to kick Herbert out of the room. Now King Edward has relented from the determination made so many years ago, and there is no longer any fear that he will be treated with discourtesy. Indeed, no effort will be spared to show him the greatest honors. It is somewhat of a satisfaction to note that the present Kaiser made Bismarck pay some part of the debt he owed England for his treatment of an English princess.

MURDERERS OR IDIOTS MASK

Both in Canada and the United States there is forming a public opinion on the allied subjects of crime and insanity that would make short shrift of the tragical absurdities of the law bearing upon them if it were given an opportunity to declare itself. An epigrammatic writer recently summed up the situation in Canada by saying that in this country if the present tendency went much farther no one would be sane enough or healthy enough to hang. This humorous exaggeration has too much truth in it to be passed over with a smile. In a recent Toronto case the supposed weak-mindedness of the victim of an outrageous assault was urged as a reason why her assailants should not be too strictly dealt with.

A very important decision bearing on the plea of insanity has been given by the Supreme Court of New Jersey. It takes the ground that a murderer need not be wholly sane to pay the extreme penalty of his act. The Court of Errors and Appeals has sustained this decision. The case in point is particularly interesting. In view of the fact that the alleged insanity of the murderer was not discovered until after his conviction, when the lawyers sought to save him from the gallows. But the Supreme Court has held that convicted murderers, unless proved insane at the time of their trial, are not to be judged by the same sanity standards as other persons. All that is necessary is that they comprehend their impending fate. If they can understand that they are to be hanged, then hanged they will be. Even if a murderer's mental condition were such as would justify sending a free man to an asylum, it should not save his neck as long as he is sane enough to realize that he has been convicted of murder, and sentenced to be destroyed.

How the sanity plea is overworked in New York State was described in a paper read to the state Bar Superintendent of the Matteawan State Hospital. He showed that of thirty-four patients released from Matteawan on court orders, twelve had committed homicide. Of the same thirty-four, fourteen ultimately returned to asylums or to prison for subsequent crimes. Eleven were either useless or troublesome members of society; two committed suicide, six disappeared, and only one became partly self-supporting. That is to say, out of the thirty-four released inmates, only one should have been given his liberty. As the New York Tribune remarks, it has been altogether too easy to get prisoners into Matteawan, and too easy to get them out.

Just the reverse is true of the criminal who is sent to an English asylum. To the first place, it is hard to convince judge and jury that the murderer in whose defence the insanity plea is advanced should not pay the ordinary penalty for his crime. If he does escape the gallows, and goes to an asylum, his warrant for committal reads that he is to be held "during his Majesty's pleasure". The words give an erroneous impression that his detention is to be of a casual nature, and that he is apt to be released as soon as a few red-tape formalities have been undergone. But the prisoner soon finds that, to use a descriptive English phrase, he is as badly scalded as burned. Generally speaking, it is impossible for him to ever again become a free man. Not even a dozen medical certificates that the convict has recovered his mental balance will unlock the prison doors for him. There is little doubt that in the English prisons for the criminally insane there are many men and women to-day of perfectly sound mind. They are in the same position as a man who has been buried before death.

They have little or no chance of escape. The result is that the plea of insanity is not so frequently put in as in similar cases in the United States and Canada. A murderer figures out that if he tries to prove an alibi or justifiable homicide, he has, first of all, a chance of escaping altogether; then he has a chance of a ten or fifteen year stretch, and a speedy death at the worst. Even a sentence of life imprisonment carries with it the likelihood of being mitigated by good behavior to twenty-five years or so. A plea of insanity, on the other hand, means literal life imprisonment. The iron grip that English law keeps on its murderers is in strong contrast to the workings of the jury system in the United States. The jury that tries the accused gives him "the benefit of the doubt", and so sends him to Matteawan, instead of to Auburn. Then, in a couple of years, another jur yake on his sanity. Here, again, he gets the benefit of the doubt, and so becomes a free man.

The Tribune protests against the farce of juries investigating such matters as insanity, and urges what in the opinion of many, is a greater farce—trial by a medical commission of experts. The jury system may have failed in many celebrated cases, but the expert system has broken down utterly. An expert can be found to swear against any other expert on any given point. Several experts could be collected in twenty-four hours to prove that the earth is flat; but no jury could be got together to give a verdict in favor of this theory.

IMMIGRATION

Marked difference of opinion exists among Canadians as to the result of the Salvation Army's work as a colonizing agent. About the army as a moral force there is only one opinion; but the organization has had to bear many a hard knock from the tongues and pens of those who believe it is filling this country with undesirables. Only the other day a newspaper bluntly said that the sooner the army got out of the emigration business the better. The loud roars of the unemployed Englishmen who swell the ranks of the workless in Toronto do not have the effect of exciting more pity than disgust on the part of the general public, and the erroneous conclusion is reached that most of the local "out-of-works" were brought here by the Salvation Army.

If the Army is making a failure of its colonizing scheme, then Miss Agnes C. Laut, for one, has been grossly deceived. Of course, Miss Laut does not pretend to speak as an expert of the situation in the larger cities, but she has been through the Canadian West, and knows the army there. She is also familiar with the general plan of its emigration enterprise, and writes with enthusiasm of it in the January number of the Review of Reviews. On the Saskatchewan River, at a point fifty miles from a settlement above and twenty-five miles from a neighbor below, she came to a mud-wattled log house. It looked like an Indian's habitation, but she found to her surprise that it was occupied by half a dozen young Englishmen. They were typical English factory hands, "warped of body, dwarfed of brawn and brain, with the spindly limbs and bulging forehead that came from only one thing—years of emaciation, underpay and poor food, and sometimes no food at all."

The first impression was surely about as unfavorable as could be imagined. There was no bed in the house only a pile of rugs, a few chairs, a stove and a week's accumulation of dirty dishes. The brothers had come from London, four years before, with a joint capital of less than $1,000, and as they were of that most unlikely class—the English unskilled laborer—it is a wonder where they got the money. At the time of Miss Laut's visit each of them owned a quarter-section land, worth $10 an acre, and, among them, fifty head of cattle, and some twenty horses. The total value of the land and stock was about $10,000. That is to say, six of that class called unemployed had fought a four years' battle on the Canadian prairies, were ten times better for it, physically and mentally, and increased their original capital tenfold. In four years they have become secure from want, an dif they marry and have children their offspring will, in all probability, be sturdy Canadians, with a better start in life than any of their paternal ancestors for generations. The case may be an exception, but it is worth noting, and strengthens belief in the statement so often made about even the Englishman of the London slums—"These Londoners have good blood back of them."

Miss Laut was interested to learn the opinion of these boys on the question: "Why do so many Englishmen fail in Canada?"

"Why," I asked the youngest of the family of boys on the Upper River, "why do so many Englishmen fail in Canada?"

? "The free soup kitchens in the Old Country spoil them," he answered. "The free soup kitchens and the labor union hours. A fellow can't succeed in a new country on labor union hours. He has got to work harder when he's his own boss, work till his job is finished, and he has to finish quick in these short seasons or he will be out of hay and lose his stock, or he won't get enough potatoes in in spring to save buying food in winter. You see," he repeated, "it's the free soup kitchens. They get a man in the way of not depending on himself. Then, when he has work, he spends his wages foolishly, in the grog-shop, and doesn't look ahead. When he comes out here there are not any soup kitchens; and if he does not look out for himself he can't get on. He drifts away from the land to town, where there's help; and then he goes back to England and curses the country."

"Perhaps lonely," I suggested.

Miss Laut, like everyone else who has paused to reflect upon the figures, is appalled by the cold figures that reveal the lack of employment in England. There are said to be in England to-day 7,000,000 people in want from lack of work. There is £40,000,000 spent annually to relieve distress in the British Isles, and Miss Laut remarks: "One cannot but wonder if half the £10,000,000 annually spent to relieve the distress of poverty in England were applied to such (the Salvation Army's) systematized colonization whether there would be any unemployed question at the end of five years, for if there is one thing more than another that modern investigation has proved it is that while charity may be cheaper than justice, the necessity for charity is, in the long run, the most wasteful extravagance any nation can have."

Up to date, the Salvation Army has brought about 50,000 emigrants to Canada, and the country could hold a thousand times as many more without crowding, and, according to the army's figures, not one per cent. has failed to make good. Moreover, it cannot be said that the Army tempts settlers here with alluring pictures of a land flowing with milk and honey, for into the hands of each emigrant, as he arrives on the Army's chartered ships, is placed this card from Gen. Booth:—

"God carry you safely to your new home. Fearlessly calculate upon hard work. Bravely meet difficulties. Do your duty by your families. Help your comrades. Make Canada a home that will be a credit to the Old Land. Put God first. Stand by the Army. Save your souls. Meet me in heaven!"

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont., Sec-Treas Chas Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C Ritcher Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Tomiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable developments.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Georgeana, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 602, containing 40 acres, situated about 60 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation in Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and to an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 cash, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1889, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

One of these rich veins crosses this fraction and forms the discovery of same. With a total of 200 acres, 40 acres of which are in the rich Cobalt field, 40 acres in the new Bonanza district, with 200,000 shares in the treasury, for development purposes, with no provisions prior to to be charged against same, it would seem that this proposition, based on a capitalization of $100,000, was the very thing you have been waiting for.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 10 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 20th December, 1908, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. Levesconte, 20 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties, in consideration of $50,000 charges of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 200,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $500, underwriting has been at 15 cents per share, 2000 cash to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritcher, and 2000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 10th of December, 1908.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are consistently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

....The... Plow Woman

...upon down to his hands, touched, and...go his weapon, half rose, pivoted on a heel and slipped in a heap to the stones.

A wordless cry broke from the lips of The Squaw. He sped across the coulee bottom to the side of the dead chief. There he struck the fallen man a blow upon the bare knee, snatched from his head an eagle feather, dashed it across the dewing wound and thrust it, dripping red, into his own hair.

Then, as he had not done in years, he straightened. Then he cast from him the foul rags of his squaw's dress. And in clout and the colors of death he stood forth—a warrior!

"I count a coup—Red Moon!" he cried.

Howls from a watching band that had been struck dumb.

"A coup, I—Red Moon! Come on, you dogs—you that called me dog!

"A coup, I—Red Moon! Come on, you dogs!"

Come on, you squaws that called me squaw! Come on, and a warrior will fight you, one by one!"

Before him more howls and a blunder of Uncapapa. Behind the voice again: "Charley! Charley!"

And now Red Moon leaped back to resume his stand. With his turning the band drew after, sending a shower of arrows.

At the Throat he faced them again.

"Braves!" he laughed mockingly. "Dogs—that fight like dogs—a pack against one!"

Now he shot, swift and unerringly. Here one flattened, there another; a third broke his jaw upon a stone—till from their midst flew the missile of Big Ox, hard driven, straight. Quivering, it buried its deadly point in Red Moon's breast.

Deafening whoops echoed in the narrow canyon, drowning the beef beats of a soaring horse.

Red Moon answered them. He was swaying to and fro, like a cypress limb to a great wind. He lifted his face to the sky until his crimson scalp feather drooped, flung back his hair and clapped palm to mouth in a warcry.

Then his bow flew from his hand as his arms spread out—spread out as if seeking something upon which to lean. He sank to his knees, chanting the death song of the Sioux.

"Charley, Charley!" It was a wail.

Not his voice, but another's, answered: "Dallas! Where are you?"

The Indians heard the call. Catching up wounded and dead, they fell back.

Dallas, shielded no longer, yet forgetful of danger and self, ran forward to where Red Moon knelt. Even as she reached him he could kneel no longer. He toppled sideways, then straightened upon his back.

But now the band was coming back toward Dallas, on their way to the Throat. Their purpose was thwarted. Before Dallas was reached a man blocked the narrow passage, and two revolvers barking a staccato spread panic among them. They turned to the walls, looking for a place to scale. From there came tramping and shouts, and they saw over them at either side a line of downward pointing guns.

Huddling together, the center of a complete surround, wounded and unwounded cast aside bow and gun and flung up their hands in the peace sign.

"Give 'em hell, boys!" screamed a trooper.

But the trumpet interfered.

Close to the Throat was a group that had neither eyes nor ears for the capture. Here was the warrior Red Moon, calm faced, bearing his agony bravely, choking back even a murmur of pain. Over him were Lounsbury and Dallas, bent for a final look and word.

The surgeon was beside them now, hastily examining. The shaft was not in the wound. It had fallen. But the poisoned barb remained. He shook his head.

"No use, John," he whispered and tiptoed away.

Lounsbury leaned farther down. "Charley," he said, "you're going now, old man. Say goodby to us."

The Indian moved one hand feebly.

Lounsbury understood. He lifted and shook it gently. "Brave Red Moon," he said.

Dallas could not speak to him, but she, too, shook him gently by the hand.

He settled his head upon Lounsbury's arm as a child might have done. Then he looked up at Dallas. "Friend—friend," he whispered softly, smiled and with the touch of the sun on his upturned face he slept.

CHAPTER XI.

LOUNSBURY was stretched in the hammock on Captain Oliver's gallery, his bandaged head on a pillow, his left arm resting in a sling. Leaping about, almost upon him and imperiling the stout ropes that swung the hammock, were five of the captain's seven.

Twenty-four hours were gone since, having lashed four Indian dead among the branches of the burial trees, troopers, Sioux and rescued had returned to a post that was half in ashes. New guards tramped the high board walk as before, keeping strict watch of their sulky prisoners; the ramshackle ferry-boat, dragged away from the bar that had halted her, was tied up at her landing again; across the upper end of the parade gray tents had replaced the barracks, while farther on teams and scrapers were clearing away smoking ruins and dumping them into the river; squaws were thatching the roofs of the scouts' shanties, and hammers were ringing on new structures for Clethespin row. With cool enterprise Brasseau was hastening toward recovery.

There was other mending that was less rapid—in the stockade, where one received an arrow, another a bullet, wound; in the garrison hospital, where Kipple and a comrade stumped about on swathed feet, and on the Oliver gallery, where Lounsbury lay, his face not the usual fullness and a trifle white.

"The idea of you little apes asking for stories," he was saying to his audience, "when such popping good ones are happening right under your nose!"

Felicia was the youngest of the seven. She gave back at him, prancing up and down insistently. "But we don't want stories of things around here," she cried willfully. "We want lords and ladies, and you gim 'em to us."

"Once upon a time," commenced Lounsbury. "In the middle of a gre-a-a-t, wi-i-ide, fla-a-a-t country"—

"Now," interrupted James, who came next to Felicia. His inflection was rising and suspicious.

"Look here," said the narrator, "don't get it into your precious noddles that this territory's the only flat country under the sun."

"Go on, then, go on!"

"Well, this was such a place—great, wide, flat place. The lord lived there. He was called the Lord Harry—got his name from the way he acted. He was always making forced marches"—

Again suspicion, which Lounsbury ignored.

"And violent d—ands. Oh, my shin!" (This to James, whose heels were curled up under him.) "Violent demands, I said. And so he had the cheek—um—the impudence to love, to love"— He shot his eyes in silent tragedy.

"What us her name?"

"Ah!" Lounsbury threw up his well hand helplessly. "No name was splendid enough for her—not one. But he called her—for want of a better, mind you—he called her the Rose of the South."

The door from the entry opened. Dallas came slowly out.

"Go on," urged Felicia. "'Rose of the South.'"

But Lounsbury was looking at Dallas.

"Rose of the South," he repeated, a queer tremor running around his mouth, "as far south as—as Texas."

Dallas seemed about to turn.

Lounsbury hurried to put the well hand behind his ear. "Felicia," he said, "didn't I hear your mother call?"

Felicia reeled herself from foot to foot. "Oh, you go on," she said overhearingly, "or you might fall out of the hammock."

But the spell was broken. Her sisters had pounced upon Dallas. The boys, getting a whiff from regions down the hall, made off. She followed with backward demands for "the rest of it" later on and carried the last of the five with her.

Lounsbury sat up and put out his hand. The fun was gone from his eyes.

"Dallas, you've had your talk," he said quietly, but with a hint of anxiety. "I know it's all right. It's got to be."

She came part way to him and stood where morning glory vines climbed a lattice. "Maryiya's just been telling me," she answered. She raised her head, very intent upon the flagstaff.

"Dear?" he questioned.

She glanced down at him, smiling through tears. "All the time they liked each other," she said happily. "He calls her Maryiya, and she calls him Robert."

He got up and went to her. "When I saw him there in the road by that cottonwood bunch tugging her along so careful, looking so scared—and the way he held her on Beckskin!" He caught her hand.

"There's one thing that hurts," she answered. "That it kept you out there watching, and I didn't even go to you—but I—I"—

"You were doing the white thing by that little sister. That makes it all the sweeter."

"She was afraid I'd scold," said through tears.

"You scold!"

"I would. I felt different about soldiers—then."

He took a deep breath. "They're handy to have around," he said.

"She's afraid Mr. Fraser 'll find out what she said about you."

"He won't. He might get a notion she didn't know her own mind yet. He might—well, as Kipple says, 'It'll bloomin' 'ot 'ended,' the little beggar."

"She don't know I told you. It'd bother her if"—

"That's between you and me, Dallas." He drew her near.

"Yes."

"Yes, John," promptingly.

"Yes, John."

The morning glory vines on the lattice reached up and out. Brushed by the wind they made a sheltering veil. He drew her closer. He lifted her face to his by a smoothing caress of her hair. He kissed her.

"My dearest! My splendid girl!"

He shook his head roguishly at her. "So wild, she was, with the bit in her teeth. And now—she eats right out of my hand."

Then, roguish no longer, he lifted her two hands, turned them, palms up, and touched them with his lips.

"Ah, dear, there must be no more going it alone. I want to take care of you after this. We won't wait, will we?"

"No."

"Just the minute a minister can be reached?"

"Yes."

"I've a mind to bribe Mike into taking us to Bismarck after breakfast."

"You're too sick." Her face was grave; her eyes watched him anxiously. "All night I thought about you. How I went running off when I heard that shot. Oh, suppose, suppose"—

"I'll be over this in a day. And I know you went because you had to. Don't I know you weren't afraid? Don't I know why you left Maryiya behind at the trees? Dallas—you're a wife for a man out here!"

She colored under his praise.

After a time they walked to the top of the steps.

Across the river at the center of the yellow bend it stood—the squat shack.

"Dear little home!" she said.

"You wouldn't like to leave it. You can go to Bismarck, you know, or east or anywhere."

"I'd rather stay."

"We'll stay—right over there. Then when the town comes and it gets too populous—if you like and if Maryiya's not at this post—we'll go farther up to open country again."

"We'll take your share of the Clark herd," she said.

"I've got a fine little saddle mare for you," he said.

Somebody entered the parlor behind them—two somebodies, hand in hand.

"Dallas," called one meekly.

"Lounsbury," hailed the other.

The storekeeper went in, Dallas with him. "Bless your sweet hearts!" he said when he faced the couple. "Maryiya, you rested? Fraser, you look idiotically happy."

"I'm not alone," retorted the lieutenant. "I'd hate to describe you this minute, your face beaming through all that lint."

"Save yourself the trouble here before my future wife."

Fraser turned to Maryiya. "Phew! But we're important! Listen to him!"

"Dallas wants to go back to the shack. Can a' ordinary everyday trooper look after the finest two-year-old and the finest team in Dakota? Not by a long shot! And I'm not going to let her go alone," soberly, "after what's happened. Can't take any more chances."

Fraser sobered too. "Nothing to fear any more," he said. "When Mike's men were getting the boat off down below they found—him."

A moment's silence.

"They think he tried to cross and couldn't. There he was, tangled up in some willows, poor devil."

"That ought to explain some things to the captain," said Lounsbury in a low voice.

"Yes. And it will satisfy the K. O. I'm pretty sure. An officer's not to be blamed so much for things going wrong when the traitor's practically within the lines. The K. O. himself could have had that fire."

"Well, Dallas," Lounsbury was cheery again. "You and Maryiya own the head, sure enough."

There was a knock at the door. Then with a great show of hacking and coughing young Jamieson appeared.

"Frank," said Lounsbury, "quit your nonsense and tell us about the other side. Did the scout find anything?"

"Yes, he did," answered Jamieson, "and what proves how smart the whole plot was. What do you think? Well, just above where you met that Indian they found an outfit—black blanket and a ragged skirt"—

A quiet fell. Dallas turned away to the windows. Lounsbury followed her, comforting.

Presently he returned, clearing his voice. "They copied Charley's clothes."

He lifted her two hands.

he said. "I guessed that. As the Indian came up to me I spoke. But when he answered I knew—just a second too late. He gave me a terrible lick, but I caught it on my arm and came back with the gun. Don't know how I ever reached the shack."

"Mr. Le posied in the grove and scampered," said Fraser.

"We saw him," said Maryiya, "and I ran."

"He's the only red that got free."

"But, all the same, I plugged him," declared Lounsbury. "And I'll bet he's packing a pound of buckshot. Who was it, do you know?"

"Canada John."

Again the door opened and Oliver appeared. He closed the door and waited, his head on the knob.

Jamieson stepped forward. "Captain," he said, with mock injury, "these people"—he indicated the others—"do not merit the flight of the minutes. I don't wonder—it's natural. But I, sir, I, having been asked to breakfast by Mrs. Oliver, do. Is—is breakfast ready?"

A Free Legacy for the Children

Here is a wonderful legacy for children and all who can use it—a legacy which all should try to hand on to the children of children that are to be till the end of time.

This is the quaint testament of Charles Lounsbury, who, having nothing to leave, executed a somewhat elaborate will, bequeathing the world to those who came after him, concluding thus,

"Item, I leave to children individually, but only for the term of their childhood, all and every the flowers of the fields, and the blossoms of the woods, with the right, to play among them freely, according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thistles and thorns.

"And I devise to children the banks of the brooks and the golden sands beneath the waters thereof, and the odors of the willows that dip therein, and the white clouds that float high over the giant trees.

"And I leave the children the long, long days to be merry in, in a thousand ways, and the night, and the wonder, and the train of the milky way to wonder at, but subject nevertheless to the rights hereinafter given to lovers.

"Item, I devise to boys jointly all the useful, idle fields and commons where ball may be played, all pleasant waters where one may swim, all snowclad hills where one may coast, and all streams and ponds where one may fish, or where, when grim winter comes, one may skate, to have and to hold the same for the period of their boyhood; and all meadows with the clover blossoms and butterflies thereto, the woods and their appurtenances, the squirrels and birds, and echoes and strange noises, and all distant places which may be visited, together with the adventures there found.

"And I give to said boys each his own place at the fireside at night, with all pictures which may be seen in the burning wood to enjoy without let or hindrance and without any encumbrance of care."

Early Marriages

during the year. This disease is sometimes called consumption and sometimes the white plague. The scientists have a theory that our incestuous ancestors, the cave dwellers transmitted the loathsome disease to posterity and the burning question of the day is how to get rid of it.

THE ONLY CURE.

The well meaning philanthropist is working at the wrong end and will never accomplish anything in that way. All the sanatoria in the world can only give temporary relief, but will never eradicate the disease from the human race.

One step in the right direction would be early marriages from sound stock, and the healthy pedigree of the contracting parties should be examined for three generations, the same as for a life insurance policy. With a good start made in this way, and afterwards a life of strict temperance in all things, and a close observance of all sanitary laws, the race in time would be free from the ravages of tuberculosis.

As the custom prevails at present many people get married who are better adapted for a health resort than for the cares of married life. Moreover, it may be said in this connection, that if we hope to get rid of tuberculosis in Canada, we must cease importing from the slums of other countries.

SANITARY WORK.

During the year a large amount of important sanitary work was accomplished by the chief and his men.

Fractured His Arm

The many friends of Mr. Johnston Greer will regret to learn that he had the misfortune to fracture one of the bones in his right arm last night. He was on his way to work about 6.30, and when near the Auburn power house, he slipped and fell. The fracture is below the elbow. He came down town and had it set and also secured another man to assist him at the power house.

BOWLING

There was no game in the ten pin tournament last night, although there was something doing just the same. The contribution box erected on the wall by the Geys for the purpose of sending Manager Hay out of town when next they play a game, is being rapidly filled up. It is expected that there will be enough to pay his way to Lakefield or possibly to give him a trip on the Warsaw stage.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Tooley of the Queen's Hotel, entertained a number of friends at progressive euchre and dancing last night. A very enjoyable time was spent by all.

The Farmer's Wife

Is very careful about her churn, she scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if the stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best remedy known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms, conditions, or affections of the stomach, of leading, liver and associated organs, all the several schools of medical practice have been ransacked, and the ingredients combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them

MISS ADA LEHANE.

Her many friends in this city and vicinity will learn with sincere regret of the death of Miss Ada Lehane, daughter of Mrs. J. G. Lehane, a former resident of this city, whose death occurred suddenly Monday morning at her home in Asheville, N.C. No particulars are at hand. The deceased young lady whose health for the past few years had not been in the best, was of a very modest and unassuming nature. She is survived by her mother, one sister Nettie at home, and one brother, Alf. H. Lehane, McDonel street, city, and a half brother, Michael, of Kansas City.

Don't Be Frightened

But use a little Common Sense.

A Doctor recently announced the belief, and issued a certificate to the effect, that a death was due to cancer caused largely by the excessive use of coffee.

The cause of cancer is not definitely settled in the medical profession, albeit the disease is on the increase.

Without attempting to decide a question so peculiarly within the domain of medical science, it is suggested that the

SAFE WAY

to be free from that and other diseases is to AVOID COFFEE and DRINK

Mitchell Gets Three Years in Penitentiary

Charles Mitchell, the letter carrier, was sentenced to three years in the Kingston penitentiary, having been found guilty of stealing two post letters, the property of the Postmaster-General. On the charge of stealing a parcel of jewellery from the mails he was sentenced to two years, the sentences to run concurrently.

Mitchell came up for trial Wednesday morning before his honor Judge Weller, Crown Attorney R. E. Wood, conducted the prosecution and Mr. F. D. Kerr defendended the prisoner.

THE CHARGES.

The charges against the prisoner of stealing two post letters each containing three dollars, the property of the Postmaster-General, was changed by the prosecution into four charges. The indictment as changed, charged Mitchell first with stealing two post letters, the property of the Postmaster-General, each containing three dollars; secondly, stealing six dollars from the Postmaster-General, thirdly, stealing three dollars from Mrs. Albert Head, Bethune street, and fourthly stealing three dollars from Mrs. Robt. Martin.

Mr. Kerr, on behalf of the prisoner, pleaded not guilty.

THE EVIDENCE.

The evidence taken was that of Mr. Henry Merrick, inspector of post offices for this district, and Postmaster Col. H. C. Rogers of this city. It was the same as was given before Magistrate Dumble in the preliminary telling how the decoy letters had been taken by Mitchell to deliver, and the finding of them opened and the money gone in his post bag at his house. Mr. Kerr did not call any witnesses for the defence, but rested the case at this juncture.

"WHAT IS A POST LETTER?"

Mr. Kerr based his defence on the argument that the letters which had been given Mitchell to deliver were not post letters. He referred to a case in England, where the court decided that the decoy letter used by a post office inspector to entrap a letter man was not a post letter. However, the Canadian Post Office law was a little broader than the Imperial law, and had a close hold on anyone committing an offence. Mr. Kerr argued that when the Rochester letter was received by the inspector it had on it a cancelled stamp and therefore when placed in the local post office was not a post letter.

Crown Attorney R. E. Wood pointed out that under section 2, sub-section I of the Canadian Post Office Act whether addressed to a real or fictitious name and no matter of what nature it was, it was a post letter. Therefore the decoy ones used were post letters.

His Honor Judge Weller, said that he did not see how English cases of years ago, which had been mentioned by the defence, could affect the Canadian law. A letter, properly stamped and placed in the post office for delivery was a post letter. He had been unable to come to any other conclusion but to the one that the letters opened by the prisoner were post ones.

FOUND GUILTY.

Since the letters stolen were post letters, his honor found the prisoner guilty of the above mentioned offence. The charge of stealing a parcel of jewellery from the mails was next taken up. The prisoner pleaded guilty. The jewellery was the property of Mr. A. M. Perkins and was sent from England to him, during the month of January.

"Have you anything to say," asked his honor of the prisoner.

Mr. Kerr asked that only the minimum sentence of three years be imposed. The prisoner had a wife and child. The family was without means. He did not know how they would get along while Mitchell was in the penitentiary, and the counsel asked on their behalf for the leniency of the court.

JUDGE'S REMARKS.

"You now no doubt begin to appreciate the serious difficulty in which you have placed yourself," said his honor, addressing the prisoner. "You know that when you took those letters, you did not intend to deliver them. You knew you were doing wrong but probably you were not aware of the severe punishment the law inflicts for offences of this kind. I do not know that the fact that you have a wife and child should have any effect on me. I am inclined to believe that your wife is equally as guilty as you. Is it possible for all that jewellery to be in the house and for her to know nothing about it. One's sympathy naturally goes out to your wife but I am inclined to think your wife knew, you have betrayed the trust given you. I thought it might have been that the stealing of the letters was the result of a sudden, irresistible impulse to steal but instead of that I learn that you had been doing it before last week. I think you thought that it was an easy matter to rob the mails. Your act was most deliberate. The law imposes a severe punishment for such an offence, but in consideration of your wife and child, I will only impose the minimum sentence, three years. It will be a warning to other in similar positions and if hereafter any person comes before me on a similar charge, I will deal more severely with him."

His honor then gave him the above sentence.

PRISONER UNAFFECTED.

The prisoner stood throughout his honor's remarks and seemed unmoved or perturbed by the sentence.

LINDSAY MIDGETS WON FIRST GAME ON PETERBOROUGH ICE

Score was 6 to 5 in Favor of the Visitors---Petes were Deficient in Combination---Lindsay Brought Down Large Crowd of Rooters---Locals will Practice Tonight

The Lindsay Midgets defeated the locals on their own ice last night by the score of 6—5. It was a sorry blow to the local fans who felt confident that the result would be quite the reverse. The rink was jammed again and long before eight o'clock the seats were all taken while those who came after had to stand, and the referee did not line the boys up until 8.25.

The crowd was a noisy one and kept the rooting up from beginning to end. It's true that Peterborough fans were in a vast majority, but that did not seem to help the team any. It was a clear case of the best team winning. The Midgets are just as fast, if not a little faster, and they have a good combination game which counts every time. The Petes had no "com." and although they make many brilliant rushes there is no one around the nets to assist them through the Lindsay defence. Then the shake up in the team was not the improvement it was expected to be. Quinn, the new man is good, but it was his first game with the team and his first game before a packed rink. Then he was played at rover while he is a cover-point man. Everything was strange to him and he could not play his usual game nor the game he will play the next time. Charlie Ray, who is very fast and very effective, was put at center instead of rover, and the result was that he and Quinn frequently collided, and Ray's play was not so effective. Rose on the wing put up a cracking good exhibition and he scored the first game for Peterborough, and gave life to the local fans when most needed. For Lindsay already had scored twice. After Rose scored the Petes seemed to limber up and for several minutes the work was very exciting and Dusty took a shot and evened up the score. The real star for Peterborough was Dusty. He put up the greatest article he ever attempted in his life and was responsible for a great many rushes and checked back well. Peterborough's defence was strong. Moore, Glover and Derocher make a fine trio, but Moore played too far out, and two of Lindsay's goals were scored by combination plays, when only Glover and Derocher were there to stop it.

For Lindsay Randal at center was the star. In fact he was the shining light of both games. He usually plays on the defence, but he is too strong to take away from center. He is fast and clever with the stick and a good shot. He scored four of Lindsay's goals, and the last one was very nervy. He was making a rush alone when Derocher ran out and successfully checked him. He fell on the ice in front of the nets and then shot between the posts. Steddard at cover point has all kinds of speed, and if he had more nerve he would be good for the best teams in the province.

From the drop of the hat the Midgets dug in and tried to send the Petes up in the air by Randall scoring two goals in 14 mins., and 2 1-2 mins. The play up to that time was pretty much on Peterborough ice, but the visitors broke away many times and were only stopped in time. Quinn made many times and were only stopped in time. Quinn made manypretty rushes but they were not effective, and the boys were beginning to tire until Rose planted Peterborough's first in 5 1-2 mins. This put more life in the game and in four minutes Dusty repeated the trick making it a tie. Then Taylor for Lindsay got another and the half ended 2—3 in favor of the Midgets.

In the second half things looked a little different. The Petes came on with a rush and Quinn scored in just half a minute and half a minute later Ray on a pass from Quinn did the same thing. Then

NEW CHURCH FOR KNOX CONGREGATION IS TALKED OF

Committee Appointed to Prepare a Report---The Annual Meeting Held---Past Year a Very Prosperous One

It looks like a new church for Knox Presbyterian congregation. The members are very enthusiastic over the question, and all seem to think that the rapid growth the past couple of years and the bright prospects for the future would warrant the undertaking. It is a sure thing that the present edifice does not afford the accommodation necessary for both the Sunday school and the congregation.

The second annual congregational meeting of Knox Presbyterian church, as a separate church, was held last night when there was a very large attendance. The church was taxed to its utmost capacity and all were well pleased with the gathering.

The reports from all the societies were read and without exception showed an encouraging increase in both membership and contributions and a greater interest in the work. It was the best year yet and the congregation deserves credit.

The contributions from the congregation alone amounted to $1800, while the membership was increased by 116, a splendid showing for the year.

The Sunday school is also developing very fast, the regular weekly attendance is now around the two hundred mark, which is an increase of about 25 per cent.

NEW CHURCH.

Among the matters of new business taken up was that of a new church. The question was thrown open for discussion and many expressed their views. Without exception the speakers favored the proposition, and thought it should be gotten under way this year. The present building will not accommodate the congregation, while the Sunday school quarters are much too small. A committee was appointed, including the office bearers, to discuss plans and secure estimates and to report to a subsequent meeting of the congregation.

Votes of thanks were passed to the choir, the secretary, treasurer and other members of the executive.

After the business meeting the ladies of the church served supper and it was greatly appreciated by all. An hour or two were thus pleasantly spent.

In Sight of Gallows Swyryda Vows He Didn't Kill the Boy

Brampton, Feb. 10.—"I no kill that boy; I go to my God not afraid, because I no kill that boy."

Within twenty-four hours of the gallows, Stephen Swyrda thus avows the innocence of the crime for which he has been sentenced to die at dawn tomorrow morning.

In broken English and trembling voice the sturdy young Galician declares he did not take the life of his young fellow-countryman last Good Friday. He says it so emphatically and with such apparent honesty that the death watch, the men who have been with him continuously since the death sentence, are beginning to wonder if justice does not get on the wrong track sometimes.

But twelve good men and true of Peel county have heard the evidence, and declared his guilt, and the law of his adopted land says he must die.

TOLD HE MUST DIE.

It was in the wee sma hours of this morning that the condemned man made such an emphatic declaration of his innocence. When he came to the jail he spoke very little English—hardly enough to make himself understood. Special Constables Jas. Young and George Glassford have been the death watch since the sentence, and the prisoner has become quite confidential with them, in addition to improving his English with their assistance.

Early this morning Jailer Lewis Wilson visited the Swyrda cell with the news that the court of appeal had decided not to interfere. All hope of salvation from the gallows was gone, he told the prisoner. Swyrda heard the news without a tremor. Then the two officials got into a conversation with him.

WAS TELLING TRUTH.

"Now, Stephen," said Young, in the friendly way he has managed to cultivate during the long hours of the death watch, "you will certainly have to die. Why not confess before you meet your God? If you killed young Luiteck, why don't you say so?"

Then it was that the condemned man made this assertion. He was not afraid to die, he said. If he had killed the boy, he would say so, he said. It would then be much easier to die. Throughout the morning he continued to reassert his innocence. Before daylight he was sleeping calmly.

Swyrda has no visitors except a priest of the Greek Church, who comes up from Toronto. The priest cannot speak English, and is accompanied here by an interpreter. Swyryda, himself, can speak three languages, but the priest can talk only Polish, and the prayers and other religious services, which are in the condemned man's cell, are in Polish.

WIFE'S LAST VISIT.

Last Wednesday Swyryda's wife visited him. She was unaccompanied. The guards say the parting of the two was very distressing to witness. The poor woman let it be understood that she did not intend to see her husband again.

The President of The Canadian Pacific On Needs of the West

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy,
President of The Canadian Pacific Railway

Sir Thos. Shaughnessy Favors Cheap Transportation—Refers to Growing Purchasing Power of the West

Canada Should Have a Trade Commission as Well as a Railway Commission

Montreal, Feb. 10.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, thinks that the time has come when Canada should have a trade commission as well as a railway commission. This idea he sets forth in an article in the February number of the magazine of Canada West, under the title "That Tariff Wall."

In the open paragraphs of his article Sir Thomas refers to the growing purchasing power of the west and goes on to advocate the cheapening by every possible means of the transportation facilities of the country. He says; "We must see that our St. Lawrence navigation and the approaches to our Atlantic seaboard are made as reliable and safe as modern methods can make them. By doing this we shall be encouraging shipping to our ports, and by bringing additional ships we shall be bring what we want most—people from the various countries of Europe to occupy our vacant lands. Year by year the requisite work should be done without an attempt at unwise economy, but efficiently and intelligently, so that we may bring to our own country and commercial centers all the business of the West that belongs to us, and send back our merchandise over the same routes, and handle through our own national termini all the imports and exports of this country. We should adopt every improvement and not hesitate in any expenditure necessary for the safe-guarding of Canadian traffic that may be undertaken by the government for the protection or improvement of our waterways.

"The question of the All-Red route will be solved in the future. When the matter has been thoroughly threshed out by those who have been discussing the subject, some plan

Reform of the Senate is Being Planned

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—There is now before the people of Canada a recrudescence of the important agitation of more than a decade ago to reform the system which at present obtains regarding the Canadian senate. Under the present scheme of government the senate is not what it was originally intended to be, viz., a practically non-partisan and independent branch of parliament. The political party in power, having the sole privilege of nominating and appointing senators, it naturally follows that this body is either liberal or conservative, according to the length of time that one or other of the political parties remains in power in the Dominion. During the eighteen years of conservative rule, prior to 1896, the senate gradually became filled up with members of that party, and when the liberals attained to power in that year the upper house contained only a meager half-dozen liberals out of a total membership of eighty-two. To-day, however, after a term in office of over twelve years, the liberals have almost reversed the order of things, and another five years more will probably see the total extinction of conservatives from the senate if present conditions are allowed to continue.

Into such disrepute, on this account, has the system of government, which includes an upper chamber, fallen in Canada, that Ontario, the premier province of the Dominion, some time ago, abolished the higher chamber in its absence of local government and the majority of the other provinces at the present day have no other legislative chamber than the popular elective one, redounding to good government and satisfaction of he governed.

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier came into power in 1896 one of his principal items of declared public policy upon which he appealed to the country was that of the reform of the senate. He subsequently endeavored to bring this about, but by reason of the then preponderance of conservatives in the senate that body refused to be reformed. Now the needed reform is being originated in the senate itself. It seems at last to have awakened to the fact that its end is in sight unless some radical step is at once taken to bring it into public favor. According-ly, W. R. Scott, ex-secretary of state, who retired from the Laurier cabinet two months ago, has introduced a resolution designed to reorganize the upper house from a broad Canadian viewpoint and based upon his experience as a senator since confederation.

His plan of reorganization is somewhat along the lines of the American plan, but it does not go the whole length toward the election of members of the senate from large constituencies as a whole. The vital feature, which commends itself at once to the approval of the people, is that two-thirds of the senate shall be elected by popular vote. The new proposal is to elect two-thirds of the membership from large constituencies and to limit the term of service of all future senators to eight years. The tenure at present is for life. Twenty-eight senators are to be classed as senators at large and will be appointees of the government for the time being. In addition to this number, should an incoming government find itself in a minority in the senate chamber it may exercise the right, already established by the constitution, to appoint a number of additional senators, not exceeding nine. The proposals also embrace other and lesser reforms and cannot fail to stir up the country, to such a degree that at last this standing blot upon Canadian parliamentary government will be removed forever.

Are Still Fanning Flame of the United States-Japanese Trouble

Tokio, Feb 10.—The Japanese newspapers continue to be filled with despatches emanating from San Francisco, New York and London indicating a serious increase of anti-Japanese sentiment in the Pacific Coast States, which is said to be rapidly spreading to interior states. The Asahi's San Francisco correspondent has cabled to the paper, alleged statements and utterances of senators and others which are of a most sensational character. The despatches state that all the Pacific States are developing grave opposition to the Japanese residents, and urging legislation measures which would deprive such residents of all rights which enable them to reside and transact business in those states.

MAKE DEEP IMPRESSION.

These despatches are being widely read throughout Japan and are creating a deep impression. The Hoshi, which is of the sensational press makes heated and passionate comments on the American despatches, and concludes with the Japanese proverb, "Even Duddha loses patience if his face is slapped thrice." London despatches also depict the anti-Japanese situation as grave in America.

AFFECTS FOREIGN BUSINESS.

It is believed here, however, that the sensational presentation of the situation by the California correspondents of the Japanese press must seriously affect the business future and standing, not only of Americans, but of all foreigners in Japan. Ninety-nine per cent. of the Japanese are unable to distinguish between the various nationalities. All of the foreigners in Japan are considered alike.

CHURCH ENDORSES ROOSEVELT.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 10.—The Church Federation of Los Angeles yesterday passed a resolution expressing hearty approval of the action taken by President Roosevelt in regard to proposed Japanese legislation and protesting against any action by the State Legislature not in harmony with the general policy of the National Government.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoops Restorative was not made to dose the stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoops Restorative directly to those failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of those failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

No Medicine

But a Change of Food Gave Relief

Many persons are learning that drugs are not the thing to rebuild worn out nerves, but proper food is required.

There is a certain element in the cereals, wheat, barley, etc., which is grown there by nature for food to brain and nerve tissue. This is the phosphate of potash, of which Grape-Nuts food contains a large proportion.

In making this food all the food elements in the two cereals, wheat and barley, are retained. That is why so many heretofore nervous and run down people find in Grape-Nuts a true nerve and brain food.

"I can say that Grape-Nuts food has done much for me as a mere renewer, writes a Wis. bride:

"A few years ago, before my marriage, I was a bookkeeper in a large firm. "I became so nervous toward the end of each week that it seemed I must give up my position, which I could not afford to do.

"Mother purchased some Grape-Nuts and we found it not only delicious but I noticed from day to day that I was improving until I finally realized I was not nervous any more.

"I have recommended it to friends as a brain and nerve food, never having found its equal. I owe much to Grape-Nuts as it saved me from a nervous collapse, and enabled me to retain my position."

Will Establish Regular Service of Airships

Berlin, Feb. 10.—The German Aero Stations Company, founded four months ago by three groups of financiers and sportsmen in Berlin, Frankfurt, and Cassel respectively, has been conducting the negotiations with the municipal authorities of those towns in Germany between which it is proposed to establish a regular service of airships.

The engineers employed by this company have worked out plans for airship stations in twenty-nine different towns, and have negotiated with the local authorities of these places with the view of obtaining the necessary land. Each station for airships will require, approximately, ten acres of ground, but, if necessary, seven acres and a half would suffice.

The arrangements for anchoring the airships will be carried out with an apparatus patented by the company, by which the assistance of the large number of men now required would be made superfluous. This apparatus first secures the airship to anchor, and then moves it slowly into the shed. Each station will be equipped with three large sheds, each of which will be 490 feet long, 49 feet wide, and 65 feet high. Three airships will be able to anchor or obtain refuge at each station at the same time. In foggy weather captive balloons will be sent up a considerable height, equipped with four powerful electric lamps.

According to a statement issued by the Company at Frankfurt to-day the establishment of a regular airship service between twenty-nine German towns may now be regarded as a certainty. The twenty-nine towns in question are Berlin, Hamburg, Bremen, Hanover, Magdeburg, Leipzig, Dresden, Chemnitz, Cassel, Bielefeld, Cologne, Dortmund, Elberfeld, Barmen, Duesseldorf, Aachen, Treves, Mayence, Wiesbaden, Frankfurt-on-Main, Nuremberg, Regensburg, Munich, Mannheim, Karlsruhe, Stuttgart, Strasburg and Friedrichshafen.

GREAT MEN WHO HAVE PROVED ZAM-BUK

Scientist, Analyst, Magistrate, and War Correspondent all Testify.

Men and women great in point of knowledge, position and experience, say that Zam-Buk stands superior to all other healing substances. Read the opinions of the following eminent men:—

Mr. C. E. Sanford, of Weston, Kings Co., N. S., a magistrate, a School Commissioner, and Baptist Deacon, says:—"Zam-Buk cured me of eczema on my ankle, which had defied every other remedy tried during twenty years. It also cured me of piles; and I take pleasure in recommending it to my fellow-men."

Mr. Frank Scudamore, the famous war correspondent, who has gone through twenty-nine battles, and whose dispatches during the Boer War were so eagerly read from coast to coast in Canada, says:—"Owing to the poisonous dye from an undergarment penetrating a slight scratch, my legs broke out in ulcers. At one time I had seventeen deep holes in my left leg, into each of which I could put my thumb; and had fourteen similar ulcers on my right leg. Remedy after remedy failed to heal these, and I was well nigh worn out with pain and lack of sleep. Zam-Buk was introduced, and I am glad to say that it gave me speedy relief. A few weeks' treatment resulted in a perfect cure for all the ulcers."

Dr. Andrew Wilson, whose reputation as a scientist is world-wide, in a book recently published ("Homely Talks on First Aid") says:—"Zam-Buk may be relied upon as an antiseptic dressing which requires no preparation, and has the particular advantage of possessing unique healing properties."

Mr. W. Lascelles-Scott, the famous analyst to the Royal Commission for Victoria, says:—"I have no hesitation in certifying the entire purity of Zam-Buk. It is of great healing power for open wounds or injuries."

So one could go on quoting authority after authority, all of the opinion, based on personal tests, that Zam-Buk should be in every home. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for cuts, burns, scratches, cold-sores, chapped hands, ulcers, scalp sores, ringworm, blood-poisoning, and eczema. It is also used extensively for piles, for which it is without equal. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. a box; 3 for $1.25; or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. You are warned against harmful imitations.

PRISON LABOR

The people of Oshawa contribute annually $2500 a year as their share of the cost of running the public matters presided over by the county council, says The Oshawa Vindicator. Year by year the amount continues to increase, possibly for good and just reasons. It is remarkable how skillfully each succeeding body of men can devise schemes by which the annual toll can be increased. It is remarkable how seldom a public man can arise and demonstrate how expenses can be reduced. It is a common practice for the public to fawn upon the individual who adds to their burden and to take very little heed of the stray man who endeavors to economize. At the risk of securing considerable blame, and possibly earning public ostracism, we propose to show, not only how the county can economize, but to show how their entire obligations can be absolutely wiped out. There are thousands of acres of land in the north of this country which is annually being sold for taxes at the county council chambers in Whitby. Let us assume that the total of these wild lands amounts to 10,000 acres. The county council should not dispose of a single acre. It should be held by them in perpetuity as a birthright of the people. A large share of our direct taxation comes from maintaining prisoners in Whitby, who spend their time cracking stone and whitewashing cellars at a direct loss to every ratepayer in the county. These men should be transported and camped out, under guard, upon these lands during the months of May and June. Here they should be set to work at planting suitable trees upon the lands held for arrears of taxes. In the short compass of a single generation these lands, subjected to reforestation at no cost for labor, would be worth $50 per acre. The 10,000 acres would be worth $500,000 to the county. This sum, placed at interest of 5 per cent., would yield $25,000 a year, which amount should cover the full cost of running the county without any further resort to direct taxation. If repeated a second time the county could soon begin to pay a dividend to the minor municipalities. The possibilities of reforestration to a young county such as we possess can scarcely be imagined.

From another aspect of the case let us present a few possibilities. There are 1267 miles of highway in the county, 1000 miles of which are suitable for trees, which a tree planted every 50 feet on each side of the road, would give 200 trees to the mile, or 200,000 trees in the county. In 15 years a second tree should be planted midway between the other two. In 30 years each tree of the first planting would be worth $2.50, for firewood, if harvested with prison labor, showing a total value of $500,000 for the first crop. In 15 years afterwards another $500,000 could be reaped from the second crop. As each tree is removed subsequently a new tree should be planted in its place. In this way the county can secure $500,000 from prison labor every 15 years.

As yet we are only infants and have not learned to look ahead any further than just to see clearly where our next meal is to come from "to cast our bread upon the waters". Undoubtedly some slight amendments to the municipal Act will be required before the county can launch out upon a scheme such as we have outlined. At present, the act permits only the sale of lands in arrears for taxes, but a very little bother can make it fit into other requirements. Here is a chance for Gibson and Sinclair to inaugurate something new at the county seat.

THE CRAZE OF THE WEALTHY

In the now famous tableaux vivants given by New York society women at the Plaza Hotel, the most magnificent appearance was made by Mrs. Benjamin S. Guinness as Semiramis, Queen of Nineveh.

Mrs. Guinness wore not less than $2,000,000 worth of gems. Among her ornaments were practically all the most gorgeous and costly pieces of jewelry belonging to the women of New York's 400, and, as most people admit, they possess the finest jewelry in the world.

Mrs. Guinness borrowed a crown from one social leader, half a dozen strings of pearls from another, a huge rope of pearls from another, a diamond breastplate from another, and beautiful rings from everybody. In this way she was able to do justice to the most gorgeous and powerful Oriental Queen that ever lived.

When the crimson velvet curtains parted they revealed to the spectators the Queen of the Orient standing on a spotted leopard rug of silky lustre, in a sheath robe of gold tissue, while a cloak of rose-pink velvet, studded with embroidered bands of gold and turquoise, fell from the right shoulder and draped the figure on the right side.

Upon her proud head the Queen bore a splendid jeweled crown that Mrs. John Jacob Astor sometimes wears at the opera. It is worth probably $100,000. Between the Queen's dusky eyebrows hung a $20,000 emerald, also from the collection of Mrs. Astor.

Over the ears and depending from the crown were great disks of jewels belonging to Mrs. Waldorf Astor, and worth at least $30,000. Still further depending from these disks Mrs. Guinness wore no less than nine strings of beautiful pearls, belonging to Mrs. Wm. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and valued at $150,000. The back of her head was similarly covered with a network of jewels, belonging to Mrs. Payne Whitney, worth $100,000, while other strings of pearls, belonging to Mrs. Henry Rogers Winthrop, were entwined in the red-bronze tresses and gleamed and scintillated in soft shimmer below the waist-line.

Over her right shoulder the Queen displayed three gorgeous necklaces, belonging to Mrs. George Gould, each in itself calculated to attract envious admiration to any one who should wear it at a ball or opera.

The left arm and hand, uplifted toward the background, were wreathed with a massive gemmed snake, golden, and set with diamonds and rubies, from the collection of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, valued at $50,000. These are among the finest rubies in the world. On the left wrist was a single bracelet of brilliantly white diamonds, owned by Mrs. Frederic C. Beach. The rings on the Queen's graceful white fingers were the treasured ornaments of half a dozen society leaders, and were worth a fortune in themselves.

The front of the corsage glittered and twinkled with an unbroken sea of jewels. The gold tissue of the frock was woven into a barbaric chaos of gold, diamonds, rubies, pearls, and emeralds, worn singly along the edge of the corsage and massed together lower down into a single sheet of flaming color and light.

At the waist line in front was a gorgeous bowknot of diamonds, almost five inches across, which helped to hold the robe in place. It was borrowed from Mrs. Clarence Mackay, and was worth $125,000. Outside all these jewels was a longer and heavier string of pearls, belonging to Mrs. John R. Drexel, and perhaps the most famous of its kind in the world. It is worth at least $300,000.

Mrs. Benjamin S. Guinness is an English woman who has been in New York for some years. Her town house is at 8 Washington square. She is a niece of the Duchess of Wellington, and her husband belongs to the celebrated Dublin family of which Lord Iveagh is the head.

She is of very distinguished appearance, with a statuesque figure, Titian bronze hair, and deep sapphire eyes.

Transcontinental to Build Steamers

Montreal, Feb. 9.—The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company is calling for tenders for the construction of two steamboats for the Skeena River service in connection with construction work on the Western division. The step is taken as an indication of an intention to rush operations during the coming summer. Tenders for an additional 150-mile section from Copper River up the Skeena to a point beyond Hazelton are now under consideration, as this is expected a contract will be awarded shortly.

Capt. S. B. Johnson, superintendent of the company's steamboat service on the Skeena, was recently in Montreal, where he was conferring with the executive regarding the proposed craft, which will be exact duplicates of the Distributor, the company's steamboat which went into commission last spring. He will establish headquarters at Vancouver for the next two months, which is believed to mean that the boats will be built in one of the shipyards there. They will cost about $35,000 each.

Tenders require their completion before the first of June. They will have a length of 120 feet and 23-foot beam with a carrying capacity of 140 tons. High-power engines will be installed. They will be subject to separate tender.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak Kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and operate them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a nerve—like specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the kidneys alone is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month. Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell

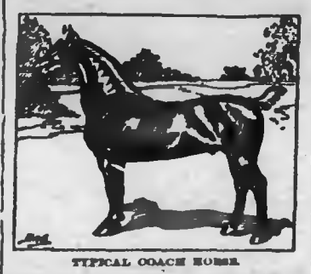
HORSES FOR THE FARM.

There are several types of horses that are excellent types for farm use. We are not going to undertake to say which is the very best type because we don't know, says a writer in Farmers Advocate. If some one else thinks he knows we have no quarrel with him. With some the so called general purpose horse is the favorite farm horse, while others reject this type with scorn. There is no agreement as to what is the general purpose horse.



TYPICAL COACH HORSE

The writer is familiar with a certain community in Illinois where the French coach horse is bred and sold by farmers. Horse buyers go there from Chicago and other cities to buy these horses for the city markets as carriage horses. We know of a gelding from this community which was a first prize winner at the New York horse show. This fellow had been sold for $3,000 to go to New York. The farmers in that community have a right to be proud of their coach horses. And you couldn't convince them that the French coach horses are not general purpose horses. They are used for all farm purposes and fill in none. They weigh from 1,100 to 1,400 pounds. They are heavy enough to pull the plow in the field or a load of hay or grain to town. And, when it comes to hitching to the buggy or carriage to drive to town on any day of the week, surely no better horse can be found. Moreover, these horses are usually docile and breed unusually true to type. Who can dispute their title to being classed as general purpose horses? But that is far from saying that they are the best general purpose horses or the best farm horses. We have no quarrel with the man who is partial to them.

As for heavier horses, the Belgian, we are glad to say, is becoming increasingly common in this country. He is the extreme type of draft horse. He cannot be called a general purpose horse. There are some things he cannot do to the best advantage, but for the purposes to which he is adapted he is a very valuable horse. Even in draft horses there are several types. The Percheron is the most popular draft horse in this country, and he deserves about all that can be said in his favor. He is not quite so upstanding, has not always quite so impressive a "way of going" as the best Shires have. Neither, on the other hand, is he so massive, so wide, so close to the ground, not always so strongly muscled as the Belgian, but the Percheron is, of course, a true draft horse and deserves all his popularity and more. The Shires are attracting more and more attention at our great fairs and live stock shows, and their popularity is certain to increase.

It pays to raise the draft horse on the farm. But every man to his trade. Some men can handle one kind of horse and some another kind. Much depends on the kind of horse one has been trained to handle, and much depends also on one's taste in horseflesh. If you don't like the heavy horse, let him alone.

The "Banana King."

Sir Alfred Jones, head of the famous shipping firm of Elder, Dempster, & Co., who is sometimes called the "Banana King," because of the important part he has played in popularising that fruit, confesses that he has little time for recreation. As a luncheon once he admitted that a night or two before he had found time to go to the theatre. "I did not stay long, because I could not make much there," he added, jocularly. Referring to Sir Alfred's connection with bananas, he is said to have a pleasant habit of terminating an interview by handing one or two bananas from a dish on the table as a farewell gift. A reporter, aware of this little foible, decided to be even with him, and so, when he saw his hand straying in the direction of the dish as a hint that the interview was at an end, the journalist forestalled Sir Alfred by saying, "May I offer you some fruit, Sir Alfred?" drawing two or three bananas from his own pocket.

A Murderous Weapon.

Not content with the smaller knife affected by his less blood-thirsty countrymen, an Italian now in Parry Sound jail has exercised his ingenuity on making a "murderers' tool," out of a file, and he has done his work well, for when the knife, sent by a magistrate from that northern district, arrived at the Attorney-General's Department the Toronto detectives who viewed it said they had never seen its like.

This knife was made from a file 9 inches long, and 7 1-2 inches is utilized as a blade. It tapers from an inch in diameter to a needle point and carries a keen cutting edge on both edges. The shank is set in a piece of small maple branch, with the bark still on in some places to ensure a perfect grip.

In the hands of an assassin such a knife would go through a victim as easily as a bayonet on the end of a heavy rifle; and it is a good thing the knife was taken away from this sanguine native of sunny Italy before he had occasion to use it.

Lindsay Solicits Aid for New Building

It was decided to make the winter fair an annual event, at a meeting of the Board of Trade and the Winter Fair directors held jointly last night. The date fixed for the next fair was December 15th, 1909.

President W. B. Sperling of the Board of Trade, occupied the chair, and President Ellis, of the winter fair, read the following report.

I have the honor to present to the directors the report of the first winter fair held in Lindsay, and it gives me much pleasure to present such a gratifying one. You well know the short time we had to do the whole work, advertise it over the county, get our prize lists out and get everything in shape and it was owing to the good work of the secretary and directors that we attained such a good success.

The entries numbered far more in the hall and street than we expected. Our streets were crowded with the most respectable people of the county, and it seemed to me to be a re-union of the people of this town and of the surrounding country. Our baby show—the best quality in the land.

Discussion arose about the lack of proper buildings in which to hold the fair, and it was decided to apply to the Government for financial assistance in securing the erection of a proper building.

A committee was appointed to oversee the arrangements for the winter fair, composed of the same committee appointed last year, and Mayor Begg and D. A. McKenzie. — Lindsay Warder.

Maple Leaf Mines, Limited

No Personal Liability

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hatley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice Pres.; J. Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont., Sec-Treas Chars Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C Ritcher Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Ophir, Gifford Extension, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Bloom.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Georgenda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 668, containing 40 acres, situated about 60 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and is an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Calcite Lake we have staked claim No. 1999, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

One of these rich veins crosses this fraction and forms the discovery of same. With a total of 160 acres, 40 acres of which are in the rich Cobalt field, 60 acres in the new Bonanza district, with $50,000 shares in the treasury, for development purposes, with no purchase price to be charged against same. It would seem that this proposition, based on a capitalization of $150,000, was the very thing you have been waiting for.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 15th December, 1908, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. LeVesconte, 20 King Street, West, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, provides for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties, in consideration of $50,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 250,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $ 500; Gifford has sold at 15 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hatley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 5000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 16th of December, 1908.

Our claims are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our ability to develop to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

These claims are conveniently located, titles are perfect, and the development fund will be economically and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of enormous capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your checks payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

...The... Plow Woman

"Breakfast is ready," Oliver answered. His voice was unsteady.

"Thank goodness for that!"

There was the sound of a faint cheer outside. Then some one went rushing up the plank walk before the house. The captain closed the windows.

"We shall give thanks for many things today," he said significantly.

Fraser started, and his eyelids fluttered what his face strove to control.

"What's all that outside?" It was Maryiya innocently.

But Oliver gave a quick sign, pulling nervously at his mustache.

"Frank," he began, "a—a friend is coming home to us this morning."

"A-a-ah!" It was near a groan.

"Wait—wait," firmly. "Give yourself a moment to guess. But—guess something good."

Jamieson moved like a man in pain. "You mean—you mean"— he whispered. "Oh, captain, I've waited and waited."

"Positively—we all know that. And there's reward for you."

Behind Jamieson the others were leaning forward, hopeful, fearful, in a fever of emotions.

The cheering outside had grown. More people were running up the walk—children, men, bareheaded women.

"Jamieson," said the captain, "you'll be very calm!"

Jamieson relaxed, faltering forward. "I'll try! I'll try!" he promised.

Lounsbury caught him. "Tell him, Oliver," he begged.

The captain turned the knob, took Jamieson by a wrist and led him out through the entry.

On the gallery was a second group. It whispered. It laughed. It cried. It looked north to where the road came down from the landing.

"Easy now, easy," cautioned Oliver. He patted Jamieson, led him down the steps and faced him up the line.

"There, my dear boy," he said.

On the upper edge of the parade ground the men of B troop were surrounding some travelers, caps in air. With their cheers mingled wild shouts. And one of them was singing the lines of a song fervent, loud and martial:

"Glory, glory, hallelujah!
Glory, glory, hallelujah!"

For a moment, as one who questions his own sight and hearing, Jamieson gazed before him. Then he flung up his arms and sprang forward with a great cry:

"Mother, mother! Alice!"

Down the line they had taken up the singing. And to it, the troopers dividing, the travelers came into full view.

There was a wagon with red wheels, a green box and drawn by a mifft white horse. On its seat were two women, who clung to each other as they looked about. Above them a cross of rude boards stood straight up into the sunlight of the morning. And beside the cross, driving, sat a man—an aged man, white haired, priestly, patriarchal.

CHAPTER XLI.

THE parlor at Captain Oliver's was a homelike place. The black tarred paper that covered its walls was fairly hidden from sight by selected illustrations cut out of leading weeklies, these illustrations being arranged with a nice eye to convenience, right side up, the small mixed pictures low down, the larger ones higher.

Tonight the parlor was more homelike than usual—and festive, for a family party filled it. Here was the hostess, carrying a huge iced cake and taking account of the seven's behavior; the seven themselves, eager, though somewhat repressed, and doing full justice to their portions; their father, thankful as he passed the coffee, that so much good had come out of some misfortune; Frank Jamieson, mother and sister on either arm; Maryiya Lancaster, looking dimpled consciousness; close upon her every move a certain young lieutenant, who cast longing glances toward the half lighted gallery; the surgeon, ungratefully relegated to a corner, but soliacing himself in his cup; David Bond, his wrinkled old face a benediction, and, lastly, Dallas and John.

Lounsbury was his former self, save for the plaster strips that had supplanted the bandages. Everywhere at once, he put the grip of two men into his well arm, smiling upon all like the very genius of happiness.

And Dallas—Mrs. Oliver had offered to sew her a plain white dress for the occasion, but she had chosen—since her John must of necessity come in his wonted attire—to appear in the simple frock she had worn the night they met in the swale. Above it her hair was braided and coiled upon her head like a crown. Her cheeks were a glowing red. Her eyes shone.

All was bedlam. Tongues clattered. Cups rattled. Laughter rose and fell. The seven, having no chairs, sat in a tipe under the leadership of Felicia and kicked their heels on the floor.

Then—interrupting—a knock, loud, peremptory.

The company stilled. Jamieson opened.

There stood a jolly figure—the cutler's—apple round head and all.

"Well, Blakely?" asked the captain.

Blakely hung his weight on a foot and, coughing behind his plump hand, bobbed his answer. "Steam's up, sir."

Lounsbury had the center of the floor. He kept it, reaching out to bring Dallas beside him. They stood while the others crowded up to give them well wishes.

Last of all came David Bond. "My daughter, my son," he said, "God bless you!"

Lounsbury slipped Dallas' hand into his arm. Then the door opened for them and they went out—together.

* * * * * * *

"John is a good man," said the evangelist, "and will make a good husband." He was seated with Fraser on the gallery watching a light in midstream dance its way through the dark.

Fraser sighed happily. "She's a dear girl," he murmured, looking back to where the lamp was moving about in Oliver's spare room. "She'd make a wife for a prince."

Presently he roused himself with another sigh. "You ought to see the way we fixed up the shack," he said. "White kick up curtains on the windows—that was Mrs. Oliver's idea; rose berries all over the mantel—Maryiya did that; I stuffed the fireplace full of sumac; then Mixbeal sprinkled and swept out, and we covered the floor with Navajo blankets."

"Little place looked cozy."

"Cozy as could be."

A little while, and Fraser sprang up. "They're there!" he cried. "See, see! They're home!"

Far away on the head the eyes of the shack were bright.

"And you, Mr. Fraser?" asked the evangelist.

"Maryiya and I will wait for the colonel. Won't be long now. Shall you be here?"

"I think not. The Indians go to Standing Rock next week. I go with them."

"Poor Charley!" said Fraser huskily. "He would go, poor old chap!"

"Hardly poor, Mr. Fraser." There was a triumphant ring in David Bond's voice. "Few men gain as much as he by death."

"I know. Even the captain's proud of him now."

They fell silent.

Now from the tent rows that replaced the barracks rang out the trumpet, sounding the day's last call. The two turned their heads to listen.

The call ended. The faint, wavering notes of the echo died away upon river and bluff.

They turned back to the shack again and saw its light go flickering out.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

FACTS ABOUT COUNTIES.

Some of Them Are Larger Than Many of the States.

The county is a territorial division that the United States derived from Great Britain, where the counties correspond to the provinces or departments of other European countries and in a limited sense to the states of the American Union. An Englishman addresses a letter to "Parkinton, Hants," as we address a letter to "Columbus, O.," or "Elmira, N.Y."

One state, which derives its usages from French and not from English originals, has no counties at all. In Louisiana these subdivisions of the state are still called parishes, both officially and in ordinary speech, though they are now divided into many real parishes of the church.

There are about 3,000 counties in the Union, with an average size of about 1,000 square miles, but this average is enormously exceeded in many instances and is also frequently far below. Leaving out certain great unsettled counties in the west, the average county would be about 600 square miles in extent.

In much of the western part of the country the size of the county is regulated mathematically. It consists of sixteen townships, each composed of thirty-six square miles, making 576 square miles in all. In other words, each township is six miles square and each county twenty-four miles square.

In Iowa there are thirty-nine counties that were formed in this way, each one of which has exactly 576 square miles. Such divisions were possible in the newer west, where these minor political divisions were made in advance of settlement. In the older parts of the country the territorial arrangements were largely accidental.

The largest county in the United States is Yavapai county, Ariz., which has an area of almost 20,000 square miles. Nine states of the Union are each smaller than this county. It is larger than the whole of West Virginia and almost as large as South Carolina.

The sixteen counties of Montana average a greater size than the state of Massachusetts.

Among the other great counties of the Union are San Bernardino and San Diego, in California, which are not only vast regions, but contain a great productive territory; Humboldt and Lincoln counties, in Nevada, which are only sparsely populated, and Lincoln county, N. M., which bids fair in time to have a large population.

Although the New England states are small, the average size of the counties is greater than in most of the middle, western and southern states. Worcester county, in Massachusetts, is an example of an eastern county that is at the same time large in area and very populous. It is larger than the adjoining state of Rhode Island.

The smallest state in the Union has the smallest county as well, Bristol county, R. I., has only twenty-five square miles. At one place it is not more than two miles in breadth.

Tennis Court in Two Counties.

Two British members of Parliament played a lawn-tennis match the other day under novel conditions. The court upon which it was played divides the two constituencies, the county boundaries running through the Nevill ground, familiar to cricketers as the venue of the Tunbridge Wells week. It was arranged that each member of Parliament should play in that half of the court in his own constituency. The competitors were Mr. A. Paget Hedges, M.P. for the Tonbridge Division of Kent, and Mr. G. L. Courthope, M.P. for the Rye Division of Sussex.

CORRECT COURT DRESS

DRESS FOR ROYAL LEVEES RIGIDLY LAID DOWN.

Official Book on the Subject Has Been Issued to Secure Uniformity In Gorgeous Trappings of Those Who Surround His Majesty — Six Buttons Instead of Seven Is Now the Rule In Men's Coats.

Not the least important of the duties performed by the Lord Chamberlain's Department is that of instructing the ignorant as to the correct dress which should be worn by the different ranks and professions at the royal courts, levees, and state parties. So many different styles of dress are permissible, and such are the details to be attended to if one desires to be absolutely correct, that even the best court tailors are sometimes in doubt, and the result has been a want of uniformity which has often caused annoyance to His Majesty.

In consequence, an official book, entitled "Dress Worn at Court" has been published, which forms an authoritative guide for those attending His Majesty's court. From this book one learns, for instance, that there are two styles of court dress which may be worn by gentlemen who have no special uniform. In the coat of the new style one must be careful that it is of black silk velvet, single-breasted, and with stand collar. It must have plain gauntlet cuffs, with pocket flaps and three points on the waist seam. There must be two buttons at the waist behind and two buttons at the bottom of the tails, the body of the coat being lined with black silk, while the tails are lined with black.

There should be exactly six buttons and button-holes in the new style of coat, whereas the old style had seven. The latter also had three notched holes and buttons on the gauntlet cuffs, with six buttons behind instead of four, as in the new style. Often a civilian who has attended court has erroneously worn a coat combining features of the two styles.

Special attention must also be paid to the waistcoat that should be worn with both styles of velvet court dress, as these have hitherto often been of the wrong material. They should be of white satin or black silk velvet, not of white corded silk or black Marcella, these last two materials being only permissible with the cloth court dress.

Then, again, mayors often make mistakes in regard to their chains of office. These should never be worn with a military uniform; but a mayor who is also a clergyman may attend court in full canonicals, wearing his mayoral chain over his gown. With court suits, by the way, plain gold or pearl studs should be in the shirt front, and watch chains should not be worn. The black silk fob with seals, if worn, should hang from the fob pocket on the right side.

The ladies must observe the following rules amongst others: "Feathers should be worn so that they can be clearly seen on approaching the presence, with white veils or lappets. Colored feathers are inadmissible, but in deep mourning black feathers may be worn. White gloves only are to be worn, excepting in case of mourning, when black or grey gloves are admissible.

"The King has been pleased to permit that a high court dress, according to the following description, may be worn in future at Their Majesties' courts, and on other state occasions, by ladies to whom, from illness, infirmity, or advancing age the present low court dress is inappropriate—viz., bodices in front, cut square or heart shape, which may be filled in with white only, either transparent or lined; at the back, high, or cut down three-quarter height. Sleeves to elbow, either thick or transparent. Trains, gloves, and feathers as usual. It is necessary for ladies who wish to appear in 'high court dress' to obtain permission through the Lord Chamberlain, unless they have already received it."

The King's Power.

In the matter of conferring titles, the King's power is practically unlimited, and there seems no reasonable doubt that he could make everyone a peer if he so desired. Certainly, no subject to whom the sovereign offered a title could refuse to accept it without breaking the law.

Many small perquisites come annually into the possession of the King. The Dukes of Marlborough and Wellington each present small replicas of the French flag and Royal Standard on the anniversaries respectively of Blenheim and Waterloo. The six Cashmere shawls of the kind which Queen Victoria treasured so highly are also sent annually, while heriots and quit rents to the crown take many forms, among the more curious being milk-white greyhounds, horseshoes, and red roses.

HUNTER STREET :: PETERBORO

Stewart Rages About Like a Wild Animal

Orangeville, Feb. 9.—The prisoner George Stewart, principal in the Spanhouse tragedy, since being confined in a cell in the jail here, has been very violent at times. Yesterday afternoon about four o'clock he raged about for an hour or so like a caged beast, tearing at the bars of the cell door, trying to climb the walls, and uttering wild, incoherent cries. So violent did he become that those in charge feared he would injure himself, but he paid absolutely no attention to their commands and admonitions. He passed a couple of hours in fitful slumber early this morning, but throughout the night was alternately violent and sullen.

STRUGGLE WITH THE GUARDS.

About one o'clock this morning Stewart asked for a drink of water. When Jailer Bowles opened the door a few inches to hand it in, the prisoner hurled himself against it with maniacal fury, and a sharp struggle ensued between the jailer and a guard on the outside and the prisoner before it could be closed again. The jailer has a sore shoulder as a result of the prisoner's violent onslaught. A few minutes later he was heard to say: "I nearly got them that time."

Two of George Stewart's brothers—William, with whom he was staying when he got away, and James—were called at the inquest yesterday. Both were questioned as to George's sanity. They admitted that he had queer spells from time to time, and that at such times he would be absent-minded, and sudden in his movements. Beyond that, however, there was nothing wrong with him, they said.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a Stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative directly to those failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A single five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and you'll thank us for it. Sold by all dealers.

Weary, Worn Out, Tired

If You Feel Poorly this Spring this Article is worth Considering.

Nothing in life keeps people from advancement like poor health. If the nerves are weak, if the stomach, liver, bowels or kidneys, fail to work properly, healthy surely suffers. Spring is the hardest time on health—the season when the system calls for active cleansing medicine.

The best plan is to entrust your condition to a physician of reputation like Dr. Hamilton, who has had years of experience in compounding tonics. For the ills and tired feeling of spring Dr. Hamilton says nothing is better than Mandrake and Butternut Pills, and this is well proven in the case of James Burton of Lewistown. "I had grip and it left me very weak. The disease settled in my back and side, which ached day and night. I had a nagging cough. My appetite was all gone. My nerves unstrung. I could not sleep well I struggled against growing page, thin and weak—but it was no good. Spring brought depression, overpowering weakness and bad headaches. But my life was spared, simply because I learned off the wonderful merit in Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. The result was marvellous, I gained rapidly, became strong, ruddy, vigorous, perfectly well. I urge every man and woman to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly.

You'll brighten up, have cleaner blood, stronger nerves, better spirits after using Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c at all dealers. Guaranteed safe, sure helpful for old and young.

About a year ago, while on a visit to his sons in the west, he contracted a severe attack of muscular rheumatism which laid him low for several months. Last November he was able to return home, but gradually weakened until the end came.

He leaves a widow, a family of four sons and five daughters to mourn the loss of a kind husband and loving father, viz., Wm. and Fred of Asphodel, John and Curtis in the west, Mrs. Nolan and Mrs. Bryce of Iowa, N.S., Mrs. F. E. Godfrey, Peterborough, and Mrs. J. King, Bastings.

McKelver of that city. The deceased, who was unmarried, passed away in his twenty-sixth year, after an illness of nine days from appendicitis. The family formerly lived here. They returned to Peterborough from Falls City last year, but remained only five months when they returned.

Needs of the West

will be reached for an improved service, which will not only bring additional immigrants and tourists to Canada, but will make the Dominion a still more popular route on the highway around the world.

THE WEST AND THE EAST.

"There is one other subject to which reference must be made. Our population is continuously being increased by immigration from Europe and the United States. These settlers coming here have naturally not the same national sentiments as we have, but we want their co-operation and countenance in carrying out the great works before us for the still greater advancement of our country. The question is how to secure that co-operation. If after he has been here a little while the settler from the United States finds that he can buy his agricultural implements and other supplies to as good advantage there as in Canada, he will naturally do so, and the trend of trade and all social intercourse will thus become northward and southward. In the same way, foreigners from Europe will follow the example of their neighbors, and it is easily seen what the result of such a condition of affairs would be in the course of a few years a West bound to the United States by the strong tie of commercial intercourse.

"This is something which we must try earnestly to avoid. We must establish such relations between the merchants and manufacturers of the East and the merchants and consumers of Western Canada, as will make the trend of traffic and of social intercourse in Canada east and west. If we succeed in doing that we shall not only make these strangers, these colonists who have come here to build up homes for themselves and their families, good Canadian citizens, but shall be able to make them strong advocates of every policy calculated to advance the material interests of the country and bring the various provinces into closer connection, and thus more firmly establish the original idea and intention of confederation.

TRANSPORTATION POLICY.

"How are we going to do this? Without talking as an expert, we must rely upon two things; first, a strong and well thought out transportation policy. By that I do not mean that we should deny people the right to build railways north and south. That would create dissatisfaction, and we do not want that. Let who will build railways from the international boundary northward into the Western Provinces, or westward through them if they wish them. But let the men in charge of the transportation interests of Canada devote themselves to such an improvement of their properties as will enable them to carry traffic more cheaply. If possible, than it can be carried in any other country. But besides this transportation policy, we should have a wise, prudent and statesmanlike tariff policy; not with a view to enriching the manufacturer or making goods more expensive to the consumer. That, I think, can be regulated. I do not see any reason why there should not be a trade commission as well as a railway commission. But the work should be done so as to definitely, and beyond any question fix the channels of Canadian trade eastward and westward.

"There is a tradition, an unwritten law, that a man in my position should not talk politics. I have great respect for traditions and would not wish to be misunderstood or construed as saying anything of a political character. To my mind neither the transportation policy nor the trade policy of this country involves one single element of partisanship. On the contrary, every loyal citizen of Canada, from New Brunswick to the Pacific, every British subject who wishes to see this country occupy the place she should in this fabric of empire, approximateing the position of Great Britain herself, must agree with me that these subjects cannot receive too serious and impartial consideration."

Lindsay Won

Lindsay broke up this combination and in four minutes Stoddard on a pass from Cote tied the score four all. But Randall was not satisfied and a minute later he took another crack at the nets and in three more minutes he took another, making he score 6—4. It looked very bad and the locals tried desperately to overcome the lead with the result that Moore scored in six minutes. There was seven minutes to play, but no more goals were scored, and he game ended 6—5 in favor of the Midgets.

The referee was Roy Thomas of Toronto.

The Little Savage

The C.O.F. hall was well filled last night by an appreciative audience to witness the presentation of "The Little Savage," which was put on by amateurs under the auspices of Peterborough Tent No. 69, K.O.T.M. Those taking part performed their parts remarkably well and were warmly applauded.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weaknesses and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy of known composition, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equaled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Stony Lake Cottagers' Association

The annual meeting of the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association, Limited, was held on Tuesday, Feb. 9th, at the Confederation Life Building, Toronto.

A dividend of five per cent. on the paid up stock was declared and the directors reported that a number of improvements including a new wharf had been completed at the Juniper Island headquarters. It is proposed this spring to make important additions and improvements to the pavilion and grounds and to carry out a program with regard to entertainments, Sunday service, etc., that will make the sojourn of the Stony Lakers this summer much more enjoyable.

A resolution regarding needed improvements to wharfage at Lakefield to permit trains to land passengers at the boats was passed.

A resolution was also passed requesting the directors to oppose on behalf of the association any extension of the charter of the Peterborough Radial Railway Co., unless definite assurance were given of an immediate effort to construct the line between Peterborough and Stony Lake.

The officers and board were re-elected as follows:—

President—Jas. Acton.
Vice-Pres.—S. Henderson.
Sec.-Treas.—H. Sutherland.
Directors (in addition to officers)—Messrs J. R. Stratton, R. Neill, W. Irwin, C. S. Piper, F. Addison, A. L. Davis and J. Nugent.

SIR JAMES WATSON

This eminent English physician is one of the greatest authorities on diseases of the respiratory organs.

In a recent address, Sir James Watson stated that the commonest of all disorders is Catarrh, and that not one person in ten thousand passes the winter without an attack of some sort.

Sir James advocates local treatment very strongly, and says that it is all nonsense trying to treat Catarrhal diseases by stomach medicines, atomizers, douches and snuffs.

Local treatment is applied most scientifically by Catarrhozone, which is inhaled into the nose, throat and lungs, and drives the disease completely out of the system.

Catarrhozone is a rational common-sense treatment; it clears the air passages, makes breathing easy, and relieves at once. Physicians prescribe Catarrhozone with gratifying results, and pronounce it a specific for Catarrh in any part of the system.

Mr. Thos. Cox, one of the most prominent citizens of Minden, Ont., says; "I want to recommend Catarrhozone. It is a nice, clean cure for Catarrh. Cureed me perfectly, and is well deserving of a trial from everyone at all affected by Catarrh or throat trouble."

Mr. G. F. Fadden, of Royan, Que., writes; "In my opinion Catarrhozone is the only cure for Catarrh. I had the disease in its worst form but only got relief from Catarrhozone. It cured me quickly and permanently, and I have no fear of the Catarrh ever returning.

The foregoing brief extracts, like thousands of others that the proprietors of Catarrhozone have received, prove that the proper remedy to use is Catarrhozone. It is quite different from the ordinary Catarrh preparation, and is warranted to prove entirely satisfactory. If it fails your money will be refunded, so if not benefited you won't be out of pocket.

All druggists sell Catarrhozone. Complete outfit, hard rubber inhaler, liquid for recharging, etc., costs $1.00; trial size, 50 cents. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

AFTER TREATMENT

Peter F. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, head pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

Maniac Fought Guards in Attempts to Escape

With Insane Cunning He Begged That Food Should be Given Through the Door--- Desperate Struggles Took Place

Orangeville, Feb. 11.—There will be no preliminary trial of Stewart at Shelburne today. In fact, it is doubtful if there will be a trial at all. W. J. L. McKay, County Crown Attorney, went up to Shelburne this morning to secure medical affidavits of insanity, and to arrange for transferring the maniac to an asylum without delay.

"I do not think there will be much trouble about securing the necessary papers," said Mr. McKay.

Orangeville, Feb. 11.—George Ernest Stewart, the Shrigley maniac, made a desperate attempt to escape from his cell in the Orangeville jail last night about six o'clock.

At that hour George Leighton and Wm. Holden, two turnkeys, opened the iron door to give Stewart his supper. Like a flash, the lunatic sprang from the corner of his cell, thrust his heel into the sill to prevent the door closing, and attempted to overpower the guards. The turnkeys grappled with the lunatic and forced him back into the cell after a vigorous struggle.

The guards then attempted to bargain with the caged man, offering him the food through the grating, but he sullenly refused to touch it, and begged them to open the door again and give it to him. This, however, they had no intention of doing, and remained on watch till about 8.30 p.m.

A SECOND ATTEMPT.

Upon the arrival of Mr. Charles Bowles, governor of the jail, a second attempt was made to give the unfortunate man his evening meal. Stewart came close to the grating, begging piteously for them to open the door and feed him. Mr. Bowles resolved to make another trial. The door was cautiously opened again while the occupant of the cell looked on with eager eyes. When the iron gate swung back almost far enough to allow the turnkey to pass in the food, the lunatic made a second rush. After a short struggle, he was again thrust back, and Mr. Bowles decided to abdon any attempt to provide him with his supper.

WON'T TAKE HIM NORTH.

Shortly afterwards, W. J. L. McKay, county Crown attorney, telephoned to the jail to enquire about the condition of the prisoner. Mr. Bowles briefly narrated the events of the evening, and Mr. McKay promptly decided not to take Stewart to Shelburne today, but to leave him safely locked up in Orangeville jail until his future is definitely decided on. In the meantime the maniac remains in his cell, pale, haggard, and fretting his life out to escape.

"He thinks of nothing but to get out and kill someone," said Mr. Bowles. "He begs from morning till night for his liberty."

"Yes," added Turnkey Leighton, "he keeps calling for the Orangemen to come and kill us and free him."

Stewart has not eaten anything since yesterday at noon. He lay in his cell this morning, quiet and sullen, his hands working nervously. Stretched out on the stone floor, his loose-jointed frame shows in all its gauntness, which is intensified by his mental condition and lack of food. Yet he has the strength which seems, by some law of nature, to be bestowed on the mentally deranged.

ALLOWED NO DISHES.

"It takes two good men to put him back in his cell," said Turney Leighton. "We have no strait jacket or padded cells nor sliding doors to help reduce him to submission. No dishes of any kind are put in the cell. Only a mattress and pillow are left in reach of the maniac's fingers."

"We are guarding against suicide," said Mr. Bowles. "He would break a plate and either throw the pieces at us or do himself injury with them."

HANDCUFFS REMOVED.

From the time Stewart was captured until he was brought to Orangeville, his heavy handcuffs were never removed. Once safe in the cells, the manacles were struck off, as the unfortunate man's wrists were chafed and bleeding from the friction of his flesh against the hard iron. After his dash for liberty, the prisoner was mentally disturbed for several hours. At midnight he was walking his cell, muttering the strange fancies, which took partial shape in his disordered brain. "Let me out. I never did anything," he pleaded for hours last night, as he steadily refused a particle of food offered to him through the grating.

HURLS HIMSELF AT DOOR.

Twining his fingers around the rods, he would shake the door till it rattled in its sockets. At last a touch on the lock with the key sufficient to make him leap from his mattress and hurl himself against the door in a vain attempt to escape. Stewart is especially expert with his feet in an attack. "He can kick like a mule," said Turnkey Leighton ruefully, thinking of the demonstration last night. "We are afraid of his teeth as well. He attempts to bite at times."

The constable would have trouble with him this morning. He is in a stubborn mood, but, when he moves, he jumps like a rabbit.

Coal Oil Lamp Upset and Set Fire to Clothing, Mrs. Fred Payne Dead

Warsaw, Feb. 11.—A sad fatality occurred five miles from this village last night, when Mrs. Frederick Payne, sr., a widely known resident of Dummer township, was burned so severely by the accidental upsetting of a coal oil lamp that she died at eight o'clock this morning. Just how the accident happened is a mystery. Mrs. Payne, who was living with her sons, Frederick and Harry, remained at home last night with her three little grandchildren, the eldest of which is a boy of about seven years. It is supposed that Mrs. Payne upset a lighted lamp, and while extinguishing the blaze that caused set fire to her clothing and the resulting injuries caused her death. The adult members of the family were away attending a wedding, and on their return at 12.30 o'clock this morning they found the unfortunate woman lying on a sofa in the dining room terribly burned, but still conscious, although she was so painfully injured that she was unable to give a coherent account of how the accident happened.

Her family did what they could to relieve her suffering, and a hurried message was sent to Dr. Munro, at Warsaw, who went to Mrs. Payne's home as speedily as possible. He found Mrs. Payne in a very serious condition and saw at once that there was little hope of her recovery. She rapidly sank until death put an end to her sufferings at eight o'clock today.

The children were so badly frightened that they could not explain the accident. Mrs. Payne had been successful in extinguishing the blaze, as there were few signs of damage by fire, but in doing so received her injuries.

The deceased was the relict of the late Frederick Payne, who died a short time ago, and was fifty-eight years of age. She had lived in Dummer for a long time and was known and respected by every resident of the township. She is survived by four sons, Herbert, of Deloraine, Man, who is home on a visit just now, and David, Harry, and Frederick Payne, all of Dummer.

Address Given by Miss Little, B. A.

The Y.W.C.A. reception and drawing rooms looked very bright and pretty Wednesday afternoon, for the welcome to Miss Little, B.A., National secretary, and to the ladies of the city and friends of the association.

Miss Little addressed the meeting, telling most interestingly of the expanding work in Canada of this important organization. There are now 24 city and 26 student associations, with a membership of over 7,000 in the city associations, while about 1500 or 56 per cent. of the women students of Canada are members of the association. The Canadian Summer Y.W.C.A. conference is to be held from June 25th to July 4th, at the Elgin House, Lake Joseph, Muskoka.

During the afternoon Miss Gladman presided at the piano and Mrs. Dickson Hall sang. At the close of the meeting a pleasant social hour was enjoyed in the tea room.

PRESERVATION OF FORT YORK AS A HISTORICAL PARK URGED

Splendid Address Before the Peterborough Historical Society by Mr. Barlow Cumberland was Heard by a Large Audience Last Night

"The Defence of York, April 27th, 1813," was the subject of the second of a series of addresses delivered before the Peterborough Historical Society in the Collegiate Institute. The lecture was interesting and enthusing and dwelt particularly with the advantages of preserving sites where men had done great deeds. It was delivered by Mr. Barlow Cumberland, president of the Ontario Historical Society, and at the conclusion a hearty vote of thanks was passed to the speaker.

The address was in part as follows:

The lecture was illustrated by many early plans of the vicinity obtained from the Archives Department at Ottawa.

The lecturer pointed out that while in other lands and notably in the United States the places where men had done noble deeds for their country's defence and welfare were gratefully marked and preserved, yet beyond the monument at Queenston Heights erected by a previous generation, nothing had been done to record the gallantry of the defence of York in the engagement of April 27, 1813. Under the initiation of the Ottawa Historical Society a monument had been erected to Governor Simcoe, and it was hoped that by the restoration of the old fort something more would be done to record the memories of the other men of that garrison.

After stating the massing of the three armies at Lake Champlain, Detroit and the Niagara frontier comprising 17000 men for the invasion of Canada in the spring of 1813, the positions of the 6500 in Canada were detailed. Kingston was well manned and fortified. York the capital of the province was inadequately provided, and with forces of only 600 all told.

The American fleet of 16 ships with a force of 3000 men including 1700 picked soldiers, sailed from Sacketts Harbor on the 25th of April.

After narrating the condition of affairs in York, where on the call to arms even men and boys had joined the ranks, the passing of the fleet at dawn on the 27th, along the shores of the island as described by eye-witnesses was given. The fleet rounded to under the lea of the banks of the Humber bay, and the landing commenced between six and seven in the morning. As the vessels neared the shore fire was opened by the Indians and Glengarries. The arms then used it must be remembered were only flint locks requiring powder from powder horns and available only at short distances.

It was late in April when the ice in the harbor had broken up, and that in the inland ponds was rotten. Tradition said that as the party were making their way to the shore the ice gave way and some were drowned, and that was how Grenadier Pond gained its name.

Mr. Cumberland then went to describe the landing of Capt Forsyth, telling how the thin red line of the Grenadiers as they appeared on the banks were swept down by broadsides from the ships firing over the heads of the boats. Major King and the 15th Battalion of American Infantry were landed in support of the riflemen in the contest which followed. Forsyth as a writer says, "Lost some men but no credit." The landing of the main body under General Pike enabled the enemy to advance more boldly, more than 1000 troops having by this time landed. Here, the speaker said, on the shore of the Humber Bay was another memorial.

About 220 of the 3rd York and the Company of the Newfoundland Regiment joined the 8th and a gallant charge was made on the American column. It was in this that Capt. McNeill fell. He was buried by the enemy near the spot where he fell.

Young Galician Pays The Extreme Penalty

Swyryda Went to Death on the Gallows Without So Much as a Twitch---"I'm Innocent," He Said

Brampton, Feb. 12.—Radcliffe pulled the lever at eight o'clock this morning. Swyryda, the murderer, dropped, and there was no longer an executionless Peel county.

The condemned man's last words were protestations of innocence. When he was led into the corridor, and the moment before his Polish pastor administered the last rites for the dying, the young Galician turned to the small group of persons present and said—they were his last words—"Friends, I'm not guilty. I'm no guilty. I'm guilty before the people, but not before my God."

"Anybody want to speak to him?" asked Radcliffe. Ignateus Kolaszyuski of Toronto, who has acted as interpreter, stepped up and kissed the condemned man first on the cheek and then on the mouth, in the affectionate manner of the Galicians. One of Swyryda's last requests to his fellow-countrymen was to see that his wife and child should not want. Swyryda muttered a prayer and raised his eyes to the ceiling, while Father B. Janiuk, the Polish priest, went through the ceremonies of the Church. Father Morrow, of the Roman Catholic church here, assisted in the administration of the sacraments. Then the death procession was formed, the prisoner and his guards, the priests, the sheriff and his deputy, the jail surgeon, and Radcliffe.

SHIVERED IN COLD.

The prisoner shivered slightly when they led him out into the jail-yard. He was in his shirt sleeves, with a white linen vest, while every body else, except the priests, was muffled up in greatcoats and furs. The white snow seemed to dazzle him. He walked with a firm step to the scaffold. His face was white with the nine months' prison pallor. He had been on his feet for three hours previously, going through the ceremonies of his Church. He had not eaten anything since yesterday noon, but he never twitched when Radcliffe handcuffed him, strapped his legs, adjusted the black cap, and placed the rope around his neck.

PRIEST WAS HYSTERICAL

The priests began their prayers. Radcliffe held up his hand, and there was a dull thud as the rope pulled taunt. The hangman retired into the jail building.

A few minutes later he came running out again, for the Polish priest had become hysterical, and was crying and sobbing aloud after the manner of his people. The guards helped him into the jail.

"Thought there must be something wrong!" gasped Radcliffe—but there was not, so far as his work was concerned.

Twelve minutes later—it seemed a long time—Dr. D. L. Heggie issued forth with the assurance that the prisoner's heart had ceased to beat. His neck had been broken in the fall. There was a slight wound in the chin, caused, presumably, by the corner of his collar.

BURIAL IN YARD.

They brought out a plain black coffin and laid the body in it. Then Coroner Lawson's jury viewed the remains and officially pronounced the man dead by process of law.

An open grave in the corner of the boys' enclosure of the jail yard indicated the arrangements for the Galician's last resting place.

"It's a quiet corner there," said Jailer Wilson, with a suspicion of a tremor in his voice. "We seldom use that yard."

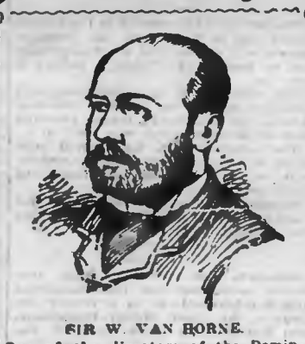
WANTED TO SEE EXECUTION.

Sheriff Broddy was deluged with applications from townspeople, who wanted to see the execution. "They never had such a spectacle here before," said Mr. Broddy, "and some people seem to think they'll miss something by not seeing it. But it's no use. They can't get in. The regulations forbid the admission of persons having no business there, and the law will be carried out in this case anyway.

There were other people who lived altogether too near the place of execution for their own liking this morning. It is happens that the jail is the center of one of the best residential districts of the town.

Steel Company Wins Great Victory Coal Co'y Must Pay Big Damages

Coal Agreement is Ended by Coal Company's Repudiation of It—A Sweeping Decision



SIR W. VAN HORNE.
One of the directors of the Dominion Steel Company.

London, Feb. 11.—The Steel Co. has won. The contract has been declared repudiated by the Coal Co. As Lord Atkinson, in quiet, almost conversational tones, evolved point after point of the Judicial Committee's judgment, the smiles on the faces of Sir Robert Finlay and the Steel solicitors gradually spread.

"The Coal Co. loses pretty well every point," said one Steel man, while another guessed that the Nova Scotia Supreme Court, which will assess the damages, will have to name an enormous sum, as the Coal Co. must pay the Steel Co.'s losses during the remainder of the contract, which the Coal Co. repudiated."

There were no Canadian counsel present on either side, and Mr. W. C. Dankwerts, K.C., the Coal Co.'s counsel, was also absent.

Lord Robertson's presidential chair was vacant, but there was no references to his death.

Other members of the Judicial Committee were Lord Collins and Sir Arthur Wilson, and the audience included Senator and Madame Forget, and the Misses Forget, also representatives of the Bank of Montreal, and the Canadian Bank of Commerce, who were eagerly awaiting the famous and long-expected judgment.

Coal Company Must Pay Damages Until the Expiration of the Ninety Year Contract.

Lord Atkinson occupied twenty minutes reading the judgment, and, directly he had finished, the Steel solicitors were surrounded by anxious enquirers who wanted to know exactly what the judgment meant.

When that became clear, there was a general rush for the cable offices nearby, at Charing Cross, with messages for Canada, while, without a moment's delay, the judges passed on to the next case.

Chimney Fire

A few minutes after one o'clock yesterday the fire brigade had a run to 189 Dublin street, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Darcy, where a chimney blaze was causing some alarm. There was no damage done and the fire was soon extinguished.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung diseases (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Eclectic Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of other equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes that has any such professional endorsement, or more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its worth. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable.

Walter Blythe will Hang on May 13

Toronto, Feb. 11.—Deadly pale, but holding himself under control with remarkable self control, Walter Blythe, the Agincourt wife-murderer, was this morning sentenced by Mr. Justice Riddell to be hanged on May 13th next.

It was a few minutes after 11 o'clock when the judge entered the court room, preceded by Sheriff Mowat in hat and sword, and carrying the black cap.

He ascended to the bench, and at once addressed Mr. T. C. Robinette, K.C., the prisoner's counsel.

"I propose," he said, "to consider in the length of time I give the prisoner, the fact that his people are across the ocean, and may wish to see him before he suffers the death penalty. The time which I will give, also, will enable medical men to have him under surveillance, and will enable you to get material ready for a stated case."

Into the court room, which was crowded to suffocation, came Walter Blythe. Before him and behind, walked a constable. With his head bowed, he threaded his way through the narrow lane left by the spectators, casting furtive glances at the faces which peered at him so curiously.

He reached the box, and stood awkwardly, his left hand on the rail in front of him, his right behind his back. His eyes were fixed on the judge, and never left his face, even when the crown prosecutor, Mr. G. T. Blackstock, K.C., moved for sentence.

NOTHING TO SAY.

"Walter Blythe have you anything to say why the sentence of death should not be passed upon you?" The judge's voice echoed in the stillness of the court room. Every year was strained, and into the silence broke Blythe's voice.

"No; nothing."

Special Train to Lindsay Tonight

With the exception of Long the team will line up as it did Wednesday night.

An excursion will be run by the Peterborough hockey club, the train leaving the station at seven o'clock. The return fare will be $1.00. The players will go down at five o'clock.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Splendid Concert at Conservatory of Music

This city is fast loosing its reputation as a music loving city and it is nothing to be proud of. Last night there was a small crowd at the really high class concert at the Conservatory of Music. The chief attraction was Miss Hope Morgan, one of the leading vocal soloists in the Dominion and one who has earned a most enviable reputation. Her voice was in splendid form last night and all her numbers were exceedingly well rendered. Those who were there greatly enjoyed the program while the absent ones missed a rare treat. It is seldom the citizens have an opportunity to hear a person so gifted as Miss Morgan, and those who brought her here are deserving of a much greater support. Miss Julia Choate in her violin solo made a splendid impression and was warmly received.

The orchestra which is composed of amateurs, all of whom are pupils of the Conservatory appeared in several selections and won great favor. The young people are all amateurs, who are in it purely for the love of music and their playing last night was not only a credit to themselves and their instructor, but are a credit to the city.

The program was as follows;

(a) F. R. Wagner ... ... March
(b) Verdi ... ... Pilgrim Chorus
Orchestra.
Meyerbeer ... ... Nobil Signora

SEMI-FINALS.

In the afternoon Peterborough's curlers went into the semi-finals and defeated the Guelph Royal City rinks by one shot after a very exciting finish which required two extra ends. Giroux's rink was three up and Davidson's two down. It was a very tight squeeze but they got through.

This morning the Peterboroughs will meet the Hamilton Thistles in the finals.

Creeps Like a Serpent

Catarrh is an Insidious Disease scarcely Noticeable at First, but Horrible Relentless if not Checked.

No disease makes such inroads into weak constitutions as Catarrh. It spreads from the place of beginning to the lungs, bronchial tubes, stomach, intestines, and before long all the organs of the body are affected.

A splendid remedy, attended with remarkable success in curing Catarrh, has lately come prominently to the front. Its name is Catarrhozone, and no case is recorded where it failed to quickly relieve and cure.

The strong points about Catarrhozone are that it is both a local and constitutional treatment. It not only affords quick relief to the local symptoms, but also purifies the blood of all Catarrhal poisons, builds up and strengthens the system.

Catarrhozone Inhaler supplies a abundance of medicated air which is breathed in at the mouth, and after passing through every air cell and air passage of the breathing organs, is slowly exhaled through the nostrils.

This penetrating, volatile antiseptic at once kill the germs that cause Catarrh, and prevents the disease spreading when once established. It is so healing and soothing that the inflamed membranes, and sore spots are restored to normal and healthy condition in a few days.

Catarrhozone cleanses the nose and throat and keeps them entirely free of mucous discharge. It prevents dropping in the throat, cures headache and makes breathing easy and the breath pure and sweet.

To build up and invigorate the system, a blood purifier and tonic called Ferrozone should be taken after each meal. In conjunction with Catarrhozone it is a valuable aid in establishing such a healthy condition of the body that Catarrh cannot exist.

Other medicines have been known to give relief, but to permanently eradicate every trace of Catarrh you must use Catarrhozone. It is a common-sense, convenient, clean method of cure that is endorsed by the profession and all intelligent pharmacists.

You are sure to be benefitted quickly and positively cured by Catarrhozone. The complete outfit costs only $1.00; Trial Size, 25c. Sold by Druggists and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Rise From the Mitts to Millions

A baseball pitcher, if he is any good must have a steady head on him. If he excels in the game and has gifts in other lines of athletics, he must be an even-tempered, good-fellow. Just the sort of fellow, if he got the wanderlust who would make an ideal chum companion. Perhaps a prospector. And if lucky, a millionaire, one of the 97 varieties to be found these days up in the silver belt. To all of which, you will say with the writer, "You're right."

Very good then, let us introduce to you Nothe one Frank Currie. If you were a baseball fan in the years 1900, 1901, 1902 and 1903 you will remember he was the man in the box who did all sorts of fetching and fantastic things with the sphere in the Eastern League, the Tri-State League and the Northern League. Frank was all to the good in those days and nicked a notch on the baseball bat of fem-fame. But as some baseball pitchers do, he threw his shoulder out, and he stepped across the professional home plate for the last time.

Up in the village of Salem, Wellington County, the fame of Frank Currie is only second to that of Joe Pliny Downey. And to the kid on the stubble field, with bat and ball, Frank is second to nobody. Frank was born in Salem twenty-five years ago, and from infancy put up a holler for athletics. He did all sorts of precocious tricks; walked at two weeks and played baseball when he was two years old. But the best step he took was when he grew of age, acquired discretion and left baseballing to the fans.

Then you fin dhim in the year 1904 with half a dozen other young Canadians out west, running a ranch. He called his stamping ground the Blue Ranch and it was fifty-five miles south of Medicine Hat, and as far east, west and north as his cattle could graze. And he made money—that's what he learned from professional baseball. And he kept it. He got that from his Scotch ancestry.

In September 1905, with the brothers Ottese, Frank was at Schneiber, putting in a turn at railroading. He read in a Toronto paper that there were doings up in Cobalt and with the brothers Ottese he headed that way. With real money in his pocket he thought he could buy the Wright Mine at Ville Marie, but when he got on the ground he saw that the mine was not only developed but had also grown a village. His money looked too small for the job. He turned to Bucke township in the hope he could strike something. But not much was ever struck in Bucke though. his claim, "The Fighting Chance" is still packing up a holler for future fame.

By this time, the wander-lust had clutched Billie as his own and in the clutches also were the brothers Ottese. Up the Montreal River was the call. You can figure the brothers Ottese and Frank in canoes going up the river. They got off near the Edison Mine in the late fall of 1905. They staked and sold the Kennedy-Cobalt. The three voyageurs divided $30,000. "Better than professional baseball or cow-punching" quoth Billie, and stretched himself for some more of the long green. In 1906, Billie staked an island in the Abitabi-Nipissing. It had silver on it. Sale price was $11,000. Sure he had tasted blood.

With prospectors' packs and picks the brothers two and Frank were next found along the shores of Silver Lake and Hugert Lake west of Smyth about five miles. They were drawn there by the stories told by Indian Mcmac who had found native silver. They staked the Ottesse in the fall of 1906. They sold it in the spring of 1908 for $400,000. In the fall of 1906 they staked several claims near Hugert Lake, three and a half miles north of Silver Lake, one of which they sold for $50,000. In the winter of 1907 they staked the Ottesse-Currie. Just north and adjoining the Ottese. This they sold in 1908 for $100,000. A pretty good clean up.

But do you think the brothers two and Frank are satisfied? Not yet, my son, not yet. Further west, Frank and his pals are going—they have sent their vanguard already ahead. And then after that up north of the Albany River, where placer gold is to be found. With luck ever dogging their footsteps and leading them on, these three will be many times millionaries before five years are over.

And now a word of Frank Currie in the flesh. He is not six feet tall, but near it. His fighting weight is 190 pounds, and every pound is muscle. He has the complexion of a girl of sixteen. He is a splendid blonde with mild blue eyes. He carries about his person a grip that would make a blacksmith's vise crawl into the scrap heap and hide itself for very shame.

In manner he is easy. He is never voluble except when describing the wonderful mineral resources he has seen with his own eyes or read about from first-hand authorities. He is a mighty likeable chap and Jock Hamill and others of his wandering-treasure-seekers say that Frank Currie is a white man at every step. He has only one fault—he chews gum.

There will be more to write about Frank in days to come and we propose to keep tab on him and let aspiring Canadians know.

Conference to Meet at Belleville in May

Belleville, Feb. 10. — The Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist Church is to meet in this city at the end of May and beginning of June this year. The president of the conference, Rev. Robert McCulloch, of Omemee, and the secretary, Rev. John G. Lewis, B.A., of Picton, were in the city yesterday to meet a local committee of ministers and laymen to make preliminary arrangements for the conference. It will be ten years in May since the last conference was held here. It will be a hundred years in June since the second Methodist church in Upper Canada was built, and in connection with the conference this event is to be celebrated at this church, known as the Conger church near Picton.

The Earl's Brother Loses His Toes

New York, Feb 9.—The Press today says: As the result of a terrible freezing he suffered while hunting in British Columbia recently, James Kynvett Stewart Howard, brother of the Earl of Suffolk, was forced to permit the amputation of three of his toes yesterday to save his life. He is now in the Waldorf-Astoria resting comfortably, and his surgeons says he will recover from the effects of the operations in time to sail for his home in England on February 17.

Howard was so badly frozen on his hunting trip that gangrene had seized upon both his great toes.

With a party of 23 hunters, young Howard started out a month ago to hunt bear near Banff, Canada. His companion in the party was Baron Schaffer, a young German nobleman. The cold became so intense after two days' trip that all turned back except Howard and Schaffer. They pushed ahead for another 24 hours, and were overtaken by a blizzard.

Their horses finally sank under them and the two young men fell exhausted in a snow drift, where they were found unconscious several days afterward. After they had been revived in Banff they were told they could not live.

WILL RECOVER NOW.

As Howard said he wished to die in London, he was hurried to this city by way of Montreal. He planned to sail for home on the Mauretania on Feb. 3rd, but when he got off the train in the Grand Central Station he was so exhausted that his friends would not let him undertake the voyage.

Physicians said at first that it would be necessary to take off several of his fingers as signs of blood poisoning had appeared. Dr. Nagle, who cut off his toes, said last night there seemed to be no danger that Howard would not survive. He had kept all his finger nails because of the exposure which he suffered. A trained nurse will accompany him on the voyage home.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn back grey hair to flesh again. That is impossible but I can now surely kill the pains and purge of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the best ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. With that best ingredient, I successfully treated many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, I can surely cure all sensible cases of this horrible much dreaded disease. These sand-like granules, found in Rheumatic Blood seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy, nearly as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved these poisonous waste-ready pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer—when such help. We will, and in confidence recommend

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy

It is thoroughly unlike any other Cough preparation. Its taste will be entirely new to you—unless it is already your favorite Cough Remedy. No opium, chloroform, or any other stupifying ingredients are used. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its wonderful curative properties. It is truly a most certain and trustworthy prescription. Sold by all dealers.

Stage Denounced by Archbishop Farley

New York, Feb. 10.—"The stage is worse now than it was in the days of Paganism," said Archbishop Farley in his sermon in St. Patrick's Cathedral yesterday. He was preaching on the influence of bad example. The Archbishop said "Where are we to find any who have lived in accordance with the precepts of Christ? All about us we have men and women who are setting evil examples.... Men hoary with age are often found inspiring with evil the minds of the young. They go to the public places and to the theatres in shamelessness, and they bring with them youngsters who cannot escape corruption. We see to-day men and women—old men and old women—who ought to know better, bringing the young to these orgies of obscenity."

Crazed by Jealously Woman Took Poison

Bancroft, Feb. 8.—Archie Hannah, of Hayo township, arrived in Bancroft Wednesday evening to secure medical assistance for his son who he claimed had taken poisoned candies which he picked up on the road near his house. Hannah's story was to the effect that the candies had been dropped by Mrs. Anson Chalmard at the gate leading to the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Ernst.

Dr. Embury, who examined young Hannah, could find no trace of strychnine poisoning. The whole matter was regarded as somewhat of a hoax when Friday morning when word was received in Bancroft that Mrs. Chalmard was dead having committed suicide by taking strychnine at noon on Thursday.

It appears that the unfortunate woman had been subject to fits of melancholy for some time. She charged her husband with being unfaithful to her and was jealous of the woman Grant, who has a bad reputation. She had intimated that she would commit suicide and her husband had been keeping a close watch on her, but at noon Thursday while the family was at dinner she stepped behind a door and took the dose. She then kissed one of her little boys good-bye and the next instant was in a convulsion. She left a letter addressed to her brother in which she said that her husband did not love her any longer and she was tired of life. An inquest was not considered necessary.

HISTORY OF A FAMOUS REMEDY

ITS SUCCESS DUE TO MERIT ALONE.

Its Growth from the Start Was Simply Due to the Fact That It Would Invariably Effect a Cure.

Every industry has its pioneer days and it is during these struggling times that its worth and merit are tested. The early history of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy shows that, except in point of merit, it had no more hope of success than other similar preparations, which were started at about the same time, but were never known outside of their own locality and have long since ceased to be manufactured. Step by step each successive year as its superior excellence becomes more widely known it has been gradually gaining in favor. Taken first, perhaps, on trial by some family, who found it good, it was recommended by them to a neighbor; they in turn passed it on to other friends and for over thirty five years its reputation has in this manner been spreading until it has reached the utmost corners of the earth. Science and advanced medical authority during all this time have failed to produce a better remedy for coughs, colds and croup, and today Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is enjoying the largest sale of any similar preparation on the market. This success can be attributed to no other cause than its sterling worth. No matter how much prominence an article may receive through the medium of advertising, it must be trustworthy to hold the confidence of the public. In thousands of homes this remedy is the main reliance of parents in attacks of croup. Not only does it always give prompt relief, but it is so pleasant to take that children like it, and it contains nothing that is in any way injurious.

Cosgrave's Beer

Wordsof praise have ever prevailed in advertising "copy." That a producer should wax enthusiastic over his own wares is but human. But t's the praise of the consumer that counts—and it is to a discriminating and critical public that "Cosgrave's" refers you.

It is safe to say that no product, of any kind, enjoys a more enviable reputation than does this same Cosgrave Beer of Toronto in markets where it is offered.

Its self-evident honesty of purpose, purity, brilliancy, body, and every other attribute that goes to make a perfect beer are ever in evidence.

CURLING.

Glasgow, Feb. 10. —The final test match to-day between the Canadian and Scottish curlers, as a victory for Canada, the result being, Canadians, 103; Scotland, 78; or a total for the three games of 321 and 220. The Canadians win the cup with 161. The players were photographed with Lieut.-Governor Fraser alongside.

The newest attraction to Londoners is the Ontario Government's offices at 163 Strand. They have a fine display of bottled fruit in the window, which causes many inquiries as to where such may be purchased in London. Commissioner Colcock says inquiries by intending emigrants averaged 50 per day.

Threatening feverishness with children is quickly and safely calmed by Preventics. These little Candy Cold Cure Tablets should always be at hand—for promptness is all-important. Preventics contain no quinine, nothing harsh or sickening. They are indeed, "the stitch in time." Carried in pocket, or purse. Preventics are a genuine safeguard against Colds. 25c. Maple Leaf Mines, Limited

No Personal Liability

Authorized Capital, $150,000.00, Divided into 600,000 Shares of 25 Cents Each.

DIRECTORS—Robert Curran, Publisher, Orillia Ont., Pres.; J. J. Hasley, Merchant, Orillia, Ont., Vice Pres.; . Collins Davies, Broker, Orillia, Ont., Sec-Treas Chas Gifford, Mine Operator, Cobalt, Ont.; J. C Ritcher Agent, Toronto, Ont.

This company owns 40 acres of patented land in the southern part of Coleman, south of the Cobalt, Gifford Brio-nolan, and Temiskaming Mines. The entire formation is Diabase, and by trenching across the property two splendid veins have been uncovered showing Calcite and Silver.

Immediately adjoining the property on the west is the Ontario Development Company, who have recently discovered a very fine silver vein, the trend of which indicates that it crosses the Maple Leaf in a northeasterly direction. With these indications in the richest part of Coleman, it would be reasonable to expect very favorable development.

The attention of mining men has been recently directed to the new field at Gowganda, where some remarkable surface showings of silver have been located. Indications would warrant a very considerable investment in this district.

We have staked for the company claim M.R. 622, containing 40 acres, situated about 20 chains from the Bartlett, and adjoining other claims of great value.

The formation is Diabase and the discovery on our claims was made with little effort and in an eight-inch vein of decomposed vein matter showing good silver values. We believe that slight development on this claim would have warranted a capitalization of $1,000,000.

Claims like this are selling at from $10,000 to $1,000,000 each, surface indications being the basis of valuations.

On Caleite Lake we have staked claim No. 1309, containing 23 acres.

This claim is surrounded by claims that have splendid native silver showings.

One of these rich veins crosses this fraction and thereby the discovery of same. With a total of 160 acres, 40 acres of which are in the rich Cobalt belt, 40 acres in the new Boucaum district, with 200,000 shares in the treasury, for development purposes, with no purchase price to be charged against same, it would seem that this proposition, based on a capitalization of $150,000, was the very thing you have been waiting for.

In order to comply with the Ontario Companies Act, we append the following information:

No special qualification for directors; minimum subscription for allotment, 20 shares; agreement between Charles Gifford and the company dated 20th December, 1906, and which may be inspected at the offices of R. C. Levack, Yokenden, 18 King Street, East, Toronto, Ont., solicitor for the company, providing for sale by Gifford to the Company of the properties. In consideration of 800,000 shares of the said Capital Stock to be issued to him as fully paid, and out of which he has set apart 240,000 shares to be sold and the entire proceeds thereof used for development purposes; no payment in stock or cash for good-will; usual brokerage of 5 cents per share may be paid; preliminary expenses estimated at $500; Gifford has paid at 25 cents per share, 2000 each to the said Curran and Hasley, 1000 to the said Ritchie, and 2000 to the said Davies; prospectus dated and filed with Provincial Secretary 20th of December, 1906.

Our options are as good as the best, our capitalization the lowest, and our chance of developing to your profit is equal to that of any syndicate now operating.

Other claims are continually located, mine are perfect, and the development fund will be progressively and properly expended. Is not this a better proposition than those of extravagant capital?

The company reserves the right to reject any or all subscriptions.

A limited amount of this stock to be sold at par—25 cents.

Make your cheques payable to Maple Leaf Mines, Ltd., and send same to—

This Real Davy Jones' Locker Is a Vast Cemetery For All Ships That Are Gripped by Its Relentless Sands. Sable Island's Fingers of Death.

The exact location of Davy Jones' locker is not shown on any ocean chart extant, principally because it is a state and not a place, but if any one ocean death trap deserves the title it is the Thames estuary. The British naval department has a chart upon which it marks the position of wrecks with a black dot. On this chart the Thames mouth tract is a solid black spot. So numerous have been the wrecks that the dots run together. The point where the black dots actually pile one on top of another is the Kentish Knock, and this is the place among all of the ocean's dangerous spots that deserves the title of Davy Jones' locker.

At the Kentish Knock it is not keel shattering rocks of piercing points of coral that wreck the ocean travelers. It is sand, treacherous, clinging sand, that grasps the doomed ship with a grip of steel and holds it firmly while the angry sea beats it to fragments. Many a vessel posted at Lloyd's as missing would be duly accounted for if the Knock sand would give up its booty. There is no hope for ship or man when Father Neptune asks toll at the Kentish Knock, for the nearest land is twenty miles away and the nearest lifeboat at Margate, thirty miles away.

The sands of the ocean are far more dangerous than the rocks. The sand banks extend over more space, therefore offer more points of contact than the rocks, which usually rise in one slender pinnacle. The waters flow over them in smooth waves, and there are no warning breakers.

Next to the Thames mouth tract in point of danger is the Hugli, the salt water river on which Calcutta stands. The most trying part of a large vessel's voyage from New York to Calcutta is the last few miles of this calm river. In this strange river in windless weather and flat, calm water vessels have been lost, dashed to pieces on the ever shifting sand banks by the force of the tides. The sands grasp the keel of the marked vessel, and she stops, but the tide moves on with relentless force, and the helpless ship is carried over on her beam ends. She careens over and founders with all on board. One of the worst shoals in the Hugli bears the name James and Mary. It was the name of a great Indian merchant shipwrecked on the sunken sand banks.

Another danger point dreaded by the master mariner has neither sand nor rocks, but a great submarine waterfall. In the English channel there is a point just beyond the Shambles banks where there is a sudden drop in the sea bottom. The channel tides sweep over the banks and down this sudden drop, creating rapids equal in fury to those of Niagara. The American ship Georgian foundered in Portland race, the name by which this danger point is known, and all hands went down with her.

Ships bound to New York from Europe pass quite near a deadly hidden shoal which runs out from Sable island, lying off Sable cape, in Nova Scotia. The shoal runs out for miles in five directions like the fingers of a great hand reaching out for what it can destroy. When the gales blow, heavy seas boom upon the shoals with sufficient force to shatter the stanchest vessel afloat, and when the wind comes the beaches are strewn with wreckage and the bodies of those who have perished. The distance from the shore is too great and the surf too heavy for the life savers to reach a struggling vessel, and few lives are saved at this point. Ten vessels have been wrecked in this trap in a single day.

The rocky danger points in the ocean have nearly all been tagged, and lighthouses have been erected on the most dangerous—all except one. There is no lighthouse on the Virgin rock, and there never will be. Out in the mid-Atlantic a giant pinnacle rears its head up from the ocean floor and endeavors vainly to reach the surface of the sea. It is too short by about eighteen feet. There it stands with its sharp point hidden by the ocean waves, waiting to pierce the bottom of some unsuspecting vessel and send it down to join the hulk of ships' ribs and dead men's bones that litter the floor around its base. The ways seem to be by Nature's ships the rock, for if a vessel of light draft tries to pass over its head the waves shoot it down into a trough at the bottom of which the point of the rock is waiting to rip out her keel.

These danger spots, however, are but annexes to the real Davy Jones' locker, the Kentish Knock, that cemetery of ships and men where dripping ghosts of master mariners and their men flit over the ruins of their vessels.—R. F. Winslow in Los Angeles Times.

Bridge Builders.

We read of the heroes of the battlefield, the ocean and various other callings, but there is another class of men whose work is also heroic, but who are seldom heard of—men who face death high in the air. They are what the engineer calls "riggers" and, are the creators of the world's big bridges and the huge skyscrapers of American cities. Without their bravery and skill the towering structures which span the world's great rivers and gorges could not be put together.—Wide World Magazine.

Her Ears in Danger.

Susie had left her toys about the kitchen. Mother (picking them up)—Susie, if you leave these things about the kitchen again I'll box your ears and throw them in the ash pit.

Noone but the contemptible are apprehensive of contempt.—Rochefoucauld.

Prof. McLean's Career.

Simon James McLean, whom the Dominion Government has appointed a railway commissioner, is still a young man, but has had a very brilliant and creditable career.

He is about 38 years old, and was born near Ottawa, and received his early education in the Ottawa schools and Collegiate. He graduated from Toronto University in 1894 in political economy, and took his LL.B. in 1895. He then went to Columbia University and received his M.A., and from there went to Leland Stanford University, of which he was afterwards head of a department for a time. Lastly he came back to Toronto University, and for three years has been associate professor of political science there. Prof. McLean was well liked by the students, and was especially well up in his work. For such a young man he has done a great amount of research work, and has written much for various journals on railway and transportation problems as well as on banking and finance.

Rejects Undesirables.

Thomas Robinson, the recently-appointed immigration officer at Windsor, has started in to conduct an aggressive campaign against the cheap alien labor which for some time has been flooding the western part of Ontario. He turned back a batch of 25 Poles who crossed over recently with dinner baskets, hoping to get work at the Windsor end of the tunnel. No attempt is being made to conduct retaliatory tactics as against the United States' head tax, which continues to be imposed upon Canadians going into the United States for the first time, but a strong effort will be made to keep out the objectionable class of foreigners which for some time past has been invading the country in ever-increasing numbers at border points.

Meets Five Bears.

Roy Owen, of Apsley, came across five bears in a field of marsh hay near his home a few days ago, and, having taken his gun with him, shot two of them. The other three disappeared in the woods near at hand, one of them carrying in his hide a shot that had failed to reach his vitals. Owen had with him only a few cartridges, as he did not expect to meet any game. The bears he killed were the mother and a well-grown cub.

In sickness, if a certain hidden nerve goes wrong, then the organ that this nerve controls will also surely fail. It may be a stomach nerve, or it may have given strength and support to the Heart or Kidneys. It was Dr. Shoop that first pointed to this vital truth. Dr. Shoop's Restorative was not made to dose the stomach nor to temporarily stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That old-fashioned method is all wrong. Dr. Shoop's Restorative directly to those failing inside nerves. The remarkable success of this prescription demonstrates the wisdom of treating the actual cause of these failing organs. And it is indeed easy to prove. A simple five or ten days test will surely tell. Try it once, and see! Sold by all dealers.

Sun and Earth.

The sun's greatest distance from the earth, about July 1, is nearly 94,500,000 miles; his least, about Jan. 1, rather less than 91,000,000 miles; his mean distance is about 92,339,000 miles. It may serve to give some idea of the vastness of this distance to say that a ball fired from a thirteen inch gun at the sun would require thirteen years to reach its mark, supposing its velocity to remain unchanged throughout the journey. The sun's diameter is 883,000 miles, exceeding the earth's about 109 times. The sun exceeds the earth in surface 11,750 times and in volume 1,280,000 times.

Rice Culture.

The best of all rice known in the market for size and quality is that grown in South Carolina. The year 1694 is the earliest in which rice is known to have been grown in this country. Rice culture is as old as history, having been known in India from time immemorial. The wild rice, still plentiful in the marshy, tropical countries of southern Asia, is undoubtedly the plant from which all forms of cultured rice have been evolved.

Weeds or Flowers?—A Word to Girls.

Nothing but plenty to do can possibly keep our minds fresh and sweet and wholesome and strong and hence strengthening for others. Planting is the only part of a woman's nature which will develop of itself. Her mind will get grey quite distinctly unattended, and no more will her consciousness, but if she leaves the field full of weeds of foolish feelings and fancies spring up in all sizes.

This is why it is your duty not to allow yourself to be idle, and why it becomes God's purpose you to bring your character with you at the last day, but because your field cannot stand empty. If good grain is not there, weeds will be. Kind mental work—gardening or housework—gives more fresh air to the mind than anything else.

If you ever, as Punch expresses it, "find your dell stuffed with sawdust," if life seems a disappointment and you are a prey to foolish fancies, and have lost your spring, then try doing really hard out in body by useful work and let ... find ... an effectual tonic.

A Backhanded Compliment.

The following backhanded compliment, paid to Dr. Edward Everett Hale, is said to have been very much enjoyed by him:

"In his younger days he was about to leave a parish, and a good old lady was bewailing the fact and insisting that the church would be ruined thereby. Dr. Hale, says Judge, flattered by her words and manner and wishing to console her, said:

"But, sister, the man who will succeed me is a fine preacher and a splendid fellow. You'll soon see that everything is all right and get used to it."

"No, no, I won't," she answered tearfully. "I don't get used to this changing. I've seen six changes in preachers now, and it's got worse and worse all the time."

Thread in Surgery.

Are you aware that the modern surgeon employs in his work dozens of different kinds of thread for sewing up cuts and wounds? Among them are kangaroo tendons, horsehair, silk, and very fine silver wire. Many of these threads are intended to hold for a certain number of days, and then naturally break away. The short, tough tendons taken from the kangaroo, which are used for sewing severe wounds, will hold for about four weeks before they break away. Silk thread will remain much longer, sometimes six months, while the fine silver wire is practically indestructible.

With the entire outfit a surgeon is able to select a thread that will last as long as the wound takes to heal, and will then disappear completely. To accommodate this assortment of threads, special varieties of needles are required. Besides the needle curved in different segments of a circle, surgeons use needles shaped like spears, javelins and bayonet points.

Queer Auction Custom.

"Candle auction" is an ancient custom which still survives in Somersetshire, England. A valuable piece of meadow land in the village of Tatworth was sold recently by auction while the candle burned. The ceremony consists of the burning of an inch of candle, the last bidder before the candle's final flicker becoming the tenant for the ensuing year. Previous to the auction freeholders assembled for a supper of bread and cheese, beer and pickles, the funds for this being provided from the "colting" of the new tenant. Fines are also imposed for speaking, nose blowing, laughing out loud and moving, other than bidding, while the candle is burning.

The Last Straw.

She was one of those women who always present a woefully untidy appearance during the early part of the day. In vain had her husband remonstrated with her on her unfastened blouse and unkempt hair. It was not until aid came from an unexpected quarter that victory was his. They had removed to a new house on the previous day, and when she answered the summons of the front door bell a humble looking woman awaited her.

"Oh, I see it's too late!" sighed the woman. "I called to see if the missis wanted a charwoman, but I see she's suited."

A MICROSCOPE.

How It Opens Up the Wonders of the World of Nature.

If you want to keep your boy out of mischief, give him a microscope, but one of the elaborate, intricate, expensive affairs that the bacteriologists use when hunting for germs, but a common one with two or three lenses that revolve on a pivot and fold into a cover which protects them from injury when carried in the pocket.

There is no better way of interesting the boy in the wonders of the natural world than this simple contrivance, which opens to his eyes visions of a universe of which he knew nothing. Seen through the microscope, the most insignificant flower becomes a thing of wonderful beauty. The interior of a nasturtium is a fairy cavern, showing a dozen different tints and hues of color, with dainty white stalactites and stalagmites almost touching each other midway between floor and roof.

He will find monsters, too, for the head of an ant seen through a microscope is a terrible object, and he cannot help thinking what an awful aspect such a creature would present if it were as big as a horse. He has heard about the creatures that are to be found in water from a stagnant pool. He will find them for himself and show them to other boys, and all his crowd will become interested and bring in things to look at and wonder about. He may not develop into a Darwin, but if he has any faculty of observation at all it will be sharpened by what he sees, and he will learn that there is more in nature than what we discern on the surface.

SILENT CRANES.

A Nature Story by One of the Mount Taurus Climbers.

The mountaineer glanced complacently at his hard calves.

"We climbers," he said, "up there on the white heights see lots of things worth seeing. I tell you we could if we wanted to outdo the nature fakirs without deviating from the truth. For instance, take the Mount Taurus cranes. Do you know the cranes of Mount Taurus?

"Well, those birds are great chatterers. They chatter, chatter, chatter, as they fly. Hanged if they're not worse than women! Up on the heights the cranes lie in wait for them, hidden behind crags or ice blocks. They don't have to show themselves at all. Their ears, not their eyes, tell them of the chatter approach, and, swooping down on those bundles of feathers and notes, they take home a mess of cranes for dinner.

"With their chatter and babble and gabble the cranes of Mount Taurus give themselves away in that still air to the eagles, and in all eagle households cranes is the staple dish.

"But the old cranes fly without a sound—never a word out of them as they sail and wheel in the blue air. That seems against nature, and it is against nature. The old cranes to restrain their innate love of talk fly with large stones in their mouths.

"Shoot one of these crafty and silent birds and you will find his beak tightly closed upon a large stone."—Exchange.

His Plan Was Simple.

Frederick the Great once requested his generals to submit to him plans of campaign for a supposititious case. Hans Joachim von Ziethen, the famous cavalry general, produced a queer diagram in black ink. It represented a big blot in the center, intersected by two black lines, whose four terminals ended each in a smaller blot. The king was furious and upbraided his old comrade in arms bitterly for what he considered disrespect.

In explanation Von Ziethen said: "Why, your majesty, I am the large blot in the center. You cannot see me from the outside. The enemy's army

HUNTER STREET :: PETERBORO

GREAT MEN WHO HAVE PROVED ZAM-BUK.

Scientist, Analyst, Magistrate, and War Correspondent all Testify.

Men and women great in point of knowledge, position and experience, say that Zam-Buk stands superior to all other healing substances. Read the opinions of the following eminent men:—

Mr. C. E. Sanford, of Weston, Kings Co., N. S., a magistrate, a School Commissioner, and Baptist Deacon, says:—"Zam-Buk cured me of eczema on my ankle, which had defied every other remedy tried during twenty years. It also cured me of piles; and I take pleasure in recommending it to my fellow-men."

Mr. Frank Scudamore, the famous war correspondent, who has gone through seventy-nine battles, and whose dispatches during the Boer War were so eagerly read from coast to coast in Canada, says:—"Owing to the poisonous dye from an undergarment penetrating a slight scratch, my legs broke out in ulcers. At one time I had seventeen deep holes in my left leg, into each of which I could put my thumb; and had fourteen similar ulcers on my right leg. Remedy after remedy failed to heal these, and I was well nigh worn out with pain and lack of sleep. Zam-Buk was introduced, and I am glad to say that it gave me speedy relief. A few weeks' treatment resulted in a perfect cure for all the ulcers."

Dr. Andrew Wilson, whose reputation as a scientist is world-wide, in a book recently published ("Elementary Talks on First Aid") says:—"Zam-Buk may be relied upon as an antiseptic dressing which requires no preparation, and has the particular advantage of possessing unique healing properties."

Mr. W. Lascelles-Scott, the famous analyst to the Royal Commission for Victoria, says:—"I have no hesitation in certifying the entire purity of Zam-Buk. It is of great healing power for open wounds or injuries."

So one could go on quoting authority after authority, all of the opinion, based on personal tests, that Zam-Buk should be in every home. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for cuts, burns, scratches, cold-sores, chapped hands, ulcers, scalp sores, ringworm, blood-poisoning, and eczema. It is also used extensively for piles, for which it is without equal. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. a box; 3 for $1.25; or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. You are warned against harmful imitations.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

(To the Editor of The Times.)

Dear Sir,—I noticed in one of the evening papers an appeal for charity for a family that needed fuel. Such an appeal is nonsense and the next thing to a hold up. Fuel is the one great thing which the Central Charity Board furnishes and that organization has a big supply on hand for those who need it and will ask for it. All others looking for charity fuel should be frowned upon and not encouraged.

Yours truly,

CITIZEN.

A Coming Event

The Toronto Symphony Orchestra is arranging to give a concert in the Grand Opera House this month, assisted by prominent soloists whose names will be announced later. In bringing this organization of over sixty players to the city, the committee of management in Toronto show a great deal of confidence in the desire for good music in Peterborough. The Toronto Symphony Orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. Frank S. Welsman, has become a wonderful organization, and the excellence of their work is being recognized by prominent musicians in the United States and in England. The great prima donna Madame Gadski in her recent visit to Toronto remarked that it was a great surprise to her to learn that the orchestra had been only three years in existence, as the excellence of their work induced her to take it for granted that it was an old organization. One of the chief reasons for the great success of the Orchestra has been the untiring work of the Conductor, and the fact that the works presented are of the finest, with the added advantage of being capable of interesting everyone. Mr. Welsmans orchestra plays the most stirring melodies, and his audience always seem to appreciate the wonderful power of these works of the great masters as interpreted by him. Mr. Walter Brocker is in charge of the subscription list, which has already attained considerable proportions.

Fort York

Others of the gallant men who fell were buried in the bank which is the high ground on the eastern end of the Humber Bay.

The speaker gave a vivid picture of the long line of ships at anchor, and the boats making for the shore. One could almost hear, as he stood on those heights, the scream of the grape shot from the cannons, the pattering of the musket balls, and the war whoops of the Indians. On this cliff was the third memorial.

Mr. Cumberland went on to tell of the landing of more reinforcements and the inability of the Canadian troops to sustain the contest against the enemy. A fierce conflict took place, the Americans gaining ground and the numbers of both parties were decimated and their defences were destroyed. All this took place around the point on which the Stanley Barracks now stands. These Canadians were to be admired for their bravery. In 1867 there were still remnants of the western battery to be seen but all have since been levelled. This was the fifth memorial.

Mr. Cumberland next told of the explosion of the magazine and the awful results of it. He believed that there was no doubt that the explosion was intentional.

It was in this that the brave young Captain Pike lost his life. He was mortally crushed with falling stones. Hearing the shouts of the victors, he asked what was meant, and was told "The British flag is down and the American flag is going up." He had wished that if he fell, his fall would be like Wolfe's. He was carried to the shore, taken on board the Madison and with the British flag under his head, which he had begged might be placed there, he died as he had wished, "like Wolfe in the hour of victory." This standard taken at York is said to be preserved in the gunnery room of the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, M. D.

After blowing up the fort Sheath with his men returned to Kingston leaving Col. Chewett and Major Allan of the 3rd York to treat with Gen. Dearborn for terms of capitulation. The terms reached were that the resident militia should surrender on parole, all public stores delivered up and private property guaranteed safe. Notwithstanding this the private stores were plundered, the parliament buildings and court house were burned, the church robbed and the town library pillaged.

The site of the old fort was now a dumping ground for all sorts of refuse. It should be cleared, and kept as a park in memory of the men who died for their country, and memorials should be erected to be known as Upper Canada's "Field of Abraham."

HOW TO TELL

If the Kidneys and Liver are Not Acting Well.

Thousands die every year from aggravated kidney distress that could have been saved if they only knew. Your back may ache, you think it's tiredness or physical weakness.

You grow irritable and nervous—it's put down to loss of sleep.

Joints ache, muscles get sore, — but's all put down to bad weather. Then digestion gets poor, appetite fades away, color bleaches, spirit droop.

TO boast of a piano having the scale of another reputable piano is a condemnation of that piano. Why? No piano manufacturer, who has a perfect tone producing scale will dispose of that scale at any price, but, if by some mistake or incompetency a scale proves to be imperfect, it can be purchased at any old price.

Too many of our Canadian pianos are made from those castaway American piano scales.

Shall Phonograph Record Address by the Judge?

Toronto, Feb. 12.—T. C. Robinette, K.C., is of the opinion that when a judge addresses a jury at a murder trial there should be a phonograph beside him, so that when an appeal is made to a higher court the learned judges can have the benefit of hearing not the mere words of the trial judge's address, but the correct tone of the voice, the exact accentuation and modulation.

It was Mr. Robinette's intention to so express himself to Mr. Justice Riddell yesterday had he been allowed to ask for a stated case, before Walker Blythe was sentenced to be hanged.

"There is no doubt but that such a procedure should be adopted," he stated this morning, discussing the matter, "There is a very big difference between a judge's address to a jury as heard by them, and the same address presented to the judges of the Appeal Court in typewritten copies. What in print looks a fair enough statement takes on an altogether different color when one hears it spoken with the emphasis on certain words and the general tone of voice.

3,000 LUNATICS AT LARGE IN ONTARIO

That Number is Said to be a Conservative Estimate--Others Say Five Thousand---But Little Accomodation for These

Capt. W. H. White,

Marine Superintendent of Otonabee Navigation Company.

Shelburne, Feb. 12.—"There are at least thirty persons in Dufferin county who should not be at large," said Crown Attorney W. J. L. McKay this morning to a reporter, in discussing the Stewart case, "that is about an average of three to each township," Dufferin County is not exceptional. The same might safely be said of each of the ninety constituencies of Ontario. This means that there are nearly 3,000 people mentally deranged and who are a possible menace to public safety throughout the province. Mine is a conservative estimate, some place it is as high as 5,000."

"What accommodation is there in the province for such cases," he was asked.

"Not more than sufficient for 500." he replied.

Police Magistrate Rutherford was asked by a reporter this morning if any papers had been demanded for the apprehension of several weak-minded persons in the vicinity.

"No," he replied, "but I am quite ready to take action as soon as any one lays the information."

Rumors are coming in from all parts of the county about people of unsound mind. In one remote district a man informs his neighbors nearly every morning that he is going out to shoot crows. He takes the gun, and goes into the woods, quite oblivious of the fact that the crows have gone south. The sound of shots is heard, but no game accompanies the hunter when he returns.

POISON IN FISH.

A certain woman came into a store in a Dufferin county village the other day and bought a fish. This woman has a daughter whose mind is unsound. Years of watching may have affected her parent, who recently has become afflicted by the idea that people are putting poison in her food. She took home the fish that she had bought but brought it back in a little while. Instead of putting it back in his stock the storekeeper wisely threw it outside. A dog ate it and died. No doubt the woman had poisoned it. Some years ago one of her daughters died in the Hamilton asylum.

"In another village, a powerful young fellow keeps parts of the residents in continual terror by his peculiar actions. Some years ago his brother committed suicide.

SAYS IT IS BLOOD.

A half-witted man in the neighborhood of the scene of the Spanhouse tragedy terrifies his mother by pouring out tea on the floor and telling her that it is blood.

In another town a partially demented man is dependent upon his wife for support. His peculiar actions terrify his neighbors. He goes out in the yard and swings an axe. At other times he jumps up and down and talks without logic or sequence.

In the same town another man has the malady in a peculiar form. He is demented over marriage licenses, and wants several every month to enable him to marry various women in the community.

UNWISE TO BE PECULIAR.

It is hardly safe to have a peculiarity in Dufferin County, at present. Every man is watching his neighbor for signs of mental derangement.

HOW LAW READS.

The following is section 970 of the Criminal Code, upon which Crown Attorney McKay and Mr. Vance based their procedure in the Stewart case.

"The Lieutenant-Governor, upon such evidence of the insanity of any person imprisoned in any prison, charged with an offence, as the Lieutenant-Governor considers sufficient, may order the removal of

Two More Steamers Purchased by the Otonabee Navigation Co'y

The Steamer Manita Bought from Trent Valley Navigation Company—Also New Steel Boat will be Built

W. H. Robertson,

President Otonabee Navigation Company.

With the progress of the Trent Valley Canal development, the popularization of the Kawartha Lakes as a summer resort and a tourists rendezvous, the Otonabee Navigation Co. is reaching out and embracing a greater territory in which to do business and also to provide accommodation for the thousands of people desiring to traverse by steamer the Trent Valley waterway. It is only three years ago that the Otonabee Navigation Co. made its bow to the public with the steamer Otonabee. That season was a good one and those behind the enterprise saw a favorable opportunity to develop a large and important transportation company, and they began at once to follow up their advantage gained in the first year and each season since has seen new boats added until now the company has a fleet of steamers to be proud of.

The first season the Otonabee Navigation Co. ran their steamers only to Rice Lake ports, but last year they launched out and made a bid for the Stony Lake traffic with fair success. Next season they will have a line of steamers running from Rice Lake through this city and up to Stony Lake and then around to Burleigh and on to Chemong Park. And Bobcaygeon, while a bus line will connect at the Park to convey passengers to the city. There is also a possibility of the steamer Otonabee being sent to the Lake Simcoe route. This would make a passenger and freight service complete with the exception of one link, from one end of the Trent Canal to the other, so far as it is navigatable. Such was the idea of the company in the beginning, and as rapidly as the canal is completed just so rapidly will new steamers be added to the fleet until this company will run boats from the Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario.

Service to Extend from Rice Lake Points to Lake Simcoe—The Otonabee May Go on the Northern Route

The latest purchase of this popular navigation company which has been catering to the trade of the city and the cottagers and campers at Stony Lake and Rice Lake for the past year or two, is the steamer Manita. This boat was the property of the Trent Valley Navigation Co., of Bobcaygeon, and ran from Burleigh Falls to Chemong Park and Bobcaygeon. It will be left on the same route, but will connect with the steamer Water Lily at Burleigh for Peterborough and intermediate points. This completes the service of the Otonabee Navigation Co., from Peterborough to the North and north-west.

NEW STEEL BOAT.

In addition to the purchase of the Manita the Otonabee Navigation has purchased and have in their shipyards in Ashburnham a steel frame for an entirely new steamer. This boat will be by all odds the fastest craft on the entire Trent waterway. It will be 90 feet long with a charter to carry about 200 passengers and it will have a speed of from 15 to 18 miles an hour. The work of constructing this ship will be started immediately the weather permits so that it will be ready for this season's work. It will be a very handsome steamer and fitted up with every convenience for the comfort of the thousands who will avail themselves of the opportunity afforded by

Stewart Was Docile When Father Called

Shelburne, Feb. 12.—Richard Stewart, father of the prisoner in Orangeville jail, went last night to see his son. He said today that his son talked freely to him last night, and he took him out of the cell until it was cleaned and swept out. The jail officials were unable to do this before, as the prisoner was very ugly with them. He called again at the jail before leaving for Shelburne this morning, but the prisoner would not talk to him at all. The prisoner took his meals yesterday for the first time since he was sent there.

There is no truth in the report that this murder case had some connection with a fight between Wm. McKenzie of Reddickville, and Robert Stewart, of Horning's Mills some three or four weeks ago.

TO PETITION KING TO ABOLISH SENATE

Mr. Harry Phelan,

General Manager Otonabee Navigation Company.

That is Form Lancaster Motion Takes---Will Not Give the House a Chance to Throw Out Abolishing Legislation

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—Parliament is face to face with a proposition to abolish the Senate, but Parliament does not realize it. Not one member out of fifteen could tell, if asked, the form of the resolution proposed by Mr. Lancaster, whereby he hopes to wipe out the Upper House at one fell stroke. Most of them have a hazy notion that it provides for some sort of a bill which would go to the Senate itself and be killed there. Moreover, they do not take seriously the typewritten notice already posted up to the effect that the House will be divided on the resolution before it adjourns on Monday, Feb. 22nd.

Discussions upon Senate abolition have been heretofore academic. Members have so often heard the cry of "wolf," when there was nothing but odor of polecat to back it up, that few are taking the trouble to worry about the present agitation.

BUT IT WOULD BE AWKWARD.

Yet—it would be an awkward thing for many, and not a few would be taken suddenly "ill."

Canada is No Longer in Colonial Clothing, but is Another Nation

The second banquet under the auspices of the Peterborough Canadian Club was held last night at the Hotel National, and was a great success. There were about 80 guests presented and all thoroughly appreciated and enjoyed the address on the Munro Doctrine, which was delivered by Mr. John S. Ewart, K.C., of Toronto.

Host Dennison served a very tempting and appetising banquet. The arrangements were perfect and the service ides. Great credit is due him for the excellent spread.

JOHN S. EWART, K.C.

Mr. John S. Ewart, K.C. of Toronto, when introduced was given a warm reception. He dove immediately into his subject and stated that Canadians should understand the Munro Doctrine, which unfortunately the majority do not. The people of the United States do. It is one of the greatest beneficent principles, and has done Canada untold good. Its true name is the Canning Doctrine. President Munro was not the real author, but the great George Canning of England.

The close relations between Europe and America is of common knowledge. He explained the early history of the Munro Doctrine, which began during the French revolution.

The republican principals of France soon crossed the channel to England, and brought out Payne with his book "The Rights of Man." The United Kingdom, however, took no part in the French revolution, leaving that wholly to the people of France.

In those days all the European monarchs had received a great great fright. Napoleon had driven monarchs from their throne until the Holy Alliance was formed, including England, Russia, Germany and France. England later withdrew. Spain had possessions in the Americas, and it was not known what would be the result of the wars of independence. At the time Spain and France were at war, and the French were much too strong so the Holy Alliance made it known that they would arrange the disposition of the Spanish-American colonies after the war.

Canning with his principal of "balance of power," appealed to the United States, but as they were a young nation and not particularly interested in foreign affairs, he became the instructor of the Americans through President Munro, in the principals of the doctrine. The future of the American colonies was a serious matter to the United Kingdom, and Mr. Canning brought great pressure to bear upon the United States.

Mr. Ewart read part of President Munro's message to congress in 1823, which message had been inspired by Mr. Canning.

The three main features of the message were;—It was not the policy

Peterboro' Lost the Governor General's Cup

After fighting all the way up to the finals for the Governor-General's Cup in the curling contest at Toronto, the two local rinks went down to defeat at the hands of Orillia yesterday morning. Mr. Teogood was too good for Davidson's rink, and defeated them by 16 shots. Mr. Giroux's rink was 8 shots up, so that Orillia won by eight shots. Both scores were one-sided and were as follows;

Peterborough.	Orillia
A. A. Hollingshead	Geo. Moore
J. S. Knapman	J. Curran
W. M. Lang	T. McPherson
G. H. Giroux—22.	B. T. Stewart—14

Peterborough.	Orillia
W. T. Hall	D. A. McNab
A. Moore	H. S. Holcroft
W. J. Thompson	Dr. Kennedy
D. Davidson—12.	F. Teogood—28

Total—Peterborough 34, Orillia 42.

What the Toronto Telegram says, In the meantime there were doings in the Governor-General's competition. In the morning Peterborough gently but firmly put Dundas away, to go home with Hamilton Thistles, who after getting whalloped in the Tankard decided that they ha enough of curling for the nonce, and defeated their Governor-General game to Orillia. In this game Dr. Bertram, got bamped, as he was down to Davidson's Peterboroughs 21 to 12. And that is something that doesn't often happen to the sharp-shooting doctor.

This morning Orrilia and Peterborough are fighting out the final for the Governor-General, and if things continue to run to form, the vice-regal silverware should go east to Peterborough. They're curling pretty well, those chaps from the lift-locks, and if they hadn't fallen a victim to a mixture of Scarboro Leafs and soft ice in the primary, might have out a considerable figure in the Tankard finals.

White House Stables were Burned Yesterday

A fire occurred early yesterday morning, in the rear of the White House, on Charlotte street, which completely destroyed the stables attached to the hotel. How the fire started is a mystery to everybody.

HEAVY LOSSES.

The fire did considerable damage which can be summed up as follows;

Stable leased by Mr. Bruce Lee, also hay, cutter, robes, and harness. Sheds, refrigerator, and a valuable bull dog, all owned by Mr. White of the White House. Eighteen hundred pounds of tea the property of Daly Tea Company of Napanee, which is insured. There is also $1200 insurance on the stable. There were in the stable at the time nine horses, four pigs and a cow, which were all rescued after a great deal of labor on the part of Mr. White and his assistants.

FIREMEN WORKED HARD.

When the firemen arrived on the scene the chief saw that it was a case of working from both sides at once to save the adjoining buildings. Two streams were laid on from the hydrant near the hotel on Charlotte street, but this used up the hose carried on that wagon and they went to the hall and loaded up again, this time laying a stream from the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte streets. One stream was not enough to control the flames which were leaping high into the air, so they had to go back for still another load of hose, this time laying a second stream from the same corner, there being over 3000 feet of hose in use. Again the firemen were crippled by not having sufficient men to handle the hose as it takes three men to each nozzle when the high pressure is on. But after an hour's hard fighting, with every coat and helmet a sheet of ice, the fire was at last extinguished. This is the second large fire during the week that the firemen have had to combat; the other being the house at the corner of George and Sherbrooke streets, Saturday last.

CURLING.

Only three games were played at the curling rink last night as follows—

W. Mennie	G. Tovey
B. Evans	R. Cameron
J. Segee—5.	Dr. Whitman—10
F. R. Poyser	J. D. Collins
M. C. Tooley	F. L. Clarke
D. Fraser	E. B. D. Hall
R. Hicks—7.	W. G. Morrow—17
J. Montgomery	T. Hall

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

The most highly refined and healthful of baking powders. Its constant use in almost every American household, its sales all over the world, attest its wonderful popularity and usefulness.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in found'ed contentment. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those breakdown in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making the advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine when adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

Lindsay Wins District Championship

It was a big night last night for Lindsay, and a mighty small one for Peterborough. Despite all dope to the contrary, the locals with what was considered to be a team with some claim of staying with Lindsay on their own ice was beaten in an amazingly decisive fashion by the hardy Gengog septette. It was hardly a game of hockey as is the usual understanding of the word, for Peterborough didn't play hocket at all but simply went on the ice and offered a half-hearted resistance to the Lindsay aggregation, which had easily the better of the play all through, and didn't show championship form at that. For some reason or other the Electric City Puck chasers couldn't get going much to the surprise of their supporters and themselves.

Lindsay after winning the match here on Friday night naturally felt quite confident of the result at home but didn't expect to snow Peterborough under to such an extent as they did. It was the general opinion in both towns that the match would be a close and fast one but all hopes of an interesting game were spoiled when the play had been in progress for half an hour.

For the first fifteen or twenty minutes it looked as though it might be anybody's game.

From the outset it is true the locals appeared off color but their following thought they would find their feet later and give their opponents the run of their lives, but the revival never came, and Lindsay kept on scoring. When the Gougeites had it 3—0, and the locals came back with a goal after the game was 19 1-2 minutes old the Quaker contingent cheered to the echo and the excitement among the fans of both inclinations was intense but when the figures mounted up to 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, the people from Peterborough settled back in the benches and grew indifferent to the game.

Referee Hancock of Toronto, had his own troubles. "Bill," perhaps tried to give general satisfaction, but he was just a little out at times However, there's no use bringing the referee into the controversy too strongly for its proverbial that the man with the bell is generally given the partial blame for the loss of the game. It was the defeated team that was to blame in this case, not on account of the fact that they didn't strive to put in over Lindsay on their own ice—nothing would have been half so sweet—but because they were simply incapable of playing half up to their usual standard. This reference is made to them as a team for individually Quinn was the star of the evening, and played with a dash and vim, that made the spectators sit up and take notice.

In the second half especially he speedy and effective, and if the entire forward line had showed the same class as he did the result would have been a different one. Rollie Glover at point, was the same reliable and useful defence man and did good work throughout the match.

Cotey, Koyle and Stoddard were probably the best men for the winners and all played clever hockey.

The play was strenuous all the time and the referee kept quite a procession travelling for the penalty box.

The scoring was done as follows;

FIRST HALF.

Stoddard, 6 mins.
Cotel, 13 mins.
Morgan, 30 secs.
Taylor, 1 min.
Stoddard, 3 mins.
Taylor, 6 mins.
Cotey, 8 mins.

SECOND HALF.

Cotey, 4 mins.
Taylor, 6 mins.
Stoddard, 8 mins.

The teams lined pp as follows;

CATARRHOZONE

Rev. D. E. Smith, of White Head, N.S., was cured of catarrh by Catarrhozone.

"For years I tried all the advertised remedies for Catarrh, but was unable to get relief until I used Catarrhozone. Before I had used the Inhaler half an hour my nostrils became free and clear so that I could breathe easily through them. In one day Catarrhozone helped me immensely, stopped my coughing and hawking and cured a dull pain that was continually over my eyes. I have great pleasure in recommending Catarrhozone. I have proved it the best remedy for Catarrh and diseases of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes."

There is certainly no remedy that is so well spoken of by the clergy as Catarrhozone and this can be accounted for by the fact that it gives perfect satisfaction.

It is the only remedy that reaches all diseased parts and gives quick relief without bad after effects. Catarrhozone contains no cocaine nor morphine. It is nature's own remedy, soothing and healing, and pleases everybody that uses it.

Catarrhozone is a local and constitutional treatment. The Inhaler clears the air passages, stops the headache, and Ferrozone Tablets that are included in every complete Catarrhozone outfit, never fail to drive impurities from the blood. This builds up and strengthens the system so that Catarrhal conditions cannot exist.

The speediest cure for Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Bronchitis, and Asthma is Catarrhozone. Two months' treatment, price $1.00; medium size 50c; at druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.
